To the Right Honourable

Sir ROBERT RAYMOND, Knt.

My Lord,

At length, by your Lordship's generous Encouragement, vouchsafed me on a former Dedication to your Lordship, my New Law-Dictionary appears to the World committed to your Patronage and Protection, and as You are universally allowed to be the most proper Patron for a Work of this Nature.

It hath been often observ'd to be a Commendation to any Person, to attempt any Great and Useful Undertaking; but it is not every One who engages in it, is able to perform it: Whatever Censure, in this Particular, is pass'd upon me by the Readers, my Judges, I have one very great Satisfaction; which is, that your Lordship is at the Head of them, whose powerful Influence and kind Interpretation will silence others into Candor and Good Nature.

To say, That every Thing Praise-Worthy belongs to your Lordship, is not to pay the Debt of Compliment, but of Merit: As by indefatigable Study and Application to Business, Reputation ever attended You; so on your Advancement to the Supreme Station of the Common Law, your Behaviour therein hath evidently evidently gain'd You universal Approbation. There have been Many who have filled the prime Offices of Judicature, which must always be supply'd with a Succession of Men, tho' few that have adorned them; But 'tis your Lordship's Glory to do both: And after the Great Lord Chief Justice HOLT, it is the Happiness of the present Age to boast of a RAYMOND.

My Lord, Applause and Popularity Court You, whilst You endeavour to shun them, for they are the natural Reward of doing impartial Justice; and those who least seek them in Publick Authority, by their great Integrity and consummate Abilities have the largest Share of Them: It is impossible to be otherwise, than that your Lordship should be a Favourite of Mankind, when your whole Conduct is so exceeding Just and Upright, as to merit the Highest Honour; and give me Leave to observe of You, what every One finds who Approaches your Lordship.

On a Character so very considerable as your Lordship's, much more might be enumerated; but I am conscious of my Inequality to the Task, and therefore deft from it, my only Aim being to shew how much I am,

My Lord,

Your Lordship's

Most Dutiful, and most

Obliged Humble Servant,

Giles Jacob.

PREFACE.

ALL Prefaces to Treatises, are intended by Authors either to Explain the Works to which they belong, and set forth the Reasons of their Engaging in them, or to Vindicate their Writings and Reputations from those Reflections which may be cast upon them by the Critical Part of Mankind; and I think it Necessary for me to say something on these Heads, in my Preface to this Work.

According to a great Writer, the Study of the Law is not rendered easy by numerous Volumes, but by reducing the Sense into a compleat methodical System; and the Difficulty and Disagreeableness of this Study, is not to be imputed to any material Defect in itself, but to the Manner in which the Books that contain this Learning are Written: The Justice of this Wise Observation, hath been always acknowledged; As our Abridgments of the Law abound with Tautologies and Confusion, and are generally speaking very voluminous to little Purpose, which has been a Principal Reason for my Attempting the following Sheets.

This large Work now published, contains the Derivations and Definitions of Words and Terms used in the LAW, and likewise the whole Law, with the Practice thereof, collected and abstracted from all other Books in an easy concise Method; for the Universal Use of all Counsellors at Law, either in their Chambers or on their Circuits; Students of the Ins of Courts, and Practisers of the Law, and other Persons of what Degree or Profession soever, and for all Studies and Offices, being a Kind of Library; so that although I have the Interpretation of Words, to give it the Title of a Dictionary, yet my Scheme is very different from the other Law-Dictionaries: And the Great
The PREFACE.

Lawyer Sir Edward Coke having observed, that the Forms of Writs, and judicial Proceedings, do much contribute to the Right Understanding of our Law; Therefore these, together with Forms of Deeds and Conveyances, illustrating the Practice on that Head, are here inserted. Further, the Reader will find interspersed, taken from the most ancient Treatises of the British, Saxon, Danish, and Norman Laws, such Information as explains the History and Antiquity of the Law, without Motes, Controversies and Original Form of Government.

As in this Age it is become common for Arts and Sciences to be comprehended in Dictionaries, I have pursued this Method, and the Knowledge of the Arts themselves, cannot be improper to follow the Terms and Definitions of them. Under the Heads of Law, by the Advice of my Learned and Judicious Friends, I have gone through and gather'd every Thing I could find any ways useful; and there is nothing Collected, but some Benefit may be drawn from it, either as immediately to the Purpose, or Explanatory of what the same hath Relation to: in my Larger Heads, where they interfere with others, I have but just touch'd upon the Matters interfering; and left the particular Learning, to the more proper Heads where it's expected to be found, at the same Time some Notice being required under the general Titles.

I may with great Truth affirm, that confiderably above two Thirds of my Work, with some Hundreds of very material Words, are entirely New in a Performance of this Kind; and the remaining Part, is greatly Improved, although Augur'd as so. Quantity by omitting a great Deal of Obsolete Matter. There is not any Thing in the following Dictionary, directly the same, as appears elsewhere, but in such Cases only where it was absolutely Necessary for my own Justification; though the Compilers of the other Law-Dictionaries have generally transferred verbatim from each Other. The Law-Latin in many Inclinations differing from other Latin, I have purposely used, and followed it, as those have done who have gone before me. Likewise several Words of Use, especially relating to Country Affairs, are here still preserved from the Law-Interpreters, though they may seem a little foreign to my Subject.

As to the other Dictionaries, let who will, for the Future, Write or Enlarge them, it must be always confess'd, that it was I, who first attempted a Body of the Law, in any Dictionary. This I ought ought to mention, in Justice to myself; that it may not at any time be affirmed I have wholly built on other Writers, but They on Me as to any Additions, if they should fill up their Works in my Method beyond what they were in the Year 1720, when I first began this elaborate Treatise. And if, have borrow'd from my Own Writings, hitherto Published, I have assumed no Freedom in so doing; but such as Authors of the best Reputation have thought fit to take; who have had Occasion to treat subsequently on their former Subjects, in my larger or more general Work: Also I have every where inserted References unto them, sometimes Pointing out the Best Editions; where One Impression is often better than another.

I have now made deeper and clother Searches into the Knowledge of the Law, and taken a long Journey of Observations and Improvements on those Things which I had but just seen as a Distance before; which however painful to myself, I am confident I have struck out therein a much easier Path for Others than they had before to walk in. I have endeavoured to make a Right Choice of Matter, as well as to follow the exact Method, which, with the Reduction that was necessary to avoid Prolixity, I found no small Task; and of this I may say with Virgil, Hoc Opus, hic Labor est.

Tis indeed True that my great Work is chiefly Collection; but let this be Consider'd with it. That Collecting on the Subject of the Law, is infinitely more difficult, than upon other Subjects; because most other Subjects are treated of with Order and Con-exion, but the Law of England is not, by reason of the great Number of its Branches, and the various Heads thereof.

As for what I have already written, a prudent Author will commonly attempt many of the Smaller Matters, by Way of Triumph of his Abilities, and See their Success, before he will have Courage to venture upon Larger; and if I had not Experience'd what has fallen in my Way, it would have beenImpossible for me to have perfected the ensuing Treatise with that Advantage it is now handed to the Publick. And thus much I am obliged to say farther in Behalf of this Dictionary; That if notwithstanding the infinite Pains I have here taken, it be not in itself Authority, it carefully refers to Books of the greatest, which is all as can be asserted in Favour of any of the Abridgments of the Law. But where there is such great Variety of Learning and abundant Quantity of Nice Matter, with the utmost Care, there must be some Faults and Failings to be Pardon'd by the Reader.

In this Sixth Edition, all the Law-Heads throughout are compleatly filled up, and some others added, from the new Books of Reports, and the many late Statutes enacted, which have alter'd our Law, down to this Time; I have also now inserted Variety of Select Chancery Cases, that have been lately adjudg'd in the most settled Points, dispersed under all the Heads, where they were any Ways proper or material. The Forms of Writs and other Law Proceedings, with several curious additional Precedents, appear likewise carefully Translated into English, pursuant to the Act of Parliament; but the ancient Customs remain in Latin, the Language I found them in. I thus have render'd my Useful Book full and perfect in all Things; and 'tis no small Pleasure to me, that the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Editions were very Successful, and the greatest Part of a large Impression of the Work, as I had at first Compiled it, sold off in the Space of a Year's Time, by the Approbation of my Great Patron, and favourable Acceptance of the Publick.

I hope upon the Whole, it is here fully apparent that I have done every Thing in my Power to compleat this Great Undertaking, and which I doubt not by my often repeated diligent Endeavours, will continue to answer its good End propos'd, so as to give entire Satisfaction to all Persons whatsoever.

The First Letter of the Alphabet, which being prefixed to words in English, signifies as much as an in French, as a Man, an Honest,

B

From the Word Abate, and in the Beginning of any Place signifies that the Place belonged to some Abbey.

Abatement, (Abatere, derived ab abscondi) Stealers and Drivers away of Cattle by Herds, or in great Numbers. They are thus distinguished from Fares: Nam qui venum nonnun jurari possit, si fueri correc-tor, qui gentem, sic abatitor. Mf.

Abatement, Arithmetic, From the Abacus or Table on which the Ancients made their Calculations.

Abatement in Libros,

Abatsum, (Abandonum) Any thing sequestred, proscribed or abandoned. Abandoned, i.e. in Bausum non misit. A Thing found or deserted as forfeited and lost, from whence it is to be abandoned, perfected, or forfeited and lost.

Abate, From the Sax. Abanian, to discover and disclose to a Magistrate any secret Crime. Si hano favvremus aliquam in Domino, non occultaruri, & ita fuerit abaneus, resurr. 1626 ut inde habatur good proofen.

Leg. Canuti Reg. cap. 104.

Abat, As derived from the French Abater or Abas-

Abater, Signifies to prostrate, break down, or destroy; and in Law to abate a Castle or Fort, is interpreted to best it down. Old Nat. Br. 45. Wynn. 15. 17. Abater Majus, is to ruin or cast down a House, and level it with the Ground: And as he that puts a Peril out of Possession of his House, Land, &c. is said to disfette; so he that steps in between the former Possessor and his Heir, is said to abate; and this is a Term in its special Signification. Kitch. 173. Old Nat. Br.

15. To abate a Writ, it is defeat or overthrow it, by some Error or Exception. Brit. c. 48. In the Statute De coniuncta Fugatis, the Writ shall be abated, that is, shall be disposed and overthrown. 34 Ed. 1. Stat. 2. The Appeal shall abate, and be defeated by Reason of Covin or Decent. Staunf. Pl. Cr. 148.

And the Justices shall cause the said Writ to be abated and quitt'd. Act 11 H. 6. c. 2.

Abatement, (from the French) in Late Latin, to refurbish, or rather suppositi, to dilute it from Intrusion after the Death of Tenant for Life; is used in this Sense for the Act of the Abater, as the Abatement and Equity of the Heir into the Land before he hath agreed with the Lord. Old Nat. Br. 91. Abatement when it relates to Writs or Plaunts, is the quasing or destroying of the Plaintiff's Writ; and under this Signification, which is most general, it is an Exception alleged and made good in our Law; being as much as Exceptio dictoria with the Civilians. Brit. c. 51. And this Exception may be taken either to the Insufficiency of the Master, or the Incurtancy of the Allegation, by misnaming the Plaintiff or Defendant, or the Place; to the Variety between the Writ and the Specialty or Record; to the Incurtancy of the Writ, Court or Declaration; or to the Death of either of the Parties before Judgment had; or for that a Woman Plaintiff is married before, or hanging the Suit, and for many other Causes, upon which the Defendant prays that the Writ or Plaunt may abate, &c. That the Suit of the Plaintiff may for that Time cease. Terues de Leg. 1. Some Causes of Abatement, are where the Plaintiff is incapable of maintaining his Writ, by the Defendant's being under the Protections of the Law, as being an Infant, &c. or by the Plaintiff's misconceiving his Afsion; or affecting a material Thing that is false, so that it appears of his own shewing, he ought not to maintain his Writ in that manner, but intile himself in a better Way. Med. Extr. Eng. 25. On Abatement of Suits, all Writs and Process must be begun de Novo: And one great Reason for the Abatement of Writs is, that the Party prosecuted may not be twice charg'd or vex'd for one Debt; as where the Plaintiff hath another Afsion depending for the same Matter, &c. 3 Lev. 104. In an Action of Debt, &c. another Afsion depending in the Courts of Westminster, for the same Matter, is a good Plea in Abatement: But Plea of Afsion in an Interior Court is not good, unless Judgment be given. 6 Rep. 62. In an Appeal, Information, &c. it is a good Plea in Abatement, that another Prosecution is depending, but not on Indemnity. 2 Hen. Pl. Cr. 190, 567. Error depending in the Exchequer Chamber is a good Plea in

Abatement to Debt on Judgment in B. R. 5 Mod. 68. B
A Suit may be abated, for that the Writ in Debt precedes the Day of Payment: For that there are not fifteen Days between the Tisa and the Return of the Writ, s. 15, 47. Where a Defendant binds himself jointly with another, and he is not named: Or the Bill is in Cafe, and ought to be in Account: And where the Plaintiff declares of several and distinct Causes of Action in the same Bill; or it appears by the Plaintiff's own Shewing, that he had no Cause of Action for the Whole or for Part, the Writ shall abate. 1 Mau. ch. 24. s. 4, 8, 12. Where a Demand is of two Things, and it appears the Plaintiff hath an Action only for one, the Writ may not be abated in the whole, but shall stand for that which is good: But if it appear, that altho' he can't have this Writ which he hath brought for Part, he may have another, the Writ shall abate in the whole. 11 Rep. 45. a 41, 130. A Writ of Ejdment shall be abated, on its appearing to the Court to be filed out before the Cause of Action. Cr. Car. 272. In Cafe Administration was granted after the Action brought, and this appears, the Plaintiff's Writ abates. Hob Writ. 245. Repugnancy in the Plaintiff's shewing and setting forth of his Matter, may cause an Abatement. 3 Ast. 95. If a Plaintiff, after Appearance be nonuit, discon- tinues the Writ, and the other Party shall deliver it, the Writ shall not abate, and the Plaintiff shall have his Action. 13 Rep. 372. And where the Plaintiff discharges Part of the Debt after the Writ purchased, on shewing the Acquittance the Writ shall be discharged. 4 Mifflin in the Addition, in Place, Trade, Dignity, &c. of the Defendant, may abate the Writ: as where one pleadeth there is no such Place, or that he is a Baronet and no Knight, &c. 1 Kent. 134. If the Addition of the Defendant's Quality and Dwelling be omitted in any original Writ, in a personal Action, Appeal or Indictment, where Exemption may be awarded, the Writ shall abate; but it shall not abate for Surplusage in the Addition. 1 H. 5, cap. 5. Where one is mistaken in a Bond, the Writ must be brought against him by the same Name as in the Bond. Dyer 479. And where a Defendant comes in gratia, or pleads by the Name alleged by the Plaintiff, he is suffers to allege any Thing against it. Style 440. To the Plea of Mifflin, the Plaintiff may return the Defendant was known, by the Name in the Writ. 1 Saull. 6. Where an Indictment for a Capital Crime is abated for Mifflin of the Defendant, the Court will not dismiss him, but cause him to be indicted de novo by his true Name. 2 Howk. 567. Pleas in Abatement found against a Defendant in Capital Cases, are not prejudicial as they are in other Cases; he may afterwards plead over to the Felony. 12 B. 91. And a Person cannot on an Action brought against him, plead in Dilability of himself, that he is arrested of Treason, &c. 1 Lern. cap. 406. Outlawry may be pleaded in Abatement, or in Bar; but 'tis only a Dilability till the Outlawry is reversed. 1 Ser. 128. Excommunication, or any Pleas in Dilability of a Plaintiff, may not be pleaded after a General Imparlance. 1 Lern. 19. After Plea in Bar to annul the Action for ever, and after Imparlance, one cannot plead in Abatement of the Writ. An Alien born may be pleaded in Abatement: But if the Plais or accuse the Action and recover, a Plea in Abatement against them being but a Dilability is as long as the Action in Bar and 40 de. One may plead in Abatement of a Declaration, where 'tis by Original; but if the Action be by Bill, you must plead in Abatement of the Bill only. 3 Mod. 144. A little Variance between the Declaration and Bond pleaded, will not make the Court Abate: But Incurrancy will abate it. Pluud. 84. The Varia- nce of the Declaration from the Obligation, or other Proofs, is grounded, will sometimes abate the Action: And if a Declaration affix Walks in a Town, not mention'd in the original Writ, the Writ of Wade shall abate. Hob. 18, 36. Abatement may be also by the Plaintiff's Entry into all or Part of what is sued for; as in Affidavit for Lands, &c. A Lease is made for Years rendering Rent, with Clause of Re-Rent: or New Rent: being in Arrear, the Leisor brings Debt for it, and pending the Suit enters into the Land; in this Cafe the Writ abates by the Plaintiff's Entry. Pluud. 91. Style 260. If two Defendants plead several Pleas in Abatement, and Jifce is joined upon one Plea, and a Demurrer upon the other: if the Jifce be found against the Plaintiff, the Writ will abate against both Defendants. Hob. 250. The Court Ex Officio abates Writs for want of proper Words of Art, Want of legal Form, &c. And Sife Latin would formerly abate an original Writ; but not make void any judicial Writ, Plea, &c. Latch 178. An Original tidled in the Reign of a King, who died before the Return, by the common Law 'wast abated and gone, and shall not be returned in the Reign of another. Dyer 165, 206. But by Stat. 1 Ed. 5, c. 7. No Writ shall be abated in any Suit between Party and Party, by the Death of the King: Nor shall a Writ or Affidavit be pleaded on the Preterm of the Plaintiff, pending the Suit; as by his being made a Peer, one of the Judges, &c. And Process or Suit before Judges of Affairs, Great Delivery, &c. shall not be abated, by any new Commission or Allodication. Stat. Hid. Information for the King do not abate upon the Death of the King; nor any Action continued by him, by his kinsmen, &c. or Enemies, &c. Mor. 237, 248. The Death of a Husband, where Husband and Wife are professed for Words spoken by the Wife, &c. will not abate the Writ or Action. Hard. 151. But if the Words are for Husband and Wife, and the Husband die, the Writ shall abate. Style 155. Where two Joinments are Defendants, the Death of one of them will not abate the Writ. 3 Mod. 245. And in Plea in Bar no Writ shall be receiv'd in any Suit for Partition; nor shall the same be abated by the Death of any Tenants. Stat. 5 & 6 W. 3. cap. 51. In Treapls against two or three Defendants, if one of them die hanging the Writ, it shall not abate: But where one of the De- fendants dies after Judgment, and a Writ of Error is brought, it is otherwise. Style 406. If a Writ of Treapls be brought against divers Persons, and it abates against one, it may abate against all. 8 Rep. Blackmon's Caf. Error being brought in Abation of the Cafe, before the Errors were argued, one of the Defendants who was Plaintiff in the Writ of Error died; and by this it was held, that the Writ of Error was abated. Style 360. In a Writ of Common assizes, three, one of them dies; the Writ abates against him only. Style 431. In Affidavit two, where one of them dies, it shall not abate the Writ, if there be a Defender and a Tenant remaining: So in Sines Impiant, or Repluvion against two Persons: And in such Cafe, the Court may proceed to a Præsens facit and a Trial against the Survivor only. Tit. Corn. 99. Rep. 9, 6. 3 Ed. 9. Dyer 88, 9, 7. In Andia Querela by two Persons, if one die, the Writ shall not abate. Style 208. The Death of a Plaintiff did in all Cases abate the Writ before Judgment, till the Statute 8 & 9 W. 3. 17, by which neither the Death of Plaintiff or Defendant shall abate it, if the Affidavit might be originally prosecuted by the Administrators of the Parties: And if there are two or more Plaintiffs or Defendants, and one or more die, the Writ or Action shall not abate, if the Cause of Action survives to the surviving Plaintiff against the surviving Defendant, &c. Stat. Hid. It is held the Court will not abate the Plaintiff's Writ or Bill, if not prof'd properly in the Plea; tho' there needs no Pleading to abate a Writ, that is of a formerumber, will some times abate the Action: And if a Declaration affix Walls in a Town, not mention'd in the original Writ, the Writ of Wade shall abate. Hob. 18, 36. Abatement, is a Word of Art, and signifies an Entry by Incorporation. Co. Litt. 277. Vide Pla, Writs, &c.
Abbot, is a Person that abode or straitly in a House or Land, void by the Death of him that last possessed the same, before the Heirs take Possession, and by the Menor keeps out the Heirs. Old Nat. Br. 115.

Abbatt, is any Thing diminished; Monast. abbat. in its diminutive Value: it is sparsa or sparsa, fusc. fusc. fusc. fusc. desper. Charit. Simon., Comitis Leicestri, Ann. 100. Aby, or Aby; ye shall fore are it; that is, you shall either great Pain, or pay dear for it: From the Word Begg, the Letter A being added.

Abbacy, Aby, is the same as to the Government of a religious House, and the Revenues thereof, subject to an Abbot, as a Bishopric is to a Bishop. This Word is used in some of our ancient Grants, particularly Ann. 34 & 35 H. 8. In a Grant to the Counsel of Pembroke, 1430, quad quod ex Isabella Comitissa Pemb. pri fialis Animae molta, &c. Dei, Ded. De Abbatia de Nuttleg tenes Wickham. In a charta prad. Abbatiam &c.

Abbot, Abbates, or Abbatiis, or Abbati, is Latin, in French Abbe, and in Saxon Abbod is a Spiritual Lord or Governor, having the Rule of a religious House. The Word is also by some used in the Spiritual Judge. Of these Abbots here in England, some were elected, some preferrative; and some were mitred, and some were not; such as were mitred had Episcopal Authority with their Proper Church, and were exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Diocesan; but the other Sort of Abbes were subject to the Diocesan in all Spiritual Government. The mitred Abbes were Lords of Parliament, and called Abbes Sovereigns, and Abbes General, to distinguish them from the other Abbots. And as there were Abbots, so there were also Lords Priors, who had the same Jurisdiction, and were likewise Lords of Parliament. Some reckon twenty-six of these Lords Abbots and Priors that sat in Parliament. Sir Edw. Colyton, in the History of the Middle Ages post, there were twenty-seven Parliamentary Abbots, and two Priors, Ca. Litt. 73. In the History of the K. 4, there were but twenty-five: But Ann. 4 Edw. 3, in the Summons to the Parliament at Winton were more named. And in Monasticon Anglicanum there is also mention of more: the Names of which are as follow: Abbot of St. Augis's Canterbury, Ramsey, Peterborough, Ely, Exeter, St. Beutes de Helms, Colchester, Leiston, Wincobuck, Wimborne, Gervisvit, St. Alkm, St. Mary's York, Sherborne, Sylly, St. Peter's Gloucester, Martinbury, Wiltam, Tewrsey, St. Edmon's, Bovetone, Abbingdon, Hyde, Roste, Gloucester, and Okeford. And Priors of Spalding, St. John's Yorks, and Lewes. To which are afterwards added the Abbots of St. Augis's Bury, Ely, and the Priors of Lambeth and Westminster. These Abbots and Priories were founded by our ancient Kings, and great Men, from the Year 603 to 1135. An Abbot with the Monks of the same House were called the Convoc, and made a Corporation; but the Abbot was not chargeable by the Act of his Predecessor, unless it were under the common Seal, or for such Things as came to the Ule of the House or Convoc. Terms de L. 4. By Stat. 57 Hen. 8. cap. 28 all Abbots, Commissaries, Prioris, &c. not above the Value of 500 l. per Annu, were given to the King who sold the Lands as lower Rates to the Gentry. Ann. 39 H. 8. The Rest of the Abbots, &c. made voluntary Surrenders of their Houses, to obtain Favour of the King: And Ann. 51 H. 8. A Bill was brought into the House to confirm the Abuses of the same, which passing, complicated the Dissection, except the Hospitals and Colleges, which were not disdised, the Earl till the 35th, and the Earl till the 35th of H. 8. which were appointed to enter and dwell in the said Lands, &c.

Abbot, An Avenar or Strait of the Sables; the Word was sometimes used for a common Heathcr pronounced short in the middle Syllable. Abbatia ad cumum et Equus Abbatios aquam. Spem.

Abdication, AAbdication, as to theGovernment of Wars before he is expelled to Sale in a Fair or Market, and selling the same by Retail; which is a Foreselling of a Market or Fair. MS. de placitum Reg. Ed. 3. f. 5., T. 15. So that the State, or the Abbatia, from the French Abbe, to limit or bound Are the Battings and Boundings of Lands, East, West, North, or South, showing how the same lie with respect to others; as on what Lands, Highways, or other Places, they are limited and bounded. Camden tells us, that these Limits were distinguished by Halkocks raised in the Lands called Bannates, whom we have our Word Battings. The Sides to the Breadth of Lands are properly Adjacents, lying or bordering; and the Ends in Length Abstandare, or Bounding. And in old Surveys, these last are called Head Lands, from Capitare, to Head. The Boundaries and Battals of Corporation and Church Lands, and of Parishes, are preferred by an annual Proceed. And Beside several Sorts of such Inclusions of Hedges, Ditches and Spoons in common Fields: Brooks, Rivers, and Highways, &c. of Manors and Lordships.

Abbot, Aby makes us recall to remonstrate, or refuse any Thing. Terms de L. 5.

Abbatism, is a religious Order, or Order of Life, the name comes from the Greek word for Abbe, and is the commencement of the religious profession, and the beginning of the religious life. The earliest form of the religious community was the monastic community, consisting of a group of men who vowed poverty, chastity, and obedience, and lived in a common life, subject to the rule of a superior, who was called the Abbot. The Word is also used in a more general sense to mean the state of being a religious, or the condition of living in a religious community. The monastic community was the foundation of the Christian Church, and the Abbot was the head of the community, responsible for its spiritual and temporal affairs. Abeyance, or Abeyance, (from the Fr. Beyer) to expel: it is what is in expelation, Remembrance and Intendment of Law. By a Principle of Law, in every Land a Fee-simple in some Body, or it is in Abeyance; that is, tho' the pretent it be in no Man, yet it is in Expectancy belonging to him that is next to him to the Land. 25. Litt. c. Dicentia. If a Man be Patron of a Church, and pre-fets one to the same, now the Fee of the Lands and Tenements pertaining to the Rectory is in the Patron: But if the Patron die, and the Church become void, then is the Fee in Abeyance, until there be a new Patron pretended, admitted and included; for the Patron hath not the Fee, but only the Right to preent, the Fee being in the Incumbent that is pretended.

Terms de Ley. The Frank-tenement of the Glise of a Parsonage, during the Time the Parsonage is void, is in no Man; but in Abeyance or Expelation, belonging to him who is next to enjoy it. If a Man makes a Leave for Life, the Remainder to the Right Heirs of F. S. the Fee-simple is in Abeyance until F. S. dies, after which the Heirs have the Remainder, if they choose to take it in Abeyance.

Terms de Ley. If Lands be leased to A. B. for Life, the Remainder to another Person for Years, the Remainder to the Heirs of the Land is in Abeyance until the Death of the Lessee, and then it shall vest in him in Remainder as a Purchaser, and as a Chattel shall go to his Executors. 3. Law. 23. Where Tenant for Term of another's Life is dead, the Freehold of the Lands is in Abeyance till the Entry of the Occupant. Fee-simple in Abeyance cannot be charged until it comes in off, so as to be certainly charged or aliened; tho' by Possibility it may fall every Hour. Ca. Litt. 338. The Word Abeyance hath been compared to what the Civilians call Hereditate jacentem: for as the Civilians say Lands and Goods do jacere, so do the Common Lawyers say, that Things in like Estate are in Abeyance, as the Logicians term it in paene, or in Unterfandung; and as we say in subside, that is, in Consideration of Law. See 2. Sent. Reg. 6. Abeyance of a Cafe.

Abjetio, Abjetio. The Alphabet A, B, C, Cet. This seems to be an Irish Word. Mat. Wilkin. reports of St. Patrick.—Abyetia prophesies 145 & so amplus auspicis fregit, tuisim Epiphanos ordinavit.—The Irish still call the Alphabet Abjetio.

Abjetio. For Abjetio, signifies a Thief who hath stolen many Castle, wite, &c. qui biam foras forcen furrit, & qui biam graven Abjetio erit. Brad. 1. 3. cap. 6. N.B. The King's Life are of Abjetio to inherit in England wherever born; and Children of Sub-jets born beyond Sea, may inherit if their Birth were within the Allegiance of the King. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. Vol. Naturediment.

Abjecting, is understood to be quit of Amencments. It originally signified a Forfeiture or Amencments; and is more properly Myltering or Myltering, according to the learned Sylman. Since it hath been termed a Liberty or Freedom, because wherever this Word is used in a Grant or Charter, the Perons to whom the Amencments are annexed, are quit of all others, and are themselves free from the Control of any within their Fee. Ralph's Abr. Terms de Ley.

Abjuration. (Abjuration) A Forfeiting or Renouncing of Oath, signifies a losing Banishment, or an Oath taken to forake the Realm for ever. Steadw. Pl. C. 1. e. 40. It hath also now another Signification extending to the Perons, as well as Place: as where the Pretender to the French Crown by Oath, whereby a Man binds himself not to own any regal Authority in the Peron called the Pretender, not ever to pay him any Obedience, &c. Formerly in King Edward the Geo-nisse's Time, and other Reigns down to the 22 H. 8. (in imitation of the Clemency of the Roman Emperors towards such as fled to the Church) if a Man had committed Desert here, and he could fly to a Church or Church-yard before his Apprehension, he might not be taken from thence to be tried for his Crime; but on Confession thereof before the Judge, or before the Coroner, he was admitted to his Oath to abjure or forfacke the Realm; which Privilege he was to have forty Days, during which Time any Perons might give him Meat and Drink for his Sufferance, but not after, on Pain of being guilty of Felony: The Form of the Oath you may read in an ancient Tract de officia Coronatorum, and in Heron's Mirror of Justice, Lib. 1. But at last, this Punishment being but a perbitation) he would choose to spend his Life, as appears by the Statute Ann. 22 H. 8. c. 14. it is enacted 21 Jas. 1. cap. 28. That thereon after no Sanctuary or Privilege of Sanctuary should be allowed; whereupon this Abjuration ceased. Ed. 1. An Abjuration or Deportation for ever into a Foreign Country, is a civil Death; and called (by the Lord Calc) a Divorce between Husband and Wife; and the Wife of such a Person may bring Action, or be impended. The Natural Life of the Husband, which he may not do in any other Case: Alio falle have her Dower, or either, &c. Ca. Litt. 135. This is where a Person suffers Banishment for any Crime. By Stat. 55 Edw. Popish Recusants not making the Submission of Conformity, &c. are to abjure the Realm. And by 1 W. 2 M. 13 N. 3. & Gen. 1. &c. All Perons are to abjure the pretended Prince of Wales; and refusing the Oath, are liable to diverse Penalties and Forfei-tures, &c. This Abjuration Oath was invented for the Security of the Crown, and the Protestant Religion.

See Oaths.

Abolition, A Destructing or Effecting, or putting out of Memory: And signifies the Leave given by the King, or Judges, to a Criminal Acquair to defait from further Prosecution. Stat. 25 H. 9. c. 21.

Abjuration, Abjuration. Is derived from the French Word Abjurer, to make Shriners in Words as to retain the Sacre and Substance. And in the Common Law it signifies particularly the making a Declaration or Court Shriners, by Dowing some of the Substance from it: A Man is said to abjure his Plain in Affiles; and a Woman her Demand in Action of Dower, where any Land is put into the Plain or Demand which is not the right of the Defendore; for if the Defendant pleads Non tenure, Joint-tenacy, &c. in Abatement of the Whole, the Plaintiff may have out those Lands, and may that the Tenant may have her Ref to the Ref. The Reason of this Abridgment of the Plain is, because the Certainty is not set down in each Whole, but they run in general: And though the Demandore hath abridged his Plain in Part, yet the Whole will be good for the Remainder. Brook, Tit. Abridgment, Ann. 21 H. 8. c. 3.

Abridgment, Abridgment. A Treatise of Writing abridged and made Shriners.

Abrogates, (Abrogates) To disannul or take away any Thing: As to abrogates a Law, is to lay aside or repeal it. See Ed. 3. 125.

Abstumbs, (Abstums) To abolish one excommunicate, or pardon, or let free from Excommunication. See Bull.

Accesos ad Curiam, is a Write that lies where a man hath received false judgment in a Hundred-Court, or Court Baron. It is directed to the Sheriff: and issued out of the Chancery, but returnable into B.R. or C.B. And is in the Nature of the Write de falsi judicium, which lies for him that hath received false judgment in the County, and directed to the Register. Ca. 290. This is a Write that lies as fret judicial delayed, as for falsi judicium; and that it is a Species of the Write Recurribus, the Sheriff being to make Record of the Rent in, the Dean's Court, and verify it into the King's Court. Reg. Orig. 9. 56.

Accedas ad Cisternam, Where a Sheriff hath a Writ that he will not be to answer to the Customer, and is under no manner of hindrance to it; this Write is directed to the Coroner, commanding him to deliver a Write to the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. 83.

Acceptationem (i.e. ') is the taking in and do-coping of any Thing in good Part, and as it were a tacit Agreement to a preceding Act, which might have been defeated and avoided, were it not for such Acceptance had. For Example: If a Bishop before the Statute 1 Eliz. led Part of his Bishoprick for Term of Years, referving Rent, and then dies; and after another is made Bishop, who accepts and receives the Rent when due, by this Acceptance, the Lease is made good, which other new Bishop might have avoided. It is the same if Baron and Feme failed of Lands in Right of the Feme, join and make a Lease or Feoffment, referving Rent; and the Baron dies, after whose Death the Feme receives or accepts the Rent; by this the Lease or Feoffment is confirmed, and shall bar her bringing a Ca. in Autu, to make Rent by the Court, and certify it into the King's Court. Reg. Orig. 9. 56.

Aecet in Officium, Where a Sheriff

Acompt, (Comptus) is a Writ or Action which lies against a Bailiff or Receiver to a Lord, or others, who by Reason of the Detennination of any Goods, to render Accompat; but refuse to do it. F. N. B. 146. If a Man makes one his Bailiff of a Manor, &c. he shall have a Writ of Acompt against Receiver; and if a Man make one his Bailiff, Where a Person makes one Receiver, to receive his Rents or Debts, &c. he shall have Acompt against him as Receiver; and if a Man make one his Bailiff, and also his Receiver, then he shall have Acompt against him in both Ways. Also a Person may have a Writ of Acompt against a Man as Bailiff or Receiver, when he was not his Bailiff or Receiver; as if a Man receive Money for his Use, I shall have an Acompt against him as Receiver; or if a Person deliver Money unto another to deliver over unto me, I shall likewise have Acompt against him as Receiver: So if a Man enter into any Land to my Use, and receives the Profits thereof, I shall have Acompt against him as Bailiff. 1 H. 6. 56 H. 6. 10 R. 2. 36. An Action of Acompt in a Registry, is no Bar to Action of Acompt as Bailiff: But 'tis said a Bailiff cannot be charged as Receiver; nor a Receiver as Bailiff; and might be charged. 2 Lev. 127. 3 Dow. Ab. 240. 221. The Heir may have Writ of Acompt before or after his full Age, against a Guardian in Sosage: And if he be the Guardian, he is taken as such, for he is fourteen Years old, he must charge him as Guardian; but if he be for taking the Profit after that Age, there he must for him as Bailiff Lit. 114. F. N. B. 118. Where an Heir is a Stranger to the Land, he shall have Acompt against the Heir, he being a Stranger; and the Heir intermeddled with his Land, he shall charge him in Acompt as Guardian. F. N. B. 18. A Man delivers Land to be held by his Executors, and the Money thence arising to be distributed among his Daughters; Action of Acompt lies in this Case, for the Daughters against the Executors. 1 Jac. Cest. 251. 5 Rol. Ab. 285. An Action of Acompt lies against a Bailiff, not only for what Profits he hath made and raised, but also for what he might have made and raised by his Care and Industry, his reasonable Charges and Expenses deducted. C. Lit. 172. One Merchant may have Acompt against another, where they occupy their Trade together: And if one charges me as Bailiff of his Goods ad mercandinandum, I shall answer for the Increas, and be punished for my Negligence: but if he charges me as Receiver ad combination, I must be answerable only for the bare Money or Produce delivered. before the Barons of the Exchequer at a certain Day, and to warn the Lord or Master to appear at the same Time. Where a Man is adjudged to accomplish, the Court shall adjudge him Auditor, and before the Auditors, the Plaintiff's Dedants may join Issue, or demand the Trial of the Plaundents before them; which shall be certified to the Court, and there tried or argued: If Auditors are adjuge, and a Day given to the Defendant to accomplish before them, if the Defendant would pray a further Day to give in his Accomplish, the Auditors must grant it, and not the Court: But if the Defendant be remiss and negligent, they must certify to the Court that he will not accomplish. 1 Doune, Abr. 251, 2 Med. 42. By 4 & 5, a Day's Actions of Accomplish may be brought against the Executors and Administrators of Guardians, Bailiffs, Receivers, &c. And by one Januar, &c. against the other, his Executors and Administrators, as Bailiff for receiving more than his Share; and the Auditors appointed by the Court, where the Action shall be depending, are authorized to administer an Oath, and examine the Parties, &c. The Auditors are Judges of Record. 2 Inf. 350. But what may be pleaded in Bar to the Action, shall not be allowed to be pleaded before the Auditors. 3 Car. Cap. 52, 161. Some Pleas are in Bar to the Action, and others in Discharge before Auditors; and some of the Actions allowed before Auditors, that will not be in Bar to the Action, Dyer 11, 112. 6, 8. In Accomplish the Plaintiff declared the Receipt of Money by the Hands of a Stranger; and the Defendant pleaded duack and Exon from the Plaintiff, this was a good Plea as well in Bar of the Action, as before Auditors. Writ 9. If Action of Accomplish be brought against one as Bailiff, he shall be allowed his Costs and Expenses, but not to his otherwise, if such Bailiff he brought against him as Receiver. 1 Cor. Lit. 172. If a Bailiff or Receiver make a Deputy, Action of Accomplish will not lie against the Deputy, or against them. 1 Lom. 31. A Person receives Money due to me upon an Obligation, &c. I may either have an Action of Accomplish against him at my Receivers; or an Action of Debt, or on the Cafe, as owing me so much Money as he hath received. 1 Lom. 31. If I pay Money to another, I may bring an Action against him for so much Money received to my Use: But then he may discharge himself by allowing it was for some Debt, or to be paid over by my Order to some other Person, which he hath done, &c. 1 Lom. 50. An Appraiser shall not be charged with Action of Accomplish: But if a Man have a Servant, whom he orders to receive Money, the Master shall have Accomplish against him, if he were his Receiver. 1 Inf. 172. If Money be received by a Man's Wife to his Use, Action of Accomplish lies against the Husband, and he may be charged in the Declaration as his own Receipt. 1 Cor. Lit. 305. Accomplish does not lie against an Infamous; but it lies against a Man or Woman, that is Grown, Bailiff, Receiver, being of Age and discreet: And tho' an Appraiser is not chargeable by this Action, for what he usually receives in his Office; he may be charged upon collateral Receives, he shall be charged as well as another. 1 Inf. 172, 3 Roll. Abr. 117, 3 Lom. 92. As to other Actions of Accomplish, they will not lie of a Thing certain: if a Man delivers 12l. to merchandise with, he shall not have Accomplish of the 12l. but of the Profit, which are uncertain: And this is one Reason why this Action shall not consist of Rest. 1 Inf. 6. Executions of Accomplish may be brought against a Person that sells Goods and Merchandises upon Credit, without a particular Commission so to do, tho' the Goods are bona fide. 2 Med. 100. If there are two Demanders in a Declaration, to which the Defendant pleads an Accomplish Rated, the Plaintiff can never after refer to the Original Contract, which is thereby merged and discharged in the Action: If one of them be for 10l. for 10l. and there being divers other Dealings between them, they come to an Accomplish the Whole, and

B. is found in Accomp. 6. A Man bring his Inland comptesaffr for it, and not an Indebted Comptesaffr: But if there be only one Deb. against the Parties, Entering into an Accomplish for that would not determine the Fink Contract. 2 Med. Rep. 207, 1 Med. 44. It has been held, that mutual Demandas on an Accomplish are not extinguished by setting it, and promise to pay the Balance, wherefore Accomplish was brought for the Demand of a Debtor. 4 Fisc. 44. Hill. 2 Gen. 2. The Pleas in this Action, are Good noninquam jus Receiver, Good Nome comptesaffr, &c. It is no Plea in an Accomplish that he was robbed, but alleging it was without his Default and Negligence, will be a good Plea. 1 Cor. Lit 89. That the Defendant ever was Bailiff, is the general Bar; and it is a good Plea in Bar, by claiming a Property in the Things to be accounted for. 21 Ed. 3, 19 E. 3. 47. A Defendant as Receiver, cannot wage his Law, where he receives the Money by another's Hands. His otherwise where he received it of the Plaintiff himself. 1 Cor. 919. And the Substance of the Action of Accomplish against a Receiver, is that the Defendant be properly charged, as to the Time, its not necessary to be particular therein, nor as to the Quantum of the Money; but the Plaintiff must shew by whole Hands the Defendant received it. 3 Ed. 455. In this Action is now settled, and every Man must be chargeable by what is given by it, for the Judgment is only to Accomplish. 1 Lom. 102. The usual Judgment is good compite, on which the Defendant is taken by Captus an circumstans, &c. But there are two Judgments in this Plead, in one, if the Defendant cannot avoid the Suit by Plea, Judgment is first given, Test es de Accomplish: and having done this before the Auditors, there is another Judgment entered, that the Plaintiff shall recover of the Defendant so much as it is found in Accomp. 11 Rep. 40. The first Judgment is but an Award of the Court, like to a Writ to enquire of Damages; and these two Judgments depend one upon another: For if Judgment be to Accomplish, and the Party die before he hath accomplished, the Executor cannot proceed in the Action, but it must be begun again; and no Writ of Error will lie upon the first suit after the second Judgment. Ibid. Where a Site Factus lies upon the Record in this Action of Accomplish, for the Plaintiff to proceed. 4 Cor. Rep. 25. The Process in Accomplish to be Summons, Poet and Duties, and upon a Notice returned, the Plaintiff may proceed to Outlawry. The Statute of Limitations, 21 Hen. 1, did not bar a Man who is a Merchant from bringing Action of Accomplish for Merchandize at any Time: But all other Actions of Accomplish are within the Statute. In Chancery an Action fifteen or twenty Years standing, the Defendant may be allowed to prove on his own Oath, what he can't otherwise prove of; but here the Particulars must be named, as to whom the Money was paid, for what, and when. 1 Cor. Rep. 140. And a Defendant shall be discharged upon his Oath of Sums under 40l. tho' it is held a Plaintiff shall not so charge another, or be allowed an Action in Equity. His Oath 2 Chan. A Writ of Accomplish to the Sheriff of the County.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting: We command you that, A.B. that he duly and without Delay render to C.D. his responsible Accomplish, for the Time he was Bailiff of the said C. in, &c. And Receiver of the Money of him C. as may be reasonably shown, which is required by him, and that no more Claimer thereof may be heard for Default of Justice. Writs, &c.

Accomplish General. A new Office in the Court of Chancery, appointed by Act of Parliament, to receive all Money lodged in Court, in the Place of the Masters, Matters. &c. He is to convey the Money to the Bank, and take the same out by Order; and shall only keep the Account with the Bank, for the Bank is to be answerable for all Money received by them, and not the Accountant General, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 32. No Fees shall be taken by this Officer or his Clerks, on Pain of being dismissed; but they are to be paid Salaries, the Accountant General 650l. per Ann. out of Interest made of Part of the Suitor's Money. 12 Geo. 1. c. 32. 24.

Accounts, (French) Is an Agreement or Concurrence between two or more Persons, where any one is injured by a Trespass, or Offence done, or on a Contract, to satisfy him with some Recompense; which if executed and performed, shall be a good Bar in Law, if the other Party after the Accord performed bring any Action for the same. Term de la ley 14. And it is to be observed that Accord executed only is payable in Barbados, and Executory not. 1 Mod. 59. All in pleading it, 'tis the fault by Way of Satisfaction, and not of Accord alone. For if it be pleaded by Way of Accord, a precise Execution thereof in every Part must be pleaded: But by Way of Satisfaction, the Defendant need only allude, that he paid the Plaintiff such a Sum, &c. in full Satisfaction of the Accord, which the Plaintiff received. 9 Rep. 80. The Defendant must plead that the Plaintiff accepted the Thing agreed upon in full Satisfaction, &c. And if it be on a Bond, it must be in Satisfaction of the Money mentioned by way in the Condition, and not of the Bond; which can't be discharged but by Writing under Hand and Seal. 1 Cre. 245. 690. When a Duty is created by Deed in Certainty, as by Bill, Bond, or Covenant to pay a Sum of Money, this Duty accruing by Writing, ought to be discharged by Matter of as high a Nature: but when no certain Duty is created by Bond, but the Atonement is for a Tort or Default, &c. for which Damages are to be recovered, there an Accord with Satisfaction is a good Plea. 6 Rep. 43. A Contract upon Consideration may commence by Words; so by an Agreement by Words for any valuable Consideration, the Agreement may be dissolved. In Accord, one Promiss may be pleaded in Discharge of another, before Breach but after Breach, it cannot be discharged without a Release in Writing. 2 Mod. 44.

Accord with Satisfaction, is no Plea to a Covenant not broken; for the Covenant being created by Deed, by Deed must it be discharged. But upon any Accord, it is a good Plea in Satisfaction and Discharge of the Damages. Law. 359. And Accord made before the Covenant broke, hath been adjudged a good Bar of Action of Covenant, as it may be in Satisfaction of Damage to come. 1 Danw. Abr. 546. If a Contract without Deed is to deliver Goods, &c. there Money may be paid by Accord in Satisfaction: But if one is bound in an Obligation to deliver Goods, or to do any collateral Thing, the Oblige can't by Accord give Money in Satisfaction thereof: Though when one is bound to pay Money, he may give Goods or any other valuable Thing in Satisfaction. 9 Rep. 78. 1 Inf. 212.

Where Damages are uncertain, a Fitter Thing may be done in Satisfaction, and in 17th Cafe an Accord and Satisfaction is a good Plea in personal Actions, where Damages only are to be recovered; and in all Actions which suppose a Wrong, VI. or Armis, where a Copyes and Evicent Vindict in the Treachery and Atrocity, Deine, &c. Accord is a good Plea: So in an Appeal of Malhem. But in real Actions is it not a good Plea. 4 Rep. 1. 9. 70. 9 Rep. 37. Of late it hath been held, that upon mutual Promises an Action lies, and consequently there being equal Remedy on both Sides, an Accord may be pleaded without Execution, as well as an Arbitrayment. 150. 2 Jeno 138. Acceptance of the Thing agreed on in Dece Accord is the only material Thing to make them binding. 1 Hob. 178. 5 Mod. 86.

Accroissement (from the French Acrecroisir) To hook or grasp unto: it signifies as much as to encroach, and it is mentioned in the Statute 25 Ed. 3. c. 8. to that Purpose. The French use it for Delay, as Acrecroir un Projet to stay the Proceedings in a Suit.

Accreation, (Acroissement) To charge any Person with a Crime. By Magna Charta, no Man shall be imprisoned or condemned on any Acretion, without Trial by his Peers, or the Law. 9 H. 3. None shall be vexed upon any Acreation, but according to the Law of the Land: And no Men may be molested by Petition to the King, &c. unless it be by Indictment, or Pro- cession of lawful Men, or by Process at Common Law, 25 Ed. 3. 28 B. 3 c. 3. None shall be compelled to answer an Acreation to the King, without Pre-Ventiment, or some Manifest of Record. Stat. 2 Ed. 3. Promoters of Suggestions are to find Surety to pursue them, and not making them good, shall dis- charge the Plaintiff to the Action, and penal Fine to the King, 38 Ed. 3. c. 9. In Treason there must be two lawful Accreiers. Stat. 12 & 13 Ed. 6. A Person is not obliged to answer on Oath to a Matter by which he may accuse himself of any Crime. 5 & 6 Ed. 578.

Acrete, The Levellers in the Reign of King Hen. 1. who acknowledged no Head or Superior. Letts. 11. They were recondemned so poor that they had not now a head by which they might acknowledge an inferior Lord. Do Cassey.

At etiam Mille, Words or a Clause of a Writ, where the Letters are not met. The Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 2. which joins the Cause of Action to be particularly express'd in the Writ or Process which holds a Person to Bail, hath ordered the Inquiring of this Clause in Writs; but it ought not to be made one against a Peer of the Realm, or upon a penal Statute, or against an Executive or Administrator, or for any Debt under 10l. Nor in any Action of Account render, Action of Covenant, &c. unless the Demand were 10l. or more: Nor in Action of Trespass, or for Battery, Wounding or Imprisonment: except there be an Order of Court for it, or a Warrant under the Hand of one of the Judges of the Court out of which the Writ issues. 1 Litt. Abr. 13.

Achetar, (Fr. Acheter) Signifies a Contract or Bargain. Pursuery. A contract of Sale is called Achetar, from their frequent making of Bargains.

Achetar, A Measure of Corn, consecrated to be the same with our Quarter eight Bushels. The monks of Peterborough had an allowance weekly of twelve Achetarbus de frumento, and eight Achetarbus de Brato, and Six de Grad. and eleven Achetarbus de fab- bis, &c.

Schlitzte, (Schlitze) An inferior Church Servant, who, next under the Subdeacon, followed or waited on the Friars and Deacons, and performed the meaner Offices of lighting the Candles, carrying the Bread and Wine, and paying other servile Attendance.

Acknowledgment of Money, is a Sum paid in some Part of England, by Tenants on the Death of their Landlords, as an Acknowledgment of their new Lords; in like Manner as Money is usually paid on the Assignment of Tenants—Subsid X IID. ad recognoscen cu- xifsit dux Domini ac Hope, &c. Ex Libri Card. Prior. Lomaeiniae.—It is in Latin called, Laudationem vel Laudemium, a Laudans Domini.

Acuta, A Writ of Appeal, &c. To be free from Suits and Services in Shires and Hundreds.

Acquetamis (Acutamis), A Writ of Acurtis lying for the Surety against a Creditor, who refuses to accept him after the Debt is satisfied. 12 Wris 158.

Acquit, or Acquittance, (from the French Word Acquitter, and the Latin Compound Acquittare) To free or discharge; In a general sense, to be free from Entries and Misde- meanors of a Superior Lord for Services issing out of Lands; and in another Signification (the most General) it is taken for a Deliverance and Setting free of a Per- son from the Sufferance of Guilt; as he that on Trial is discharged of a Felony, is said to be Acquittatus de Felonia; and if he be drawn in Question again for the same Crime, he may plead aucter acquisitum as his Life shall not be twice put in Danger for the same Of- fence. 1 Inf. 385. When two are indicted, the one as Principal, and the other as Accesary, the Principal being discharged, the Accessary of Consequence will be acquitted by Law: Acquittal in Fact is, when a Person is Not found Guilty of the Offence by a Jury, on Ver- did, &c. For, in Murder, if a Man is acquitted, Ap- peal may be brought against him. 5 Inf. 273. 1. If one is acquitted on an Indictment of Murder, supposing it to be done at such a Time; and after indicted again in the same County, for the Murder committed in another Time; here notwithstanding that Variance, the Party may plead aucter aquisitum, by averting it to be the same Crime, that there is a Peron is acquitted at another Time, for Robbery upon the same Peron, but at an- other Vill, &c. But if there be an Indictment against him in another County, for a Felony there done 'tis said he shall not plead aquisitum of the same Felony in the County where first indicted; that it has been held to be otherwise on an Appeal. 2 Hals. Hift. P. C. 243, 245. And under Larceny the contrary is in 2 Hals. 371. Where a Man is discharged on special Matter found by the Grand Jury, yet he may be in- dicted de novo seven Years afterwards, and cannot plead this aquisitum, as he may upon the special Matter found by the Petit Jury, and Judgment given thereon. Ibid. 245. If a Person is lawfully acquitted on a malicious Prosecution, he may bring his Action, &c. for Dam- ages, after he hath obtained a Copy of the Indict- ment and the Judge's Certificate: But it is usual for the Judges of Gaol-Delivery to deny a Copy of an Acquisit- tus to him who intends to bring an Action thereon, when there was probable Causé for a Criminal Prosecu- tion. Curcio's Rep. 411. A Son in Law indicted his Mother for poisoning her Husband his Father, and the being acquitted, brought an Action for a malicious Pro- secution against him, and recovered Damages; and he, to requisite her Kindness, brought an Appeal of Murder, on which she was tried, convicted, and executed. Cre- Car. 583. Also a Fellow having brought an Action for paying of him he was a Highway-man; and it ap- pearing upon Evidence he was so, he was taken in Court, committed to Gaol, and convicted, and hanged in the next Settions. Nid. Caf. 217. An Offender may be acquitted by the King's Pardon, or Proclama- tion. Stane. 168.

Acquittance, (acquisitum) signifies a Discharge in Writing, of a Sum of Money, or Debt due; as where a Man is bound to pay Rent referred upon a Lease, &c. And the Party to whom due, on Receipt thereof gives a Writing under his Hand witnessing that he is paid: This will be such a Discharge in Law, that he cannot demand and recover the same again. If this is disputed, if the Receipt bear the Terms and Date of: In 6, 25, 51. An Acquitance is a Discharge and Bar in the Law, to Actions, &c. And if one acknowledges him as such by Deed, it may be a good Plea in Bar, without any Thing received: But an Acquir- tance, without Seal, is only Evidence of Satisfaction, and not pleadable; for no Deed signifies a Deed of Acquitance. 1 Inf. 52. The Obliger is not bound to pay Money upon a single Bond, except an Acquit- ance be given him by the Obliger: Nor is he obliged to pay Money to the Holder of the Acquitance. But in Case of an Obligation with a Condition, it is other- wise: for there one may aver Payment. And by 3" Goods, or on Account of any Offence or Trespass; and it claims a Debt, Goods, Chattels, Usufruct, or Damages for the same.

Alien Mist is an Alien that bet us well for the Time being, and he is not liable to recover, nor to be sued or served with Process, or to have any Relief at the Suit of the other Person that hath it; on which the Thing is recovered, and likewise Damages for the Wrong fulfilled: It feels both the Thing whereby a Man is deprived, and the Penalty for the unjust Detention. But Deivative is an Alien mist, notwithstanding the Thing demanded and Damages for with holding it is recovered; for it is an Alien merely personal, brought only for Goods and Chattels. In a Real Alien, setting forth the Title in the Writ, several Lands held by several Titles may not be demanded in the same Writ: In Personal Aliens, Writ 5 Rep. 87. A Bar is perpetual in Personal Aliens, and the Plaintiff is without Remedy, unless it be by Writ of Error or Attain: But in a Real Alien, if the Defendant be barred, he may commence an Action of a higher Nature, and try the fame again. 5 Rep. 33. Alien of Waits sued against Tenant for Life, is in the Realty and by the Act, for Waits done by the Deceased. And where a Keeper of a Plott permits one in Execution to escape, and afterwards deth, no Alien will lie against his Executors. Also if a Battery be committed on a Man, and he that is the Aggressor, or the Party on whom committed, die, the Action is gone: For Personal Aliens die with the Person. 1 Ind. 53. Aliens Real and Mist,' Epistome, Waits, Trespass, Squares, Clauses, Injuries, of all. To be made in the same County where the Land lizeth: Personal and Transitory Aliens, as Deeds, Deinome, Affiust and Battery, are to be brought in any County, (except it be against Officers of Places, Gr. by Statute 21 Jac. 1.) 1 Ind. 182. Aliens Transitory may be laid in any County, altho' the Statute 6 & 7. 2. enacted, That Writs of Deeds, Account, &c. should be commenced in the County where the Contrats were made; for that Statute was never put in Ute; and yet generally Aliens have been laid in the County where the Cause of them was arising. If the Cause of Action arise in two Counties, an Alien may be brought in either County: But if a Balance be erected in one County, to the Party in another, the Alien must be brought in Conjoint Cases. Mich. 8 Ann. B. R. Aliens are laid to be perpetual and temporal; perpetual, those which cannot be determined by Time; and all Aliens may be called perpetual that are not limited to Time for their Protection: Temporary Actions are those that are expressly limited: As for Example: the Statute 7 H. 8. c. 3. requires Aliens within four Years after the Offence committed: The 1 Ed. 6. c. 1. within three Years: The 31 Edu. c. 5. within one Year, Gr. Since the Statute of Limitation, all Autos must be in Hand, or not to be good, but they may in Time be prescribed against. A Real Alien may be prescribed against within five Years, on a Fine levied, or Recovered by the Party, or by the Alien. A Writ of Right for Recovery of Lands is to be brought within sixty Years: By 21 Jac. 1. Writs of Forfeiture for any Title to Lands in Feoff, are to be sued within twenty Years, 13 Ed. 1, of Deeds, on the Case, of Account, Deinome, Trespass, and Affiust, are to be brought within six Years; of Affiust and Battery within four Years; and Sluades within the same Years: But of Right of Action in these Cases is to be Infanted, Fed. of Vouchers, Per-curtain Place, and he loatheth them. Action upon the Cafe lies against him; for by the common Custom of the Law, when one is but a tenant, it is the time of a common Hoyman or Lightman, who is a Water-Carrier of Goods but Goods in this Cafe, may be thrown over-board in a Tempded, to preserve the Pabbage Lives in the Lighter, c. and no Action lies. Salk. 210. If a common Carrier is robbed of Goods, he is chargeable for them, because he had his Hire, and took upon himself the safe Delivery of the Goods therefore: And tho' a Peron does not acquit the Carrier with all the Particulars in a Box, as that there is such a Sum of Money, c. the Carrier shall answer for the Money, if robbed: This a special Accomplice may excuse him. Dow. 13. A common Inn-keeper is chargeable for Goods stolen in his House: And if the Inn-keeper be not of sound Memory, it is said Action lies against him; but if the Inn-keeper be an Infant, no Action will lie against such Infant. The Peron robbed must be a Traveller, and Gift in the Town; if he have goods committed to the Ho in another Account, and are stolen, no Action will lie. So if a Man comes to an Inn, and leaving Goods there, goes away for two or three Days, if in that Time they are stolen, no Action lies against the Inn-keeper, for at the Time of the Stealing he was not his Guest: But where a Man comes on Horseback to an Inn, and leaves his Horse with the Ho, if he goes away from the Inn for several Days, and in his Absence the Horse is stolen, the Inn-keeper shall be charged for it: because he had Benefit by the Continuance of the Horse with him, he being paid for it, and the Owner was a Guest. Mo. 877. If a Man upon a special Agreement boards in an Inn for any Time, and is robbed, the Inn-keeper shall not answer for it. Land. 127. An Inn-keeper is liable, tho' the Guest doth not acquaint him what Goods or Money he hath. Rep. 35. If an Inn-keeper refuses to entertain his Guest, this Action may be brought against him. Dyer 178. If a Mail is robbed, and Bulls are loosed by a Post-Chief Justice, Action lies against the Post-Master, as against a common Carrier, c. he being paid a Salary for doing his Duty, but was over-ruled by the other Judges. Salk. 17. This Action lies for Deceits in Contracts, Bargains and Sales: If a Vintner sells Wine knowing it to be corrupt, as good and not corrupt, the without Warranty, Action lies. Dow. 173. So if a Man sells a Horse, and warrants him to be found of his Limbs, if he be not, Action on the Cafe lies. 1 Hen. 4. A Peron warrants a Horse and Limb, that hath some secret Defect Discovered known to the Seller, but not to the Buyer, this Action may be brought against him; and if he be found, and he hath at the Time visible Infirmity, which the Buyer may see; Action on the Cafe will not lie. Teb. 114. Cve. 173. Where one tells me any Wares or Accommodation, and it to deliver that which is good, but delivers what is sought: Or sells any Thing by false or deceitful Weights and Measures, with or without Warranty, Action on the Cafe lies; and so where a Man doth corrupt Vintails, as Bread, Beer, or other Thing for Food, and knows it to be unwholesome. Dow. 75. Rep. 18. Cve. 270. Yet if he doth not refine the Vintails, c. and like and accept the same, no Action can be had. 7 H. 16. Nor will Cafe lie upon a Warranty of what is out of a Man's Power, or of a future Thing; as that a Horse shall carry a Man thirty Miles a Day, or the like. Finch 189. If a Man sells certain Packs of Wool, and warrants that they are good and merchantable, if they are damaged, Action of the Cafe lies against him. Dow. 187. The bare Affirmation by the Seller of a particular Skill or Ficlist in the Cafe cannot be the Cafe, but will not maintain an Action. 2 Cre. 156. But where a Man hath the Possession of a personal Thing, the Affirming it to be his own, is a Warranty that it is so: The 'tis otherwise in Cafe of Land, where the Buyer at his very First is to have the Land. 1 Salk. 210. If a Peron sells to another Cafe of Goods, that are not his own, Action of the Cafe lies: So if he warrants Cloth to be of such a Length, that is deficient of it. If a Taylor underakes to make a Suit of Cloth, and spoils them, Action lies: And if a Carpenter promises to mend my House before a certain Day, and doth not do it, by which my House falls; Or he undertakes to build a House for me, and doth it ill, Action on the Cafe lies. 1 Dow. 32. If a Chirurgeon neglects his Patient, or applies unwholesome medicines, whereby the Patient is injured, this Action lieth. And if a Counsel returned to appear on such a Day in Court, doth not come, by which the Cause miscarries, Action lies against him: So if after Reasiner, he become of Counsel to the Adversary against the Plaintiff. 1 H. 6. 18. For Stopping up a Water-courte or Way; Breaking down a Man's Wall, Stopping of an honest Light, and for any Nuisance to a Man's Water, Light, or Air, whereby a Peron is damaged, this Action lieth. 1 Cro. 427. Teb. 159. Where a Smith promises to bore my Horse well, if he quicken, Action of the Cafe lies; and so when he refuses to shew him, on which I travel without, and my Horse is damaged. If a Horse that is hired, hath been abased by the Rider, Action lieth. 1 Cro. 14. Where so Goods pawned are not delivered, on offering the Money: Where any one perfumes another, for Cheating at Gaming; where a Surety is not lived barmeket, c. 2 Lev. 158. If I lend another my Horse to ride a far, and he rides further, or forward and backward, or doth not give me my Meat, this Action lieth. 1 Cro. 14. And where one lends me a Horse for a Time, if he take him from me within that Time, or disturbs me before I have done what I hired him for; Action of the Cafe lieth: And though I ride the Horse out of the Way in my Journey, he may not take him from me. Rep. 846. This Action lies, for keeping a Dog accostumed to bitte Sheep; but not for a Man's Dog running at any Sheep, that he kills them, if it be without his Content. 1 Dow. 19. Herl. 171. Action of the Cafe will lie against a Gaoler for putting Irons on his Prisoners; or putting him in the Stocks, or not giving sufficient Sufferance to him, being committed for Debt. F. N. B. 83. The Master may in many Cafes have this Action against his Servant, Servant, or Bailiff, for any Cruelty he may do him; and for Negligence he has done; for Alfo it lies for taking or enticing away my Servant, and retaining him; or threatening a Servant, whereby I lose his Service. Teb. 159. L. 59. A Servant is trusted with Goods and Montchandise confided to him by a Merchant, to pay the Customs for them, and dispose of them to Prots; if he to deceive the Merchant, and have Almonance for it on his Account, and to defraud the King, lands some of the Goods without paying the Customs, by which they are forfeited. Action of the Cafe lies. Lane 65. Cve. 246. If I trufe one to buy a Lesse or other Thing for me, and he buyeth it for himself, or doth not buy it, Action lies against him: but if he doth his Ease, or performeth his Teb. 159. And where a Man is distur'd in the Use of a Seat in the Church, which he hath Time out of Mind: A Servant is bound not in the keeping of his Courts, a Keeper of a Postel disturbed in taking the Profits of his Office; a Bailiff in distraining for an Aemercement. Cve. Action on the Cafe will lie. B. 121. Lib. Intr. 6. New 9. Action of the Cafe lies: for he does in Reversion, against a Stranger, for Damage to his Inheritance, the there be a Term in Eff L. 29. Cve. 156. Alfo if a Horse by reason of the Cafe men be, or do any Damage demised, to see if it be out of Repair, or any Wate be done, and teats with any Disturbance therein; or or if one disturbs a Parson in taking his Tithes, this Action lies. 1 C. R. 478. 2 Inst. 650. And for setting up a new Mill on a River to the Prejudice of another who has an existing Mill, likewise an action grounded upon this Action will lie. Lib. Inst. 9. The Things for which Action of the Cafe may be brought are generally distinguishing'd into Nuisances, where a Man omits that which he ought to do, and comprehends an Affirmity, expressed or implied: Misantheses, the doing of something undone, or which the Law requires him to do, otherwise than he ought, by which Misdoing the Plaintiff receives Damage; And Misantheses, a doing of something which ought not to be done at all, or is permitted or used as a natural object of Promises, viz. Affirmity for Promise of Payment of so much Money on such a Day, or Quantum lacther, where Goods are delivered at not certain Price, to be paid for so much as they are worth, or Quantum mercatus, when a Man does work without making any Agreement for it, to be paid as much as he shall defer: Indemnity for Defect in a Sum certain, And internal Complainants, where the Parties have reconciled or accounted. Also sometimes a Marine dat a Day, without any Consideration or Reward, and do their not, no Action will lie; but if he actually undertakes upon the Performance of the Thing, and then neg-lec'ts it the Deceit of the Plaintiff, Action on the Cafe lies.

2 C. Eln. 305. The Person to whom a Promise is made, shall have Action and those who are strangers, or for whose Benefit it is intended. Danw. 64. Nor shall Action be brought against one for what another receives, not for his Use. 1 C. Eln. 30. 3 Lib. 23. But if he received Money to A. B. to my Use, I may have an Action on the Cafe against him for this Money. If a Man accounts, and upon the Account is found in Arrears, it is a sufficient Condition in Consideration of thereof to assume to pay the Debt at a Day; Action on the Cafe lies for this after the Day. Yelv. 70. And on a Promise to pay a Sum of Money, at so much a Month, an Action of the Cafe may be brought before the Time is payable, for an existing Affirmity, or upon the Prommise, which is broken by every Non-Payment, and Damages may be recovered: 'Tis not like the Cafe of a Bill of Debt, which is founded on the Specialty, and cannot be demanded until the entire Sum is due. 4 C. 525.

To say of a Counsellor, that he is no Lawyer; that they are Fools who come to him for Law, and that he will get nothing by the Law, Accus lies. 113. And it is the same to say he hath disclosed Secrets in a Cause. To call a Doctor of Physick Fool, Afo, Empirick and Mountebank, or say he is no Scholar, are actionable. Cra. Cas. 18 and 19. To say a School put not your Son to him, for he will come away as very a Dance as he went. Heit. 71. Where one says of a Midwife, that many have perish'd for her Want of Skill, an Accus will lie. Cra. Cas. 211. If one calls a Merchant Bankrupt, Accus lies. 1 Lvo. 336. And to call a Trading Peron Bankrupt Knave, is actionable. 1 Davw. 99. If one say of a Merchand, that he is a beggarly Fellow, and not able to pay his Debts: Or say of a Person that he is a Runaway, and does not flee his Face, by Reason whereof he is deficient. 4 McD. 14. To say a Man is a Charlatan. Row. 184. To say an Alchemist keeps a Bawdy house, Accus lies. Cra. Ex. 382. Theo. to say a Man is an Innkeeper, Sales, &c. is not actionable; for his Inn is common to all Guests. 2 Rev. Rep. 136. To say of another he hath the French Pox, Accus will lie. Cra. Cas. 459. But 'tis said, if one say if he had the Pox, after cured, no Accus lies; because none will then avoid his Company. Cra. Cas. 151. To call a Man Whore mather, or a Woman Whore, no Accus lies for these there are merely Spiritual. Davw. But calling a Woman Whore in London, is actionable by the Custom of the City. And if one calls a Woman Copyholder, while the is sole, a Whore, an Accus lies, by Reason of the special Dam- mage that may arise thereby. 1 Sid. 214. In like Manner calling the Midwifes of a School Whore, may be held actionable. 1 Vre. 21. To say that a Woman hath a Ballard, is with Child: or that a certai Person hath had the Use of her Body, whereby she loses her Marriage, Accus lies: The not without special Damage, on Accus at Common Law. 2 Sar. 666. If a Man in Treaty with a Woman to Marry, and another tells him, She is under a Pre-contract; this doth not imply a Scandal, but yet if false, an Accus. To say of a Man that he lay with a certain Woman, &c. by which he loses his Marriage, is actionable; for in these Cases there is a Temporal Damage. 1 Davw. 81. If one says of another that he has Land by Defent, that he is a Ballard; Accus upon the Cafe lies, as it tends to his Dishonour. Cas. Est. 28. But to say of a Son and Heir apparent, that he is a Ballard, Accus lies not until he is disinherited, or is prejudiced thereby. 1 Davw. 83. And though scandalous Words are spoken before a Man that is a Father, behind his Back, by Way of Affirmation, or Report, when drunk, or fo- ther; and although they are spoken in any Language, if they are underfooted by the Hearsers, they are actionable. Alb. Words may be spoken in one Court, which are not so in another, by the different Con- foundion, &c. 4 Rep. 14. Hb. 165, 256. But if the Defendant can make Proof of the Words, he may plead Special Justification. Cas. Est. 26. Yet where the Plaintiff has a Pardon, after an Offence committed, the Words are still actionable. Mor. 853. If Words may receive a double Interpretation, the one Way that they shall be actionable, and the other Way not, they shall be taken in miseri jus, so far as not to be actionable. Cra. Tae. 458. Therefore to say that a Man hath the Pox, when it may be the ordinary Dis- ease; or that he is a Coiner of Money, when it may be his Trade, and he may do it by Authority, &c. no Accus will lie: And yet in this Cafe, if the com- mon and violent Sense of the Words in the Import thereof be the worse Sense, they may be taken accord- ingly, and are liable to Accus. 4 Rep. 20. Hb. 126. 3 Cre. 352. The Words to say this Man doth must be direct and certain, that there may be no Indemnity against them: But as some Words separate, without others joined with them, are not actionable; so some Words that are not qualified by the precedent or subsequent Words, and all the Words are to be taken together. 4 Rep. 17. 1 Cre. 127. Mor. Cas. 174, 331. And some Writers make a Dif- ference, where the Words are introductory, by the Word and, as you are a Thief, and have stolen, &c. which are additional, and shall not cor- rect; and the Word For; as you are a Thief, for you have, &c. Hb. 386. Style 115. Cad. 89. The Words, He is a Maintainer of Thieves, and keeps none but Thieves in his House, will not support an Accus, unless it be averred that he knew them to be Thieves. 1 Cre. 746. Likewise where one calls a Trademan Cheater or Cozenor, the Words bear no Accus, without tierre a Collectum or Dilicour of Trade laid therein. Hors. 3 Alb. 592. Words spoken in a far off Place, Words spoken are somewhat uncertain, by the prece- dence Conference or some Circumstance, with an Aver- ment, they may be made certain, and then actionable. 2 Bull. 257. So by the Pleadings of the Parties, and Verdict of a Jury for the Plaintiff. 2 Cre. 107. The Thing laid by the Words, must be that which is possible to have been done: for it be of a Thing altogether and apparently impoible, no Accus. 4 Rep. 16. For Words spoken in Pursuit of a Prosecution in an ordinary Court of Justice; and where a Lawyer in Pleading his Client's Cause, shall utter Words according to his Instructions; and to say of one he is a Ballard, when this is to defend the Party's own Title, where he himself doth claim to be the Heir of the Land that is in Question; these Words will not bear an Accus. 2 Cre. 90. 4 Rep. 13. If a Felony be done, and common Fame is such that a Peron did it, although one may charge or arrest him on Suspicion of that Felony; yet a Man may not affirm that he did the fame, for he may be innocent all the while, and therefore affirming it hath been held actionable. Hb. 158, 201, 321. To found the Title of another Person to his Lands is actionable: But the Words must be false, and be spoken by one that neither has, nor pretends to the Land, and that is not of Counsel to him that pretends. 4 Rep. 17. The Acts of Law are esteemed beyond the Acts of Men: And when to the Perfection of a Thing, divers Acts are required, the Law hath most Regard to the Original Act. 8 Rep. 76. The Law will concur Things to be lawfully done, when it standeth indifferent whether they should be lawful or not: But whatever is contrary to Law, is accounted not done. 1 Inf. 42. 3 Rep. 71. Our Law doth favour Substantial more than Circumstantial Acts; and regards Deeds and Acts more than Words: And the Law doth not require unnecessary Things. Per 10. As to Acts of Men: that which a Man doth for another, shall be said to be done by himself; but personal Things cannot be done by another. Co. Lit. 128. A Man cannot do an Act to himself, unless it be where he hath a double Capacity: No Person shall be suffered to do any Thing against his own Acts; and every Man's Acts shall be confined most strongly against himself that doth them. Per 10. But if many join in an Act, and some may not lawfully do it; it shall be adjudged the Acts of him who might lawfully do the same. 122. Acts that Men are forced by Necessity and Compulsion to do, are not regarded: And an Act done between Persons, shall not injure a Stranger not Party or Privy thereto.

Acts of Parliament, Are positive Laws, consisting of two Parts; (viz.) the Words of the Acts, and the Sense and Meaning of them, which being joined make the Act. The Words of an Act of Parliament shall be taken in a lawful Sense: Cofes of the same Nature are within the Remedy, though out of the Letter of the Act; and some Acts extend by Equity to other Things than that. Addiction, (Addiction) A Title given to a Man besides his Christian and Surname, setting forth his Elate, Degree, Trade, &c. As for Example: Additions of Elate are Englishman, Englishman, Etc. Additions of Degree, are Knight, Earl, Marquess, and Duke: Additions of Trade, are Merchant, Cooper, Carpenter, &c. Then there are likewise Additions of Place of Residence, as London, York, Bristol, &c. And these Additions were ordained that one Man might not be grieved or molested for another: And that every Person might be certainly known and bear his own Barden. If one be of the Degree of a Duke, Earl, &c. he shall have the Addition of the most worthy Dignity. 2 Inf. 659. But the Titles of Duke, Marquess, and Earl, &c. are not properly Additions, but Names of Dignity. Terminis de Ley 20. And the Title of Knight of Baronet, is Part of the Party's Name, and ought to be rightly used: but the Titles of Esquire, Gentleman, Yeoman, &c. being no Part of the Name, but Additions as People please to call them, may be used or not used, or if varied is not material. 1 Litt. 34. An Earl of Ireland is not an Addition of Honour here in England, but such a Perfon must be written by his Christian and Surname, with the Addition of Esquire only: And Sons of English Noblemen, afoth they have given them Titles of Nobility in respect to their Families; if you for them they must be named by their Christian and Surnames, with the Addition of Esquire, as such a one Esquire, commonly called Lord A. E. Co. 2 Inf. 565, 666. By the Common Law, a Man that had no Name of Dignity, was named by his Christian and Surname in all Writs and Acts; but if he had an inferior Title of the Name of Dignity, as Knight, &c. he ought to be named by his Christian and Surname with the Name of of Duty: But a Duke, &c. might be fixed by his Chairman Name only, and Name of Diameter, which Addition, and the Plaintiff given remedy only by Exception. 3 Car. 5. 570. 780. No Addition is necessary, where Processes of Ouiuslaw do not lie.

1 Sack. 5. If a City be a County of idobl, wherein are several Parishes, Addition thereof as of London is sufficient: But Admission of a Parish, not in a City, must mention the County, or it will not be good. 1 Davo.

Name, as of Westminster. 3 Sack. 40.

Abatement, (Abatement) is a Judicial Writ, commanding Enquiry to be made of any Thing relating to a Cause depending in the King's Courts. It is granted upon many Occasions for the better Execution of Judicials.

Adjournment, (Adjournament) The same with the French Word Adjournement, and signifies a putting off until another Day, or to another Place. As Ad-journement in Eyre, by Stat. 2 Ed. 3. is an appointment of a Day, when the Justices in Eyre will sit again. A Court, the Parliament, and Writs, &c. may be adjourn'd; and the Substance of the Adjournment of Courts, is to give Licence to all Parties that have any Thing to do in Court to forbear their Attendance till such a Time. Every last Day of the Term, and Every Eve of a Day in Term, which is not Dies Juridicis, or a Law-Day, the Court is adjourn'd; and it is usually done two Several Times, finishing the Court.
1 I. 96. The Terms may be adjourn'd to some other Place, and there the King's Bench and other Courts at Westminster be held: And if the King puts out a Proclamation for the Adjournment of the Term, this is a sufficient Warrant to the Keeper of the Great Seal to make out Writs accordingly; and Proclamation is to be made, appointing all Persons to keep their Day, at the Time and Place, to which, &c. 1. 6 Ed. 3.

should be there held. 3 Car. 5. 57. Anne 1 Car. 2.
The Court of B. R. was adjourned, because of the Number of the Plague; and from thence to Windnor: and afterwards to Westminster again. 1 Lev. 176. 178.
On a foreign Plea pleaded in Affidavit, &c. the Writ shall be adjourn'd into the Common Pleas to be tried; and after Adjournment, the Tenant may plead a new Plea pursuant to the Fith: But if he pleads in Abatement a Plea triable by the Affidavit, on which it is adjourn'd, he cannot plead in Bar afterwards, &c.
1 Davo. Ab. 249. The Justices of Affidavit have Power to adjourn the Parties to Westminster, or to any other Place; and by the express Words of Magna Charta cap. 12. they may adjourn, &c. into C. B. before the Judges there. 21 Ed. 14. If the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, &c. are divided in Opinion, two against two, upon a Demurrer or special Verdict, (not on a Motion) the Cause must be adjourn'd into the Exchequer Chamber, and the Cause adjourned by all the Judges of England. 3 Mod. 156. 5 Mod. 355. After Disolution or Prostration of Parliament, and after Adjournment for above fourteen Days, Affidavits may be prosecuted against Persons entitled to Privilege, &c.

Adjournment, (Adjournamenta) is a Writ brought for Remedy against each other, as if each Party had more than their Share, to bring them to Reason. It lies in two Cases: one is termed Adjournment of Dower (Ad-jouramenta Ditis) where a Man's Widow after his Decease holds from the Heir more Land, &c. as Dower, than of Right belongs to her: And the other is Adjournment of Palfrey (Adjournamenta Pahlfrey) which lies between those that have Common of Palfrey appertaining to their Freehold Estates, or Common by Vicinage, where any one or more of them forbear the Common. Req. Orig. 156. 171. In the first Case, the Heir shall have this Writ against the Widow, whereby the shall be adjourn'd, and the Heir referred to the Overplus; and in the last Case, it may be brought against all the other Commoners, and him that forsooth; for all the Commoners shall be adjourn'd. Terms of Ley 25. The Heir shall have a Writ of Adjournment of Dower, for Dower affigned in the Time of his Ancestor: And if an Heir within Age affigns unto the Wife more in Dower than the ought to have, &c. the Guardian in Right may have a Writ of Adjournment. But if the Guardian affigns Dower more than the ought to have, the Heir, during his Nonage, shall not have a Writ of Ad-jourment of Dower. 7 Hen. 2. 4. 7. Ed. 2. 2. 13. If the Wife after Adjournment of Dower do improve the Land, and make it better than it was at the Time of the Adjournment; an Adjournment doth not lie of who hath Common Appurtenant certain, or Common by certain Grant, shall be adjourn'd, and a Tenant shall have Adjournment against him: But he who hath a Common Appurtenant without Number, or Common in Grief without Number, shall be adjourn'd, or shall have Writ of Adjournment of Palfrey lie against him. If the Lord forsooth the Common, his Tenant must not have a Writ of Adjournment but an Affidavit of Common against the Lord. 18 Ed. 2.

cap. 50. And so if the Lord do make Improvement of of the Common. And it is said, that if the Tenant surcharge the Common, the Lord shall not have a Writ for his damages against him: but be may infringe the Surplusage Castle. On a second Surcharge of a Common, after Administration made, the Plaintiff shall recover his Damages against him that was Defendant in the First Writ, and also he shall forfet to the King the Castle which he put in over and above the due Number after the Administration made. Stat.

A Writ of Administration of Favour.

GEORGE the Second, 2 Ed. To the Sheriff of W.

Gent. An A. B. hath complained to us, that C. D. E. have unjustly surcharged their Common of Favour in, so far that in it they have more Beasts and Cattle, than they ought to have, and to them belonging with the other Tenants, which is contrary to the Writ of Surplusage, therefore ye shall forthwith Lay, that justly and without Delay, you cause the same Favour to be administered, as so fit C. D. E. may not have more Beasts and Cattle than they ought, and to them it belongs to have, according to the Freehold they have in the said Town; and that the said A. B. may have or keep in the same Favour so many Beasts and Cattle as it belongs to have there; that no more Clamour thereof we may bear, so.

Boministris, (Administrum) Signifies Aid, Help, or Support; being used to this Purpose, Stat. 1 Ed. 4.
cap. 1.

Boministratores, (Latim) Is one that hath the Goods of a Man dying Intestate committed to his Charge by the Ordinary, for which he is accountable when thereunto required. The Bishop of the Diocese where the Party dies is regularly to grant Administration: But when the Person dying hath Goods in several Dioceses, which are Bona mortuaria, Administration must be granted by the Archbishops in the Prerogative Court, or it will be void. 1 Plowd. 281.
An Administration may be granted, during a certain Time, or continually; and be as well upon Condition, as ab solo: And if a Man have Goods in two Provinces, and be a Will of his Goods in one of them; and die Intestate for those in the other, Administration may be granted for the Goods in that Province. Dyer 294. Plowd. 279. 1 Hob. 256.
And if one dies in Ireland, and has nothing but a Specialty for Money, which lies in England; the Ordinary of the Diocese within which the Place is that it is in, grants the Administration; and not the Ordinary of that Place that the Decease began.
1 Andere. 23. Velox. 29. 112. Non 13. When one dies without Child or Kindred, Administration may be granted by Letters Patent, by the King; but the Administrator ought to be admitted by the Ordinary.

Thing as an Administrator for whereby he justified himself of the Goods of the Intestate, was chargeable by the Name of Executor. 5 Rep. 82. But by the Stat. 51 Ed. 3. cap. 11. Authority was given to the Ordinary of every Diocese to appoint Administrators, to gather up and dispose of the Goods of the Deceased, so as they should account for the same as Executors.
Before this Statute, by the Statue of Wisn. 2. it was to have been the charge of the Intestate, should be committed to the Disposition of the Ordinary, who was bound to answer the Debits of the Deceased, as far as his Goods would extend. Administration must be granted, 18. To the Husband, of the Wife's Goods and Chattels. 2. To the Wife, of the Husband's Goods and Chattels. 3. If there be no Husband or Wife, to the Children, Sons or Daughters.

4. If there be no Children alive, to the Father or Mother. 5. Then to a Brother or Sister of the whole Blood, or the half Blood, if there be none such, to the next of Kin, as Uncle, Aunt, or Cousin.

But the Admiralty has Jurisdiction to try all such as live no Remedy; and all Maritime Causes, or Causes arising wholly upon the Sea, it hath Cognizance of. 5 Rep. The Admiralty hath Jurisdiction in Cases of Freights, Mariner's Wages, breach of Charter Parties, though made within the Realm; if the Penalty be not demanded: And likewise in Cafe of Building, Mending, Saving, and Vesselships, &c. by the Suit be against the Ship, and not only against the Parties, 2 Er. 216. Mariners' Wages are contracted on the Credit of the Ship, and they may all join in Suits in the Admiralty; whereas at Common Law they may not all meet any Ship contracts on the Credit of the Owners, and not of the Ship; and therefore he cannot prosecute in the Admiralty for his Wages. 1 Salk. 33. It is allowed by the Common Lawyers and Civilians, that the Lord Admiral hath Cognizance of Seams' Wages, and Contracts, and Debts for making Ships, all of Things done in navigable Rivers, concerning Demurrage to Persons, Ships, Goods, Annoynances of free Passage, &c. And of Contracts, and other Things done beyond Sea, relating to Navigation. 2 Inst. 75. But if a Contract be made beyond Sea, for doing of an Act or Payment of Money within this Kingdom; or the Contract is upon the Sea, and not for a Marine Cause, it shall be tried by the Court of Common Law, and Part to the Admiralty, the Common Law shall be preferred. And Contracts made beyond Sea, may be tried in B. R. and a Fact in B. R. is a Fact in a Third Place in the Jas. here tried. In 2 Bull. 532. Where a Contract is made in England, and there is a Conversion beyond Sea, the Party may sue in the Admiralty, or at Common Law. 4 Leon. 577. So where a Bond is made and delivered in France: An Obligation made at Sea, it has been held cannot be sued in the Admiralty's Court; because it takes its Course, and binds according to the Common Law. Hid. 11. The Court of Admiralty cannot hold Plea of a Matter arising from a Contract made upon the Land, tho' the Contract was concerning a Thing in Action: for the Admiralty may hold Plea for the Seams' Wages, &c. because they become due for Labour done on the Sea; and the Contract made upon the Land, is only to ascertain them. 3 Lev. 60. Though there is a special Agreement in Writing, by which Seams are to receive their Wages, in any other Manner than usual; or if the Agreement at Land be under Seal, so as to be more than a parol Contract, it is otherwise. 1 Salk. 31. See Hid. 79. If the Master and Mariners of a Ship, fitted out with Letters of Reprisal, without the Notice or Assent of the Owners commit Piracy, the Owners shall lose their Ship by the Admiralty Law. 1 Roll. Abr. 350. And if the Master pawn the Ship on the High Sea out of Nexerty for Tackling or Provision, without the Consent of the Owners, it shall bind them; but 'tis otherwise where the Ship is pawned for the Master's Debt: The Master can have no Credit abroad, but upon the Security of the Vessel; and the Admiralty gives Remedy in these Cases. 1 Salk. 35. Sale of Goods taken by Piracy in open Market, is not binding by the Admiralty Law, so that the Owner may resell them, but at Common Law. Sale of Goods is in breach of which the Admiralty must take Notice. 1 Roll. Abr. If Goods delivered on Shipboard are imballled, all the Mariners ought to contribute to the Satisfaction of the Party that holds his Goods, by the Maritime Law, and the Cause is to be tried in the Admiralty. 1 Litt. 568. By the Culsion of the Admiralty, Goods may be be attached in the Hands of a third Person, in Causa Maritime & Civile, and they shall be delivered to the Plaintiff after Defaults, on Caution to remove them, if the Defe, &c. be disproved in a Year and Day; and if any shall be the Goods, or Body, &c. of the Lands. F. A Man in Execution, on Judgment in the Admiralty's Court, upon a Contract made on the Land in New England was dischargesd, being out of the Admiralty Jurisdiction. 3 Cr. 603. 1 Cr. 695. And where Sailors Closshaws were bought in St. Katherine's Parish, near the Tower London, which were delivered in the Ship; on a Suit in the Admiralty for the Money, Prohibition was granted; for this was within the Country: So of a Ship lying at Blackwall, &c. Owen 122. Hughes Abr. 133. But the Admiralty may proceed against a Ship, and the Sails and Tackle, with all they are on Shore, altho' alledged to be deemed on Land: Yet upon alleging Offer of a Plea, claiming Property therein, and Refusal of the Plea, on this Supposition a Prohibition shall be had, 1 Shaw, 170. But a Man may not be removed from the Land by Execution on Land; tho' not bold Pleas of any Thing arising on Land. 4 Lev. 134. And upon Letters Miflove or Return of a Writ, and an Attachment, or Execution on a Judgment given beyond Seas, where an Executio busias comes or ever hither, by Imprisonment of the Party, who shall not be delivered by the Common Law, 5 Co. 130. When Sentence is given in a Foreign Admiralty, the Party may libel for Execution of that Sentence here; because all Courts of Admiralty in Europe are governed by the Civil Law. Sid. 418. Sentences are to be creditable, that oars may be credited there, and shall not be examined at Law here: But the King may be petitioned, who may caufe the Complaint to be examin'd; and if he find just Cause, may send to his Embassador where the Sentence was given, to demand Redress, and upon Failure thereof, will grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal. 2 Term. 473. If one be fired in the Admiralty, contrary to the Statutes 15 & 15 R. 2. he may have a Superfident, to caufe the Judge to stay the Proceedings, and also have Action against the Firing. 10 Lev. 111. A Ship being privately arrested by Admiralty Process only, and no Suit, it was adjudged a Prohibition within the Meaning of the Statutes: and Double Damages, &c. shall be recovered. 1 Salk. 31, 32. And if an erroneous Judgment is given in the Admiralty, Appeal may be had to Delegates appointed by Commission out of Chancery, whose Sentence shall be final. Stat. 8 Eliz. cap. 5. Appeals may be brought from the inferior Admiralty Courts, to the Lord High Admiral; But the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, hath Jurisdiction of Admiralty except from the Admiralty of England. By the Stat. 25 Car. 2. c. 5. His Majesty's Commission to all the Privy Councillors then and for the Time being, and to the Lord Chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer, the Judges of the King's Bench and Common Pleas, and Barons of the said Court of Exchequer, then for and for the Time being, for hearing and determining Appeals from Sentences in Causes and Prizes pronounced in the Courts of Admiralty, in any of his Majesty's Dominions, declared valid, although such Chief Baron, Judges and Barons are not of the Privy Council. But no Sentence shall be valid, unless a major Part of the Commissioners present be of the Privy Council.

F. A Million, (Admiss.) If when a Patron of a Church have by any open Examination, that admits the Clerk, by saying admissis adhibetur. He properly the Ordinary's Declaration that he approves of the Prefentee, to serve the Cure of the Church to which he is precent. C. Litt. 344. All Persons are to have Episcopal Ordination before they are admitted to any Parsonage or Benefice; and if any shall welcome to be admitted, not having such Ordination, &c. he shall forfeit 100l. Stat. 14 Car. 2. No Person is to be admitted into a Benefice with Cure of 30l. per Annum, in the King's Books, unless he is a Bachelor in Divinity at least, or a Preacher lawfully allowed by some Bishop, &c. Aton of the Cale will not lie against the Bishop, if he refuse to admit a Clerk to be qualified according to the Canons, (as for any Crime or Impediment, illiterature, &c.) but the Remedy is by Writ Quare nam admissit, or Admissit clericum brought in that County where the Refusal was. 7 Rep. 5.}

F. A Write where a Man has recovered his Right of Prenentation against the Bishop, Reg. Orig. 53. If a Man do recover his Prenentation in the Common Place against the Bishop, then he may have a Write to the same Bishop to admit his Clerk, or unto the Metropolitan: A Person recovers an Adven- tion, and 6 Months past: Yet if the Church be void, the Patron may have a Write to the Bishop: And if the Church is void when the Write comes to the Bishop, the Bishop is bound to admit the Clerk. 7 H. 8. 14 H. 4. Where a Man recovers against the Admon of the Bishop, this Write shall go to the Bishop; and the Party may have an Atias and a Pluries, if the Bishop do not execute the Write, and an Attachment, or the Bishop do not do it, if need be. New Nat. Br. 84. In a Quare Impedit between two Strangers, if there appears to the Court a Title for the King, they shall award a Write unto the Bishop, for the Bishop's要坚持.

F. A Write for associating certain Persons to Justices of Allsae. Reg. Orig. 206. Knights and other Gentlemen of the County, are usually associated with Judges in holding their Assizes on the Circuits.

F. A Write from the Latin Nichil, written of old Nichil, and signifies annulled, cancelled, or made void. Stat. 28 Hen. 8.

F. A Write to Damnum, is a Write which ought to be issued before the King grants certain Liberties, as a Fair, Market, &c. which may be prejudicial to others: It is directed to the Sheriff to inquire what Damage it may do, for the King to grant a Market, Fair, &c. Terms de Lay 25. This Write is likewise used to inquire of Lands given in Marriage to the House of Religion, &c. And it is a Damage to the Country, that a Freeholder who hath sufficient Lands to pass upon Assizes and Jury, should alien his Land in Mortmain, by which Alienation his Heir should not have sufficient Estate after the Death of the Father to be sworn in Assizes and Juries. F. N. B. 121. The Write Ad quod Damnum is also had for the Turning and Changing of ancient Highways; which may not be done without the King's Licence obtained by this Write, on Inquisition found that such Change will not be detrimental to the Publick. Vaugh. Rep. 341. Ways turned without this Authority, are not esteemed Highways so as to oblige the Inhabitants of the Hundred to make Amends for Robberies; nor have the Subjects an Interest therin to justify going there. 3 Co. 267. If any one change an Highway without this Authority, he may stop the Way at his Pleasure. But see the Statue 8 Eliz. c. 3. c. 16. for enlarging of Highways by Order of Justices of Peace, &c. Where any common Highway shall be included after a Write of Ad quod Damnum executed, any Person aggrieved by such Inclosure, may complain to the Justices of the next Quarter-Sessions; but if no such Complaint or Appeal be made, then the Inquisition and Return, recorded by the Clerk of the Highway, shall be for ever binding. 8 &q. W. 3. It appears by the Writs in the Register, that in ancient Times, upon every Grant, Confrma.
Confirmation, &c. or Licence made by the King, first a Writ of Ad quod Damnum was to be awarded, to inquire of the Truth thereof, and what Damage the King might have by the same: But now the Practice is contrary; and in the Patent of common Grants of Licence, are put in the End these Words — Et hoc autem sibi hac quidem Damnum non est auctoritatem habend. sed hanc praevent. &c.

A Writ of Ad quod Damnum.

G E O R G E the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of the County of W. Greeting: We command you, that by the Oath of him self and lawful Men of your Bailiwick, or of your County, by whom the Truth of the Matter may be better known, diligently you inquire, whether it will be to the Damage or Prejudice of us, or others, if you grant to C. D. our Fair at, &c. And if it will be to the Damage or Prejudice of us or others, then to what Damage or Prejudice of us, and to what Damage and Prejudice of others, and of whom, and in what Manner, and by whom it was made, do you find without Delay, and this Writ. Sufficient, Adverter, i. e. ad rem ire, rei Stare. To do right, satisfy or make Amends. Gr. Dorset. 2675. 1750.

Statute, [Advert.] A Time containing about a Month preceding the Feast of the Nativity of our Saviour Christ. It begins from the Sunday that falls either upon St. Andrew's Day, being the 30th of November, or next to it, and continues to the Feast of Christ's Nativity commonly called Christmas. Our Ancients showed great Reverence and Devotion to this Time, it is to the Approaches who pleads the Festive: For in advento Domini nulla est debito capi. Inst. placiens de temp. Regis Joh. Ebor. 126. But the Statute Ep. 1. cap. 48. orders that notwithstanding standing the usual Solemnity and Times of Rest, it should be lawful (in Respect of Justice and Charity, which ought at all Times to be regarded) to take Affites of Novel Diffidant, Mari d'Avole, &c. in the Time of Advent, Septuagesima, and Lent. This is also one of the Seasons, from the Beginning of which to the End of the Octaves of the Epiphany, the Solemnizing of Marriages is forbidden, without special Licence, as we may find from these old Veris, Conjugium Adventus prohibet, Hilarique relaxs; Septuagesima scintis, sed Pacis Ometr reducts; Regos octaves, concilis Triis potestas.

Adventus Inplicimentum, A Writ mentioned in the Statute 12 Ed. 2. See Ventus Inplicimentum, by which a Woman is to be searched, whether the be with Child by a former Husband, on her with holding Lands from the Heir.

Adventure, A Thing sent to Sea, the Adventure whereof the Person sending it, stands to Out and Home. Lex. Mercat. Vide Aventure.

Adversity, To justify or maintain an Action formerly done. For Example: One takes a Difiert for Rent, and he that is disstrained is a Replevin; now two married Perfons; and if but one of the Perfons be married, it is nevertheless Adversity: But in this last Case, it is called single Adversity, to distinguish it from the other, and such a Person is to be punished by the Laws of God, and the ancient Laws of the Land; The Julian Laws, among the old Romans, made it Death; but in most Countries at this Time, the Punishment is by Fine, and sometimes Banishment: In England it is punished by Fine, Pen- nance, &c. King Edmund a Saxo, Leg. fuar cap. 4. Adversitas jure injusta inferit Homicidi. And General, Homicidi jure injusta inferit Homicidi. And General, Homicidi jure injusta inferit Homicidi. And General, Homicidi jure injusta inferit Homicidi.

Ad
Nowavment and Advocacy. Old Stat. Br. 45. The Signification of this Word is also to bring forth any Thing; Anciently when stolen Goods were bought by one, and fold to another, it was lawful for the Right Owner to take them where ever they were found; and he in whole Possession they were found, was bound advoc-care, i.e. to produce the Seller to justify the Sale and so on till they found the Thief. Afterwards the Word was taken for any Thing which a Man acknowledged to be his own, or done by him, and in this Sense it is mentioned in Flora. lib. 1. cap. 5.
par. 4. Si vir iuram in domo sua jurecipit, materiis & advocavit filiam suam.

Adovator, Or Advocates, (Advocates) is used for him that hath Right to pretend to a Benefice: And by 25 Ed. 3. Stat. 6. we are Advocates Paramount is taken for the King, the highest Patron.—Advocacus & param preferent, i.e. Advocatus alius Exec-itus, ut ad Ecclesiam, nonius propriis non aliis, pugna pretentiae. Fleta lib. 5. c. 14.

Adovator, (Advocatus) Signifies the Right of Prefer-tation to the Church or Benefice Land: he who hath this Right to pretend is filed Patron; because they that originally obtained the Right of Preferation to any Church, were Advocates of, or Benefactors to the same Church. When the Christian Religion was first established in England, Kings began to build Cathedral Churches, and so make Bishops; and so forthwards, in Imposition of them, several Lords of Manors founded particular Churches on some Part of their own Lands, and endowed them with Glebe, reverting to themselves and their Heirs, a Right to prefer a fit Person to the Bishopric, where the same should become void: And this is called an Adovorius, and he that hath this Right of Preferation is termed the Patron, it being presumed that he who was founded the Church, will Adovor and take it into his Protection, and be a Patron to defend it in its just Rights.
1 Niff. Abr. 184. Adovorius are of two Kinds: Appendant, and in Gross: Appendant, is a Right of Preferation dependent upon a Manor, Lands, &c. and passes in a Grant of the Manor as incident to the same; and when Manors were first created, and Lands et aliorum to build a Church on some Part thereof, the Adovorius or Right to pretend to that Church became appendant to the Manor. Adovorius in Gross, is a Right by filing only, belonging to a Person, and not a Manor, Lands, &c. So that when an Adovorius appendant is feigned by Deed or Grant from the corporal Inheritance to which it was appent, then it was held in Gross. 1 Ed. 131. 122. Ali Adovorii are either Preffentive, Collaborative, or Donative. Adovorius were formerly unto them appended, and to Persons of Capitular Bedriors; the Lordship of the Manor, and Patronage of the Church were seldom in different Hands till Adovorious were given to religious Houses; but of late Times the Lordship of the Manor, and the Adovorius of the Church have been divided; and now not only Lords of Manors, but mean Persons have, by Purchase, the Dignity of Masters of Churches, to the great Prejudice thereof. By the Common Law the Right of Patronage is a real Right fixed in the Persons or Founders, and their Heirs, wherein they have as absolute a Proper to the Manor lands in his hands to be the Pretentions: For Adovorius are a Temporal Inheritance, and Lay Fee: they may be granted by Deed or Will,
and are Affr. in the Hands of Heirs or Executors.
1 Ed. 131. 122. Ali Adovorii may be endowed in an Ac-voius: A Wife may be endowed of it: A Huspand Tenant by the Curtesy: and it may be forfeited by Twelvemonths: If an Adovorius defends to Coopartners, and the Church after the Death of their Ancestors becomes void, the elded Siller shall file pret. Stat. 21 Ed. 3. And when Coparkners, Jointholders are feigned an Adovorius, and Partition is made to pretend by Turn; each shall be feigned of their separate Estate. 7 Ann.
An Infant may pretend to a Church; and where an Adovorius belongs to a Perme Covert, the Pretence must be by Husband and Wife. 1 Ed. 135. Persons feigned of Adovorius being Papists, are disabiled to make Preferment, and the Chancellors of the Universities shall pretend. 1 W. & M. cap. 26. And Prefer-tions to Adovorius, &c. for Money or other Reward, shall be void, &c. Stat. 31 Eliz. c. 6. 7th Preferment, Simony, &c.

Adovorius of the Majesty the Church, (Advoc-atus mediatis Ecclesie) Is there where are two several Patrons, and two several Incumbents in one and the same Church, the one of the one Majesty, the other of the other Majesty thereof. C. Litt.
Medius Advocatus, a Majesty of the Adovorius, is where two majors join in the Preferment, and there is but one Incumbent: as there were two Patrons; And though they agree to pretend by Turns, yet each of them hath but the Majesty of the Church. 1 Ed. 17.

Adovorius of Religious Houses, Where any Persons founded any House of Religion, they had thereby the Adovorius or Preference thereof, like unto those who built and endowed a Church: And from time times these Patrons had the sole Nomination of the Abbot, or Prior, &c. either by Invention or Delivery of a Pastoral Staff: Or by direct Preferment to the Diocesan; or if a free Election were left to the Religious, a Conge d'Effier, or Licence for Election, was first to be obtained of the Patron, and the Elect Aretie, (Aretia aciprimum) Are of Gotshawks, is in the proper Term for Hawks, for that which of other Birds we call a Neft. Stat. 31 Eliz. c. 12. And it is generally said to come from the French Word Arre, a Hawke's Nest. The Liberty of keeping these Aretie Hawks was a Privilege, granted to great Persons:

And the preferring the Aretie in the King's Forests was one Sort of Tenure of Lands by Service. Anno Aemulatio Capitis, (Pretium Honorum) King Abel-china ordained that Finns should be paid for Offences committed against several Persons according to their Degrees and Quality, by Emulation of their Heads.

Aemulatio, (Aemula) A Writ that lay to inquire, Whether the King's Tenure being chief by Chivalery, were of full Age to receive his Lands into his own Hands. It was directed to the Eleazar of the County; but to no Effects, since Wards and Libraries are taken away by the Statute. Reg. Orig. 294.

affirm. They are those that in Courts-Lex upon Oath testify and moderate the Finns and Amercements imposed on such Persons as have committed Fauls arbitrarily punishable, viz. that have no express Penalty appendant by Statute. And they are also appointed for moderating Amencements in Courts-Baron. The Persons nominated to this Office, affirm on their Oaths what Penalty they think in Consideration ought to be inflicted on the Offenders. This Word is used Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 6. 7. Where Mention is made, that the Judges before their Riling in every Session, shall cause the Amercements to be afferrt.
And this Term is to be considerably with Magno Chari which is ordained, that Persons are to be amerced after the Manner of the Fault; and the Amercements that are to be afferrt by the Oath of such and lawful Men of the Viceinage. 9 Hen. 3. cap. 14.

Affidavit. The Pleading of Truth between a Man and a Woman, upon Agreement of Marriage: It is derived from the Late Word Affidavit, and signifies as much as fidel ad alium dare. Lit. Sect. 39.

To prove one's Faith, or give, or swear Felicity, i.e. Fidelity, MS. Don. de Faucon 22.

Affidavit and a Woman, upon Agreement of Marriage: It is derived from the Late Word Affidavit, and signifies as much as fidel ad alium dare. Lit. Sect. 39.

To prove one's Faith, or give, or swear Felicity, i.e. Fidelity, MS. Don. de Faucon 22.

Matti. See Affidavit ad Arma. To be maledict and installed for Soldiers upon an Oath of Fidelity. Lit. Sect. 55.

Matti. Signifies in Law an Oath in Writing; and to make Affidavit of a Thing, is to testify it upon Oath. An Affidavit generally speaking is an Oath in Writing, sworn before some Person whom authority to take such Oath: And the true Place of Habitation, and true Addition of every Person who shall make such Affidavit, is to be inserted into his Affidavit.

Lill Jr. 44. 46. Affidavit oaths ought to be set forth the Matter of Fact only, which the Party intends to prove by his Affidavit; and not to declare the Merits of the Cause, of which the Court is to judge. 21 Car. 1. B. R. The Plaintiff or Defendant may make Affidavit in a Cause depending; but it will not be admitted in Evidence at the Trial, only upon Motion. Lill Jr. 44. When an Affidavit hath been read in Court, it ought to be filed, that the other may see it, and take a Copy of it. Pieb. 1655. An Affidavit taken before a Master in Chancery, will not be of any Force in the Court of King's Bench, or other Courts, nor ought to be read there; for it ought to be made before one of the Judges of the Court wherein the Cause is depending. See Barr. 55. But by Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 5. The Judges of the Courts at Westminster by Commission may imploy Persons in the several Counties of England to take Affidavits concerning Matters depending in their several Courts, as Masters in Chancery extraordinary used to do. Where Affidavits are taken by Commissioners in the Country, according to the Statute 29 Car. 2. and it express'd to be in a Cause depending between two certain Persons, and there is no such depending, those Affidavits cannot be read, because the Commissioners have no Authority to take them; and for that Reason the Party cannot be convicted of Perjury upon them; but if there is such a Cause in Court, and Affidavits taken concerning some collateral Matter, they may be read. Gall. 61. There being one Affidavit against another relating to a Judgment, the Matter was referred to a Trial at Law upon a feigned Issue, to satisfy the Confidences of the Court as to the Fact alleged. Camb. 399. No dilatory Plea shall be received in any Court, unless the Truth thereof be made out by Affidavit or some probable Matter be thrown to believe the Fact. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. Affidavits are usually for certifying the Service of Process, or other Matters touching the Proceedings in a Cause.

Affrumenta, (Afferiture) To turn Ground into a Fort. Court. de Forref. c. 1. When Forref Ground is turned into another Use, it is called Dif- affrument. Vide Fortref.

Affray, is derived from the Fr. Word Affrayer, to affright, and it formerly meant no more; as where Persons appeared with Armour or Weapons not usually worn, to the Terror of others. Stat. 2 Ed. 3. c. 3. But now it signifies a Skirmish or Fighting between two or more, and there must be a Stroke given, or offered, or a Weapon drawn, otherwise it is not an Affray. 3 Stat. 13. It is impossible in the Court-Lect; and punishable by Judices of Peace in their Sections, by Fine and imprisonment. And it is derived from Afframent, in that it is a Wrong to the Publick; whereas Afframent is of a private Nature, Lamb. lib. 2. A Judge of Peace may commit Affrayers, until they find Satisfries of the Peace. A Complainant may require Affrayers to depart, and if they refill, he may call others to his Assistance; who, if they refuse to assist him, may be fined and imprisoned. And if he so refuses to Peron, or Stander-by, may put a Stop to an AFFRAY, and seize the Offenders, where Persons are assembled in a tumultuous Manner to break the Peace, 5 Stat. 128. H. P. C. 135. take the Oath of Allegiance to the King: At Fourteen, which is his Age of Discretion, he may confer to Marriage, and at Twenty-one he may alien his Lands, Goods and Chattels: A Woman at nine Years of Age is dovable; at Twelve the may confess to Marriage at Fourteen, the is at Years of Discretion, and may chuse a Guardian; and at Twenty-one she may alienate her Lands, &c. 1 Inf. 78. There are several other Ages mentioned in our ancient Books, relating to the Age of the Lord, Wardship, &c. now of no Use. Co. Litt. The Age of Twenty-one is the full Age of Man or Woman, which enables them to contract and manage for themselves, in Refect to their Estates, until which Time, they cannot act with Security to those as care with them; for their Acts are in mdc Caes either void, or voidable. But a Person under Twenty-one, may contract for Necessaries fallable to his Quality, and it shall bind him: Also one under Age may be Executor of a Will. 1 Inf. 171. And at Fourteen Years of Age a Person may dispose of Goods and Personal Estate by Will; tho' not of Lands till the Age of Twenty-one. It hath been adjudged, that if one be born on the 1st of February at Eleven o'clock at Night, and the last Hour of the Year in the One of the New Year at One o'clock in the Morning, he makes his Will of Lands, &c. and dies: yet such Will is good, for he then was of Age. Med. Caf. 362. A Person under the Age of Twenty-one may make a Purchase; but at his full Age he may agree or disagree to it. 1 Inf. 4. Where Persons marry, the Man under the Age of Fourteen, or the Woman within Twelve, they may disagree to the Marriage at those Ages: And the Law is the same in other Cases. Persons under the Age of Fourteen, are not generally punishable for Crimes: But if they do any Trespass, they must answer for the Damage. 1 Inf. 347. 2 Rol. Abr. 947. Fourteen is the Age by Law to be a Witness; and in some Caes a Person of nine Years of Age hath been allowed to give Evidence. 1 Han. 434. None may be a Member of Parliament under the Age of Twenty-one Years; and no Man can be ordained Priest till Twenty-four; nor be a Bishop till thirty Years of Age.

Age of Adults, (Aestatem precari or Eligius precari) Is when an Action being brought against a Person under Age for Lands which he hath by Deeds, he by Petition or Motion shews the Matter to the Court, and pays that the Action may stay till his full Age, which the Court generally allows. Term. de Leg. 306. But as a Purchaser, a Minor shall not have Age Prior: Not in a Writ of Affidavit, because it is of his own Wrong, and this the Writ shall not be delayed; or in a Writ of Dower; or of Partition. Stat. 3 Eliz. 1. 3 Ed. 3. 354. And in a Writ of Debt against an Heir, he shall have his Age, for at full Age he may plead Bona fide Defens. or a Release to his Ancestor, and be discharged. Dec. Abr. 319. See Part 1 Duumner.

Agentia, The true Lord or Owner of any Thing—Si person non fuerit in qua quaelibet in adegnificatis, solum legum. In e. 50. apud Brompt. c. 45.

Agst. (Agent. Fr. Agst.) A Gard at an Inn after three Nights, when accounted one of the Family. See Highbinder.

Agent and Patient, Is when a Person is the Doer of a Thing, and the Party to whom done: As where a Woman enlows a Brief of the best Part of her Husband's Possessions, this being the sole Act of herself to herself, makes her Agent and Patient. Also if a Man be indented unto another, and afterwards hire himself to the creditor his Executor, and dies, the Executor may retain so much of the Goods of the Deceased as will satisfy his Debt; and by this Retainer he is Agent and Patient, that is, desired to do and the Person that pays the name. But a Man shall not not be Judge in his own Castle. Quid iniuriam eff alium fuit est fiet iuriferum. 8 Rep. 138.

Agitb. Signifies to be free from Penalitit, not subject to the customary Fine or Impoision. Sax. a Gild, Sugar, Silver, Liberty. Lagae, Legae, cap. 6. [is a gate officia to occidatur, pro eo quod contra Dei reatum & Reip. imperium Stat—] jacet Agild. In Lex. Hen. 1. c. 88. Agilda was a Peron to vile, that whoever kill'd him was to pay no blood for his Death.

Agiter. From the Sax. a gilt, an Observer or Informer.

Affiliation. A Hey-ward, Hard-ward, or Keeper of Cattle in a common Field. Towns and Villages had their Heywards, to superintend and guard the greater Cattle or common Herd of Kine and Oxen, and keep them within due Bounds; and if these were over-come, the Tenants, they were privileged from all customary Services to the Lord, because they were presumed to be always attending their Duty, as a Shepherd on his Flock. And Lords of Manors had likewise their Heywards to take care of the Tillage, Wurft-Work, &c. and see that there were no Incroachments made on the Lenten, or to the south of the Ridings of Baffins. Kennet's Paroch. Antq. 154, 576.

Agift, (from the Fr. Gilt, a Bed or Refiting Place) Signifies to take in and feed the Cattle of Strangers in the King's Field, and to gather up the Horse due for the same. Court. des Fors, fl. 3. c. 9. The Officers appointed for this Purpose are called Agifiers, or Gifters, and are made by the King's Letters Patents. There are four of them in every Forest where in the King hath any Pannage. Manw. for Laws 80. They are also called Affiters, to take Account of the Castle aged.

Agiment, (Agimentum) is where other Men's Cattle are taken into any Ground, at a certain Rate per Week: it is so called, because the Cattle are suffered agifer, that is to be latent and content there; and many great Farms are employed to this Purpofe. 2 Inf. 643. Our Graziers call Cattle which they thus take in to keep Gifmentes; and to gift or juice the Ground, is when the Occupier thereof feeds it not with his own Stock, but takes in the Cattle of others to agifer or pasture it. Agimentum is likewise the Profit of such Feeding in a Ground or Field: And extends to the Depaupuring of barren Cattle of the Owner, for which Tithes shall be paid to the Parson. There is Agimentum of Scar-Banks, where Lands are charged with a Relatin, or Reeve; Agifer are barren Lands whose Owners are bound to keep up the Sea-Banks. Spelm. in Romney-Mayh.

Agcindum. The Drift of Beasts in the Forest. Leg. Forf.

Agtna Brit. A Piece of white Wax in a flag oval Form, like a small Cake, flam'd with the Figure of the Lamb, and confecrated by the Pope. Agtna Dei, Crofts, &c. are not permitted to be brought into this Kingdom, on Pain of a Penaunitu. Stat. 13 Eth. c. 2.

Aggrarius Leg. A Law made by the Roman for Division of Lands among the common People.

Agreement, Agreement (agreement mentum) Signifies a joining together of two or more Minds in any Thing, to be done. Prow. 17. It is Threefold: 1. An Agreement executed already at the Beginning; as where Money is paid for the Thing agreed, or other Satisfaction made. edly, An Agreement after an Act done by another; as where one doth such a Thing, and another Person agrees to it afterwards, which is executed also: And edly, An Agreement executory, or to be performed in future. This last Sort of Agreement shall be divided into two Parts; one certain at the Beginning, and the other when the Certainty not appearing at first, the Parties agree that the Thing shall be performed upon the Certainty known. Termi de Ley 51. Every Agreement ought to be performed, full, and complete, being the mutual Consent of the Parties; and should be executed with a Recompence, or be so certain as to be evidence of a deceit. Remedy thereon. Prow. 5. Any Thing under Hand and Seal, which imports an Agreement, will amount to a Covenant; And a Proviso, by Way of Agreement, amounts likewise to a Covenant; and Actions may be brought upon them. 1 Lev. 155. An Agreement being put in Writing only for Remembrance, doth not change its Nature; but if it be put in Writing and delivered, it is of greater Force. Hob. 79. Where an Agreement for the Purchase of Lands, being in Writing, and signed by both the Parties, but not sealed; it was held good in Chancery, and decreed to be executed. Though where a Person gives a Guineas, &c. Earnest, without Agreement in Writing it is otherwise. Prew. Case. 16, 560. A Note of an Agreement signed by one Party only, will bind both in Equity: So it is of Agreements in Part executed, by delivering possession of the Lands, tho' neither Party sign them. Ab. Con. Eq. 21. But if the Deed in Possession or Reversion be made to me, I must agree to it, before it will be settled; for I may refuse, and so avoid it: A Realine, Deed or Bond, is made and delivered to another to my Use, this will not in me without any Agreement of mine: but if I disagree to it, I make the Deed void. Dyer 167. And regularly where a Man hath by his own Deed, or the Party himself, he can never after agree—An Obligation being made to my Use, and tendered to me, if I refuse it, and after agree again and will accept it; now this Agreement afterwards, will not make the Obligation good, that was void by the Refusal. Con. Litt. 79. 5 Rep. 119. An Agreement may be as well in the Party's Absence, as in his Presence; but a Disagreement must be to the Peron he is to whom the Deed was made. 2 Rep. 588. When an Estate is made to a Form Convene, it is good till Disagreement without any Agreement of the Husband; tho' a new Estate granted to the Wife where the husband an Estate before, as by the taking of a new Lease, and making a Surrender in Law, will not vest till the Husband agree to it. Hob. 204. A forced Agreement of the Party is accounted no Agreement, and therefore he that did agree to the Thing, shall not be compelled to perform it. 1 Litt. 42. An Agreement made only by Parson, may be discharged and made void, at any Time before the prejudice of the other Party; but not after it is broken, when an Injury is done. 24 Car. i. B. R. Agreements are to be in Writing, by Stat. 10, Car. 2. cap. 1. of Pren. and other Infinite Injuries: And by the Common Law, are governed by the Intention, or as near as it may be. If an Agreement be in the Nature of a Penalty, the Courts of Equity will not relieve against it; for the Terms shall be judged the Measure of Satisfaction to the Parties. Preced. Cas. 102. See Contract.

In Wintz, etc.

As for, In our Law, denotes stable Land in the common Fields. Farcare.

30th, (Aquitan) Is all one with the French Land, and is generally understood to be a Sobidy granted to the Crown. By the ancient Law of the Land, the King and any Lord of the Realm, might lay an Ad upon their Tenants, for Knitting an elder Son, or Marriage of a Daughter; but this was taken away by this Imposition, from which it was never lifted in former Times, seems to have defcoded to us Normanly, or rather from the feudal Laws. Grand Cypen. c. 55. It is said to differ from Tax in signification; for Taxes were aniently levied at the Will of the Lord, upon any Occasion whatsoever, but Ad could not be levied but where it was to be levied for an ulterior purpose to make the elder Son a Knight, marry the elder Daughter, or to redeem the Lord from Pleon. By Sextane 14 Ed. 1. It is ordain'd that the King shall levy no Ad or Tax without his Parliamet. For the last can be ordered by the King and by hisParliamet. (Aquitan Pettr) A Word made use of in Appealing, for a Person in Court to call in Help from another Person that has an Interest in the Thing considered: This gives Strength to the Party paying in Ad, and to the other likewise, by giving him an Opportunity of avoiding a Prejudice growing towards his own Right. As Tenant for Life, by the Curter, for Term of Years, etc. being impeded, may pray in Ad of him in Reversion; that is, before the Court that he may be called by way of Appeal to what he thinketh himself, for the Benefit of the Seaman, Peron calling him, and of his own. F. N. B. 50. Ad shall be granted to the Defendant in Ejection for the Sake of the Question: Left for Years, shall have Ad in Trefasai and Tenants at Will: But Tenant in Tall shall not have Ad of him in Remainder in Fees; for he himself hath Inheritance. Dean. 193. In a Writ of Tenpvia, the Avoerty being for a real Service; Ad is granted before Isle; and in Action of Trefasai after Isle joined, if there be Cavi, it shall be had for the Defendant, the sever for the Plaintiff. Just. Corn. 64. F. N. 7. There ought to be Privity between a Person that joins in Ad and the other to whom he is joined; otherwise Jointor in Ad shall not be suffered. Dean. 318. There is a Prayer in Ad of Patrons, by Patron, Vicars, etc. And between Coparceners, where one Coparcener shall have Ad of the other to recover Fees, etc. C. Litt. 183. And also Servants, having done any Thing lawfully in Right of their Majesties, shall have Ad of them. Terms of Law 54.

31st of the King, (Aquitan Regis) Is where the King is Tenator, and an Account of Rent demanded of him by others. A City or Borough, that hold a Fes-land of the King, if any Thing be done in it contrary to law, they may pray in Ad of the King: And the King's Bailiffs, Collectors, or Accountants shall have Ad of the King. In their Causes, the Proceedings are sopplid till the King's Counsel are heard to say what they think fit, for avoiding the King's Prejudice: And this Ad, shall not in any Case be granted after Isfe; for the King ought to rely on his own Laws, and not on another. Just. Corn. 64. Terms of Law 55. Stat. Ed. 1 & 14 Ed. 3.

32nd, (of the French Land, i.e. Jews) Signifies a Writ which lies where a Man's Grandfather or Great Grandfather (called Bezal) was being held of Feuds and Tenements in Fee-Simple, the Day that he died, and a Stranger abated or entered the same Day, and dispossessed the Heir of his Inheritance. F. N. B. 222. The Aunt and the Niece shall join in a Writ of Ad of the Seiln of their Grandfather. And the Writ runs thus: Rex Vic. etc. Praxis A. B. s. in Ad, etc. redd. B. & D. annu Miftanges, etc. de quere, D. Anus praed. B. & praeus Pred. D. cusaret. isfis, isfis, etc.

40th, Albermann, (See. Felderamn, Lie. Albermann) Hath the same Signification as the Word, or Shew. But at this Day, and long since, they are called Albersmen who are Assigns to the Civil Magistrate of the City or Town Corporary. Stat. 14 & 15 15 Ed. 3. An Albersman ought to be an inhabitant of the Place, and Resident where he is chosen; and if he removes, he is incapable of doing his Duty in the Government of the City or Place, for which he may be discharded. 4. Med. 36. Albermann Langham was a Freeman of the City of London, and chose Albermann of such a Ward, and being nominated to the Court of Aldermen he appeared, and the oath to serve the Office was tendered to him, but he refused to take it, in Contempt of the Court, etc. whereupon he was committed to Newgate, and it was held good. March Rep. 179. The Aldermen of London, etc. are exempted from serving inferior Offices; nor shall they be put upon Affairs, or serve on Juries, so long as they continue to be Aldermen. 2. 187. In Solomon's Glossary we find that we had antiently a Title of Albermannius tonsor Angliae; Winesett this Inscription on a Tomb in Romsey Abbey,—his episcopis D. Albermann incolae Regi. tonsor Angliae tonsor Amiens, etc. dux darrensam, & Josue Sacri Canodi mirificaeque Paulustor. And this Officer was in the Nature of Lord Chief Justice of England. And there was one of the Degrees of Nobility among the Saxons, and signified an Earl; sometimes applied to a Place, it was taken for a General, with a Civil Jurisdiction as well as eit Binary Power; which Title afterward was used for a Judge to set out no more than Lower.

38. (Abiais, Abiennes) One born in a strange Country, out of the Allegiance of the King: It is taken out of the forces, but he is not a natural Subject. But a Man born out of the Land, so as it be within the Limits of the King's Obedience beyond Sea; or born of English Parents out of the Obedience of the King, if the Parents at the Time of the Birth were of fisch Obedience, is no Als. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 2. And if his Wife or Children, come and reside in England, his Children begotten and born here are not Als but Denizens. 7 Rep. All Persons being the King's Natural-born Subjects, may inherit, an Heirs to the Crown, and all the Persons who are entitled to succeed the King are Als, by Statute 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 6. Children of an Ambassador in a Foreign Country, by a Wife being an English Woman, by the Common Law, are natural-born Subjects, and not Als. 7 Rep. 11. And if an English Merchant living beyond Sea marries a Wife there, and hath a Child by her, and dies, this Child is not a Denizen, and shall be heir to him, notwithstanding the Wife be an als. Cr. Car. 605. March 91. Those which are born in the English Plantations, are Subjects born. Down. Abr. 212. There are two Incidents regularly that are necessary to make a Subject born; First, That his Parents, at the Time of his Birth, be under the actual Obedience of the King; Secondly, That the Place of his Birth, be within the King's Dominions, 7 Rep. 8. And it is the Place of Birth that makes the Disability of an Als to have Lands, &c. The Blood is not the Disability, but the Place of Birth, 3519. Als can hold no Land by Defeat or Purchase, or be Tenant by the Curtesy, or in Dower. 3 Rep. 507. An Als may purchase a House for Years, for Habitation during his Life, though it be not in one of the said places, tho' not Lands. If an Als, being a Merchant, leaves the Realm, the King shall have the Lease; and if he dies here poissed thereof, his Executors or Administrators shall not have, but the King; he having it only as an Habitation for his Trade. If an Als is no Merchant, the King shall have his Lease for Years, tho' it were for his Habitation. 7 Rep. 18. 1 inst. 1292. 2 inst. 741. In Case an Als purchase Lands, the King upon Office found, shall have it. 1 inst. 2 Als are prohibited to purchase Benefices, without the King's License, nor the Stat. 7. c. 12. A Device of Lands to an Als is void. 4 13e. 82. And if a Man be bound to an Als Enemy in an Obligation, the Bond is void to him; but the King will have it. 2 13e. 59. Down. Abr. 332. Aldhouses, Alhonna (formerly called Lignaneus, from the Latin Allegiantis & Ligare, i.e. Lignaneus Fidei) is the sworn Allegiance, or Faith and Obedience, which every Subject owes to his Prince. It is either perpetual, where one is a Subject born; or where one hath the Right of a Subject by Naturalisation, or it is Temporary, by Reason of Residence in the King’s Dominions. To Subjects born, it is an Indedent invariable; and as soon as born they owe it by Birth-right Obedience to their Sovereign: And it cannot be confined to any Kingdom, but follows the Subject wherever he goes. The Subjects are hence called Ligny People, and are bound by this Allegiance to go with the King in his Wars, as well within as without the Kingdom. 1 Inf. 2, 393. 2 Inf. 741.

All Persons above the Age of Eighteen Years, are to be required to take the Oath of Allegiance in Courts-Leet. And there are several Statutes requiring the Oath of Allegiance and Supremacy, to be taken under Penalties: Judges of Peace may summon Persons above the Age of Eighteen Years, to take their Oaths. 1 Eliz. 1 W. & M. &c. 21 Eliz. Absolving any Persons from their Allegiance, is High Treason, by 1 & 21 Eliz.

Albicans, Signifies Nourishment or Maintenance: And in a legal Sense, it is taken for that Allowance which a married Woman does for and is entitled to, upon any occasional Separation from her Husband. Term. de Leg. 38. Where a Woman is divoered a Mensa & Thora, she may sue her Husband in her own Name for Alimony or Maintenance out of the Husband’s Property, first in the Chancery or Spiritual Court; and it will be allowed, except be in Cases of Elopement and Adultery. 1 Inf. 395. But the Spiritual Court is the proper Court to sue in for Alimony: And the not allowing a Wife Maintenance, is not an Offence within the Statute 1 Eliz. but a Neglect of the Husband’s Duty, and a Breach of his Vow. 27 Rep. 30. A Man may be feed in the Spiritual Court for Beating his Wife, and he may be ordered to pay her so much per Week. But Prohibition hath been granted by B. R. in such Cafe; and the Wife may have Suits of the Peace for unreasonable Beating her. Trin. 1 Tact. 1. Mor. 974. Alimony was asswntly expressed by Re-nahable Eorumium, Reasonable Maintenance.

immoner, or Shmonen, (Eloeminusarius.) An Officer of the King's House, whose behaviour it is to distribute the daily Dishes. He ought to admonish the King to bellow his Alms, especially upon Saints Days and Holydays: and he is likewise to visit the Sick, Widows that are poor, Prisoners and other necessitous Persons, to relieve them under the pretence of the Want; for which purpose, he hath the Fortresses of Declands, and the Goods of Riches to give, allowed him by the King. To this, the Lord Almoner has the Disposition of the King's Dishes, after it comes from the Table, which he may give to whom he pleases: and he distributes Fourpence, Meat, Brede, and a Gallon of Beer; or instead thereof Three-pence daily at the Court-gate to Twenty-four poor Persons of the King's Parish, to each of them that Allowance. This Officer is usually some Bishop.

Aimtor, or Aimmeson, Saxon for Almen-Hony: It has been taken for what we call Peter-Pence, first given by the King of the West Saxons, and annually paid in England on the first of August. It was likewise called Romesun, Romesfest, and Heropingest. Seladam's Hill, Tithes 217.

Almanoid, (French Almanoe.) Signifies a Menager, particularly the Measuring with an Ell. Stat. 17 Ed. 4. cap. 5. and Almaneg, (French Alme, Latin Uniger.) Is properly a Menager by the Ell; and the Word Acid in French signifies an Ell. An Almaneg with us is a publick sworn Officer of the King's, whose duty it is to count the Cloth, made throughout the Land, and to fix Seals upon them; and another Branch of his Office is to collect a Subsidy or Almaneg Duty granted to the King. He has his Power by Stat. 25 Ed. 5. and several other ancient Statutes; which appoint his Fees, and inflict a Penitence for putting his Seal to deceitful Cloth, &c. win. a Forfeiture of his Office, and the Value. 47 Est. 3. 5 R. 2. But there are now three Officers belonging to the Regulation of Clothing, who bear the distinct Names of Searcher, Measurer, and Almaneg, and all three are commonly appointed to one Person. 4 Inf. 31. And because the Subjects of this Kingdom should not be abused, an Office of Searching is established by Act of Parliament.

Almoner, Of Purse. This Word is mentioned in Ptolemy lib. 2. c. 92. par. 2.

Almagumor, (Altomargum.) The Offerings made upon the Altar, and also the Fruit that arises to the Priests by Rents of the Altar, nee Almair, Michel. 21 Ed. It was declared that by Altarages is meant Tithe of Wool, Lams, Colts, Calves, Figs, Chickens, Butter, Chercl. Fruits, Herbs, and other small Tribes with the Offerings due: The Cafe of the Vicar of Welf-Hadden in Northampshire. But the Word Altarage at first is thought to signify no more than the casual Profit. It has for the People voluntary Oblations at the Altar; out of which a Portion was assigned by the Parson to the Vicar: Since that, our Parson have generally consented themselves with the greater and fixed Tithes upon Each Hay; and have left the small Tithe to the officiating Priests: And hence it is that Vicarages are endowed with them. Altus, or Caelum, (Lat.) Is a Changing of a Thing: And when Winesales are examined on Exhibits, &c. they ought to remain in the Office, and not be taken back into private Hands, by whom they may be altered. Val. 254.

Ambassadour or Clerk. Cervel.

Ambastor, (Legatus) Is a Servant of the State, representing the King in a Foreign Country, to take Care of the Publick Affairs. And Ambassadors are either Ordinary, or Extraordinary; the Ordinary Ambassadors are those who reside in the Place while he is there; and the Time of their being indefinite, to their Successor's uncertain, arising from emergent Occasions; and commonly the Protection and Affairs of the Merchants is their greatest Care: The Extraordinary Ambassadors are made pro tempor, and employed upon some particular great Affairs, as Conclaves, Confirmations, or for Overtures of Marriage, &c. Their Equipage is generally very magnificent; and they may return without requiring of Leave, unless there be a restraining Clause in their Commission. Molloy 144. An Agent represents the Affairs only of his Master; but an Ambassador ought to represent the Greatness of his Master, and his Affairs. Med. By the Laws of Nations, none under the Quality of a Sovereign Prince can send any Ambassador: A King that is deprives of his Kingdom and Royalty, hath lost his Right of Legation. No Subject, though he ever so great, can send or receive an Ambassador; and if a Viceroy does it, he will be guilty of High Treason: The Electors and Princes of Germany, have the Privilege of sending and Reception of Ambassadors; but it is limited only to Masters touching their own Territories and not the State of the Empire. It is said there can be no Ambassador, without Letters of Credence from his Sovereign, to another that hath sovereign Authority: And if a Person be sent from a King or some great Primate, though in his Letters of Credence he is termed an Agent, yet he is an Ambassador, he being for the Publick. 4 Inf. 153. Ambassadors may by a Precaution be warned not to come to the Place where he is; and if they then do it, they shall be taken for Enemies: But being once admitted, even with Enemies in Arms, they shall have the Protection of the Laws of Nations, and be preferred as Princes. If a Prince, the People without whom he cannot return, is sent as an Ambassador to the Place from whence he is banished, he may not be detained or molested there. 4 Inf. 153. The Killing of an Ambassador, has been seldom approved of in the French Law. Some of them are allowed by Concessions, to have Jurisdiction over their own Families; and their Housés permitted to be Sandarishes: But where Persons who have greatest offended by their Houses, after Demand and Refusal to deliver them up, they may be taken from thence. Ambassadors cannot be defended when they commit any thing against the State, or the Person of the King, with whom they reside. 4 infra. 152. An Ambassador guilty of Treason against the King's Life, may be condemned and executed: But for other Treasons, he shall be first hong, with Demand to punish him, or to send him back to be punished. 4 infra. 152.

4 infra. 152. 1 Croll. Rep. 185. If a Foreign Ambassador commits any Crime here, which shall be in Point of Conspiracy, which is against the Law of Nations; he loathes the Privilege of an Ambassador, and is subject to Punishment as a private Alien; and he need not be remanded to his Sovereign, but of Curytay. Davw. Abr. 327. But if a Thing be only Malum Prohibitum by any Act of Parliament, Private Law, or Custom of the Realm, and it is not a jus Gratiae, an Ambassador shall not be bound by them. 4 infra. 153. And it is said Ambassadors may be excused of Pretexts against the State where they reside. 4 infra. 153. It is to be in Point of Conspiracy, which is against the Law of Nations; because it doth not appear whether they have it in Mandate; and then they are excused by Necessity of Obedience. Bac. Max. 20. By the Perkon of an Ambassador, they may not be arrested; and the movable Goods of Ambassadors, which are accounted an Accesion to their Perkon, cannot be seiz'd, as a Pledge, nor for Payment of Debt, that out of the King or State where they are Resident; but on Refusal of Payment, Letters of Requittal are to go to his Master, 2 Croll. 157. Davw. 349. By the Statute Law, an Ambassador, or Publick Minister, or his Domelock Servants, reglified in the Secretary's Office, 2 Croll. are not to be arrested; if they are, the Process shall be void, and the Processors being out and execute, shall be fined 20s. a day for Misdemeanors and Corporal Punishment as the Lord Chancellor or either of the Chief Justices shall think fit. Stat. 7 Ann. cap. 12. Also the Goods of an Ambassador, or of his Servants, shall not be distrained. Stat. 7 Ann.

Ambassador, (Lat.) One that can use his left Hand as well as his right; or that plays on both Sides. But in a legal Sense, it is taken for a Junior or Embassador, who takes Money of both Parties for giving his Verdict; and such a one shall be imprisond, never more be a Jury, and further punished at the King's Pleasure. Trumb. 3. c. 10. Comp. 349. 152. See Deuris tusing.

Ambition, (Sax. Amber, Lat. Ambitium) A Vellid among the Romans, a vessel contained a Measure of Salt, Bread, Meal, Beer, 2 Croll. Leg. Ine Wit. Sax.

Ambly, The Place where the Arms, Plate, Vessels, and every Thing which belong'd to Housekeeping were kept; and probably the Ambly at Windsor is so called, because formerly set apart for that Use: Or rather the Amury, from the Latin Elementarium, an House adjoining to an Abbey, in which the Charities were laid up for the Poor.

Amennablity, (Fr. Amenité) To bring or lead unto; Or Amaniable (from the Fr. Menn a Haud) signifies tractable, that may be led or governed, and in our Books it is commonly applied to a Woman, that is governable by her Husband. Cen. Interp.

Amendment, (Emendatio) The Correction of an Error committed in a Process, which may be amended after Judgment; and if there be no Error in giving the Judgment, the Party is driven to his Writ of Error: Though where the Fault appears to be in the Court of Error, it may be amended. Terms de Leu 39. A Plaintiff may amend his Bill on the File at any Time before the Plea pleased; but not after Joined, 3 Lill. Ab. 58. Original Writs are not amendable at Common Law; for if the Writ be not good, the Party may have another. Judicial Writs may have been once amended. 8 Rep. 157. And by the Statutes 8 H. 6. and 18 Eliz. the Misprision of the Clerk, &c. is amendable in Original Writs; but it must not be in another Term. Bulk. 276. 1 Croll. 352. The Clerk is amendable in the legal Form of the Writ, it is not amendable: There is a Diversity between the Negligence and Ignorance of the Clerk, that makes it not Writs; for his Negligence (as if he have the Copy of a Bond, and do not purifie it) shall be amendable; but his Ignorance in the legal Course of Original Writs is not amendable. 8 Rep. 157. A Party's Name was mistaken in an original Writ; and it appearing to the Court that the Curitors Infructuons were right, the Writ was amended in Court; and they amended all the Proceedings after. 3 Writ. 152. Cor. Cas. 74. If a Thing which the Plaintiff ought to have entered himself, being a Matter of Subsistence, be totally omitted, this shall not be amendable, but servant is if omit-

Davw. Abr. 346. By the Common Law a Writ of Error returned and filed, could not be amended; because it would alter the Record; But now by Stat. 1 Cor. 13. Writs of Error wherein there shall be any Variance from the original Record or other Defect, may be amended by the Court where return'd. When the Award of a Writ of Inquiry on the Roll is good, the Writ shall be amended by the Roll. Carth. 70. The Court cannot amend to make a new Writ; or to alter a good Writ, and adapt it to an Amendment in the Facts; for when the Writ is bad and vicious in the Face of it. Mod. Cas. 265, 310. A Declaration grounded on an original Writ, may not be amended, if the Writ be erroneous, the Plea, or the Declaration in it, is not amendable. 1 Lill. Abr. 67. Declarations upon any penal Statutes, Qua tam, &c. may not be amended after Ille joined. 3 Med. 144. And Indictments of Treason, and Felony, Writs of Appeal, &c. are excepted out of the Statutes of Amendments; tho' some Things in them are amendable at Common Law. Mod. Capt. 259. A Plaintiff may amend his Declaration in Matter of Form after a general Ille pleased, before Entry thereof, without Payment of Costs. If he amend in Subsistence, he is to pay Costs, or give Imparalance; and if he amend after Plea, though he would give Imparalance, he must pay Costs. 1 Lill. 58. A Declaration in Ejdement lain the Demise before the Writ; this was not amendable; for it would alter the Ille, and make a new Title in the Plaintiff. 1 Sall. 48. The Plaintiff depon'd on the Statute of Wason for a Robbery done to himself, when it should have been of his Servants; he had Leave to amend. 3 Lawc. 347. If a Defendant pleads a Plea to the Right, or in Abatement, the Plaintiff may amend his Declaration; but where he demurs, for this Fault may be the Cause of the Demurrer, and after Ille joined, a Plea may not be amended. A Demurrer may be amended, after the Parties have joined in Demurrer, if it be only in Paper. Style 48. Where a Plea shall be amended, when in Paper, or on Records, &c. See the Statute 4 Geo. 2. c. 36. An Ille entered upon Record, with Leave of the Court may be amended but not in a material Thing, which will deface the Record. 1 Lill. Abr. 61. A Record may be amended by the Court in a small Matter, after Ille joined, 3 Lill. 45. Mich. 23. A General or Special Verdict may be rendered by the Clerk of Affidants in Civil Cases; but not in Criminal Actions. 1 Silk. 47. The Ifine Roll shall be amended by the Impar- liance Roll, which is precedent: But a Roll may not be amended after Verdict, when there is nothing to amend it by; the Surplusage may be rejected, and to make it good. 6 Civ. Cas. 92. 1 Sid. 135. A Miflake of the Clerk in entering a Judgment; as where it was that the Defendant recovered, instead of the Plaintiff, &c. was ordered to be amended. 6 Civ. Cas. 651. Holt. 41. A Judgment may be amended by the Paper-book signed by the Master. 1 Stat. 50. At Common Law, the Judges may amend their Judgments of the same Term; and by Statute of another Term. 8 Rep. 156. 14 E. 3. If Judgments are not well entered, on Payment of Costs they will be amended to be so. When Judgments are entered, 'tis said the Defects therein being the Act of the Court, and not the Mis- prision of the Clerk, are not amendable. Coop. 104. Mistakes in Returns of Writs, Fines and Recoveries, made by mutual Affent of Parties may be amended. 8 Rep. 45. Judgment Roll shall not be altered after Verdict, unless by an Original Writ, or varies from the Record in Point of Form, which are amendable. 4 Rep. 45. After Verdict given in any Court of Record, there shall be no new Judgment for Want of Form in any Writ, or Indefinite Return of Sheriffs, Variance in Form between the Original Writ and Declaration, &c. Stat. 32 H. 8. 8 Eliz. Vide 3 Cas. 1. Where Judgment shall not be reversed for Defects in Form or Substance. It is said, there are only two Sta- tutes of Amendments; the 14 Ed. 3. c. 6. and 8 H. 6. c. 12. The left being Statutes of Jœflaws; and the Statute of H. 6. c. 12. is so enlarged that ed. 3. which extends only to Proces out of the Roll or Record, and not to Proceedings in the Roll itself: But neither of these Statutes extend to the Crown. Mod. Cas. 268, 28. Imperfections and Defects are aided after Ver- dict, by the Statutes of Jœflaws: And by a 45 Q. 5 & 129. all the Statutes of Jœflaws shall be extended to Judg- ments upon Confession, Nikol deit, &c. Alfo upon Dishonor, the Judges shall have Judgment without regarding Imperfections in any Writ, &c. except the fame be let down as Caufe of Dishonor. Stat. 4 & 5 Anne. c. 12. Amendments are usually made in Af- firmance of Judgments; and seldom or never to de- stroy them: Where Amendments were at Common Law, the Party was to pay a Fine for Leave to amend. 3 Stat. 29. Amicorum, Amicorum, (from the Fr. Mer- ci) signifies the pecuniary Punishment of an Offender against the King, or other Lord in his Court, that is found to be in Miserericordia, i.e. to have offended, and to stand at the Mercy of the King or Lord. The Au- thor of Terms de Ley faith, that Amicorum is pro- perly a Penalty inflicted by the Peers or Equals of the Party amicordia, for the Offence done; for which he purfeth himself at the Mercy of the Lord. Terms de Ley 40. And by the Statute of Magna Charta, a Fre- man is not to be persecuted for a small Fault, but pro- portionable to the Offence, and that by his Peers. 9 H. 3. c. 4. Amicorum are a more merciful Pe- nalty than a Fine; and for which they are more grievous. A Release may be fued by an ancient Writ called Modertata Miserericordia. The Difference between Ami- corum and Fine, is this: Fines are to be Pay- ned which may grow either from some Statute; but Amicorum are such as are arbitrarily im- posed. Kitch. 78. Alfo Fines are imposed and inflicted by the Court: Amicorum by the Country: And no Court can impose a Fine, but a Court of Record: other Courts can only amerce. 8 Rep. 39. 41. A Court-leet can amerce for Fines: and a Court Baron for Aids. 1 Stat. 135. For a Fine and all Amicorum in a Court-leet, a Difrefus is incident of common Right: But for Amicorum in a Court Baron, Difrefus may not be taken by the Petition of the Clerk of Affidants. 1 Rep. 45. Where a fine is tendered in an Amicorum is agreed on, the Lord may have an Affidion of Debt, or disenfranchise, and imposed the Difrefus, or allow the Defekt; and his Pleasfare: But he cannot im- plement for it. 8 Rep. 41. 45. In Courts Baron, the Amicorum ought to be suffered; but the otherwise of Fines imposed by a Court of Record. 2 Inf. 27. In a Court Baron, or not doing Suit of Court, Persons making any Incorporations, not performing what is ordered, or for other Misdemearors there pun- nifiable, are to be amerced: These Amicorum are made upon Prefentment of the Jury; and if they are grounded upon a void Prefentment, the Amicorum are also void. 1 Litt. Abr. 72. There is also Amicorum in Fees in the Courts of Record, when a De- fendent delays to tender the Thing demanded by the King's Writ, on the fist Day. 1 Inf. 116. And in all Personal Actions without Force, as in Debt, Debitu- min, &c. If the Plaintiff be nonnull, barred, &c. he shall not be amerced. 1 Nelf. Abr. 306. And an Infant if nonnullified, is not to be amerced: 'Tis otherwise when at Age. Tert. 258. Sheriffs are to be amerced for the Fauls of their Officers; and Clerks of the Peace are amercable in B. 3. for grafts Fauls in Indictments removed thither. Hill. 21. Car. The Amicorum of the Sheriff, or other Officer of the King, is called Amicorum Royal. Terms de Ley. A Town shall be amerced for the Escape of a Murderer, in the Day-Time: And if the Town be walled, 'tis said, it shall be subject to Amicorum, whether it be Day or Night. 3 Stat. 53. Amicorum are like- wise in several other Cases. Amicitia, (from the Lat. Amicitia) is Taken for a pri- vately Garment. Amicitia, (the same with Almaceum,) A Cap made with Goats or Lamb Skins; that Part whereof covered the Head was square, and one Part at it hung behind, and covered the Neck. Almaceum 3 Tom. p. 56. Amicitia, was the uppermost of the 3 Garments worn by Priests, tied round the Neck, and it covered the Head and Neck. And as a thing to be made appear by Suggestion on the Roll by Motion; sometimes by Pleading, and sometimes as Amicitia. 2 H. 5. 548. Any one as Amicitia may move to quash a vicous Indict- ment; for if there were a Trial and Verdict, Judg- ment must be arrested. Common l. 13. A Council ordal, that he might as Amicitia curia, inform the Court of an Error in Proceeding, to prevent giving false Judg- ment; but it was extended, unless the Party was pre- sent. 2 Show. Ancestor, (Ancestor) Signifies as much as a Prede cessor, or one that has gone before in a Family: But the Law makes a Difference between the two; for we com monly call an Ancestor and a Predecessor; the one being applied to a natural Peron and his Ancestors, and the other to a Body Politick and their Predecessors.

Ancestral, (Ancestral) A Proprietary of an Estate has Ancestral, Gentlemen of the Inn of Court. In Gray's Inn, the Society consists of Benchers, Ancestors, Barristers, and Students; under the Bar; and these are the oldest Barristers. In the Middle Temple, such as have gone through or are past their Readings are termed Ancestors; The Inns of Cam bridge consist of Ancestors and Students or Clerks; and from the Ancestors one is yearly chosen the Principal or Treasurer.

Ancestral Demise, or Domain (Fetus Patrimonium Dominii) Is a Tenure whereby all the Manors belon ning to the Crown in the Days of St. Edward, and William, called the Conqueror, were held. The Num ber and Names of all Manors, after a Survey made of them, were written in the Book of Domus; and thence by which that Book appear to have at that Time belong'd to the Crown, and are contained under the Title Terra Regis, are called Ancient Demesnes. Ritch.
62. Fishburn tells us, That Tenants in Ancient Demesne had their Tenures from ploughing the King's Lands, and other Works towards the Maintenance of the King's Freehold, on which Account they had Li berties granted them. P. N. B. 14. 228. And there were two Sorts of their Tenures and Tenants; one that held their Lands freelv by Charter, the other by Copy of Court Records. A tenement of the Manor.
Brit. c. 66. The Tenants holding by Char ter cannot be imprisoned out of their Manor; for if they were, they paid, and they could not be charged by anything their Tenure: They are free from Toll, for all Things bought and sold concerning their Substance and Hud Tansky. And they may not be intarneled upon any inquest. F. N. B. 14. If Tenants in Ancient Demesne are returned on Inquests, they may have a Writ de non pandito in Aliis, &c. or Attachment against the Sheriff. 1 Rep. 195. And if they are disturbed by Toll, &c. they have a Writ of Manoveramini, to dischARGE. These Tenures are free as to their Persons; and their Privileges are regu lated to commence by Act of Parliament; for they cannot be created by Great at this Day. 1 Salk. 57.

Lands in Ancient Demesne are extensible upon a Statute Merchant, Staple, or Elegies. 4 Inst. 270. No Lands ought to be accounted Ancient Demesne but such as are held in Socage; and whether it be Ancient Demesne or not, shall be used by the Book of Demesny. A Leafe for Years, cannot plead in Ancient Demesne; Nor can a Lord in Aliison against him plead Ancient Demesne, for the Land is Frank-fee in his Hands.
Danw. Abr. 650. In real Affairs, Ejendem, Replys vin, &c. Ancient Demesne is a good Plea; but not in Ancient Demesne merely Personal. Danw. 638. If in Ancient Demesne a Writ of Right Clofe be brought, and pro fessed in Nature of a Foreclosure; a fine levied them by the Cufrom, is a Bar: And if this Judgment be reversed in C. B. that Court shall only judge, that the Plaintiff be referred to his Action in the Court of Ancient Demesne; unless there is some other Cause, which shall arise in Jurisdiction. 14 Inst. 270. Dyer 373.
A Fine in the King's Courts, will change Ancient Demesne to Frank-fee as Common Law. 65. If the Annua Penfons, An ancient Writ for providing the King's Chaplain unpreferred with a Penfion. It was brought where the King having due to him an annual Pension from an Abbots or Prior, for any of his Chancels which he should nominate, (being un- provided of Living) to demand the fame of such Abbots or Prior. Reg. Orig. 165, 307.

Annuitant, Qualifying the yearly Rent or Income of a Prebendary.

Annuitats, (Annuities Redundis) Is a yearly Rent, pay- able for Ten of Years, Life, or in Fee; and it is used for a Writ that lies against a Person for Recovery of such Rent. Reg. Orig. 148. Annuitas hath also been defined to be a yearly Payment of a certain Sum of Money, granted to another for Life, &c. to be recei- ved of the Grantor or his Heirs, so that no Freehold be charged thereon: whereas a Man shall never have Allot to another Allot, but a Writ of Annuity. Terma de Log. sc. 44. The Treaty called Doctor and Stu- dent, Dial. 1. cap. 5, fles several Differences between a Rent and an Annuity, viz. that every Rent is ISSuing out of Life; but an Annuity charges the Person only, as the Grantor and his Heirs, who have Allot by Direc- tion: For the Recovery of an Annuity, no Action lies, but only the Writ of an Annuity; but of a Rent the same Remedy lies as for Lands; and an Annuity is never taken for Allot, because it is no Freehold in Law; nor shall it be put in Execution upon a Statute Merchant, Staple, or Engage, as a Rent ISSuing out of Land may. Dyer 145. 2 Rep. 144. If no Lands be bound for the Payment of an Annuity, a Disrepis may not be taken for it. Dyer 65. But if an Annuity ISSs out of Land, (which of late it often doth) the Grantor may bring a Writ of Annuity, and make it Personal, or an Allot, or Disrepis, &c. so as to make it real.

1 Inf. 144. And if the Grantor take a Disrepis; yet he may afterwards have a Writ of an Annuity, and discharge the Land, if he do not yet the Taking, which is in Nature of an Annuity. 1 Inf. 145. But if the Gran- tor of a Rent being an Allot for it, he shall never after have a Writ of Annuity; he having excised the Rent to be a Rent; so if the Grantor of an Annuity know the Taking of a Disrepis, in a Court of Record. Dyer. Inf. 49. And if the Grantor make Part of the Land out of which an Annuity is ISSuing, he shall never after have a Writ of Annuity, &c. Litt. 148. Where a Rent charge ISSing out of Lands, granted by Tenant for Life, &c. determines by the Act of God: as an Interest was vested in the Grantee, it is in his Election to make it a Rent-charget, and so charge the Lands therewith, or a Personal Thing to charge the Person of the Grantor in Annuity. 2 Rep. 35. A recibir of Lands in Fee, he and B. grant an Annuity or Rent- charge to another; this prima fascis is the Grant of A. and Confirmation of B. But the Grantee may have a Writ of Annuity against both. If two Men grant an Annuity of 20l. for Ann. altho' the Perons be several, if the Deed of Grant be not for them severally, yet the Grantee shall have but one Annuity against them. 1 Inf. 144. When a Man recover in a Writ of An- nuity, he shall not have a new Writ of Annuity for the Years due after the Recovery, but a Sur- vey upon the Judgment, the Judgment being always exe- cutory. 2 Rep. 37. No Writ of Annuity lien for Arrears only when an Annuity is determined, but for the Whole of it. And the Entire charge being ISSing out of Lands to be granted, it hath been adjudged that the Grantee may bring Annuity when the Lease is sealed. Nor. cap. 450. Where an Annuity is granted to one for Life, during the
the Term he shall have a Writ of Annuity: And when that is determined, his Executors may have Action of Deeds for the Realty is then resolved into the Per- sonalty, by New Nat. Br. 258. Upon a Rent crested by Way of Reversion, no Writ of Annuity lies. Duns. 425. If a Man grants a Rent out of his Manor, or Lands, or to be received of his Ten- nants, and he hath no Manor, Lands, or Tenants, yet it may be a good Annuity, though void as to a Rent. Duns. Art. 425. A Person grants to me 10/., that I shall be resident in such a Parish; an Annuity lies for this, it being annual at my Will, and it is the same if a Rent be granted payable at the End of a certain Number of Years, though it be not annual. Ib. 452. A Grant is made by a Person of an Annuity to another and his Heirs, without the Grantor's paying for him and his Heirs, this is determin- able by the Death of the Grantor. Duns. Art. 425. Was Annuity may not be paid a Rent, the Grantor's Heir, unleas the Grant be for him and his Heirs; and there must be Affidit to bind the Grant, by Grand of an Annuity by the Annuity, when he is named. 1 Inf. 144. 1 Roll. Art. 216. An Annuity granted by a Bishop with Confirmation of Dean and Chapter, shall bind the Successor of the Bishop. New Nat. Br. 410. If the King grant an Annuity, it must be expressed by both Hands the Granter shall receive it, as the King's Bailiff, &c. or the Grant will be void, for the King may not be bound, and no Person is boun to pay it if not expressed in the Patent. c. H. 6. New Nat. Br. 341. If where an Annuity is granted pro Defensis, the Grantor is disturbed of his Title, the Annuity ceaseth; and if it be where any Annuity is granted to a Person pro Confessis, and the Granter refuseth to give Control: For where the Cause and Consideration of the Grant amount to a Condition, and is not the one cause, the other shall determine. 1 Inf. 204.

Bistritaturus. Significes where a Man endeavours to discharge himself of the Fault of which he is ac- cused, by reducing and charging the Accuser with the same Fault. This Word is mentioned in the Title of a Chapter in the Laws of Canute, cap. 47.
Case of Criminal Causes is taken either upon Inqui-"sition, Denunciation or Accusation; so in the Common Law, it is upon Indictment, or Appeal, Indictments containing two parts, Inquisition and Denunciation. And Accusation or Appeal is a lawful Declaration of another Man's Crime (being Felony at least) before a competent Judge, by one that has his Name to the Declaration, and undertakes to prove it, upon the Pen-alty that may ensue of the contrary. \textit{Bradt. \textit{ib. 3. Appeal of Maimem. Is the Accusing one that hath maimed another: But this being generally no Felony, it is in a Manner but Action of Trefpas: and nothing is recovered by it but Damages. In Action of Assult and Maimem, the Court may declare Damages, on View of the Maimem, &c. And though Maimem is not Felony, in Appeals and Indictments of Maimem, the Words Felonis Maimemawai are noted. 3 Inf. 639. Bracton calls Appeal of Maimem Appellam de Plagitis & Macabonis, and writes a whole Chapter of it. Lib. 3. Tract. 2. cap. 34. In an Appeal of Maimem, the Defendant pleads that the Plaintiff had brought an Action of Trefpas against him, for the fame Wounding, and had recovered, and Damages given, &c. And this was a good Plea in Bar of the Appeal; because in both Actions Damages only are to be recovered. 4 Rep. 43. And where there is a Recovery in Assault and Battery, &c. the Jury give Damages according to the Hurt, which was done, and it shall be intended a Maimem at that Time; and therefore Appeal of Maimem doth not lie. Hob. 94. 1 Leon. 318. In Appeal of Maimem, the Appellant may not plead in Abatement of the Wounding, and likewise over to the Maimem; if he doth, he will lose the Benefit of his Plea to the Writ. Appeal of Rape, Lies where a Rape is committed on the Body of a Woman. 3 Ed. 30. A Female Coven, without her Husband, may bring Appeal of Rape: And the Stat. 1 Hen. 6. cap. 13. gives Power where a Woman is ravished, and afterwards consents to it, for a Husband, or a Father, or next of Kin, there being no Husband, to bring Appeal of Rape; also the Criminal in such Case, may be attainted at the Suit of the King. 3 Inf. 131. 4 Rep. 2. And if a Woman consent after, she is disabled to challenge any Inheritance, Dower, &c. by Stat. 6 R. 2. The Statute of Wym. 1. cap. 17. enacts that Appeal of Rape shall be brought within forty Days: But by Stat. Wym. 2. c. 34. relating to this Offence, no Time is limited for the Prosecution; so that it may be brought in any reasonable Time. H. P. C. 185. Appeal of Rape is to be commenced in the County where committed: And if a Woman be affianced in one County, and ravished in another, the Appeal of Rape lies in that County where she was ravished. H. P. C. 186. An Appeal of Rape was brought, and the Defendant found guilty; and being in Prison, some Exceptions were taken to the Plaintiff by the Defendant, for that he did not say Felonis & carnaliere cognoscere, &c. And it was not averred that the said not content, before nor after the Fact: But these Points were not refuted; however it was held, that the Plaintiff the Defendant might have his Clergy, 'tis taken away by the Stat. 8 Edw. cap. 17. Appeal of Robbery. A Remedy given by the Common Law, where a Person is robbed of his Goods, &c. to have restitution of the Goods stolen: As they could not be restored on Indictment at the King’s Suit, this Appeal was judged necessary. 3 Inst. 244. If a Man robbed make just Partizan after, and apprehend and prosecute the Felon, he may bring Appeal of Robbery at any Time afterwards. Stanford 61. Adjudged, that an Appeal of Robbery may be brought by the Party robbed twenty Years after the Offence committed, and that he shall not be bound to bring it within a Year and a Day, as he must do in Appeal of Murder. 4 Leon. 15. And if one Man robs several Persons, every one of them may have Appeal: Like- wife if the Robber be attainted at the Suit of one, he shall be tried at the Suit of the Bell, year to year as their Appeals were commenced before the Attainters. Darm. Dig. 494. In Appeal of Robbery, the Plaintiff must charge the Defendant with all the Things whereof he is robbed, or they shall be forfeited to the King; for the Appellant can have Reformation for none more than is mentioned in his Appeal. 3 Inst. 237. By the Year-Book 2 Ed. 1. 12. Reformation of Goods was granted upon an Out- lawry, in Appeal of Robbery; but a Person having preferred an Indictment against a Robber, and afterwards an Appeal, on which he was outlawed, the Plaintiff moved to have Reformation of his Goods, and it was denied. 2 Leon. 108. If the Count or Declaration in Appeal of Burglary be sufficient, and the Defendant is convicted at the Suit of the Party upon the Appeal; he shall not be again impeached for the same Offence at the King’s Suit. Rep. 39. By Stat. 21 Hen. 8. cap. 11. the like Reformation of stolen Goods may be had on Indictments after Attainters, as on Appeals; And Appeals of Rape and Robbery are now much out of Use; but the Appeal of Murder Bill continues, and is often brought. 1 Smyth. 130. This was ever esteemed to be a great Interuption to National Justice, that even at the Time the Roman Catholic Religion took Place in this Kingdom it was prohibited. By the Stat. 24 Hen. 8. 8. Appealing to Rome incurrs the Penalty of a Præmunire: And it is made Treson by 13 Eliz. cap. 2. Where an Appeal in an Ecclesiastical Cause, is made before the Bishop, or his Canony, it may be removed to the Archbishops; and if before an Archdeacon, to the Court of Arches, and from the Arches to the Archbishops; and when the Cause concerns the King, Appeal may be brought in fifteen Days from any of the said Courts to the Prelates in Convocation. 24 Hen. 8. c. 12. And the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 19. gives Appeals from the Archbishops to the King in Chancery, who thereupon appoints Commissioners finally to determine the Cause; and this is called the Court of Delegates: There is also a Court of Commissioners of Review; which Commission the King may grant as supreme Head, to review the definitive Sentence given on Appeal in the Court of Delegates. On taking away the Supremacy of the Pope in this Kingdom, this Power was lodged in the Crown, as originally belonging to it. 4 Inst. 340. The Dean of Wells was deprived of his Deanship, by the Commission for Church and Wells, from which Sentence the Dean appealed to the Archbishops, who affirmed it; and thereupon he exhibited an Appeal to the King in Chancery, but made no Relief, for the King granted the Deanship to one Turner; But Anne 3 Mar. 2 the deprived Dean obtained another Commission to the Delegates, and by their Sentence was restored to his Deanship; and after the Death of Mary 1 Eliz. Turner had a Commission of Review, and he was restored, though it was infilled there ought to be no further Appeal. Dyer 273. In the 39th Year of Queen Elizabeth’s Reign being given in an Ecclesiastical Cause, the Party against whom had, appealed to the Arch- bishop, &c. who affirmed the Sentence; then he ap- pealed to the Delegates, and they repealed both the former Sentences: On which the Queen granted a Commission ad residuendum the Sentence of the Delegates, and it was held lawful. Cro. Eliz. 571. The Bishop of Winchester is made Master of Magdalen College in Oxford; by whom the President of the said College was deprived, who appealed to the Queen in Chancery: Resolved that the Appeal doth not lie, for 'tis out of the Statutes 24 & 25 H. 8. Appearance. In the Law signifies the Defendant’s Filing Common or Special Bill, when he is said to have any Proceedings out of the Courts at Westminster: And there can be no Appearance in the Court of B. R. but by Special or Common Ball. There are four Ways for Defendants to appear to Actions; in Per- son, or by Attorney; by Percons of full Age; and by Guardians, or next Friend, by Infants. 35 W. 16; and in Chancery to take the Person’s Body, if a common Appearance only, and not Special Ball is required, there every such Person may appear in Court in his proper Person, and the common Ball. 1 Litt. Abr. 82. B. R. Person is outlawed in any Case, except for Treson or Felony, may appear by Attorney to reverse the fame without Ball; except where Special Ball shall be ordered by the Court. 24 & 25 W. 3. Ed. cap. 18, is bound to appear in Court on the First Day of the Term, it shall be intended the First Day in common Understanding, even the First Day in full Term: And where the Defendant appears upon any Proceedings, tho’ the Day of Appearance be not lawful; yet ’tis said he shall be put to Answer. 1 Litt. 85. 2 Leon. 4. In Chancery the Defendant’s Attorney doth receive a De- declaration against his Client from the Plaintiff’s Attorney; this obliges the Attorney to appear to it: And if an Attorney has a Warrant from the Defendant to be his Attorney in a Suit depending in B. R. he does common Ball accordingly; it has been held, that he must appear by that Warrant in all Suits against the Defendant in the fame. Decisions of the provided Declarations are filed in the Office, and Copyes delivered to the De-fendant, or his Attorney, who filed the Ball, before the End of the Term his Ball is filed. For the De- fendant being, after Appearance and Ball put in, impo- sed to be in Causis of the Marshalsea, the Attorney that appears for him is bound to receive any Declaration that is brought against him during that Term. Comp. Attor. Attorneys subscribing Warrants to ap- pear, are liable to a Penalty of 5 l. and Attachment, upon Non-appearance. And where an Attorney provides to appear for his Client, the Court will compel him to appear and put in Common Ball, in such Time as is usual by the Court of the Case; and that although the Attorney may he hath no Warrant for Ap- pearance: Nor Ball Repealing a Warrant of Attorney, to delay Proceedings, excuse the Attorney for his not appearing, who may be compelled by the Court. 1 Litt. 83. 84. And if the Attorney have a Warrant to his Ball, the same Term be appears, and the Plaintiff the Term he declares, under Penalties by Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. In Actions by Original Appearance must be served with Counterpart, unless he doth appear by Bill, they shall be entered with the Prochomary: And Appearance and Common Ball are to be entered and filed by the Defendant within eight Days after the Return of the Process on which he was ar- rested.

Appropriation. (Appropriation, from the Fr. Apprépier) Is the Annexing of a Benefice, originally Paris Diviné & in Patronatum nullius, to the proper and perpetual Use of some religious House, Bishoprick, College, or Spiritual Person, to enjoy for ever. And when Appropriation is made, the Patron is perpetual Patron, and hath perpetual Indication and Induction; for the Appropriation alone is a sufficient Admission, Ecf. Plowd. 499. To make an Appropriation, the King's Licence is to be obtained in Chancery, the Consent of the Ordinary, Patron and Incumbent, whereas the Church is full; and of the Diocesan, and Patron, if the Benefice be void. Plowd. 499. 15 R. 2. c. 6. Appropriation made during the Vacancy of the Benefice, is executed immediately; and when the Church is full, by its Words, the Patron is constituted Patron, after it becomes void. 11 Rep. 11. An Appropriation may be by the King alone, where he is himself the Patron or Licentiate, and by Letters Patent he grants the Advowson which he is in the Right of his Crown to a Dean and Chapter, Ecf. Plowd. 499. No Appropriation can be made without Licence of the King. 8 Rep. 11. Nor may it be properly unile to a Spiritual Person capable of the Cure: It may be to a Bishop, Ecf. and his Successors. Dow. Act. 51. Where Appropriation are made, a Vicar is to be endowed to serve the Cure: And formerly in Licences of Appropriation, it was expressed that the Diocesan should also provide a convenient Sum of Money to be yearly paid out of the Fruits, towards the Subsistence of the Parson of the Parish. Stat. 15. R. 2. c. 6. A Vicarage endowed may not be appropriated, but it may be united to another Church, or to a Dean and Chapter, or College, with the King's Consent. 39. 39. An Appropriation cannot be aliened over, or surrendered to any; nor can it indue longer than the Body Spiritual to which it is at first appropriated: But those to whom granted may make Leases of the Profits. Plowd. 499. If an Appraiser, a Clerk is appointed to the Bishop, and inquired and induced, the Benefice returns to its former Nature, and the Appropriation is dissolved. 7 Rep. 15. But if Leilee for Years of an Appropriation, prejudice therein, this Disappropriation shall not bind him in the Reversion. Dow. 515. If a Feme endowed of an Advowson appropriate preents to it, the Appropriation is dissolved. 1 lef. 46. If a Man removes the Advowson of his Benefice, this also dissapropriates the Church: And Dissipation of the Spiritual Corporation disappropriates an Appropriation. To appropriat cannot properly be made, except to Spiritual Persons, and their Successors; yet by the Statute 31. H. 8. the King's Patronets (altno. Laymen) are rendered capable of Parliaments appropriate of dissolved Monasteries; but these are generally called Impropriations. Appropriations have been judged an Abuse and Robbery of the Church and Parishes. &c. Conna. Parish. Antiq. 453.

The Award of Arbitrators is definitive, and being chosen by the Parties, they are not tied to such Formalities of Law as judges in other Causes are; and yet they have as great Power as other Judges to determine the Matters in Variance; but their Determination must be certain, and it is to according to the express Conditions of the Bond by which the Parties submit themselves to their Judgement.

A Conveyance. A Service of keeping a Bow, for the
and has a standing Jurisdiction over his Suffragans:—He confirms the Election of Bishops, and afterwards consecrates them, &c. And he may appoint Co-adjutors; a Bishop that is grown indigent. He may confer Degrees of all Kinds; and censure and excommunicate, suspends or deposes, for any just Cause, &c. 2. Bell. Arm. 222. And he hath Power to grant Dismissions of any Cause, formerly granted by the See of Rome, not contrary to the Law of God: But if the Cause be new and extraordinary, the King and his Councils have that Power. Stat. H. 8. He may retain eight Chaplains: And during the Vacancy of any See, he is Guardian of the Spiritualities. Stat. H. 6. and 21 H. 8.

Archbishops. (Archidioeceses.) Is one that hath Ecclesiastical Dignity, and Jurisdiction over the Clergy and Laity next after the Bishop throughout the Diocese, or in some of it only. In ancient Times archbishops had a superintending Power over all the Parochial Clergy in every Diocese in their Precedent; they being the Chiefs of the Descons; Though they have no original Jurisdiction, but what they have is from the Bishop, either by Permission, or Composition; and Sir Simon DugO tells us, that it appears an Archdeacon is a mere Substitue to the Bishop; and what Authority he hath from him, his Chief Officer being to visit and inquire, and Episco Pleurieare, &c. In ancient Times, archbishops were employ'd in diverse Duties of collecting and distributing Alms and Offerings; but at length by a personal Attendance on the Bishops, and a Delegation to examine and report some Causes, and Commissions to visit the remotest Part of the Dioceses, they became as it were Overarchs of the Church; and in the fourteenth advanced into an considerable Dignity and Power. In the thirteenth Century, the Bishop of Canterbury, was the first Prelate in England who intituated an Archbishops see; and that was about the Year 1075. And an archdeacon is now allowed to be an Ordinary, as he hath a Part of the Episcopal Power lodged with him. He visits his Jurisdiction once every Year: And he hath a Court, where he may inflict Penance, suspends, or excommunicate Penons, proves Wills, grants Administrations, and hears Causes Ecclesiastical, &c. subject to Appeal to the Bishop of the Diocese. It is the Part of the Office of an archdeacon to examine Candidates for Holy Orders; and to induct Clerks within his Jurisdiction, upon Receipt of the Bishop's Mandate. 2. Cos. 556. 2. Lev. 193. Wind's Inq. 91.

Archbishop Court. (Couria Archiepiscopi.) The chief and most ancient Consistory Court belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury for the Debating of Spiritual Causes. It is so called from the Church in London, commonly called St. Mary le Bow, (where it was formerly held) which Church is named Baw Church from the Sceptre which is raised by Pillars, built archways, like to many bent Bows. Convul. The Judge of this Court is filled the Dean of the Archb. or Official of the archbook Court: He hath extraordinary Jurisdiction in all Ecclesiastical Causes, except what belongs to the Prerogative Court; also all Manner of Appeals from Bishops or their Canons or Commissaries, Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons, &c. first or last are referred to him: He hath ordinary Jurisdiction throughout the whole Province of Canterbury, in Case of Appeals so that upon any Appeal made, he, without any further Examination of the Cause, sends out his Citation to the Appellate, and his Inhibition to the Judge from whom the Appeal was Made. Of this fee 4. S. c. 573. But he cannot cite any Person out of his Diocese, unless he be an Appellant, &c. 2. Bell. Arm. 23 M. 8. c. 9. In another Sense the Dean of the Archb. has a peculiar Jurisdiction of thirteen Parishes in the City, in these Causes, being exempt from the Authority of the Bishop of London, of which the Parish of Bow is the Principal. The Perons concerned in this Court, are the Judge, Advocates, Registers, Proctors, &c. And the Foundation of a Suit in the Archb. is a Citation for the Defendant to appear; then the Judge is exhibited the Action, to which the Defendant must answer: whereupon the Suit is extended, Proofs are produced, and the Cause determined by the Judge, upon Hearing the Advocates, and the Parties, and the Law and Facts; when follows the Sentence or Decree thereupon.

Archbishops. (Archv, from Are, a Chief) The Rolls, or any Place where ancient Records, Charters and Evidences, belonging to the Crown and Kingdom, are kept: also the Chancellor, Exchequer-Office, &c. And it hath been sometime used for Repolitisa in Licentiae.

Armour and Arms, In the Understanding of Law, are extended to any Thing that a Man wears for his Defence, or takes into his Hands, or uteth in Anger to strike or call at another. Cramb. 1d. 6. Arms are also what we call in Latin Insignia, Ensigns of Honour: as to the Original of which, it was to distinguish Commanders in War; for the ancient defensive five Armour being a Coat of Mail, &c. which covered the Person, they could not be distinguished, and therefore a certain Badge was painted on their Shields, which was called Arms, but not made heretofore in Families till the Time of King Rich. 1. on his Expedition to regain Jersalem from the Turks: And besides Shields with Arms, they had a Silk Coat drawn over their Shoulders till the Year 1716, as an Indeavouring to a Fust Coat, on which their Arms were painted all over, now the Herald's Coat of Arms, Sid. Reg. 352. By the Common Law it is an Offence for Persons to go or ride armed in an Slender, or unusual Weapon: But Gentlemen may wear common Armour according to their Quality, &c. 3 Inf. The King may prohibit Force of Arms, as by his Order in Council of 1657, and afterwards a Fust Code, on which their Arms were painted all over, now the Herald's Coat of Arms. See the Stew. Ed. 1. None shall have form of Arms before the King's Judges, nor ride armed in Apparel of the Peace, on Pain to forfeit their Armour, and suffer Imprisonment, &c. 2 Ed. 5. c. 3.

Arborus, A Term from it, Was a Cushum of Purgation, used of old in Wales, by which the Party accused did clear himself by the Oaths of 500 Men. It is mentioned in ancient MSS. and prevailed till the Time of Hen. when it was abolished. 1 H. 5. c. 6.

Arborum from Fr. Afferit, to make plain. Arborum de quad radicum & ad Culturam, Fleta, lib. 4. cap. 31. And the Word Arborium is by Spelman derived from Exaratum, to pull up by the Roots, or sometimes 'tis worse Effaret. Others derive it from Exaratum, or Exarmatum, which signifies to pough or cut up. Maughold, in his Forest Laws, says it is an Office committed in the Forest, by pulling up the Woods by the Roots, that are Thickets and Coves for the Deer, and making the Ground plain as arable Land. This is all other the greatest Trepass that can be done in the Forest to Vert or Venison, as it contains in it Waite and more; for whereas Waite of the Forest is but the Felling down the Coves which may grow up again, Afferit is a Plucking them up by the Roots, and utterly Desroying them, so that they can never afterwards spring up again. And this is confirmed out of the Red Book in the Exchequer, in the Session of the 13th of Hen. 3, which makes it very express, and also in the Code of the 17th of Hen. 8, in which it is more express, and also in the Code of the 17th of Hen. 8, in which it is more express. Affluat. (Affluat.) From the Fr. Verb Affluere. Signs a violent Injury offered to a Man's Person, of a more extensive Nature than Battery; for it may be committed by offering a Blow, or by a terrifying Speech. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 1. cap. 3. The Feudals define Affluat thus: Affluat est impetus in Per fanm aut hominum, plus par potius quam minus; aut machinae usus aut manus cum quousque atque afferant, adeo eas magni vel minimi officiis. Zonius de Fr. 10. usb. 38. And Affluat &c adae afferat. Lib. Feud. 1. tit. 5. Sect. 1. Also the Lat. Affluat is used in the Sense in the Law, as Fr. Roffe, cap. 1. p. 120. To Strike a Man, though he be not hurt with the Blow, is an Affluat: And to strike at a Perfons, notwithstanding standing he be neither his nor her, hath been so adjudged. 52 Ed. 3, c. 50. For Affluence doth not always necessarily imply a Hitting, or Blow; because in Trepass for Affluence and Battery, a Man may be found guilty of the Trepass, and cased of the Battery, 31 Ed. 5, c. 24. If a Person in Anger lift up or Resch forth his Arms, and offer to strike another; or menace any one with any Staff or Weapon, it is Trepass and Affluence in Law. And if a Man threaten to beat another Person, or lie in Wait to do it, if the other is hindered in his Buffet, and receives Loli thereby, Action lies for the Injury. Land. R. 1. c. 22 Art. 5. 60. Where a Man affluents any Person, beat, or doth him any Manner of Violence, either with Hand, Foot, or Weapon; or throws any Thing at him, Drinks in his Face, &c. whereby he is hurt; it is such an Affluence for which Action may be brought, and Damages recovered. Comp. Attorn. 155. But to lay Hands gently upon another, not in Anger, as is the Foundation of an Affluence of Trepass and Affluence. The Defendant may justify Molliter many Imputations. And a Man may justify an Affluence in Defence of his Person, or Goods; or of his Wife, Father, Mother, or Maid, or for, by Consent of Judge. Bond. 9 E. 4. 53 Hen. 6. c. 11. Also in Cases of Affluence, for the Affluence of the Wife, Child, or Servant, the Husband, Parent, or Master, may have Action of Trepass. Where a Man is affluents, and he hath no Witness to prove the same, or in other Cases, the Party affluents may bring an Information in the Crown Office; and not have common Action of Trepass. Vide Stat. 4. & 5. W. & M. c. 18. which requires Recognisances to be taken to prosecute with Ead. 24. When any Affluence is made on a Member of Parliament, Proclamation shall be made, that the Party offending surrender himself to B. R. &c. 11 H. 6. If any Person affluents a Privy Councilor, in the Execution of his Office, it is Felony. Stat. 9 Ann. c. 16. Affluencing Persons in a for- cible Manner, with Intent to commit Robbery, is, made Felony and Transportation, by Stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 1. And affluencing or Throwing or Throwing or Throwing a Person in Law, or Attorney employed in a Cause against a Man; or a Juror giving Verdict against him; his Adversary for suing him, &c. is punishable on an Indictment, by Fine and Imprisonment, for the Consequent. The Leases are made in 1672 for forty years, then B. dies, and his Wife administers to him; in this Case the Administrators are not Affirmors. 15 Rep. 2. He is called Afferior, who hath the whole estate of the Affirmor: And an Affirmor, though not named in a Condition, may pay the Money to leave the Land; but he shall not receive any Money, until he be named. 1 Rep. 215. Affirmor may take Advantage of Forfeitures on Conditions, when they are incident to the Reversion, as for Rent, 1 Adv. 82. And regularly every Affirmor of the Land may take Advantage of inherent Covenants; also Affirmors are bound by such Covenants, as a Co-enantor to repair. But if it concern a Thing not being at the Time of the Demise, as to make a new Edifice, &c. the Affirmor is not bound, except he be named in express Words; nor is he when named, if the Thing to be done does not concern the Thing done, but is collateral to it; or in Contracts merely Personal. 1 Cro. 553. 1 Roel. Affirmation (Affirmation) Is the Setting over or Transferring the Interfet A Man hath in any Thing to another. And Affirmations may be made of Lands in Fee, for Life, or Years; or of an Annuity, Rent-charge, Judgment, Statute, &c. but as to Lands they are by the Titles of Leases and Easements for Years, &c. And no Easement of Prehold, or Term for Years, shall be affirmed but by Deed in Writing signed by the Parties; except by Operation of Law. Stat. 19 Car. 2. c. 3. A Possibility, Right of Entry, Title for Condition broken, a Trufl, or Thing in Action, cannot be granted or affirmed over. 1 H. 7. 214. A Leese out of Possession cannot make any Affirmation of his Term off the Land; but must first enter, and continue his Possession; or seal and deliver the Deed upon the Land, which puts the Affirmor into actual Possession. Dallis. 81. If Leese for Years affirms all Term in his Leese to another, he cannot reserve a Rent in the Affirmation; for he hath no Interfet in the Thing by Reason of which the Rent referred should be paid; and where there is no Reversion there can be no Disfrancer: But Debat may lie upon it, as on a Contract. 1 Litt. 130. 99. Leese for Term of Years affirms over his Term and dies, his Executors shall not be charged for Rent, but the Right of the Deed. 36. 71. Where the Executor of a Leese affirms the Term, Debat will not lie against him for Rent incurred after the Affirmation. The Right of the Contract, nor Easement between the Leesee and Executors. But if the Leese himself affirms his Leese, the Priovty of Contract remains between him and the Leesor, although the Priovty of Easement is gone by the Affirmation, and he shall be chargeable during his Life; but after his Death, the Priovty of Contract is likewise determined. 3 Rep. 104. 4 Nott. Abr. 371. Although a Leese make an Affirmation over his Term, yet Debat lies against him by the Leesee or his Heirs, (not having accepted Rent from the Affirmor:) But where a Leese affirms his Term, and the Leesee is his Overlord, by the Affirmation over his Term, the Debat is determined, and Debat doth not lie for the Reversioner against the first Leese. 4 Moer. cap. 422. And as the Rent lyes out of the Land, the Affirmor generally who has the Land, and is privie in Easement, is Debat in Respective thereof. 3 Rep. 32. If an Affirmation is made by an Affirmor, the first Affirmation is not liable for the Rent; for if he be accepted by the Leesor, the Admission of one Affirmor is the Admission of Twenty. Comp. 1013. Affirmation by an Affirmor dischargeth him, because he was only chargeable as having the Term, where there is no Opportunity for giving Notice to the Leesee of his Affirmation over Camden. 152.

In Case of Action of Debt for Rent by the Affirmor of a Reversion, the Defendant a Leesor may plead that, before any Rent due for Affirmor's Term, he knew the Rent was due to another; but he must set forth in his Plea that he gave Notice to the Plaintiff of the Affirmation made. 4 Rep. 107. A Man may let Land to another, and declare, that if the Leesee or his Affirmor, should not alien the Premises without Licence of the Leesor, &c. who afterwards gave Licence to the Leesee to alien; by this the Leesor or his Affirmor may alien in infinitum. 4 Rep. 119. The Leesor demised Land, and covenanted with the Leesor, his Executors and Affirm, that he if were disabled or forced to pay any Charge, &c. he should retain so much of the Rent; afterwards the Leesor made an Affirmation of his Term: And it was held, that his Affirmor might have Remedy upon the Covenant by Way of Rescission against the Affirmor of the Reversion. Plowd. 72. If the Remainder of a Term of Years be affirmed to another, the Affirmor shall have the Benefit of a Leese; and of Re-entry upon a Lease made by the Grantor for fewer Years. &c. by the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 34. And the Affirmor of a Reversion of a Term, shall take Advantage of a Covenant against the Leesee of a Deeter Term; as when a Leesee for twenty Years, makes a Lease for four Years. Moer. cap. 694. 695. The Word Heir, is sufficient to make an Affirmor; and the Grantor of a common Person is Affirmor to have Benefit of a Covenant, Grant, &c. Prid. 173. A Lease was made for Years of Lands, excepting the Woods; the Leesor grants the Trees to the Leesee, to be affirmed, the Land over to another: The Trees do not pay Rent by this Affirmation to the Affirmor. Gold. 13. Leesor for Years rending Rent, covenants to build a Houle on the Land in ten Years; within which Time he affirms his Term, Action lies on the Covenant against the Affirmor. Gold. 60. But where a Leese covenanted for himself and his Affirmor to rebuild a Houle before such a Time, which he did not do, but after the Time expired he affirmed the Term; adjudged that this Covenant will not bind the Affirmor, because it was broken before the Affirmation. 1 Salk. 199. Where Tenant for Years affirms his Easement, no Consideration is necessary; for the Tenure being subject to Payment of Rent, &c. is sufficient to vest an Easement in the Affirmor: In other Cases some Consideration must be paid. 1 Adv. 205. The Words required in Affirmations, are gratia, affixa, and set over; which may amount to a Grant, Feodament, Lease, Reliance, Confirmation, 1 Adv. 301. In their Deeds, the Affirmor must be expressed in due Order. Letts. 9. 1. 91. Leeses from former Grants, &c. That he is Owner of the Land, and hath Power to affirms: that the Affirmor shall quietly enjoy, and to make for another Consideration, and the Affirmor may covenant to pay the Rent, and perform the Covenants. &c. and must, &c. are affirmed by Power of Attorney to receive and sue in the Affirmor's Name: But Bills of Exchange are assignable by Indorsment, and the Affirmor may recover in their own Names by Stat. 3 & 5 Ann. c. 9.

An Affirmation of Chambers in an Inn of Court.

This Indenture made the Day, &c. in the Year of our Lord, &c. between A. B. &c. Egs of the one Part, and C. D. &c. Gent. of the other Part: Whereas in and by a certain Writing made and dated, &c. at Lincoln's Inn, the Brothers of the said Inn did order that the said A. B. should have a Lease of All that Chamber up one Pair of Stairs, Number, &c. belonging to Lincoln's Inn aforesaid, for the Term of Twenty-one Years, to commence upon the next Rent of, &c. as by the said recited Writing or Ordre may more fully appear. And whereas in Parliament of the said Ordre, a Leasement of this Chamber hath been made and granted to the said A. B. for the said Term of Twenty.

Bradl. lib. 3. Concerning the General Abbrevia of the Court of England are divided into six Circuits, and two Judges are appointed by the King's Commission to every Circuit, who hold their Abbrevia twice a Year in every County, (except Middlesex, where the King's Courts of Records do sit, and where his Courts for his Counties Palatine are held) and have five several Commissions. 1. Of Quo or Terminis, directed to them and many other Gentlemen of the County, by which they are empowered to try Distresses, Felonies, &c. and this is the largest Commission they have. 2. Of Gaol Delivery, directed to the Judges and the Clerk of the Abbrevia, which gives them Power to try every Prisoner in the Gaol committed for any Offence whatsoever, but none but Prisoners in the Gaol: so that one Way or other they rid the Gaol of all the offenders in it. 3. Of Abbrevia, directed to themselves only and the Clerk of the Abbrevia, and do Right upon Writs of Abbrevia brought before them as such are wrongly brought out of their Lands and Possessions. Which Writs were heretofore judged and heard in the same, but now Men's Possessions are sooner recovered by Ejfect,

Of Nisi prius, directed to the Judges and Clerk of Affidavit, by which Civil Cases grown to fifteen in the Court below, are tried in the Vacation by a Judge of twelve Men of the County where the Cause of Action arises; and on Return of the Verdict of the Jury to the Court above, the Judges there give Judgment, as in every County of the Circuits; and all Judges of the Peace of the County are bound to be present at the Affidavit; and Sheriff shall give their Attendance on the Judges, or they shall be fined. 21. Est. 15. 16. 17. 18. There is a Commissio of the Peace, Over- and Under-Treasurer and Gavel-Delivery of Newgates, held several Times a Year, for the City of London and County of Middlesex; as Justice Hall in the Old Bailey, where the Lord Mayor is the Chief Judge. If Judges sit by Force of a Commission, and do not adjourn the Commission, it is determined in Est. 18. In the Constitution of the Judges of Affidavit, it is begun by Hen. 2. though somewhat different from what they now are: And by Magna Charta, Judges shall be sent through every Parish in the Kingdom, with the Knights of the respective Shires, shall take Affidavits of Novel Diffinit, &c. in their proper Shires, and what cannot be determined there, shall be ended by them in some other Parish; and if it be too difficult for them, it shall be referred to the Judges of the Bench, there to be ended. Hen. 3. cap. 12. Judges of Affidavit are to hold their Places in the several Counties of the Judges of the Bench, and their Records to be sent to the Exchequer. 6. R. 2. 9. Ed. 3. By the Stat. 21. Eccl. 2. 12. 13. The Affidavit is to be forwarded through the entire County, and the Sheriff shall be sent by the Judges. Est. 15. 16. 17. 18. And if Affidavit is to be taken for a Jury, where Affidavit of Novel Diffinit is tried: The Panels of Affidavit shall be arrayed, and a Copy indented delivered by the Sheriff, &c. to the Plaintiff and Defendants five Days before the Sequestration. If demanded, on Pain of 40l. by Stat. 6. H. 6. cap. 2. And if Affidavit is to be taken for a Writ for Recovery of Possession of Things immovable, whereof any one and his Ancillary have been dispossessed. Likewise in another Sense, it signifies an Ordinance or Statute. Rom. Reg. 279. The Writs of Affidavit are the four Forms:

Writ of Novel Diffinit (Reg. Affidavit). Lies where Tenant in Fee simple, Fee-farm, or for Term of Life, is put out and dispossessed of his Land, or Tenements, Rents, Common of Pattle, Common Way, or of an Office, Toll, Glano. 6. 10. Or Reg. 157. Affidavit must be of an actual Dispossess in Land, &c. in Law; it is not of Common of Pattle, where the Commoner has a Freehold in it, and the Lord or other Persons feed it so hard, that all the Grass is ed ed up, but then the Plaintiff must content and set forth how long the Land was fed, and alledge per quod Praecum jam ibidem amiti, &c. 9 Rep. 113. One may have an Affidavit of Land and Rents, or of several Lods, and Revois and Provis in his Soil, in all one Writ: And it must be a Rent-Charge, or Rent-Sail, it shall be general de libera Tenement in such a Place, and all the Lands and Tenants of the Tenements charged ought to be named in the Writ; but in Affidavit for Rent-Servic is otherwise. Dyn. 31. An Affidavit may be brought for an Office held for Life, but it must be a Rent-Charge only: Of the Toll of a Mill, or Market, Affidavit is the only thing that may not be brought for a Suit to a Mill. 8 Rep. 46. 47. By Magna Charta, 9 Hen. 3. cap. 12. Affidavit of Novel Diffinit, &c. shall be taken in the proper Counties, by the King's Judges: And for Enews of Wood, Profit taken in Woods, Corn to be received yearly in a certain Place: And for Toll, Tennage, &c. and of Offices in Fee, an Affidavit shall be; also for Common of Turbery, and of Fisting, appenant to Freehold, &c. And in this Suit, if the Defendant fail to make good the Redemption in the Writ, the Plaintiff shall be adjudged a Diffriner, without taking the Affidavit, and shall pay the Plaintiff double Damage, and be imprisoned a Year. Stat. 15. Ed. 1. cap. 25. If in an Affidavit for Tenants of the Fee, &c. the Plaintiff cannot be mentioned, the Defendant may plead it; and where one Defendant pleads, no Tenant of the Freehold names in the Writ, but only of the Damages. Est. 135. In the Affidavit the Plaintiff pleads in Bar, and the Plaintiff makes Title, but the Tenant doth neither answer nor traverse the Title; in this Case the Affidavit shall be awarded to large. Est. Ed. 29. And if any other Title is found for the Plaintiff, he shall recover. Br. 21. 131. A Tenant pleads in Abatement in an Affidavit, he must at the same Time plead over in Bar: and no Impediment shall be allowed. Without the Title it shall be as follows: And where there are several Defendants, and any of them do not appear the first Day, the Affidavit shall be taken against them by Default. Fid. 16. 14. If Affidavit be brought against a Leafe, he may not plead Affidavit non; for that is the Form of the Plea in Bar for Tenants of the Freehold; He ought to plead the spec. Muster, &c. his Lease, the Reversion in the Plaintiff, and that he is possessed, and for without Wrong. Fid. 115. 113. An Affidavit is to be first arraigned, and the Plaintiff's Counsel prays the Court that the Defendant may be called; therefore if the Plaintiff be called, and if the Defendant appears, his Counsel demand Over of the Writ of Affidavit, and the Return of it; which is granted; and then he prays Leave to Imprest to a short Time after, and the Jury is adjourn'd to that Day: At the Day given by the Court, the Defendant is again called, and upon his Appearance, he pleads to the Affidavit; and upon the Assumption of this an Issue is joined between the Parties, and the Jurors are sworn to try the Issue, the Counsel proceeding to give them their Evidence: After the Trial the Court gives Judgment, and the Plaintiff recovering is to have Writ of Seisin, &c. 1 Litt. 185. 106. The Trial on Affidavit is in Psalm Remedium; and in this Affidavit, the Land, Damages and Costs are recovered. The Jurors are sworn to try the Affidavit, are called Recognizors of the Affidavit, and they are to view the Thing in Demand: By Writ of Affidavit, the Sheriff is commanded, Qua faciat dum locum i Tribunato libera de jure et usu, &c. Videre recognizentur illud, & summa curiae imbriceri, & quandem humonum esse per bonos hominum, & quandom humonum esse per bonos hominum, & quandom humonum esse per bonos hominum, & quandom humonum esse per bonos hominum. In an Affidavit, the Plaintiff must prove his Title, then his Seisin and Diffinit: But Seisin of Part of a Rent, is sufficient to have Affidavit of the whole: and if a Man who hath Title to enter, for his Foes upon the Land and is ou'd, it is sufficient Seisin. Camp. A. 267. Seisin of an Office may be alleged by taking Money for the Office, &c. and the Place where the Officer was paid in View. Dyn. 114. In this Case the Defendant shall not effin, nor call a Proclamation, or pray in Aid of any but the King, vouch any Stranger, as Party to the Writ, until he enter personally into the Warrant. 8 Rep. 90. The Plaintiff need not be so certain in Affidavit as in other Writs; the judgment being to recover for Vidam Reconnuitem; and if the Plaintiff be but so certain as the Recogniors may put the Demandant.

ANT into Poffeffion, it is sufficient. Dyer 84. The Demands in a Suit at T. must be pleaded at T. as by him from the Case and Time after the Jury are charged, before Verdict. 1 Dav. 580. For Proceedings in Writ of Affid of Form of a Writ of Affid of Novel Difficulties.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting. A. B. hath complained to us, that C. D. unjustly and without Judgment hath deftifed him of his Free Tenement or Freehold in, &c. within thirty Years new old part; and therefore we command you, that if the said A. makes you heares in preferring his Claim, then that you cause the said Tenement to be refitted for the Challes which in it were taken, and the same Tenement with its Challes to be in Pews, until the next Assizes when our Judges into those Parts shall come; and in the mean Time do cause you to make free and open all Men of that Place, and their Neighbours, to view the said Tenement, and their Names to be imprinted, and sumon them by good Summons, that they be before our said Judges, and that we may have an Account of Reconnoiters thereof; and put by Sureties and Safe Pledges the said C. or his Bailiff, if he shall not be found, that he be then to be there to bear that Reconnoiters; and nowe by then we shall be on the Names of the Pledges, and this Writ. Witness, &c.

A Court or Declaration, with a Plea, Iff, and Judgment in an Affid.

Wills, &c.

THO' the Affid came to Recognize, whether C. D. unjustly and without Judgment did deftifed A. B. of his Freehold in, &c. within thirty Years new old part, &c. And whensoever the said A. and B. C. did deftis to the said B. of his Freehold in, &c. did deftis the said B. of his Freehold in, twenty Acres of Land, and &c. with the Apparitions, &c. And for his Title to the Tenements and Affid afterfied, the said A. faith that T. B. Father of him the said A. long before the obaining of the said Original Writ of Affid, was deftis of the Tenements afterfied with the Apparitions, in his Name, and has only the said Authour of the Day and Year, &c. at, &c. afterfied, by his Invention, made betwixt him the said T. of one Part, and, &c. of the other Part, which other Part thereof with the said Tenements, &c. was deftis to the said A. by the said T. before the said A. here brings into this Court, the Date whereof is the same Day and Year above, he for benefice his Heirs and Affid did deftis, grant, &c. (two years being a Demand of the Tenements in the Leafe of the Tenements, alter Things, and the Fine bound accordingly) to the Use of A. and his Heirs, &c. By Virtue of which Fine is bound, the said A. into the said Tenements with the Ap-parations entered, and was thereby defstis to his Demains as of Fee, until the afterfied C. D. him the said A. thereof unjustly, and without Judgment did defstis as afterfied; and this he is ready to verify. Whereupon he prays the Affid, &c. And the said C. E. by his Attorneys comes, &c. and faiths, that he was nothing in the said Tenements with the Apparations, to put a Veto of the Recognizers of the said Affid, and in the Plaint or Declaration afterfied specified, nor bad at the Day of bringing the original Writ of Affid afterfied, or ever after, nor any Injury or Difficulties did to the said A.
And of this he putts himself upon the Affid; and the said C. does likewise. Therefore let the Affid thereof be-removed from the Recognizers or Jury, for the Plaintiff.
A. Therefore it is considered, that the said A. do recover against the said C. his Seignor of the Tenements afterfied, with the Apparations, and all. And, the said C. is in Mercy, &c. And heretofore the said A. prays the Writ of the Lord the King, to be directed to the Sheriff of the County afterfied, to cause to be delivered to him full Seignor of the Tenements afterfied with the Apparations; and it is granted to him, returnable here, &c.

Affid of Absent d'Uracacy, (Affid Mortis Ansiciaris) is a Writ that lieth where a Man's Father, Mother, Brother, Sister, Uncle, Aunt, &c. died feisd of Lands, Tenements, Rents, &c. that were held in Fee, and after their Deaths a Stranger abashes. Leg.
Orig. 243. It is good as well against the Abator, as any other in Poffeffion of the Land: But it lies not against Brothars or Sistars, &c. where there is Privicy of Blood between the Perfon prosecuting and them.
Ca. Lit. 242. And it must be brought within the Time limited by the Statute of Limitations, or the Right may be lost by Negligence. If the Ancestor

Anfuffati, wherein if you fail in Proof of the Price agreed, you may recover a Price agreed on, but without alleging the Value. Wood's Inst. 536. Where an Action is brought upon a Contract, if the Plaintiff mistakes the Sum agreed upon, he falls in his Action: but if he brings it upon the Premise in Law, arising from the Debt, there, though he mistakes the Sum, he shall recover. Allen 25. Every Contract made between Parties, implies a Mutual Promise for Performance. And when an Action may be brought upon a reciprocal Promise by one against the other, although he who brings it hath not performed on his Side. Dyer 30, 75. When an Anfuffati or Premise is the Ground of the Action, it must be precisely set forth; but in Actions upon mu- tual Promises, it is sufficient to say generally that the Defendant hath not performed his Part, without alleg- ing of a Breach. 3 Lev. 319. He for whole Benefit a Premise is made, it is said, may have an Action for the Breach of this Premise, although the Premise was not made to him. 3 Lev. 210. If a Premise be made without Limitation of Time for its Performance, rea- sonable Time shall be allowed, if there be an imme- diate Consideration for it; and not Time during Life. 1 Will. Abr. 112. On Premise to deliver a Thing such a Day, the Party is bound to do it without Re- quest. 1 Lev. 284. But if a Premise be to do any Thing upon Request, the Request is necessary to instigate the Action, on which it shall arise. 1 Lev. 48. In every Action upon Anfuffati, there ought to be a Con- sideration, Promise, and Breach of Promise. 1 Lev. 405. When a Promise is not performed, if the promi- ners, cannot be discharged without some other Con- sideration: And Consideration that if a Person will forbear forbear to see another upon a Bond, &e. may be a good Consideration to pay the Debt, on Promiss to do it. 3 Cr. 600, 4. 2 2. Two Persons to pay to an 3 In-Keeper, one hires an Horse, and the other Promises that if the In-Keeper will deliver the Horse, he will see fit to-ward this, Promiss for another, is not good without Note in Writing: But the Person is chargeable upon the special Baitment, and so good without a Note. 1 Litt. 168. An Infant having bought Goods and Wares died, and made his Wife Executrix; the being asked for the Money byrs, Forbear me till some Time, and I will pay it you: this was held no good Promiss, for it was wanted a Consideration. 1 Litt. 176. But where an Executrix, in Consideration the Plaintiff would not molest her, but give her a Day, promised to pay Money due from the Tenant, Action lay without showing that the face of the other had Affins; for that shall be incessed, and her Promiss, and the Plaintiff’s Forbearance of the Suit, was good Cause of Action. 2 Cr. 273. An Administratrix promised to pay the Plaintiff Money, if he would forbear suit till she had taken out Letters of Administration: this was not a good Promiss, for the Defendant was not liable to the Suit as Administratrix till Administration had, as there was no Consideration. 1. 249, 395. If a Plaintiff promises to forbear to hit a Stranger, on the Defendant’s promising to pay the Debt, and the Time of Forbearance is uncertain, it will be ill; but with an Average of a certain Time, it may be a good Promiss. As where a Man is under an Arrest, and the Plaintiff discharges him, upon another’s Promiss to pay. 2 Cr. 177. The Father was indebted to diverse Merchants upon simple Contract, and died seiz’d of Lands that descended to his Son and Heir; the Creditors demand their Debts of him, who faith, It is to my Father owed it to you, I will pay it; ajudged actionable. 1 Cr. 505. 357. An Executor or Administrator regularly may take the same Advantage upon Promiss made to the Tenant, as what the Tenant might have done. 2 Cr. 299. Every Executionary Contract, and Debt that is not upon Record, or on a Specialty, which may be turned into Damages, imports in it an Promiss in Law, and one may have Debt or Action on the Cafe upon it at his Election; for when a Man doth agree to pay Money, or to deliver anything, he thereby bindeth himself to pay or deliver it. 3 Cr. 94. If one, in Consideration I will be bound for him, or for his Friend, promise to see him harmless; this is a good Consideration and Promiss: But if one promiss to another to see him harmless, and say not for what, or against whom, these Promiss are incorrect and insinuable, and therefore though they may be made of them, they may be good. 1 Rep. 193. Dyer 356. In cafe a Promiss be, that he who hath the Fee-Simple of Land, shall not alien it; or that a Man shall not take the Profit of his Lands, or use the Thing he hath bought; or if it be to see a Man harmless whatsoever he shall do, &e. the Promiss to make shall not bind or bear an Action. 10 Rep. 101. Ab. 78. Though here a Man in Consideration to me that he had failed a Release of a Deb-t due to him from J. S. at the Request of me, I promise to pay it if the other do not, is a good Promiss, although the Consideration be pull: As where one does promise to another, because he became Ball for his Servant, that he will see him harmless; and here the Consideration is continuing. Dyer 272. 1 Cr. 296. In Consideration that I send one to J. S. and accept of such a Bond, &c. and release to him all Actions and Demands: he promiss that if I cannot receive the Money on the Bond, he will pay it me; it is given. But if he promises upon it, I must set for this all to be executed. 2 Cr. 625. So where a Man promiss me, that if I will travel with him to London, to help him to search for the Will of J. S. he will pay me 5 l. for Pains; if I see for the Money, I must shew that I did travel with him to London, and help him to search for the Will, &c. 2 Cr. 620. The Promiss in an Agreement that will be binding and give Action, must be perfect and perfect, and duly purfied and observed: And if the Party that makes the Promiss, and be to whom it is made, agree together, and the Bond is given and taken for what is promised; by this the Promiss is discharged. Also where an Promiss is to pass to an Award, if the Award made be void, it will make the Promiss void. 2 Tel. 3 Cr. 275. 1 Litt. 170. The Intent of the Parties by and to whom the Promiss or Promiss is made, is more to be regarded than the Form of Words, and this Inten- tence and Meaning is to be followed, not in the Letter, but the Substance of it: If a Promiss be to provide Wedding Clothes for a Woman, this shall be taken for each Clothes to be worn the Wedding or Pashal day according to the Dignity of the Person. 2 Tel. 182. 3 Cr. 35. There may be Action without an Promiss, when the Law obliges a Person to agree or do it; as against a Vender for refusing to entertain his Guests. 1 Bent. 72. 335. An Promiss may be upon a general Consideration; but it doth not lie where the Plaintiff has an Obligation to pay the Money, which is a stronger Nuis than an Promiss; nor when the Party has a Recognisance for the Duty, &c. 2 Cr. N. 273. An Promiss lies not for Rent usually refered to on Leases but if a Man promise to pay, without a Lease, so much a Week as long as A. B. &e. per- mits him to enjoy a Warehouse, &c. which is a special Cause of Promiss, this Action may lie. 2 Cr. 592. And if one, in Consideration, to the Promise or Title, An Promiss lies: as it does also for the Receipt of Profits of an Office, &c. 2 Med. 260. Where a Person pays Money upon a Miftake; or if he receives more from another in a Reckoning than he ought, or Fees than should be taken, an Promiss lies. 1 Bull. 23. Gamb. 447. Attachment of a Fines is where a Man by virtue of his Privilege calls another to that Court whereof he himself belongs, and in respect thereof is privileged, there to answer some Action: Or it is a Power to apprehend a Man in a Place privileged, and to carry him to Court. 1 Litt. 125. Corporation Courts have sometimes Power by Charter to issue Attachments, and some Courts-Baron grant Attachments, as in the Case of 75, 431. Foreign Attachment is an Attachment of the Goods of Foreigners, found in some Liberty, to satisfy their Creditors within such Liberty. 3 Cal. Rep. 66. And by the Custom of some Places, as in London, a 127, there may be Attachment of Goods in the Hands of a Stranger. But a Foreign Attachment cannot be had when a Suit is depending in any of the Courts at Westminster, which makes the Muster. It must then be brought in any other Court. Cr. Eliz. 691. And nothing is attachable but for a certain and due Debt: Though by the Custom of London Money may be attached before due, as in Debt; but not levied before due. 2 Chit. 327. 1 Nott. 238. Foreign Attachments in London, upon Paper of Debt, are made after this Manner: A warrant is made, and C. is vested in A. 1001. B. enters an Action against A. of 1001, and by Virtue of that Action a Servant attached 1011, in the Hands of B. as the Money of A. to the Use of B. which is returned upon that Action. The Attachment being made and returned by the Servant, the Plaintiff is immediately to see an Attorney before the next Court helden for the County, and if the Defendant may then put in Bail to the Attachment, and notavit the Plaintiff: Four Days shall pass before the Plaintiff can make C. the Garnishee, in whose Hands the Money was attached, to New Court, why B. should not condemn the 1001, attached in the Hands of C. as the Money of A. the Defendant in the Action (though not in the Attachment to the Use of B. the Plaintiff: And the Garnishee C. may appear in Court by his Attorney, wage his Law, and plead that he hath no Money in his Hands of the Defendant's, or other spec'd Matter; but the Plaintiff may hinder his Waging of Law, by producing two sufficient Citizens to swear that the Garnishee had either Money or Goods in his Hands of A. at the Time of the Attachment, of which Evidence is to be made before the Lord Mayor, and being filed may be pleaded by Way of Objection: Then the Plaintiff must put in Bail, that if the Defendant comes not in the New Court, and he can discharge himself of the Money condemned in Court, and that he owed nothing to the Plaintiff at the Time in the Plaintiff mentioned, the said Money shall be forth coming, Cts. Attachment, (Attain) Is a Writ that lieth after Judgment against a Jury that have given false Verdict, in a Case of Real or Personal, where the Debt or Damages amount to above 40s. Stat. 6 & 34 Ed. 3, cap. 7. It is called Attain, because the Party that obtains it, endeavours thereby to flain or taint the Credit of the Jury with Pejorry, by whose Verdict he is grieved: And if the Verdict be found false, then the Punishment by the Common Law was, that the Jurors Meadows should be pleaded up, their Houses broken down, Woods grubbed up, and all their Land and Tenements be forfeited to the Crown: But it is pleaded against him then brought to the Attain, then he shall be imprisoned and ransomed at the King's Will. Glawe. lib. 2. By the Statute 25 H. 8, c. 1, the Severity of the Common Law is mitigated, when a Party is attainted: And now there is a pecuniary Penalty appointed; and also Fine, &c. to be imposed by the Court. Co. Litt. 394. The Party grieved may have Writ of Attain against the other Party, (whether Plaintiff or Defendant) and against the Jurors, or such of them as shall be then living: It is said any one that is hurt by the false Verdict, may bring this Writ; and if the Verdict be for Matter of Land, the Remedy commonly runs with the Land, to that any Party or Privy, as an Heir or Executor may have it. F. N. B. 109. Co. Litt. 394. This Action may be brought against the Squires, and the Parties to the first Suit; or if the Parties be dead, their Heirs, or Executors, or any other for the most part that recovered by the first Judgment. Dyer 201.

And Attaint may be brought where any material Falshood is found, though some Truth be found with it; as where a Jury shall find a Man guilty of many Thefts, who is not guilty of one Theft. So if a Jury find any Thing against the Common or Statute Law, that all Men are to take Notice of, this may make them chargeable in Attain. Bros. c. 44. Hob. 247. In all these cases, the Plaintiff shall recover against all the Jurors, Tenants, and Defendants, the Costs and Damages, which he shall sustain by Delay or otherwise in that Suit: And if the Defendant's Plea be Bar be pleaded against him, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment to be referred to what he loth, with Damages, by Stat.

1 H. 6. c. 4. and 15 H. 6. In the Court of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and the Court of Exchequer for Bills of London, Attain must be brought; and the Plaintiff sitting aside the Verdict, shall have Relief, &c. But if the first Verdict be affirmed, the Plaintiff shall be imprisoned and fined, 11 H. 2. cap. 21. Recoverers may have an Attain against a false Verdict, &c. against a particular Tenant, who shall be referred to his Possession, and the Recoverer to his Antagon. Stat. 9 R. 2. c. 3. The Stat. 23 H. 8. enacteth, That upon untrue Verdicts before Judges of Record, the Thing in Demand extending to 40l. Value, Attainants shall be granted against the Jury; the Process to be Summons, Reconciliations and Discoveries indefinite, &c. but the Defendants may plead, they gave a true Verdict, &c. to bar the Attain. And the Grand Jury is to try the Verdict of the Petty Jury on the Attain; and if such Petty Jury be found to have given an untrue Verdict, they shall each forfeit 40l. to be divided between the King and Plaintiff, and incur several Fines at the Discretion of the Justices, and be disabled to give Testimony in any Court. Also an Attain shall lie for a Personal Thing under the Value of 40l. in Kinds at any Forefathers, for he that forfeits a Writ of each petty Jury shall be but 5l. &c. Stat. ibid. The Plaintiff in Attain, may not produce more Witnesses, nor give further Matter in Evidence before the Action, and may be depos'd in the first Action; but the Defendant in Attain, may give new Matter in Evidence to enforce the first Verdict, and the Plaintiff shall have Time to diemprove it. Dyer 19. 3 N. & J. Ab. 288. Attain lies where a Jury gives Verdict contrary to Evidence; and where a Judge declares the Law erroneously, Judgment may be reversed, but in this Case the Jury shall be excus'd. Fawke 23. 2 N. & J. Ab. 288. For that which is not given in Evidence, nor upon an Inquest of Office, &c. or when the Thing found is inept to the Issue. Hob. 53. Co. Litt. 355. And no Attain lieth where the King is sole Party, and the Jury for him. 4 Leon. 46. A Non suit in Attain is peremptory: And no Superfunds is grantable upon Attain. Co. Litt. 327. Also if all the Jurors but one are dead, the Ation is gone, and no Attain can be brought; and where any one dies depending the Suit, it is gone; but not by the Death of the Defendant that recovered the first Action. Hob. 139. Hab. 227. This Writ to attain to many Men of such a foul Crime is seldom used, unless the Corruption be very gross and apparent. And instead of Attain, where the Verdict is supposed to be given according to Evidence, it is now usual to have new Trials granted: But an Issue found by Verdict shall be always intended true, unless reversed by Attain, according to our old Books. Co. Litt. 327. The Writ of Attain, is generally to summon a Jury to inquire if the former Jurors made a false Oath, and who were the Jury of the first Inquest, &c. and to have them before the Lord the King, or before the Justices, &c. F. N. B. 253.

Attainder, (Attaindus) is used particularly for such as are found guilty of some Crime, and especially of Treson or Felony. A Man is convicted for Appearance, or by Proces: Attainder on Appearance by Confection, or Verdict, &c. Confection, when the Prisone or his Stammes is being alleged whether Guilt, or Not Guilty, answers Guality, without putting him self upon his Country; and (formely Confection was allowed before the Coroner in Sanctuary; whereupon the Offender was to abjure the Realm, and this was called Attainder by Abjuration. Attainder by Verdict is when the Prisoner at the Bar pleaded Not guilty, and is found guilty by the Verdict of the Jury of Life and Death. And Attainder by Proces, (other wise termed Attainder by Default or Outlawry) is when the Party fleth, and is found not, until he have been five Times publicly called or proclaimed in the County, on the last whereof he is outlawed upon this Default. Steand. Pl. Co. 44, 123, 182. Allo Per son may be attainted by Act of Parliament. Attainder of a Criminal is larger than Conviction; a Man is convicted when he is found guilty by Verdict, or con foles the Crime, before judgment had; but not attainted, for judgment was still upon him. 1 Inst. 306. A Per son attainted of High Treson forfeits all his Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments; his Blood is corrupted, and he and his posterity are rendered banish d. The Corruption of Blood cannot be quitted off by Act of Parliament. 3 Inst. 12. And collateral Blood may inherit on an Attainder; though the lineal Blood is barred. If an attainted Person marries an Heir, and has Issue by her; 'tis said that issue shall inherit, for he claims only from the Mother. 3 Inst. 3. In the Cafe of Felony, where Land is given in Tail to A. and the Heirs Male of his Body, under the Statute of Wyfem. 2. and he commits Murder, or any Felony, his Heir shall have the Land, and the Blood is not corrupted: Though in Cafe of Treson, where the Felony is upon both Lands, and is attainted, it is otherwise by the 56 H. 8. Bk. 82. In Treson for counterfeiting the Coin, although by a late Statute Corruption of Blood is saved; yet the Lands of the Offender are forfeited immediately to the King on Attainder, it being a dilingent Penalty from Corruption of Blood: For the Corruption may be saved, and the Forfeiture re mained, (a 2d. Effect according to it is provided by some Statutes.) 1 Salk. 85. Attainders may be revoc ed or falsified, (i.e. proved to be false) by Writ of Error, or by Pla; or by Writ of Error, it must be by the King's Leave, &c. And when by Pla, it may be by Denying the Treson, Pleading a Per son by Act of Parliament, &c. 3 Inst. 322. By a King's Taking the Crown upon him, all Attainders of his Perfons are ijsfe falsi purged, without any Reverse. 1 Inst. 45. 3 W. 17. Lands coming to the King by Attainder of Treson, afterwards granted to another, shall be held as if there were no Attainder. 7 E. 4. c. 5.

Attainder, (Attinida & Attinamia) is when a Man hath committed Treson, &c. and after Conviction Sentence is passed against him, or when a Person is attainted of Treson, and condemned by Parliament. Acts of Attainder of Criminals have been passed in several Regius, on the Discovery of Flies and Rebellions, from the Reign of King Charles II. when an Act was made for the Attainder of several Perkins guilty of the Murder of King Charles I. to this Time; among which, that for attainting Sir John Fenwick, the &0;fighting against King William, is the most remarkable; it being made to attain and convict him of High Treson on the Oath of one Win ted, just after a Law had been enacted. That no Per son should be tried or attainted of High Treson where Corruption of Blood is inturrd, but by the Oath of two lawful Witeness, unless the Party con fess, fix he, &c. and c. 8 W. 3. rep. 5. But in the Cafe of Sir John Fenwick, there was something extraordinary; for he was indit l of Treson, on the Oaths of two Witeness; though but one only could be produced against him on his Trial. The 8 W. 3. c. 5. requires Sir George Barclay, Major General Holme, and other Perkins, to surrender themselves to the Lord Chief Justice, or Secretaries of State; or to be attainted. By the 15 W. 3. the pretended Prince of Wales is under Attainder of Treson, &c. And by 1 Geo. 1. c. 16. the late Duke of Ormond and others are attainted. And besides the Acts of Attainder, we have lately had Bills for inditing Pain and Penalties, as those against the late Bishop of Rochester, &c. Stat. 10 Geo. 1. in passing Bills of Attainder, no Evidence is necessary. See Evidence.

Attorney, (Attorney) Is he that is appointed by another Man to do any Thing in his Absence. Wyfem. Synb. Consp. Jurid. 105. An Attorney is either publick, in the Courts of Record, the King's Bench and Common Pleas, &c. and made by Warrant from his Client: Or private, upon Occasion for any particular Business, who is commonly made by Letter of Attorney. In ancient Times those of Authority in Courts had it in their Power whether they would suffer Men to appear or sue for any other but themselves; and the King was the only Person to whom he might be obtained for the Admission of Attorneys: But since that, Attorneys have been allowed by several Statutes. As by 27 Ed. 1. &c. At tertainment are made in such Pleas whereon Appeal lawful not: In Criminal Cases, there will be no Attor nies admitted. Stat. 6 Ed. 1. An Infant ought not to appear by Attorney, but by Guardian; for he cannot make an Attorney, but the Court may affign him a Guardian. In cases of Fine, &c. where the Offender cannot till Age, may be by Attorney, though admitted be fore by Guardian, &c. In Actions against Baron and Vice, the Person being within Age, the suit may appear by Guardian: But if they bring an Action, the Heire hand shall make Attorney for both. 1 Dauo. Abr. Qd. 46. But whereas none of the Pains or Fines be made, though the Wife cannot make Attorney, the Husband may do it for both of them. 2 Sand. 213. One now Campo Metts being within Age is to appear by Guardian for the Children of Age, before it do in by Attorney. 1 Lev. 135. An Idiot is not to appear by Attorney, but in proper Person. Attorneys or Bailleys. Are those Attorneys as take upon them the Business of other Men, by whom they are retained. In respect of the several Courts, there are Attorneys at large; and Attorneys special, belonging to this or that Court only. An Attorney may be a Solicitor in other Courts, by a special Ratification: One may be Attorney on Record, and another do the Business; and there are Attorneys who manage Bailiffs of the Courts, &c. Amo a 4 H. 4. it was enacted that the Judges should examine Attorneys, and remove the unskillful: and Attorneys shall swear to execute their Office truly, &c. The Stat. 3 Hen. 6. 7. was made to restrain the Number of Attorneys. And by 3 Stat. 1. cap. 7. Attorneys, &c. shall not allow any Fees laid out for Counsell, or otherwise, unless they have Pictures thereof signed by them that receive such Fees, and shall give true Bills to their Clients of all the Charges of Suits, under their Hands, before the Clients shall be charged with the Payment thereof; and if they delay their Clients Suits for Gain; or demand more than their due Fees and Disbursements, the Clients shall recover Costs and treble Damages; and they shall be fined for ever after disabled to act in Suits. None shall be admitted Attorneys in Courts of Record, but such as have been brought up in the said Courts, or are well practised and skilled, and of an honest Character, and no Attorney shall suffer any other to follow a Suit in his Name, on Pain of forfeiting 20 l. to be divided between the King and the Party grieved. This Statute as to Fees to Counsel, doth not extend to Masters transacted in inferior Courts, but only to Suits in the Courts of Woffington-Hall. Cart. 147. Attorneys, &c. are to take the Oaths to the Government and Law of Fidelity to Possess the Office. 17 Eliz. 3. cap. 6. By a late Order of all the judges, Attorneys are to be admitted of some Inn of Court or Chancery, except Hose-houses in London and Woffington, &c. shall be sworn, &c. an Attorney shall act till he be admitted: No Attorney shall put himself out as the Society he is admitted of, till he is admitted of some Inn of Society, and deliver a Certificate thereof: All and every Attorneys are to be in Commons the Times ordered by the Society to which they belong; and offending therein, shall be put out of the Roll of Attorneys. Ordin. Mich. 3. Am. Attachments have been granted against those who have disobeyed this Order, in not being admitted of some Inn, &c. after Service of the Order. And Attorneys may be committed for doing any Thing against the express Rules of the Court, having Notice of such Rules: As they may do for any ill Practices. The Act 2 Geo. 2. c. 25. ordains, That all Attorneys shall be sworn, admitted and enrolled, before allow'd to issue out Writs in the Courts at Woffington; and after the Fifth of December 1750, none shall be permitted to Practise, but such as have received a Clerkship of Five Years to an Attorney, and they shall be examined, sworn and admitted in open Court; and Attorneys shall not have more than two Clerks at one Time, &c. every Writ and Copy of any Process served on a Defendant, and also every Warrant made out thereon, shall be indorsed with the Name of the Attorney by whom issued forth; and no such Warrant shall issue unless the Attorney that make the Warrant shall tender the same to an Attorney for Fees till a Month after the Delivery of their Bills subscribed with their Hands: Also the Party who is in the mensal of such Attorney shall be paid the Fees and Warrants taxed, and upon the Taxation the Sum remaining due is to be paid in full of the said Bills, or in Default the Parties shall be liable to Attachment, &c. And the Attorney must pay the Costs of the Suits, if the Attorney do not, the Bill be reduced a forth Part. There is a Penalty of 50 l. inflicted, and Disability to Practise, for acting contrary to this Statue. By the 6 Geo. 2. c. 47. Permits having served Five Years as Clerks to Attor- neys, though not bound by Contract, or who had been bonded, but not served Five Years; and Sons of At- torneys that served that Time with their Fathers, &c. were to be sworn and admitted. By 12 Geo. 2. c. 13. Attorneys, &c. that Act in any County-Court, without being admitted according to the Statute 2 Geo. 2. shall forfeit 20 l. recoverable in the Courts of Record: And no Attorney who is a Prisoner in any Prison, shall set out any Writ, or profess Suits; if he doth, the Proceedings shall be void, and such Attorney, &c. is to be struck off the Roll. But Suits commenced before by them, may be carried on. A Clerk serving a Clerk- ship, and making his Surname Affirmation instead of an Oath, shall be admitted as an Attorney. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 46. Permits bound Clerks to Attorneys or Solicitors are to cause Affidavits to be made and filed of the Execution of the Articles, Names and Places of Abode of Attorneys or Solicitors and Clerk, and none to be admitted till the Affidavits be produced and read in Court; none having discontinued to take any Clerk. Clerks are to serve actually during the whole Time, and make Affidavits thereof. Permits admitted sworn Clerks in Chancery, or serving a Clerkship to a Fiduciary, may be admitted Solicitors. By the Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 29. By the same Act all Clerks that had been convicted of Forgery, Perjury, &c. shall practicile as an Attorney or Solicitor in any Suit or Action in any Court, the Judge where such Action shall be brought, hath Power to command the Clerk to appear in the next Seven Years, in such Writs, and under such Penalties as Felons. Attorneys of Courts, &c. shall not receive or procure any Blank Warrant for Arrests from any Sheriff, without Writ first delivered, on Pain of severe Punishment, Expulsion, &c. And no Attorney shall make out a Writ with a Clause Atitum Bills, &c. where special Bail is not required by Law. The Act 1 Eliz. 5. c. 3. is to be entered and file Warrant of Attorney in every Suit on Pain of 10 l. and Imprisonment. Stat. 32 H. 8. And the Plaintiff's Attorney is to file his Warrant the Term he terms he and the Defendant his the Term he terms he, he shall appear. 4 & 5 Ann. Action upon the Cause lies for a Client against his Attorney, if he appear for him without a Warrant; or if he pleads a Fiduciary for him, for which he hath not his Warrant. 1 Salk. 140. But if an Attorney appear without Warrant, and Judgment be had against his Client, the Judgment shall stand, if the Attorney be responsible: Contrariwise, if the Attorney be not responsible. 1 Salk. 88. Action lies against an Attorney for suffering Judgment against his Client by Warrant when he had given him a Warrant to plead the General Issue: This is understood where it is done by Coram. 1 Dauo. Abr. 185. If an At- torney makes Default in a Plea of Land, by which the Party loses his Land, he may have a Writ of Deems against the Attorney, and recover all in Damages. Ibid. An Attorney owes to his Client Secrecy and Diligence, as well as Fidelity; and if he take Reward on the other Side, or cause an Attorney to appear and confess the Action, &c. he may be punished. Hob. 9. But Action lies not against an Attorney retained in a Suit, though he knows the Plaintiff hath no Cause of Action; if only acting as a Solicitor in the Way of his Profession. 4 Lev. 117. 1 Mod. 209. jury at one Time, is Attorney at all Times, pending the Plea. 1 Daws. 609. And the Plaintiff or Defendant may not change his Attorney, while the Suit is depending, without Leave of the Court, which would redound to the Credit of Attorneys; nor until his Fees are paid. Mich. 14 Car. A Cause is to proceed notwithstanding the Death of an Attorney therein; and not be delayed on that Account: For if an Attorney die, the Plaintiff or Defendant may be required to make a new Attorney. 2 Keb. 275. An Attorney, Solicitor, &c., having Fees due to him, may detain Writings until his just Fees are paid: But if there be no Fees due to him, the Court on Motion will compel the Delivery of them. 1 Litt. 148. Any Papers may be detained by an Attorney till the Money is paid for drawing them; but he cannot detain Writings which are delivered to him on a Special Trust, for the Money due to him in that very Business, &c., if he doth, a Rule may be obtained that he shall deliver them by such a Day, or else the Attachment shall run against him. Mod. Cas. in Law and Equity 306. The Court will make a Rule for Delivery of Writings when they come to the Attorney's Hands by Way of his Business; and when they come to him in any other Manner, the Party must bring his Action. 1 Salt 87. Attorneys have the Privilege to sue and be sued only in the Courts of Record, where they Practice. They are not obliged to put in Special Bail, when Defendants; but when they are Plaintiffs, they may implead Special Bail in all Cases. 1 Vent. 293. Wood's Inst. 450. And they shall not be chosen into Offices, against their Wills. See Privilege.

Attorney of the Duchy Court of Lancaster, (Attornemarius Duci Lancastriae.) Is the second Officer in that Court; and free in his Skill in Law to be there placed as Adjudicator to the Chancellor, and chosen for some special Trust repaid to him, to deal between the King and his Tenants. Creede.

Attorney General, Is a Great Officer under the King, made by Letters Patent. It is his Place to exhibit Informations, and prosecute for the Crown, in Matters Criminal, and to the Bills in the Exchequer, for any Thing concerning the King in Inheritance or Profits; and others may bring Bills against the King's Attorney. His proper Place in Court, upon any special Matters of a Criminal Nature, wherein his Attendance is required, is under the Judges, on the Left Hand of the Clerk of the Crown: But this is only upon solemn and extraordinary Occasions; for ordinarily he does not sit there, but within the Bar in the Face of the Court. Assessment, (Assessment usum, from the Fr. Taxer) Signifies the Tenant's Acknowledgment of a new Lord, on the Sale of Lands, &c. As where there is Tenant for Life, and he in Reversion grants his Right to another; it is necessary the Tenant for Life agree thereto, which is called Assessment. It gives no Interest, but only perfects the Grant of another: And Tenant in Tail is not compellable to assess, on the Reversion being granted; he having an Edict of Inheritance. 1 Inst. 318, 319. This Assessment is in Deed, or in Law; voluntary and compulsory; and may be made by any Grantor, in their Words, voto. I attest to you as for the Deed, or I agree to the Grant, or I become your Tenant, &c. Or by any Words or Act which impart an Affront to the Grant. Lit. 531. 1 Daws. 513. It may be made by Payment of a Penny Rent, &c. to the Grantee. 1 Inst. 309. Where an Estate is granted to one for Life, Remitter to another in Fees, Assessment to the Tenant in Tail is to go to Easement. 1 Inst. 312. By Feoffment of a Manor, the Services do not pass without Assessment. 1 Daws. 612. But if a Personal Right passes to an Easement by Recovery; or where against copyhold, Fine is levied of Lands, or by Deed of Bargain and Sale inrolled, according to the Statute, there needs no Assumption, they being in by the Stat. 13 Hen. 8. cap. 10. And if a Reversion be devised by Will to another, the Estate passes without Assessment. 3 Hen. 6. This was a large Head in our Common Law; but now much of this Learning is out of Use: And by a late Statute, it is enacted, That all Grants and Conveyances of Mansoors, Lands, Rents, Reversions, &c., by Fine, or otherwise, shall be good without the Assumption of the Tenants of such Lands, or of the particular Tenant upon whose Estate any such Reversion, &c., shall be expectant or depending: But Notice must be given of the Grant, to the Tenant; before which he shall not be prejudiced by Payment of any Rent to the Grantee, or for Breach of the Condition for Non-payment. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. And Assumptions of Lands, &c., made by Tenants to Steal, shall be void, and their Landlord's Possession not affected thereby: Thus shall not extend to vacate, any Assessment made pursuant to a Judgment at Law, or with Consent of the Landlord; or on a forfeited Mortgage, &c. by 1 Gen. c. 2. 19.

Assize, or Assize, A Rent or Payment by Tenants of the Manor of Writs in Ejection, upon St. Leonard's Day, 6 November, for the Privilege of Pannage in the Lord's Wild Pigs, and the Lord's Pink Pig, a Year Old, an Half-penny; for every yearling Pig, one Penny; and for every Hog above a Year old, Two-pence.

Assize Court, (Curia Judicis Cantuarialis.) Is a Court belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury, having the same Authority with the Court of Archbishops, though inferior to it in Dignity and Antiquity. It is held in the Archbishop's Palace; and in former Times the Archbishops were wont to try and determine a great many Ecclesiastical Causes in their own Palaces; but before they pronounced their definitive Sentence, they committed the Matter to be argued by Men learned in the Law, whom they named their Auditors; and to this Rule grew our Speculators, who, at this Day, is called Consilium regium, or the Council of the Archbishop, which meets with or without any Point of contentious Jurisdiction; that is Deciding of Causes between Party and Party, but only such as are of Office, and especially as are Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, as the Granting the Custody of Spiritualities, during the Vacancy of Bishops, Indulgences to Benefices, Dispensation, &c. but this is now disdained from the Audience. The Auditor of this Court anciently by Special Commission was Vicar General to the Archbishop, in which Capacity he executed Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction of every Diocese, and was a great and eminent Man, within the Province of Canterbury. 4 Inst. 337.

Assize o terminis, A Writ, or rather a Commission to certain Persons, when any Infraction or Great Rite is committed in any Place, for the Appeasing and Punishment thereof. F. N. B. 110. See Oyer and Terminer.

Assize Petition, Is a Writ that lies where a Man has any great plead, but hath not a Day in Court to plead it: And it is usually brought where one is bound in a Statute-Merchant, Statute-Sacle, or wherein there is Judgment and Recovery; or when against copyhold, Fine is levied of Lands, or by Deed of Bargain and Sale inrolled, according to the Statute, there needs no Causeth why Execution should not be granted, as a Releaseth, or other Exception. This Withe is granted, by the Lord Chancellor to the Justices of either Bench, willing them to grant Summons to the County where the Execution is to be discharged or hindered, and from thence return to the Court at a certain Day. F. N. B. 102. To wit, Execution of the Defendant cannot plead so that if there be any Matter since the Judgment, to discharge him of the Execution, or to have Audita Querela upon which, the Justices shall hear the Complaint, and do Right: And Audita Querela cannot be brought on a Releaseth, until Judgment is entered of Record. 1 Med. 111. On a Statute, the Condemn or his Heir may bring Audita Querela, before Execution is fixt out: but this may not be done by a Stranger to the Statute, or a Purchaser of the Land. 1 Dows, Abr. 650. 2 Rep. 13. An Audita Querela is in Nature of a Suit in Equity, where a Person is charged with a Debt that is paid, or being released, Est. 2 Corv. 29. And there must be a Charge and Burthen come, or coming upon the Party that is to have it, of which he ought by Law to be discharged; and then it is to be in such a Cause wherein he hath no other Way to relieve himself: s. Corv. 29. Est. 2 Corv. 4. And it must be brought against the Proctoror himself, and sometimes against him and others that ought to bear Part of the Burthen with him, as a Leahy, a Condemn of him and his Affinage to repair, and the Leahy affign over, and the Covenant is broken; if the Leahy loses one of them and recovers Damages, and then lives the other, he may bring Audita Querela for his Relief. 1 Bro. 74. And where a Man hath Goods from me by my Delivery, and another takes them from him, so that he is liable to render them to me, and one of us has and recovers against him, his Remedy is this Withe. Dyre 432. One binds himself and his Heirs in an Obligation, if the Obliger recover the Heir, and after the Executors for the same Cause, Est. they may have the Withe Audita Querela. Plowd. 439. If two joint and several Obligors are sued jointly, and both taken in Execution, the Death of one Obligor will not discharge the other, so as to give him this Action; but if such Obligers be profecured severally, and a Satisfaction is once had against one of them, or against the Sheriff upon the Escape of one, the other may have it. H. P. S. 8 Rep. 87. Judgment is had against a Sheriff on an Escape of a Person in Execution, and after the first Judgment is removed for Error, the Plaintiff will have Relief by Audita Querela. 8 Rep. 142. If the Plaintiff hath had Satisfaction against one Trepasser, and he proceed to require it against the other, he shall have this Withe. Plowd. 60. And where there is Judgment against three, and one of them taken in Execution, they may all join in Audita Querela, when they have Cause to have the same. 3 Corv. 145. A Plaintiff that fiscs an Administrator, has his Letters of Administration revoked: the Defendant must be relieved by Audita Querela, for he cannot plead it. Stiley 417. If one accepts of a letter Sum of Money for a Greater due, and after the Day, and yet fies the Bond: this Withe will not lie, because it lieth only where a Discharge is in Law. Trin. 18. Fac. 1. B. R. It may be brought by an Infant in the King's Bench Common Pleas, to avoid a Statute acknowledged by him whilst he was within Age, 1 Corv. 208. Heir alone is charged, he may have this Withe against the theft to contribute to him. 3 Rep. 44. 2 Bulst. 140. Upon Audita Querela brought, a Superfectus shall go to try Execution: And the Judgment in this Action is of no Effect, but if the Audita Querela be undo and gotten, upon a false Surmise, it may be quashed. 1 Bulst. 140. This Withe lies not after Judgment upon a Matter which the Party might have pleaded before. Cro. Edw. 35. A bare Surmise is not sufficient to avoid a Judgment: But generally some Specialty must be shown. Cro. Fac. 579. Upon a Release or other Deed pleaded, no Superfectus will be granted till the Plaintiff in the Audita Querela hath brought in Writs into Court to prove the Debt: And if Execution be executed before, Bail is to be put in by Allowance of the Court. 1 Litt. Abr. 155. On Allowance of Audita Querela, Bail must be given in Court; unleis in Cases of Necessity, when it may be put in before two Judges. Palm. 432. And by Bail the Party is in Custody of the Law, and if he make not out his Audita Querela, he must render his Body in Execution again, or pay the Debt for which he is in Execution, or else his Bail must pay it. If after Judgment against Bail, the Principal is revestered, or the Money paid by the Principal; the Bail may have Audita Querela. Cro. Fac. 645. 8 Rep. 143. And it may be brought by the Bail to avoid an Execution against them, where no Proces is foot forth against the Principal in his Life-time, Est. Geld. 174. If one taken in Execution be set at Liberty by the Plaintiff, and afterwards taken again and detained in Prison upon the same Execution, he may bring Audita Querela to be enlarged; for by the full Enlargement by the Plaintiff the Execution is dischard, and an Execution once dischard evermore. 1 Litt. 92. If a Man nonsuit in an Audita Querela, may have a new Withe. F. N. B. 104. When Lands are extended on any Statute, &c. before the Time, Audita Querela lieth. 22, 46 E. 3. A Withe in the Nature of an Audita Querela, has been made out returnable in B. R. on a special Partion, setting forth the whole Matter. Fac. Gent. 109. And in some Cases after a Judgment, the Court will relieve the Party on Motion, without Audita Querela. 1 Bulst. 93.

Subsc. (Lat.) Is an Officer of the King, or some other great Person, who examines yearly the Accounts of all Under-Officers, and makes up a General R. Book, Book, which shews the Difference between their Recourses, and their General Allowances, commonly called Allowances: As the Auditors of the Enchaser, take the Accounts of those Receivers who collect the Revenues. 4 Inf. 106. Receivers Geerally have their Allowances, &c. are also termed Auditors, and hold their Audits for adjusting the Accounts of the paid Rents at certain Times and Places appointed. And there are Auditors allied by the Court to audit and settle Accounts in Affidavit of Account, and other Cases, who are proper Judges of the Cause, and Pleas are made before them. 1 Brom. 24.

Auditors of the Juniores, are Officers in the Exchequer, who have the Charge of auditing the great Accounts of the King's Customs, Naval and Military Expenses, of the Mint, &c. and any Money imposed for his Majesty's Service. ing the Death of a Man: As where a Person is suddenly drowned, or killed by any Accident, without Felony. 1 Inf. 391.

Brem, (peu Oscura, from the Fr. Oeuvre and average, operarius Operariorum) signifies a Day's Work of a Ploughman, formerly valued at 9d. It is found in Dom. Inf. 269.

Brestage, (accumulation) is paid to signify Service which the Tenant owes to his Lord by Hore or Carriage: But it is more commonly used for a Contribution that Merchants and others make towards their Lords, who have their Goods call'd into the Sea for the Safeguard of the Ship, or of the other Goods and Lives of those Persons that are in the Ship, during a Tempest. It is in this Sense called Average, because it is proportioned and allotted after the Rate of every Man's Goods and Estates. — Stat. 42 Hen. 3. 14 Car. 2. By the Laws of the Sea, in a Storm, when there is an extreme Neediness, the Goods, Wares, Guns, or whatsoever else is on Board the Ship, may (by consulting the Men) be thrown overboard by the Master, for the Preservation of the Ship; and it shall be made good by Average and Stat. 40 E. 3. But if the Master takes in more Goods than he ought, without Leave of the Owners and Freighters, and a Storm arilith at Sea, and Part of the Freighters Goods are thrown in, the Goods taken are made good or subjected to Average; but the Maker is to make good the Loss out of his own Estate: And if the Ship's Gear or Apparel be lost by Storm, the same is not within Average. Leg. Red. If Goods are cast over board before half the Voyage is performed, they are to be estimated at the Price they cost: But if they are ejected afterwards, then at the Price as the rest are sold at, the Port of Arrival. Leg. Omer. Where Goods are given to Pirates by Way of Com-promis to fave the rest, there shall be Average, by the Civil Law. — Average, is taken for a Small Duty, paid to Masters of Ships when Goods are sent in another Man's Ship, for their Care of the Goods, over and above the Freight. — Paying so much Freight for the said Goods, with Primitive and Average acceded. called. Gower.

Baris, Cattle: Spalana deduces the Word from the Fr. Oeuvre, Work, as if chiefly working Cattle: Though it seems to be more probably from Avern, to have or possess: the Word sometimes including all Personal Estate, as Castella did all Goods and Chattels. This Word is used for Oxen or Horses of the Plough; and a Barth is a general Sense and ant. — Henmis pro Averis jux, vin. Equus & Bovis, & affer graviter differint. M. Torn. in Ed. 2. 'Tis used in the same Sense in W. 2. 18. Averia Elignata; see Elignata.

fully driven away by another, and driven out of the Country where they were taken, so that they cannot be reprieved by the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. 82. If the Cattle are put into any Brong Place in the same County, the Sheriff may take the Puffi Cominatus, and break into it, to make the Replevin. 1 P. & M. But when they are driven out of the Country, he hath no Authority to purifie them.

Barterments, (Verificatis, from the Fr. Aeracs, i.e. Verificate, Teufari) Is an Offer of the Defendant to make good or justify an Exception pleaded in Abstain-tment or Bar of the Plaintiff's Action: And it signifies the Ad, as well as the Offer of justifying the Exception and not only the Form, but the Matter thereof. C. Litt. 62. Averment is either General, or Particular: General is that which, being made, is in Bar of a Replication, or other pleadings, con-ing Matter Affirmative, and ought to be with these Words, Et hoc paraus est verificasi, &c. Particular Averment is when the Life of Tenant for Life, or of Tenant in Tail, &c. is assured. Ibid. Where one Thing is to be done in Consideration of another, on Contrasts, &c. there must be an Assent of Performance: But where there is Promis against Promise, there must be an Assent or a Mot de force; 1 Lev. 87. The Use of an Assent being to af-certain what is alleged dubiously, Deeds may sometimes be made good by Assent, where a Perfon is not necessarily named; but when the Deed itself is void for Incertainty, it cannot be made good by Assent. 5 Rep. 155. Assent cannot be made against a Record, or Experiments in its left an undivided Lea. 1 Lev. 260. Nor shall it be admitted against a Will concerning Lands, 6 Rep. 68. And an Assent shall not be allowed where the Intent of the Testator cannot be collected out of the Words of the Will. 4 Rep. 44.
One may not aver a Thing contrary to the Condition of an Obligation, which is suppos'd to be made upon good Deliberation, and before Witnesses, and therefore not to be contradicted by a bare Assent. 1 Litt. Abr. 156.
If an Heir is fix'd on the Bond of his Ancelor, it must be aver'd that the Heirs of the Obli-gor were expressly named. 2 Sand. 135. Another Consideration than mentioned in a Deed, may be aver'd, where it is not repugnant or contrary to the Deed. Dyer 146. But a Consideration may not be aver'd, that is against a particular express Consideration; nor may Assent be aver'd against a Consideration mentioned in the Deed, that there was no Consideration given. 5 Rep. 135. Nor may an Assent be upon an Assent, and the Ufe shall be upon a Deed of another Ufe, against the Ufe expres'd in the Deed; but where no Ufe is expressed, or but incertaneously, an Assent shall be admitted, and not be an Express or Explicit Assent. 4 Rep. 75. An Assent may be of a Ufe upon any Fine, or common Recovery; though not of any other Ufe than what is expres'd in it: It may be receiv'd to reconcile a Fine, and the Exemption from it. 2 Bulle. 255. 1 And. 312.
If an Estate is made to a Woman that hath a Husband, by Fine or Deed, for her Life; in this Case it may be aver'd to be made to her for her Jointure, although there be another Ufe or Consideration expres'd. 4 Rep. 4. If a Piece of Ground was anciently called by one Name, and of late is called by another, and it is granted to me by this new Name; an Assent may be taken that it is all one Thing, and it will make it good. Dyer 37, 44. No Assent lies against any Returns of Writs, that are def-mitt'd: But a Thing restored, as the Return of a Sheriff upon his Writs, &c. But it may be where such are not-defmitt'd; and against Certificates upon Complaints out of any Court: Also against the Returns of Bailiffs of Franchises, so that the Lords be not prejudiced by it. Dyer 348. 8 Rep. 121. 2 Cor.
23. When Certainty is expres'd by Argument and Implication in Pleading, there it need not be aver'd.
2 Bulle. 95, 142. A Special Assent must be made upon the Pleading of a general Pardon, for the Party to bring himself within the Pardon, 1 Lev. 367. A Perfon may aver he is not the same Perfon on Appeal of Death in Favour of Life. 1 Nell. Abr. 305. But Plea merely in the Negative, shall not be aver'd, because they cannot be proved: Nor shall what is against Premotion of Law, or any Thing apparent to the Court. 1 Lev. 362, 373. The Statute of Wifdom. 15 Ed. 1. gives the Assent, not fum-monged according to Law, &c. on a Bond given to the Sheriff or Gavel, contrary to the 23 H. 6. there may be Assent by that Statute: Upon Bonds for Utters, The Utter may be aver'd by Virtue of 13 Eliz. And so in Cafe of Simony. Stat. 51 Eliz. But there is no Assent of Maintenance. 1 Tunn. Cent.

Augmentation, (Augmentation) The Name of a Court erned 37 H. 8. for determining Suits and Controversies relating to Monastaries and Abbey Lands.
The Intent of this Court was, that the King might be justly dealt with touching the Profits of such Religious Houses, as were given to him by Act of Parliament. It took its Name from the Augmentation of the Revenues of the Crown, by the Suppression of Religious Houses: And the Office of Augmentation, which hath many curious Records, remains to this Day, though the Court had been long since dissolved. Terms Annuit-Endowment, (past Hand Sub Weights, or from Aylia, the Handle of the Balance) An ancient manner of Weighing, by the hanging of Scales or Hooks at each End of a Beam or Staff, which by lifting up in the Middle with one Hand, and placing it in the other hand, the Equality or Difference between the Weight at one End and the Thing weighed at the other. This Weighing being subject to great Decay, was prohibited by several Statutes, and the even Balance commanded in its Stead. 34 Ed. 3. 8 Hen. 6. 22 Car. 2, &c. But nowwithstanding it is still used in some Parts of Englund: And what we now call the Balance, is a Sort of Hand-weighing among Butchers, being a small Beam with a Weight at one End, (which throws the Pounds by certain Notches) seems to be near the fame with the Banciatus. In the general Signification is when a Benefice is void of an Incumbent; in which Sense it is applied to Pertainy. Avoidances are either in Fact, as by Death of the Incumbent; or in Law: And may be by Ceillon, Depivation, Reification, &c. In the first Cafe, the Patron must take Notice of the Avoidance at his Prius, as to prefer within six Months to prevent Laiple to the Bishop; but in the last Cafe of Avoidances by Law, the Ordinary must give Notice to the Patron before he can have Title to present by Laiple. Dyer 347. There are Avoidances by Act of Parliament, wherein there must be a judicial Sentence pronounced to make the Living void: If a Man hath one Benefice with Cure, &c. and take another with Cure, without any Dismission to hold two Benefices, in such Cafe the first is void by the Ait 21 Hen. 8.

c. 15. If it was above the Value of 8 l. During an Avoidance, it is said that the House and Glebe of the Benefice are in Abyiance: But by the Stat. 28 Hen. 8.
cap. 11. the Proffits arising during the Avoidance are given to the next Incumbent, towards Payment of the Fifth-fruits; though the Ordinance does not appear to fis to provide for the Service of the Church, and shall be allowed the Charges of supplying the Cure, &c. for which Purpos the Churchwardens of the Parish are usually appointed. The next Avoidance of a Church may be granted by the Parish, and where the Church is full: If a Grant be made of the next Avoidance when it shall happen, and the Church be void at that Time, this will make the Grant void as to that very Avoidance; it may be good for the next Turn after that. A Grant of the next Avoidance is no more than a Chapter, and goes to Executors. Right Cl. 68.

2. Bodojusius, or Aedusius, (Fr. Aucor de Pead, i.e. Habere probus, aut juri esse panderis) Signifies a Weight different from that which is called Troy-Weight, which contains but twelve Ounces in the Pound, whereas this hath sixteen Ounces: And in this Respect it is probably so called, because it is of greater Weight than the other. It also signifies such Merchandizes as are weighed by this Weight: and is mentioned in divers Statutes, as 15 Ed. 3. 37 Edw. 3. c. 10. 2 R. 2. c. 1. Avcrum Penderis, full Weight, or Avoeusage. 3 Ed.

Aaneus, (Fr. Auenise) Is where a Man takes a Diffire for Rent or other Things, and the Party on whom taken is afe for a Replevin, then the Taker shall justify his Plea for what Cause he took it; and if he shall have Right, he must likewise the same, and auem to the Taking; but if he took it in Right of another, when he hath shewed the Cause, he must make Cognizance of the Taking, as Bailiff or Servant to the Person in whose Right he took the same. Terminus de Ley 70. If in a Replevin a Man justifies the Taking of Cattle in his Own Right, he must say bene advanc capitssum cvstitorium, GC. which is called an Avoeu: And where he adjures in the Right of another Person, then he says bene cognovit capitssum, GC. which is called a Cognizance 2 Litt. 454. The Avoeu must contain sufficient Matter for Judgment to have Return: But so much Certainty is not required in an Avoeu, as in a Declaration; and the Avoeu is not obliged to allude Seifin within the Statute of Limitations. Nor shall a Lord be required to auem on any Person in certain; but he must allude Seifin by the Hands of some Tenant within forty Years. 21 Hen. 8. c. 19. 1 Inst. 268. In Avoeu Seifin is the only Evidence for it, for so that where a Tenant hath done Homage or Fealty, it is a good Seifin of the other Services to make an Avoeu, though the Lord, GC. had not Seifin of them within forty Years 32 H. 8. cap. 2. 4 Rep. 9. A Man may disfain and auem for Rent due from a Copyholder to a Lord of a Manor: and also for Herites, Homage, Fealty, Amortements, GC. 1 Nelf. Abr. 315. If a Person makes an Avoeu for two Cases, and can maintain his Avoeu but for one of them, it is a good Avoeu: And if an Avoeu be made for Rent, and it appears that Part of it is not due, yet the Avoeu is good for the Rest. An Avoeu may be made upon two several Titles of Land, though it be but for one Rent; for one Rent may depend upon several Titles 1 Litt. Abr. 157. Saud. 285. If a Man takes a Diffire for Rent reserved upon a Lease for Years, and afterwards accepts a Surrender of the Land, he may nevertheless auem, because he is to have the Rent due notwithstanding the Surrender. 1 Dav. Abr 625. Where Tenant in Tail attains in Fee, the Donor may auem upon him, a Reversion being in the Dowry, whereunder the Tenant is incident. Ibid. 625. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder in Fee, the Tenant for Life may compel the Lord to auem upon him: But where there is Tenant in Tail, with such Remainder, and the Tenant in Tail makes a Feoffment, the Feoffee may not compel the Lord to auem upon him. 1 Davw. Abr 648. 1 Inst. 268. If the Tenant enfeoffs another, the Lord ought to auem upon the Letter of Attorney, &c. and sometimes by Law. 11 Rep. 98. An Authority that is given, must be to a Thing lawful; for if it be for the doing any Thing against Law, to as best a Man, take away his Goods, or dif- fide him of his Lands, this will not be a good Author- ity, to justify him that doth it. Dyer 103. Exem. 80. An Authority given to another Person, to do that which a Man himself cannot do, is void: And where an Au- thority is lawful, the Party to whom such must do the AD in the Name of him who gave the Authority. 11 Rep. 87. It is a Rule that every Authority shall be countermandable, and determine by the Death of him, that gives it, &c. A Husband may submit to Award for himself and his Wife, for her Goods and Chattels, to bind her. But an Infant may not make any Submission to an Award, or any other for him; for it will be void. Pard. 189. If several Persons do a Wroth to a Man, and one of their, and he to whom the Wroth is done submit to an Award; the other Persons, who were no Parties to the Submission, may take Advantage of it to ex- tinguish the Wroth. 7 H. 4. 51. And where the Award of Recompense for a Wroth done is performed, that Wroth is altogether determined: Also the Award of a Peronal Chastel, doth alter the Property of it, and give it to the Party to whom awarded, that he may have Decree for it. Dyer 183. A Submission is of all Actions and Demands, &c. though there be but one Cause or Matter between them, an Award may be made for this: And where two Things are sub- mitted, and the Award but of one good, for the Arbitrators have no further Notice of the other; though it be of three Things, or some Particulars, with a general Clause of all other Matters, in that Case they must make the Award for the Things particularly named, without any other Notice given. Dyer 216. 2 C. 150. 846. If the Submission be by di- vers Persons, and the Arbitrators Award between some of them only, this is good: But if a Submission is of certain Things in Special, with a Proviso in the Con- dition, that the Award be made of the Premises, &c. by such a Day, these the Award must be made of all, or it will be void. 8 Rep. 79. 89. An Award of all Actions Real, when the Submission is of Actions Personal, is not good. 10 Rep. 122. If the Submission be of Things personal, and the Award is, that one of the Parties shall do an Act real, in Satis- faction of a perfoid Injury, &c. or a Submission be of one Thing and the Award made of something incident to, or necessarily depending upon it; or if the Submission is of all Actions Real and Personal, and the Award only of Personal, &c. it will be good in their Causa: if nothing else is notified to the Arbitrators. Dyer 216. An Award made only on one Side, without any Thing on the other, is void in Law: As that one Side, when it give Bond for it, is imposed on both Parties, and he do nothing for it; but if it be to give Bond to pay, or to pay a Debt, and that $ the
The other shall be discharged of the Debt, &c. this is good: So where it is, that one Party shall pay Money to the other, and then the other shall release all Actions to him. 8 Rep. 72, 98. If divers Treasurers be referred to, and the Award is, that one of the Parties shall make the other Party Amend, or give a Release, and pay not what Ameds, or what Release, &c. it is void for Incertainty. 5 Rep. March 18. Award was, that each Party should give to the other a general Release of all Demands; provided, that if either of them like the Award within twenty Days after made, and within that Time pay to the Arbitrator to be void: It was held that the first Part of the Award was good, and the Proviso repugnant to it. It is used in our Common Law for the Freeing or Relesing at Liberty of one arrested or imprisoned upon any Action, either Civil or Criminal, on Surety taken for his Appearance at a Day and Place certain. Brach.
lib. 5. tract. 2. cap. 8. The Reason why it is called Baill, is because by this Means the Party restrained is delivered into the Hands of those that bind themselves for his forth-coming, in order to a Safe Keeping or Protection from Prifon: And the End of Bail is to fatisfy the Condemnation and Costs, or render the Defendant to Prifon. There is both Common and Special Bail: Common Bail is in Actions of small Concernment, being called Common, because any Sureties in that Case are taken; whereas in Cases of Greater weight, as Actions upon Bond, to put in Suit, &c. where the Debt amounts to 101. Special Bail or Surety must be taken, such as Subsidy-Men at least, and they according to the Value. 4 Lev.
179. By 4 State 11. none but the Bail shall be held in Four Bails on Proceeds out of any Superior Court, where the Cuse of Action doth not amount to 101. or upwards; or not out of any Inferior Court, to 40s. Affidavit is to be made of the Cause of Action, and filed before some Judge, or Commissioner of the Court whose the Writ issues, or before the Officer issuing it, and the Sum specified in the Affidavit indorsed on the Back of the Writ for which Sum Bail shall be taken, and no more: And if there be no such Affidavit and Indorsement, the Defendant shall not be arrested by his Body, &c. Stat. 12 Geo.
1. c. 29. To make out Common Bail-Pieces in the Margin you put the County, as Midd. If. Then you write the Name of the Defendant, and underneath of his Bail, win. A. B. de Parwich, &c. in Com. priv. Gen.
Traditum in Ballium super Corp. Corp. Johan. Doe de Lond. Ten. & Richardo Roe de. Lond. Ten. And in the Margin, at the Bottom, you put the Name of the Attorney, as Edwards Attorn. and on the Right-hand at the Bottom, Al foulam C.D. Herein you are to observe, that the Sureties Johan Doe and Richard Roe are taken of Course: And in Special Bail, the Bail and their Additions are to be inferred instead of Johan Doe, &c. which is all the Difference from Common Bail. Pratifs. attorn. Edit. 1. Their Bail-Pieces are written on a small Square Piece of Parchment, with the Corners cut off at Bottom: and if Common, they are to be filed in the Office of the Clerk of the Common Bank, within six Days after the End of the Term the Attorney appears: And Special Bail, which is taken before a Judge, or by Commissioners in the Country, when accepted, is to be filed; after Twenty Days Notice given of putting in Special Bail before a Judge, on a Copi Corpus, if there be no Exception, the Bail shall be filed in four Days. 1. Lev. 174.
Upon a Copi Corpus Twenty Days are excepted against the Bail: So on a Writ of Error; and you need not give Notice; but you cannot take out Execution without paying ten Foynes Rule; nor is better Bail: In all other Cases, Notice must be given.

Upon a Habebus Corpus, Eight and twenty Days are appointed to except against the Bail, and after that, it is not excepted against, it is to be filed in Four Days. 1. Saib. 98. The Exception to Bail put in before a Judge, must be entered in the Bail-Book, at the Judge's Side, or where he is put in, after this Manner: I do except against this Bail, A. B. Attorn. pro 22r. And if there be no such Exception, the Defendant's Attorney may take the Bail Piece away from the Judge's Chair, and file it as usual.
After the Roll is mark'd to have Special Bail, Common Bail may not be filed; but where the Roll is not thus thus marked, or where the Cause of Action is not expressed in the Writ, Common Bail is to be entered. Bail is not properly such until it is filed, when it is of Record: But it shall be accounted good, till the fact be made and disallowed. When Cognizance of Bail are questioned, they are to judiciously frame open Court, by Oath of their Abilities; or before one of the Judges of the Court; or by Affidavit before Commissioners as took the Bail: And the Court may adjudge Bail insufficient, when the Plaintiff will not accept of it. Alto the Court on Motion, or a Judge at his Chamber, will order a common Appearance to be taken, when Special Bail is not required, on Affidavit made by the Defendant of the Debt due, &c. The Putting in of a Declaration, and the Acceptance of it by the Defendant’s Attorney with the Privy of the Plaintiff’s Attorney, is an Acceptance of the Bail. If a Plaintiff accepts of an Affimation of the Bail-Bond, and the Defendant do not enter the same Bail that was in the Bond it shall be deemed a new Bond, and the Bail Bond that was in the Bond it shall be deemed a new Bond, and the Bail shall not be accepted against them; but ‘tis otherwise where he hath not taken an Affimation. Petre. Med. C3. 62. When a Sheriff hath taken good Bail of the Defendant, he will on a Rule return a Copy, and affix the Bail-Bond to the Plaintiff, which may be done by Affidavit without Stamp, so as it be not before Affected Bail was brought thereon; and then the Defendant and Bail may be arrested on the Bond, by the Plaintiff in his own Name. Stat. 1 & 2 15 Ann. But if the Plaintiff take an Affimation of the Bail-Bond, though the Bail is insufficient, the Court will not arrest the Bail. 1 sa. 99. By the ancient Practice, an Affirmation by the Defendant could not be put in Suit, till a Rule was had to arrest the Bail, for not having the Body at the Return of the Writ: And the Court now is, to play Proceedings on the Bail-Bond, if there is no Return of a Copy. Med. C3. 219. 3 sa. 57. In Case the Defendant do not find Common or Special Bail, the Attorney for the Plaintiff is to call on the Sheriff for his Return of the Writ; on Default whereof, a Rule being made upon it, the Sheriff shall be amerced, or summoned before a Judge to show Cause, &c. And if on a Copy to Pay Bail is returned, a Rule will be made out to bring in the Defendant’s Body. Though a Defendant, with Leave of the Court, may deposit Money in Court instead of Bail; and in such Case the Plaintiff shall be ordered to give other Bail. Litt. Abs. 219. 3 Car. B. R. Bail to the Action is to be taken before none but a Judge of the Court; but for Appearance may be before any Officer, and if it be illegally taken, or if it will not oblige one as 2 Car. 2 94. Sheriff, &c. are to let to Bail Perforce by them arrested by Force of any Writ, in any Personal Action, &c. upon reasonable Assurance, having sufficient within the County to keep their Days in such Place, &c. as the Writ requires. Stat. 25 Hen. 6, c. 10. And the Stat. 2 W. & M. provides against excessive Bail. No Defendant arrested by Processe shall be compelled to pay in Bail for a greater Sum than contain’d in the Writ or Processe; and if any Plaintiff shall declare against a Defendant under Bail, he shall not be put in for a greater Sum than is express’d in the Processe upon which the Defendant was arrested, then that Bail shall not be liable to the Action. 1 Litt. 81. But it is said Bail are liable to all Actions of the Plaintiff the same Term wherein he shall declare against the Defendant: Yet where an Attorney appeared for one in the King’s Bench, and Bail Bond was entered for his Client that Petition Against; it was agreed, that the Bail is not bound to stand Bail to all other Actions that shall be declared in an Action in the same party: But the Attorney is obliged to appear for him in all such Actions, and to put in Common Bail. Stile 654. If more Damages, are recovered than mentioned in the Plaintiff, or the Sum wherein the Bail is bound, the Bail shall not be liable. 1 sa. 103. So where a Declaration is laid in another County, when the Original is filed out in London, and Bail put in there upon it. 3 Lev. 253. An Order of Court was made Ann. 22 Car. 2. That in Case of Surcharge, if it be larger than in the Act, such Bail shall not be chargeable at all: But by a late Order, Bail is answerable for any less Sum which the Plaintiff bail recover. Oral. Paras. 5 Geo. 3. In Actions of Battery, Treponis, Slander, &c. though the Plaintiff is like to recover large Damages, Special Bail is not to be had, unless by Order of Court, and the Processe is marked for Special Bail: Nor is it required in Actions of Account, or of Covenant, except it be to pay Money; nor against Heirs or Executors, &c. for the Debt of the Tenant, unless they have walled the Tenant’s Goods. 1 Danw. Abr. 681. And in all Actions brought in B. R. upon any civil Law, the Defendant is to put in but one Bond, and in Actions of Account it is uncertain, Bail is to be at the Difcretion of the Court: On a dangerous Assault and Battery, upon Affidavit of Special Damage, a Judge’s Hand may be procured for Allowance of an Accrual in the Writ: And in Action of Scandalum Magnatum the Court on Motion had order’d Special Bail. Reym. 74. Special Bail is ordered by the Court. Oral. Paras. 5 Geo. 3. Causes of Removal, whether by Habeas Corpus, Writ of Privilege, Certiorari, &c. except where the Defendant is sued as Executor or Administrator: And a Cavaunt is to be entered with the Judges for good Bail. And when Bail is taken by the Chief Justice, or other Judge on a Habeas Corpus, the Bail taken in the inferior Court is dismissed; though the said Bail be not filed presently, nor till the next Term. Telis. 120. 121. Yet it has been held, where a Cause is removed out of an Inferior Court by Habeas Corpus, if the Bail below offer themselves to Bail above, they shall be taken, not being excepted against below, unless the Cause comes out of London. 1 sa. 97. If a Cause removed from an Inferior Court, is remanded back by Proceedings in the same Term, the Original Bail in the Inferior Court are chargeable, but not if remanded in another Term. 2 Car. 353. One in Execution in Custody of the Marshal of B. R. is not compellable to find Bail, if another Aetio be brought against him. But if he be in the Prorit of the First in Execution, on Action brought in B. R. he must be removed by the Judges to the Custody of the Marshal of that Court, or put in Bail to the Action. Trim. 25 Car. B. R. One taken on a Writ of Execution is not bailable by Law. But where a Writ of Error is brought and allowed, if the Defendant be not in Execution, there shall not be an Execution awarded against him, at the Request of the Bail, though he be present in Court. 1 Nelf. Abr. 373. The Bail ought not to join with the Principal, or the Principal with the Bail, in a Writ of Error to reverse the Judgment against either. 2 Car. 2. But the Bail upon a Writ of Error cannot render the Party in their Discharge; because they are bound in a Recognizance that the Party shall prosecute the Writ of Error with Effect. 1 Litt. Ab. 173. Before a Scire facias taken out against Bail, the Principal may render his Bond in Discharge of the Bail: And if the Bail bring in the Principal before the Return of the second Scire facias, it is good, though there be not immediate Notice of it to the Plaintiff; and if through Want of Notice, he is at further Charge against the Bail, that shall not vitiate the Surrondent, but the Bail shall not be delivered till they pay such Charges: If at any Time after the Return of the Copists, the Bail surrender the Principal at a Judge’s Chamber, and he thereupon is committed to the Tipstaff, from whom he shall not be good any Sufferer. But if it be before or on a Copist returned, it is otherwise, the one being an Indulgence, and the other Master of Right. 2 Ed. 5. c. 38. When a Person makes his Escape out of Prison, and is released and bail’d, the Bail shall be charged on a Writ to the Sheriff commanding him to keep the Prisoner in Discharge of the Justice or the said Justice against the Defendant returned Nov. 9. Inventum, Sede factum is no issue against the Bail. Where a Defendant renders his Body in Discharge of the Bail, the Plaintiff is by the Rules of the Court to make his Choice of Proceeding in Execution, whether he will charge Body, Goods, or Lands. 1 Litt. 183. And if the Principal after Judgment renders not himself in Discharge of his Bail, it is as the Election of the Plaintiff to take out Execution either against him or his Bail: But if he takes the Bail in Execution, though he hath not full Satisfaction, he Bail never after the Principal; and if the Principal be taken, he may not after Mingle with the Bail. Though where two are Bail, although one be in Execution, the Principal may take the other. 3 Ed. 5. Bail 68. If a Principal render himself, and there is none to require his Commitment, the Court is ex officio to commit him; and if the Plaintiff refuse him, he shall be discharged, and an Entry made of it upon the Record. Mem. 5. 1745. A Defendant having rendered himself to discharge the Bail, and prayed Entry of it in the Court asked the Plaintiff if he would have Execution of his Body, and he said no: The Bail was discharged. 1 Lem. 59. See Id. 210. There must be an Exoneree entered, to discharge the Bail. If the Defendant dies before a Copist or Justice, against him returned and filed, the Bail will be discharged. 1 Litt. 177. On the Death of the Principal, it’s impossible for the Bail to bring in his Body: And the Bail shall engaged that the Principal shall render himself, which must be intended upon Process awarded against him in his Life time. 1 Nill 328. A Bail cannot be a Witness for the Defendant at the Trial; but the Court, on Motion, will discharge the Bail, upon giving other sufficient Bail. Wood. 5. 482. In the Court of Common Pleas, when the Plaintiff hath obtained Judgment against the Defendant in Execution, or prosecute the Bail: And Part of the Debt may be levied on the Defendant’s Goods, and the Remainder is upon the Bail; but if the Plaintiff take the Defendant’s Body in Execution, he may not then mingle with the Bail. Exec. Leg. 91. 239. Execution may be had against the Bail, if the Defendant does not appear: And some of our Books say, that Lands of Bail are bound from the Time of the Recognizance, cr. entered into; and others that they are as good but from the Time of the Recovery of the Judgment against the Principal. Cr. 272. 440. If a Defendant puts in Bail by a wrong Name, the Proceedings shall nevertheless be good; for otherwise every Man instead, may take a False Name to his Attorney by which he will be bail’d, and then plead it in Arrest of Judgment. Golds. 138. But it hath been held, that if the Bail be entered in one Name, and the Declaration and all the Proceedings are by a contrary Name, it will be erroneous. 1 Cr. 223. So if those are Bail, and the Bail be taken off the File, the Plaintiff is without Remedy; Though a Habeas Corpus and Bail Payment, and bail’d in B. R. were evidence to be made out. Style 261. There is not only Bail to appear, &c. and on Writs of Error; but also in an Action of Debt, the knowledge of Bail shall be acknowledged, and upon a Writ of Aetion, to prosecute, &c. 1 Ten. Cent. 179. In London ‘tis said, Special Bail is to be given in Action of Account, &c. But on Removal by Habeas Corpus into B. R. that Court will accept common Bail. 2 Ed. 404. The Judges of the Courts at Wyminster have Power by Statute to appoint Commissioners in every County to take Notice of Bail, in Causes depending in their Courts; and to make such Rules for justifying the Bail as they shall think fit, &c. Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. Writ which hold the Defendant to Bail, ought to have the Cause of Action expressed: And where the Cause of Action is not expressed in the Writs, &c. Bail are to enter into Bond for the Defendant’s Appearance in a Sum not above 40 l. And on Appearance by Attorney, the Bail shall be acquitted. 13 Car. 2. cap. 2. Form of a Special Bail-Piece in English. Of the Term of St. Michael, in the Sixth Year of the Reign of King George the Second. Middlesex (so quo) A. B. of the Parish of, &c. in the County aforesaid, Gent. is addressed in Bail upon an Affidavit, &c. for, &c. to the said County, Greenewich, and G. H. of, &c. in the said County, Tennes. T. Edwards, &c. Attorney. As to Bail for Crimes, at Common Law Bail was allowed for all Offences except Murder. 2 Inj. 190. And if the Party accused could find sufficient Sureties, he was not to be committed to Prison; for all Persons might be bail’d till convicted of the Offence. 2 Inj. 180. But by Statute it was after enacted, that in Cases of Homicide the Offender shall not be bail’d: And by our Statutes, Murderers, Outlaws, House-burners, Thieves openly defined, are not bail’d; but where Persons are guilty of Larceny, are Accomplices to Felony, or guilty of light Subdivision, they may be admitted to Bail. Stat. 5 Ed. 1. c. 15. This Statute doth not extend to the Judges of B. R. &c. only to Sheriffs and other Inferior Officers. H. P. C. 48. 59. By the Common Law the Sheriff might bail Persons arrested on Suspicion of Felony, or for other Offence bailable; but he hath left this Power by the Stat. 1 Ed. 4. c. 2. Justices of Peace may let to Bail Persons suspected of Felony, or others bailable, until the next Sessions: Though where Persons are arrested for Man-slaughter or Felony, being bailable by Law, they are not to be let in Bail by Justices of Peace but in open Sessions, or where two Justices (Quarum amici) are present; and the fame is to be certified with the Examination of the Offender, and the Accusers bound over to prosecute, &c. 1 H. 7. 1 Ed. 2 P. & M. If a Person be dangerously wounded, the Offender may be bail’d till the Person is dead; but ‘tis usual to have Affirmation from the Chief Surgeon that the Party is like to do well. 2 Inj. 186. A Man arrested and imprisoned for Felony, being bailable, shall be bail’d before it appears whether he is T. guilty guilty or not; but when convicted, or if on Examination he confessions the Felony, he cannot be bailed. 4 Edw. 7. 178. For where in Manusher, Felony, &c. it is certainly known that the Party did it, he ought not to be bailed. To refuse Bail when any one is bailable; or to admit any to Bail who ought not for Law to be admitted, or to take slender Bail, is punish- able by Fine, &c. 2 Edw. 191. H. P. C. 97. If where a Felony is committed, one is brought before a Justice on Suspicion, the Person suspected is to be bailed, or committed to Prison; but if there is no Felony done, he may be discharged. H. P. C. 98, 106. The Court of B. R. bail in all Cases, and may bail Murder, &c. If a Man is found guilty of Murder by the Coroner’s Inquest, yet B. R. may bail him; for they may examine into the Depositions taken by the Coroner. 3 Edw. 104. But if a Criminal be indicted of Murder, the Court will not bai him, though upon Affidavit of Evidence which might discharge the Proceedings: Nor when a Person is found guilty of any Crime by the Grand Jury, because they cannot have Notice of what Evidence was before the Jury, by which their Oath they are obliged to conceal. 1 St. 10. 4. The Courts of King’s Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, in Term-time, and the Chancery in the Term or Vocation, may bai Persons by the Habers Corpus Act; but not such as are committed for Treason, Felony, or Maliciously expressed in the Warrant of Commitment; unless it be where a Seffions is put from the Time of the Commitment of the Prisoner, without Prejudice, when he may be bailed. And B. R. will not admit a Person to bail on the Habers Corpus Statute, on Commitment for Treason or Felony, without four Sureties. The Court of B. R. may bai Persons by the King’s Special Commission, or by the Privy Council, on the like Circumstances upon which it will grant Bail on other Commitments: This is where the Crime is specified in the Warrant of Commitment, and whereas any Commitment by the Privy Council hath not exprest with some Certainty the Crime alleged against the Party, it has been usual to adimit him to Bail on his Habers Corpus. 2 Haw. P. C. 107, 109. See Stat. 16 Car. 2 cap. 16. Formerly Persons committed for Treason, by the King’s Command, or Order of Council, were not to be deli- vered without Trial, &c. Upon a Commitment of either House of Parliament, when it stands indifferent on the Return of the Habers Corpus, whether it be legal, or not, the Court of B. R. ought not to bai a Person, but when it appears to be Legal, they may do it, as well as on an unwarrantable Commit- ment of the King and Council. 2 Haw. 110. And a Person committed for a Contemn, by Order of one of those Houses of Parliament, may be discharged by B. R. after a Diffusion or Prorogation, which determines all Orders of Parliament: Also it’s said on an Impeach- ment, when the Parliament is not Sitting, and the Party has been long in Prison, B. R. may bai him. The Court of B. R. hath baied Persons committed to the First Prize by the Lord Chancellor; when the Crime of Commitment was not mentioned, or only in general Terms, &c. 1 Haw. P. C. 111. And B. R. having the Control of all inferior Courts, may at their Discretion bai any Person unjustly committed by any of those Courts. In admitting a Person to Bail in the Court of B. R. for Felony, &c. a several Recogni- nce is entered into the King in a certain Sum from each of the Bail, that the Prisoner bai appear at a certain Day, &c. And also that the Bail shall be liable for the Default of such Appearance, Body for Body. And it is at the Discretion of Justices of Peace, in the favour of a Person for Felony, to take the Recognizance in a certain Sum, or Body for Body; But where a Person is bai by any Court, &c. for a Crime on an Interior Nature, the Recognizance ought to be only in a certain Sum of Money, and not Body for Body. 2 Haw. 115. And the Bail are to be bound in double the Sum of the Criminal. Where Persons are bound Body for Body, if the Offender doth not appear, whereby the Recognizance is forfeited, the Bail are not liable to such Punishment to which the Principal would be liable, but only to be fined, &c. 2 Haw. 116. If Bail fail- ing the Prisoner will fly, they may carry him before a Justice, and find Sureties; or to be committed in their Charget. 1 Rep. 99.

"Ballif" (Ballio) From the French word Ballif. That is Projetis Province, and as the Name, to the office itself. 14 Edw. 3 cap. 48 that Ballif to that of France; where there are eight Parliaments, which are high Courts from whence there lies no Appeal, and within the Precincts of the several Parts of that Kingdom which belong to each Parliament there are several Provinces to which Justice is minisitred by certain Officers called Ballifs. And in England we have several Counties in which Justice hath been administered to the Inhabitants by the Office of Ballif. We now call Sheriff or Prifon, (one of which Names descends from the Saxons, the other from the Normans,) and though the Sheriff is not called Ballif, yet the Office that was one of those Names also, because the County is often called Ballif: As in the Return of a Writ, where the Person is not arraigned, the Sheriff Lieth, Exemimmittitur A. B. non jussi et praebentium. Esth. 10. A. f. 3 Edw. 3 cap. 285. And in the Statute of Magna Carta, cap. 28. and 14 Edw. 3 cap. 9. the Word Ballif seems to comprise a great variety of Officers, as Ballifs, of Hundreds. As the Realm is divided into Counties, to every County is di- vided into Hundreds; within which in ancient Times the People had Justice minisitred to them by the several Officers of every Hundred, which were the Ballifs, as those Officers do in France and Normandy, being chief Officers of Justice within their Precincts. Cufum. of Normandy, cap. 1. And it appears by Bradton, Lib. 3 Edw. 15. that the Power of the Ballift was much in- cidently held Pia of Appeal and Approvers: But since that Time the Hundred Courts, except certain Franch- chies, are by the Stat. 14 Edw. 3. swallowed in the County-Courts; and now the Ballif’s Name and Offi- ce is grown into Contemp, they being generally Officers to serve Writs, &c. within their Liberties. Though in other Refedels, the Name is still in good Eledem; for the Chief Magistrates in divers Towns, are called Ballifs. And sometimes the Persons to whom the King’s Calles are committed are termed Ballifs, though they are intirely different. And in other Cases Ballifs are several Sorts, in Writs of Litigations, Ballifs, the Lord’s Millions, and the Port’s Millions, Ballifs, or Ballifs of Liberties are those Ballifs who are appointed by every Lord within his Liberty, to execute Process and do such Offices therein, as the Ballift Ernact doth at large in the County; but Ballifs errant or itineraries, to go up and down the County to serve Process, are out of Use. Ballifs of Liberties and Franchisies, are to be sworn to take Differties, truly impained Jurors, make Returns by Indemnity between them and Sheriff, &c. and shall be punished for malicious Differties, by Fine and tre- ble Damages, by ancient Statutes. 13 Edw. 1. 12 Edw. 2. The Ballif of an hundred, may make an In- quisition and Extent upon an Estate: The Sheriff re- turned a Writ of Extent, that the Party had not any Land but within the Liberty of St. Edmondsbury, and that J. S. Ballif there had the Execution and Return of all Writs, and that he inquired and returned an Extent by Inquisition, and the Ballif delivered the Money of the Lands extended to the Plaintiff to Balliff, that Eland had a Balliff, &c. and it was held a good Return. 3 Cr. Rep. 191. Those Ballifs of Liberties cannot arrest a Man without a Writ from the Sheriff of the County: And yet the Sheriff may not enter the Liberty himself.

Bam, or Bani, (from the Brit. Bani, i. e. Clama) Is a Proclamation, or publick Notice; any publick Business or Bank, whereby a Thing is commanded or forbidden. It is a Word Ordinary among the Feu dills; and there is both Banius and Bannum which signify two several Things. This Word Bani we use here in England, especially in publishing Marriages by Marital Contracts, which is done in the Church before Mar riage, to the End that if any Man can speak against the Intention of the Parties, either in Respect of Kindred, or Contrary, or for other Just Cause, they may take their Exception in Time, before the Marriage is comfutated: And in the Canon Law, Baneo est Proclamationis, . dupio & simplex in Ecclesia, fori publico. But there may be a Faculty or Licence for the Mar riage, and then this Ceremony is omitted: and Mini sters are to be so solemn as to assume Marriages without a Licence, except the Baui have been first published three several Times, upon Pain of Su dputation, &c. Cer. Gen. 02. See the Stat. 7 & 8 H. 3. c. 35.

Bamtut, A Covering of Rafe and Ornament for a Bench, or other Seat; mentioned in the Monacism, Tom. 3. pag. 272.

Bane, (from the Sax. Banm, a Murderer) Signifies Destruction or Overthrow: As, I will be the Bane of such a Man, is a common Saying; so when a Person receives a most grievous Injury by any Thing, we say, he is a Bane to his Banm; and he who is the Caule of another Man's Death, is said to be Le Bane, i. e. a Malefactor. Brad. lib. 1. trad. 6. cap. 1.

Bæntere, (Baronets, Mifs Preclarioria) Sit The

Smith, in his Repub. Angl. cap. 18. 479, is a Knight made in the Field, with the Ceremony of cutting off a Point of his Standard, and making it as it were a Banner; and accounted so honourable, that they are allowed to display their Arms in the King's Army as Barons do, and may bear Arms with Supporters. Comended, in the first fol. 109. hath the Right of a Baronet, cum Vesperalius nonum dixit examer, a Barone nibus faciendis erant; quisquis indixit numen a Vizella; Canicuillum erat belli in Virtute erga quadratutu pedestris (sed et Barones) est, undeque Venetii Callamor, in unam collecti, &c. 'Tis said that they were anciently called by Summons to Parliament: And that they are next to the Barons in Dignity, appear by the Statute 14 R. 2. c. 11. and 5 R. 2. Stat. 4. cap. 4.

William de la Pole was created Baronet by K. Edward the Third, by Letters Patent, Ann. Regni sui 15. And those Baronets who are created hab. ecclesiastic Regiis, in exercitibus Regibus, in apere Bello, & 156 Rege perfarral litter profficiens, explicante, take Place of all Barons; as we may learn by the Letters Patent for Creation of Baronets, 4 seq. 6. Some maintain that many Baron nets ought to be made in a Civil War: But Hen. 7. made divers Baronets upon the Cureth Commotion, in the Year 1495. See Sidde's Title of Honours, 7-799.

Bannishment, (Fr. Bannissement) Exile, Adjura

tion, is a Forbraeking or Quitting of the Realm; and a Kind of Civil Death, inflicted on an Offender: There are two Kinds of it, one Ordinary and upon Oath, whereof you may read Adjuration; and the other upon Compulsion, for some Offence. Stauar. Pl. Cf. r. 117.

By Magna Charta, None shall be outlawed or banished his Country, but by lawful Judgment of his Kings, or according to the Law of the Land. 9 Hen. 3. c. 29. And by the Common Law no Person shall be banished, but by Authority of Parliament; or in Case of Abja ration for Felony, &c. but this is taken away by Statute.

3 In. 115. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. c. 28. See Abja ration.

Bans, (Lat. Bencus, Fr. Bonque) In our Common Law, is usually taken for a Seat or Bench of Judge ment; as Bank Le Roy, the King's Bench, Bank de Common Pleas, the Bench of Common Pleas, or the Common Bench; called also in Latin Banus Regius, and Bausm Communion Placitum. Cump. Jul. 67.

91. Iu Bani, or the Privilege of the Bench, was anciently allowed only to the King's Judges; qui summ a administranit judicium; for inferior Courts were not allowed that Privilege. There is another Sort of Bani, which signifies a Place where a great Sum of Money is let out to Use, removed by Execution, or otherwise disposed of to Proft: And a Bank of Eng land managed by a Governor and Directors, established by Parliament, with Funds for maintaining thereof, appropriated to such Purposes as were Subscribers, the Capital Stock, which is enlarged by divers Statutes, is is exempted from Taxes, assumed a Personal Efftact affordable over, not subject to Forfeiture and the Company make Dividends of the Profit Half- yearly, cr. The Funds are redeemable, the Profit is owing to paying the Money borrowed: And the Company of the Bank, is to continue a Corporation, and enjoy Annuties till redeemed, cr. During the Continuance of the Bank, as Body Politic, cr. other than the Company, shall borrow any Sums on Bills payable at Demand; and Forgery or Altering Bank Notes, or tendering such forged Notes in Payment, demanding to have them exchanged for Money, cr. is Felony. And Officers or Servants of the Company, that embezzel any Bank Note, cr. whereby they are intruded, being covetously called shall suffer Death as Felons. Fide the Statutes 5 & 6, and 8 of 9 W. 3 and 7 Anne, cr. See also 1 Geo. 1. c. 12. and 5 & 6 Geo. 1. c. 8.

Bankers, The money's Goldsmiths first got the Name of Bankers in the Reign of K. Charles the Second, as by the Words of an Act of Parliament, Anno 25 of 25 Car. 2. app. to several Persons being, and others, by taking up or borrowing great Sums of Money, and lending out the same again for extraordinary Hire and Profit, bona gente and good Name of Banker: The Officers of Appointment and Name of Bankers, cr. thus runs the Statute: But Bankers of last are those Goldsmiths and private Persons in whose Hands Money is lodged and deposited for Safety, to draw out again as the Owners have Occasion for it; and the Bankers, instead of lending abroad the Money thus deposited, usually traffic with it in Exchanges, or, at least, confided to their great Advantage, they being generally Men of great Estates.

Bankrupt. (Bankar rupt) is so called, because when the Bank or Stock is broken or exhausted, the Owner is said to be a Bankrupt. And this Word Bankrupt is derived from the Fr. Banqueroute, which signifies a Breaking or Failing in the World: Banque in French is a Castle, and in Latin, and remus is the same as Fugitio: and this Term is said to be taken originally from the Roman Menabri, which were set up in publick Places, and when a Tradesman flipp'd away, with an Intention to deceive his Creditors, he left only some Fugia or Signa of his Table or Shop behind him. Credit. But a Bankrupt with us signify-generally either Men or Women, that Living by Buying and Selling hath gotten other Men's Goods into his or her Hands, and hides them himself in Places unknown, or, in his own House, in order to deceive and defraud his Creditors. 4 Sib. 277. And by Stat.
1 Jac. 1. c. 15. a Bankrupt is thus defined, viz.
All and every Person who shall use the Trade of Merchandize in Buying and Selling, whether a Merchant or otherwise in Gros, or by seeking or his or her Living by Buying and Selling, shall depart his House, or absent himself, or suffer himself to be arrested, or his Money or Goods attached; or make any fraudulent Conveyance of his Lands, Goods, or Chattels, whereby his Creditors may be defrauded in the Recovery of the Debts: or being arrested for Debts shall lie in Prison six Months, or more, upon such Arrest or Detention, shall be adjudged a Bankrupt. The 21 Jac.
1. c. 19. hath other Definitions of a Bankrupt; but they are all committed by a late Statute. It is commitning any Person to be a Bankrupt, or to use the Trade of Buying and Selling of Land, but of personal Things, that will make a Man liable to be a Bankrupt; nor is it only committed, but put both Buying and Selling.
Every one that gets his Living by Buying and Selling in Trade and Merchandize, may come un der the Denomination of a Bankrupt, upon his Failing threin. But Adventurers in the East-India Company, Members of the Bank of England, of the South-Sea Company, and other Societies, shall not be adjudged Bankrupts, in Respect of their Business or any Person concerned as Receiver General of Taxes, cr. shall be a Bankrupt: And Farmers, Graziers, cr. are, exempted out of the Statutes: as Buying and Selling is not their only or principal Means of Livelihood.
14 Car. 2. 7 & 10 W. 3. 3 Anne, cr. An In-keeper is not within the Statutes, for though he buys Provision to be spent in his House, yet he doth not properly fill it, but alters it to his Guests at no certain Price. Cr. Car. 355. And a Taylor is not within the Statute of Bankrupts, because he lives by Making of Garments, and not by Buying and Selling.
A Shoemaker hath been adjudged within the Statutes, as he lives by his Credit in buying Leather, and telling it again in Shops, cr. And Carpenters in London, Weavers, Dyers, Tanners, Bakers, Brewers, Vine-ers, cr. may be Bankrupts: But Handsome, Husbands, Labouers, cr. are not within the Statutes. Cr. Car. 21. 1 Cor. Yr. 581. 3 Mod. 390.

Feme sole Merchant in London trade be a Bankrupt, if a Merchant gives over his Trade, and some Years after becomes non solvent for Money he owed while a Merchant, he is a Bankrupt: But if it be for any Debts, or old Debts continued on new Security, it is otherwise. 1 Feste, 5. 29. A Banker who hath many Peoples Money in his Hands refuses Payment, yet keeps his Shop open, and as far as he is arrested gives Bail; by this Means he may give Preference of Payment to his Friends; and if when he hath done he runs away, such Payment shall stand against him.

Million of Bankrupts. Farthing 159. If after a plain Act of Bankruptcy, one goes abroad and is a great Dealer, yet this will not purge the said Act of Bankrupts; though if he pays off or compounds with his Creditors, he is become a new Man. Trias. 2 Ann.
1 Salk. 110. A Man born in England goes over to Ireland, and there trades and buys Goods in England, and sells them in Ireland, and being indebted in England becomes Bankrupt, adjudged a Bankrupt in England.
Ry. 375. A Gentleman of the Temple went to Lit-ban, and traded to England and broke, it was adjudged he was a Bankrupt by Reason of his Trading hither and back again, which gain'd him Credit here, though he was out of the Realm. Salk. 110. Where there are two Partners in Trade, and one of them not charge the other with the Whole; but the Estate belonging to the joint Trade ought to be divided, cr.
Mod. Mod. Rep. 45. And if one of them becomes a Bankrupt, it will not affect his Companion. 1 Salk. 110.
Afts discharging Bankrupts, shall not discharge any Partner in Trade, or one joint bound with the Bankrupt. 1 Danw. 686. A Merchant Trader, whose Trade is debased, keeps in another Man's House, or on Shipboard, adjudged a Keeping in his House: But a Withdrawal must be on Purpose to defraud Creditors; and if a Man goes sometimes at large, so as he may be met with one Time or other, it will excuse him.
The Commissioners of Bankrupts have the Power to adjudge a Man a Bankrupt; yet in an Ablain the Jury must and whether he was, or not. 1 Darw. 687.
He that is in Bankrupt to one Creditor, is accounted in Law a Bankrupt to all the Creditors; and being once adjudged so, is always so to the rest of the Creditors. 22 Car. 1. 8. R. Commissioners may commit a Bankrupt refusing to be examined, cr. till he submit himself to be examined. 1 Salk. 151. But the Commis-fioners are not to commit Afts discharging his Estate, without examining him on Interrogatories. 1 Litt. 1st. 201. They are to examine the Bankrupt upon Interrogatories, and have the Power to examine others, as to what they know of any Persons carrying away any Part of the Bankrupt's Estate.
5 Mod. 509. Commissioners of Bankrupts have Power to sell, grant and assign, but they cannot bring an Action; for their Assignees must generally bring all Actions which arise out of them. The Creditors have Eight to the Bankrupt's Goods, by the Act of Bankruptcy, and thereby they are bound: Though until Assignment by the Commissioners, the Property is not transferred out of the Bankrupt's Estate, 4 & 5 Will. 3, c. 159. The Commissioners are to sell all the Bankrupt's Goods in Fee, for Life, or Years, &c., and it will be binding against the Bank-rrupt and his assigns, &c., 1 Lif. Act. 201. They pay all encumbrances on the Goods in Probation, Revivor, or Remainder, except entails in the Crown, of the Gift of the King; and this shall bind the Issue in Taf, and all others, which a Common Recovery might cut off.
Ibid. 207. But Sales of the Bankrupt's Goods by Commissioners, are to be by Deed recorded. If a Bankrupt grant his Goods or Lands in the Names of other Persons, the Commissioners notwithstanding may make Sale of them: But not Lands, &c., convey'd bona fide before the Parish became a Bankrupt. Woolf's B. 910.
And a Purchaser of Lands shall be impeached, unless the Commissioner of Bankrupt be sold out within five Years after a Man becomes Bankrupt, Lands held by a Bankrupt in Jointure, may be sold as to the Money: Also Lands which a Person hath in Right of his Wife, but not his Dower, Lands devoted to a Bank-rrupt, the Commissioners may sell. The Creditors have Power to sell Lands mortgaged, on Tender and Payment of the Arrearages due. 3 & 4 Will. 3, c. 254. And Assignees of the Creditors, have the Benefit of Covenants of Re-entry, &c., on Lands. If a Bankrupt commissions Creditors, it is found his Lands shall be sold, and the Creditors may sell it: and the Creditors shall have his Goods, but the King. 1 H. 5, c. 40.
All the Goods and Chattels of the Bankrupt, which he still hath, are to be sold at the Time of his becoming Bank-rrupt, may be sold by the Commissioners; and withstanding the Bankrupt sell them in Market open.
Sale of Goods by a Bankrupt, after an Act of Bank-rrupt, is against the Creditors of the Bankrupt; and they may in this Case bring Treaver for the Goods, or Debt, or Affirmity for the Value, &c., 5 Lif. Act.
60. Officers of Inheritance may be sold; but not Offers of Trust, annexed to the Person for Life. Assignees may bring Actions for Debts due to the Bankrupt in their own Names, &c. But if the Commissioner be not taken out within Six Years, directed by Law for Sale of Debt, and the Assignee made within that Time, A Defendant in an Action may plead the Statute of Limitations: If the Commissioner be taken out in Six Years, the Statute preferres the Debt, being to relieve the Creditors against Fraud, &c., 1 S. 3, c. 1. When Money is obtained by Judgment in Action of Debt, &c., and becomes Bankrupt, &c., 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 15. A Commis. of Bankrupt is taken against him, though the Sheriff may bring the Money into Court, it shall be delered to the Plaintiff, and not the Assignees of the Commis., unless it be taken out of the Sheriff's hands,

Trustees for the Bankrupt, and others concealing his Effects, shall suffer Treasons, &c. to take place of 100l. and double the Value. But Persons discovering the Bankrupt's Estate are allowed 3l. per Cent. for such Discoveries, which are vested in the Commissioners, or by them appointed. And the Commissioners are to certify to the Lord Chancellor, that the Bankrupt hath conform'd, and Four Parts in Five, in Number and Value, of the Creditor must sign the Bankrupt's Certificate. None are to vote for the Choice of Affignees, whose Debt doth not amount to 10l. and no Commission shall sit, except the Debt of one Creditor petitioning amounts to 100l. of two Creditors 150l. or of three Creditors to 200l. and Bond is to be given of 200l. Penalty for proving the Party a Bankrupt. Bankrupts conforming to have an Allowance of 5l. per Cent. not exceeding 100l. where their Estates pay 8l. in the Pound, &c. The 6 Geo. 1. c. 31. empowers any Judge of the Court wherein Judgment hath been obtained against a Bankrupt, for any Debt owing before he became Bankrupt, the Bankrupt being in Prison or Execution, to discharge the Debtor by producing his Certificates, and by the 7 Geo. 1. c. 31. Persons having Bills, Notes, &c. upon Bankrupts, payable at a Day to come, shall be admitted to prove them as if due presently, and be included in the Bond of the Bankrupt. Allowing a Discount of 5l. per Cent. and Bankrupts shall be discharged from such Notes: But no Creditor in Receipt of such Debt shall join in any Petition for fusing forth any Commission of Bankrupts, till the Debt is actually due. By the 2 Geo. 2. c. 23. the Act 5 Geo. 1. was rescinded; and Persons declared Bankrupts before the Expiration of this Statute, were entitled to Relief and Debarment from Debts, and the Lord Chancellor to proceed, and allow of Certificates, &c. as if that Act was in Force; so as they obtained their Certificates before the 25th of March 1772. The 5 Geo. 2. c. 30 ordains, that if Bankrupts do not, after Notice in the Gazette, surrender to the Commissioners in forty-two Days, to be examined, and discover and deliver all the Estates Real and Personal, they shall be adjudged guilty of Felony: but the Lord Chancellor may enlarge the Time for Surrendering, not exceeding sixty Days further: They are to deliver all Books of Account, Writings, &c. on Oath to the Affignees; and shall be allowed 5l. per Cent. so as not to exceed 100l. where they pay 10l. in the Pound, 7l. 10s. per Cent. if not paying 10l., if they pay 15l. 10s. per Cent, and 10l. 5s. per Cent. not exceeding 100l. if they pay 16l. in the Pound; but no Advantage is given to any Bankrupt who hath been 6l. a Day, 100l. a Year at Cancelling, or 100l. by Stock-jobbing, &c. And the Body of the Bankrupt only, not his Section, to be discharged, except he pay 15l. per Pound. Four Parts in five, in Number and Value of Creditors, not for less as 20l. are to sign Certificates, and content to the Bankrupt's Discharge, &c. of which Oath is to be made, and such Creditors are to be heard against it: Bonds or Notes given to any Creditor to confer to a Certificate, shall be void; and if the Person signing any Commission have privately more than the Share allotted them, the Commission shall be declared, and he shall lose his Debt. No Commission of Bankrupts shall be granted, unless the Debt of one Creditor amount to 100l. or of two Creditors to 150l. or of three to 200l. And Affidavits made thereof, &c. Bankrupts are to be apprehended, on a Commission issued and certified, by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant, and refusing to be examined, the Commissioners may commit them: Notice shall be given to Creditors to meet and choose Affignees, and prove Debts, &c. which they may do without paying Contributions, or to be allowed 5l. per Cent. Concerning Trusts, to be forfeited 10l. and double Value. New Affignees may be chosen by the Creditor; and the old ones shall deliver up Effects to them, under the Penalty of 10l. and double the Value. Affignees may compound for Debts due to the Bankrupt, &c. And after the End of four Months within twelve Months are no Account, and them a Dividend shall be made; and there may be a second Dividend in eighteen Months, if the Estate be not wholly divided on the first, which shall be final, unless any Law-Suit is depending, or the Effects are disposed of. &c. On Petition to the Lord Chancellor, Proceedings may be entered on Record, and Copies given in Evidence. The Commissioners to take an Oath for faithful Execution of their Trusts; to be allowed 20s. a Day, and nothing for Expenses; and Attorneys and Solicitors Bills, are to be adjusted by a Maller in Chancery. Bankrupts and Debtors are subject to the Statutes of Bankrupts; but no Receiver General of Taxes shall have any Benefit by this Act. In Order to the Taking out a Commission of Bankrupts, it is usual first for a Creditor to make Affidavit before a Maller in Chancery, that the Party is indebted in a Sum sufficient to make him a Bankrupt: then to petition the Lord Chancellor for the Commission; give Bond to prove the Person a Bankrupt, &c. without some one of the Statutes: And next follows the Commission, directed to five Commissioners, (whereof two shall be of the Bench) to examine the Quorum: And when the Commission is executed, and the Party hath conform'd to the Statutes, his Certificate is granted and allowed, &c. By the Stat. 15 Geo. 3. c. 52. no Creditor bona fide of a Bankrupt or in Receipt of any Goods really sold to such Bankrupt, or of all Bill of Exchange really and bona fide drawn, negotiated, or accepted by such Bankrupt, shall be liable to refund to the Affignees any Money, which before the Suing forth the Commission was really and bona fide, and in the usual Course of Trade, received by such Person of any Bankrupt before Notice that he was become a Bankrupt, or in Infant Circumstances. And where a Commission issues against the Obligor in a Bottomree or Rejoinder Bond, or the Under-Writor or Affirmer in an Affidavit, before Loss of the Ship or Goods, the Obliger or Affirmer may claim, and after Loss prove his Debt in like Manner as if the Loss had happened before the Suing forth the Commission, and have a proportionable Dividend. And the Bankrupt shall be discharged from the Debt due by the Bond or Policy, and have all Advantages of the Statutes now in Force, as if the Commitment had happened before the Suing forth the Commission.

Bargain and Sale. Is an Infrum whereby the Property of Lands and Tenements is for valuable Consideration transferred from one Person to another: It is called a Real Contrauct upon a valuable Consideration, for passing of Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, by Deed indented and enrolled, 1

H. 61. 1. Ass. Cons. 4. Vol. 62. And it is also where a Recompense is given by both the Parties to the Bargain; at if once bargains and sells his Land to another for Money where the Land is a Recompense to him for the Money, and the Money a Recompense to the other for the Land. 1 Litt. Atr. 205. Bargains and Sales of Lands are to be in Writing indented, and enrolled in one of the Courts of H. Foolther, or in the County where the Lands lie, before the Cyga Ralphum, Jufficer of the Pesc. &c. And the Indoa-ment forms used within Six Months previous to the End of the Deeds. Stat. 27 H. 8. c. 16. But this Statute extends to Bargains and Sales of Inheritance and Freehold only; and not to Bargains and Sales for Terms of Years, &c. for they are good though not enrolled, nor by Deed indented, 2 R. 36. Holders and Lands in London, and any City, &c. are exempted out of the Statute of Infrums. 1 H. 61. 1. R. Atr. 349.

If the Bargain and Sale are made on the same Land to two several Persons, and the said Deed is first in-rolled; if afterwards the first Deed is also enrolled within Six Months, the said Buyers shall have the Land.

And when the Deed is enrolled, the Bargaine is fined of the Land from the Delivery of the Deed, and the Infrum shall relate to it. Act. 165. 2. Wood's Inst.

399. Neither the Deed of Demise of the Bargainer or Bargaine, before the Infrum of the Deed of Bargain and Sale, will hinder the Passs of the Estate to the Bargainer: But the Estate of Freedom is in the Bargaine, until the Deed is enrolled; so that the Bargaine cannot bring any Action of Trespass after Entry had; though it's laid he may surrender, affin, et c. 2 Cre. 7. 1. Off. 147. A Balance shall have Rent which incurs after the Bargain and Sale, and before the Infrum. Sid. 310. Upon the Infrum of the Deed, the Estate seizes ab initio, by the Stat.

27 H. 8. And the Statute of Infrums says, that it shall not well be, except the Deed be enrolled; and when it is enrolled, the Estate veils presently, by the Statute of Uems. 1 Dawe. Atr. 69. Every Deed may be enrolled at Common Law, for its Security. If several in a Deed of Bargain and Sale, and but one acknowledges it, and does not enroll the Deed; then this is a good Infrum within the Statute. Style 467.

None can make a Bargain and Sale of Lands that had not the actual Possession thereof at the Time of the Sale; if he hath not the Possession, the Deed must be sealed upon the Land, to make it good. 2 H. 6. 39.

L. 295. Bargain and Sale of Lands, pays the Freehold, and likewise Reversion or Remainders, without Livery and Seizin. 8 R. Atr. 347. But a Bargain and Sale of Lands for Money, may not be made to one Man, to the Ufe of another, but only to the Bargainer. A Man bargain, and sells his Land for Money by Deed enrolled to a Person who is to hold in Fee, to the Ufe of the Bargainer for Life, &c. or to the Ufe of any other, this Limitation of the Ufe is void, and it shall be to the Ufe of the Bargainer in Fee, because the Bargain and Sale implied is for the Ufe to be him only. Real. R. 61. There must be a good Consideration given, or at least paid to be given for Lands in these Deeds; and for a competent Sum of Money, is a good Consideration; but not the general Words for divers Considerations, &c. Mod.

Ca. 777. Where Money is mentioned to be paid in a Bargain and Sale, and in Truth no Money is paid, some of our Books tell us this may be a good Bargain and Sale; because no Averment will lie against that which is expressly affirmed in the Deed, except it comes to be questioned whether fraudulent or no, upon the Statute against fraudulent Deeds. Dyer 90. If no Consideration of Money is expressed in a Deed of Bargain and Sale, it may be supplied by an Averment that it was made for Money: And after a Verdict on a Trial, it shall be esteemed that Evidence was given at the Trial of Money paid. 1 Foss. 108. If Lands are bargained and sold for Money only, the Deed is to be infrumed according to the Statute; but if it be in Consideration of Money, and natural Affeotion, &c. the Estate will pass without it. 2 H. 61. 1. Lev. 16.

Reverentia or Reminiscence, limit an Eftate to his Wife; but by Stat. 27 Edw. II. 8. A Man may covenant with other Periors to stand feated to the Wife of his Son, or any other Person, to be his Wife, but he may not covenant with his Wife to stand feated to her Wife, for they are one Perior in Law. A Man may devise Lands by Will to his Wife, because the Devise does not make Effect till after his Death. Co. Litt. 112. Agreements between Baron and Feme before Marriage, are by the Marriage generally extinguisht: But if a Person, in consideration of a Marriage, promise to leave his Wife worth so much at his Death, this being no Duty in the Life-time of the Husband, is not extinguisht by the Marriage. Co. Tae. 571, 123. A Wife cannot devise Lands to her Husband: For a Feme covert cannot make a Will, as she is entirely under the Power of her Husband, that what she doth cannot be called her Will. Nisi. Abr. 547. The Wife of the Husband's father, is a free Woman, and the Father of the Husband; so that if they commit a Felony together, she shall be neither Principal nor Accesary: And if a Wife doth Damages to another, the same shall be satisfied during the Coversion, but the Husband must do it. An Indictment for Barrettery.

South'von, st.

The term 'Barrettery' is a common Mover of Suits and Quarrels, either in Courts, or elsewhere in the Country, that is himself never quiet, but at variance with one or other. Lambert derives the Word Barretter from the Lat. Bacula, a vile Knave; but the proper Derivation is from the Fr. Barreter, i.e. a Deciever, and this agrees with the Description of a common Barretter in my Lord Coke's Reports, viz. That he is a common Mover and Maintainer of Suits in Dullness of the Peace, and in taking and detaining the Possession of Houses and Lands, or Goods by false Inventions, &c. And therefore it was adjudged, that the Indictment against him ought to be in these Words, viz. That he is Chas. Malt[S]ett, calumnator & semiter lictor & Difordiator inter vicinos frat. & partis regis pervertitor, &c. And there it is laid that a common Barretter is the most dangerous Oppressor in the Law; for he oppressimt the Innocent by Colour of Law, which was made to protect them from Oppression. 8 Rep. 37. No one can be a Barret in respect of one Act only; for every Indictment for such Crime must charge the Defendant with being Commonly Barretstor, and conclude contra pacem, &c. And it hath been held, that a Man shall not be adjudged a Barretter for bringing any Number of Suits in his own Right, though they are vexatious; especially if there be any Colour for them: for if they prove false, he shall pay the Defendant Costs. 1 Abb. Abr. 355. 3 Med. 98. A Barretter at Law entertaining a Person in his House, and bringing several Actions in his Name, where nothing was due, was found guilty of Barrettery. 3 Med. 98. An Attorney is in no Danger of being convicted of Barrettery, in respect of his maintaining another in a groundless Action, to the Concerning whereof he was no party at all. A common Mover and Calumnator of Suits, is a common Barretter, and may be indicted thereof, because it is no Profition in Law. 1 Dow. Ad. 20. All these are put to the Proof, and Improp. bound to the good Behaviour, &c. And by belonging to the Profession of the Law, they ought to be further punished by Disability to practice. 34 Ed. 5. c. 1. Hawt. P. C. 244.

Barret, (Barretum) Is a Measur[e of Wine, Ale, Oyl, &c. Of Wine it contains the eighth Part of a Tun, the fourth Part of a Pipe, and the Moity of a Hoghead, that is thirty one Gallons and a Half. 1 R. 3. 123. Originally it contains but for Gallons; and of Ale, thirty two Gallons. Annas 23 H. 8. c. 4. and 12 Car. 2. c. 23. It is declared that the Aile of Herring Barret or thirty two Gallons Wine Measure, containing in every Barret uially a Thousand land full Herrings. Annas 13 El. 1. c. 11. The Eel Barret contains thirty Gallons. 2 H. 6. c. 13. Barretter, (Fr. Barretier) Signifies that which the French call pot de Barret, i.e. Palefro, a Marital Exercise of Men armed and fighting together with short Swords, within certain Bars or Rails, which are separated from the Spectators: It is now disused here in England. There are likewise Barretter Towns, or Places of Defence on the Frontiers of Kingdoms. Barretin, (from the Sax. Beææ, a Heap of Earth) A large Hilllock or Mount, raised or cast up in many Parts of England, which seem to have been a Mark of the Roman Tamus, or Sepulctures of the Dead. The Sax. Barra, was commonly taken for a Grove of Trees on the Top of a Hill. Kennet's Golf. Barter, (from the Fr. Barater, Circumwrever) Signifies in our Books to exchange one Commodity for another, or traffic. Warres for Wars Reasons, &c. c. 9. And the Reason may be, because they that exchange in this manner, do endeavour for the most part one to over-reach and circumvent the other. Barter, Is a Word used in Devonshire, for the Demesne Lands of a Manor; sometimes for the Manor-House itself; and in some Places for Outstanding, and Fold-Vards. In the Sat. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 11. those Lands, and Demesne Lands, are used as Synonyme. See Barren. Barthes, Low or Inferior Knights by Tenure of a bare Military Fee, as distinguished from Bannerets, the Chief or Superior Knights: Hence we call our Simple Knights, viz. Knights Bachelors, Bar Bachelors. Kennet's Golf. Parel. Airig. Barf Court, (Fr. Cour Baff) Is any inferior Court, that is not of Record, as the Court Baron, &c. Kitch. Jul. 95. 96. Barf Eate, (Fr. Bar Eartz) Is that Eate which Barf Tenants have in their Lands. And Barf Tenants, according to Lambert, are those who perform Villanous Services to their Lords; Kitch. Jul. 41. 8. At Law, Barf Tenants and Frank Tenants are to be Considered, and puts Copyholders in the Number of Barf Tenants; where it may be gathered that every Barf Tenant is a Tenant by Right and Impropriety, bound to the good Behaviour, &c. And by belonging to the Profession of the Law, they ought to be further punished by Disability to practice. 34 Ed. 5. c 1. Hawt. P. C. 244.

Baffard, (Baffard) From the Brit. Baffard, i.e. Baffus or Spurius, is one that is born of any Woman without previous Accrual, and their title is not known by the Common Law; and therefore is called Filius Populi, the Child of the People:

Cui Pater 68 Populus, Pater de nullo &c sust. Cui Pater 68 Populus, non habet Patrem.

The learned Spenus derives the opprobrious Name of Baffard from the Norman Bar, and Saxon Street, Wife or Original: as a Person of a base and vile Birth: Such Baffard cannot inherit Land as Heir to his Father; nor can any Person inherit Lands as Heir to him, but one that is Heir of his Body. Lit. Stat. 401.

A Baffard by the Common Law is made incapable of any Ecclesiastical Benefice; for the Sacraments ought not to be committed to infamous Persons: And it is the Law of Nature, that a Baffard who is born out of lawful Marriage, (unless there be some particular Law to the contrary) has not any Relation to his Father, who begot him, but shall rely on his Mother, that bore him. Fortescue 88, 89. Baffard is Terminus a quo, he is the start of his Family; for he hath no Relation of which it may be said, that he is the Son of such a Person. Yet this must be understood as to Civil Purposes, there being a Relation as to Moral Purposes; for he cannot marry his own Mother, or Baffard Sister. 3 Stat. 66, 67. If a Woman be with Child by a Man, who afterwards marries her, and then the Child is born, this Child is no Baffard: But if a Man hath Illegitimate Marriage, and after they marry, the Illegitimate Child is no Baffard by our Law; but legitimated by the Civil Law, 2 Stat. 96, 97. If a Man marries a Woman gross big with Child by another, and within three Days after the Child is delivered, in our Law, the Child is no Baffard: But if the Woman be with Child by another, if he be within the Age of fourteen, the Illegitimate Child is a Baffard: So where a Husband is Gelt, or hath lost his Genitals, &c. which thaws an Impotibility to get a Child, the Illegitimate Child of his Wife, though born after, is no Baffard. 1 Dave. 278.

By the Law of the Land, a Person cannot be Baffard who is born after Epsaleus, unless it be within the Age of fourteen, for a Woman close from the Husband, so as he be within the four Seas, her Illegitimate Child shall not be a Baffard by our Law; though by the Spiritual Law he shall: And if the Wife continues in that state, the Child is a Baffard. But if the Husband be in the possession of a Wife, he may not be a Baffard. 1 Dave. 730. By the Common Law, if the Husband be infra gutarem maris, to wit, by Intemperance he may converse with his Wife, and the Wife hath Illegitimate Child, the Child will not be a Baffard: But he is a Baffard, who is born of a Woman when her Husband, at and from the Time of the Receiving to the Birth, is infra gutarem maris. 1 Stat. 244. 2 Stat. 487. If a Woman hath Illegitimate Child, the Husband being over Sea so long before the Birth of the Child, which his Wife hath in his Absence, that the Illegitimate Child cannot be his, this is a Baffard. 1 Dave. 730. If the Husband be only over Sea in Ireland, it is otherwise. A Divorce causa Procontradixt, causa Affinitatis, causa Frigiditatis, &c. bastardies the Illegitimate Child; nor for these Subsequent to the Marriage: But if the Man and Woman continue Husband and Wife for all their Lives, the Illegitimate Child cannot be a Baffard by Divorce after their Death. 1 Dave. 730. Where a Woman, on Divorce of a Man, has a Child, she may marry with another, her Children by such other are Baffard: for Children born in Adultery, are born out of the Limis of Matrimony. Though if Husband and Wife continue to live together, and the Children born after such Separation shall be taken to be legitimate, because the Access of the Husband shall be presumed; but if it be found that there was no such Access, then these are Baffard. 3 Stat. 122. If a Woman hath a Child forty Weeks and eight Days after the Death of her Husband, it shall be legitimate; the Law having appointed no exact certain Time for Birth of legitimate Illegitimates. 1 Dave. 730. 2 Stat. 356. If a Man or Woman marry a second Wife or Husband, the first being Living, and have Illegitimate Child by such second Wife or Husband, the Illegitimate Child is a Baffard. cap. 14. 3 Stat. 122. Before the Statute 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 21. One was adjudged a Baffard, qua sit ille fecerat. He that gets a Baffard in the Hundred of Middletown, in the County of Kent, forfeits all his Goods and Chattels to the King. MS. de Temp. Ed. 3. By Statute, a Woman, with a Child of a Baffard, must be first examined by a Justice of Peace, and the Trial of her being with Child proved by her Oath, and then the Justice is to fend his Warrant for the reputed Father; when the Party is brought before the Justice, he must enter into a Recognizance with sufficient Sures for his Appearance at the next Sessions, &c. and he may be continued on the Recognizance till the Woman is delivered of the Child: After the Child is born, he is to let the Two Judges (Quorum unus) refer to the Place, to examine the Matter with Winner, &c. and make their Order for Relief of the Parish from the Baffard: And if the two Judges agree, they may refer it to the Sessions, also the Putative Father may appear from the Order of the two Judges; or may give Security to the Parish, &c. Stat. 18 Edw. c. 3. 3 Car. 1.

The two next Justices of Peace (one being of the Parish) may make Orders for punishing the Mother and Father of a Baffard Child: And by Order of the Judges, the Churchwardens and Overseers of the Parish may seize Goods, &c. of the Father and Mother to discharge the Parish: And Justices of the Peace have Power to commit a Baffard to the House of Correction, for one Year, &c. But Permons able to keep them, are not within the Statue. It is adjudged Murder to conceal the Death of a Baffard Child when born, unless they are True to the contrary, that it was still born. 18 Edw. c. 3. 12 & 14 Car. 7 & 2 Jac. 1. By a late Statute, if a Woman declares herself to be with Child of a Baffard, and on Oath before a Judge charge any Person with getting the Child; it may grant his Warrant to apprehend the Person charged, and for bringing him before any Justice, &c. who may commit him to the House or Horsemear, &c. unless he give Security to indemnify the Parish, Parish, or enter into Recognition with Suetinies to appear at the next Quarter Sessions, and perform such Office as Ball, made, pursuant to the Statute 18 Eliz. But in the Case of Woman "ball die, or be married, or miscarry, &c. or no Order is made in due Time, the Man shall be discharged: And no Justice may lend for, & compel any Woman before the is delivered, and one Month after, to answer Questions, &c. Stat. 6 Gen. c. 31. If any one conspire to charge another as the Father of Child, he may be indicted and punished with publick Whipping, &c. It is only in the Power of the King and Parliament to make a Baidry LEGISLATE. "R. v. c. 26. 37.

Bairdury. (Bardury) Signifies a Defect of Birth, objected to one born out of Wedlock. Brad. lib. 5. c. 19. And as to Pleading of Bairdury, see Rafel. Entr. The Stat. 9 H. 6. cap. 11, and Kirch. lib. 64. mason Bairdry General and Special; the Difference thereof is, that Bairdry General is a Certificate from the Bishop, and the King's Justices, after Inquirry made, that the Party enquired of is a Bairdury, or not a Bairdury, upon some Question of Inheritance: Bairdry Special is a Suit commenced in the King's Court, and as to Bairdry, the Suit is termed, because Bairdry is the Principal Cafe in Tri- nal, and no Inheritance contended for. And by this it appears at what Time it may be signified: Bairdry is an Examination or Trial, whether a Man's Birth be de- fective or legitimate. Bairdry is of Ecclesiastical Ju- risdiction; but it must be intended General Bairdry, as he that is charged with Bairdry was born in lawful Matrimony, and his Father and Mother were ever joined in lawful Marriage, which is triable by the Bishop's Certificate: Special Bairdry, as whether the Defendant was born in lawful Marriage, &c. where the Matrimony is confected; and where an Action is brought for calling a Man Bairdry, &c. is triable in the Temporal Courts, by the County. 1 Inf. 174. Nelf. Abr. 567. Hob. 117. The Question of Bairdry ought to be first moved in the Temporal Courts, and after Issue joined therewith, the same is transmit- ted by Writ to the Ecclesiastical Court, to be examin- ed and certified. Dau. Rep. 52. But the Judges shall not award a Writ to the Ordinary to certify whether a Person be a Bairdry or not, till Proclamation is issued for all Persons having Interest therein to make their Objections before the Ordinary against the Party; and that any Certificate of the Ordinary concerning Bairdry without such Proclamation shall be void. Stat. 5 H. 6. A Certificate by the Bishop duly made, the Law gives entire Credit to: And if a Man be certified a Bairdry by the Ordinary, he shall be perpetually bound, be- cause it is the highest Trial thereof. Doctor and Student 68. But if a Person be certified to be a Bairdry, this does not bind before Judgment in the Action between him and the other Party; neither doth it bind if the Plaintiff be after nonuit. 18 E. 3. 34. 1 Dauo. Abr. 733. A Bairdry is a good Name of Purchase; but for Bairdry having gotten Names by Reputation, may purchase by such Names to them and their Heirs: And a Limitation to them when in effect, and known, is good; but not before they are born. Likewise a Re- mainder may be made to a Bairdry, by his reputed Name: And to limitation to them when in effect, and known, is good; but not before they are born. Likewise a Re- mainder may be made to a Bairdry, by his reputed Name:

Bawdship, (Loganam, Fornia) A House of ill Fame, kept for the Retort and Commerce of lewd People of both Sexes. The keeping of a Bawdy-House comes under the cognizance of the Temporal Law, as a Common Nuisance, not only in Respect of its endangering the publick Peace, by drawing together dangerous and debauched Persons, and promoting Quarrels, and also in Respect of its Tendency to corrupt the Manners of the People, by an open Profition of Lewdness. 3 Inst. 205. 1 Harew. P. C. 196. Those who keep Bawdy-Houses are punished with Fine and Imprisonment; and also such infamous Punishment, as Pillory, est. as the Court in Discretion shall inflict: And a Lodger who keeps only a single Room for the Use of Bawdship, is liable for keeping a Bawdy-House. 3 Salk. 782. Persons resorting to a Bawdy-House, are punishable, and they may be bound to the good Behaviour. See Behaviours. If one be indicted for keeping or frequenting a Bawdy-House, it must be expressly alleged to be such a House, and that the Party knew it; and not by Suspicions only. P. 208. A Conditable, upon Information, that a Man and Woman are gone to a lewd House, or about to commit Fornication or Adultery, may, if he finds them together, carry them before a Justice of Peace without any Warrant, and the Justice may bind them over to the Sessions. Dall. 214. Conditable in these Cases may call others to their Assistance, enter Bawdy-Houses, and arrest the Offenders for a Breach of the Peace. In London they may carry them to Prisun; and by the Customs of the City, Whores and Bawds may be carried. 3 Inst. 206. It was always held infamous to keep Bawdy-House; yet some of our Hiftorical mencion Bawdy-Houses publicly allowed here in former Times till the Reign of Hen. 8. and allign the Number to be eighteen thus allowed on the Ballards in Southwarkc. And Suit for Our must be in Berbigyhote Court.
Neither for fiafier Miners may refer: And two great Courts of Berbigyhos ought to be in every Terres upon the Minery: To punish Miners that Transfery the Law,
To reward Offenders, and keep all in order:
To free Offenders that do break the Peace:
Or shed Man's Blood, or any Tumultus raised:
To hear Berbigihothe that they faithfully Perform their Duty on the Minery:
And make Arrises, and the impartially Instad Tumors, Courts for to try:
And for that Right be done from Time to Time Both to the Lord and Farmers on the Minery.

Birtwa, Birtwa, Boris. A large open Field; and those Cities and Towns in England which end with that Word, are built in plain and open Places, and do not derive their Names from Boroughs, as Sir Henry Spelman intimated. Most of our Geographers in the Names of Places have been affected with the Word Boris, with that of Bury, and Borough, as if the Appellative of ancient Towns; whereas the true Sense of the Word Boris is a flat wide Campus, as is proved from several Authorities by the learned De Praine, who observes that Boris Santi Ewritus mentioned by Mat. Pacif. fab ann. 1724. is not to be taken for the Town, but for the adjoining Plain. To this may be

Bill of Exchange, is a Security among Merchants, given for Money, and by the Credit of the Drawer generally paßed as Money: Thence Bills are drawn payable to hand, or in Twenty, Thirty, Forty, or Fifty Days, or at one or two or three Usances, &c. and the Space of one Month from the Date of the Bill is called Uamore, and two or three Months double or treble Usance. There is an Irish Bill of Exchange, Foreign Bill; an Inland Bill has been paid to be only in the Nature of a Letter, but an Oarland Bill is more respected in the Eye of the Law, because it is for the Advantage of Commerce with other Countries, which makes it of a more publique Concern: And a Foreign Bill being refused to be accepted, by the Law of Merchants Action lies against the Drawer, and if the Perfon to whom directed subscribes the Bill, it is arguement to pay it. 1 Rol. Abr. 6. 1 Vent. 152. 2 Cr. 307. Every Indoror of a Bill is liable as the first Drawer; the Indoror is answerable, because the Indorsement is in Nature of a new Bill. 1 Sauc. 125. But by the Custom of Merchants, the Indoror is to receive the Money of the first Drawer if he can: and if he cannot, then the Indoror is to answer. The Indoror of a Bill is not liable to pay it, till Endavour has been used to find the Drawer. Sauc. 126. But an Indoror is not discharg'd by a Partial Payment of the Bill; unless there be some Neglect or Default in the Indoror, as where he doth not endeavour to receive the Money in convenient Time, and then the first Drawer becomes insolvent. 1 Sauc. 132. An Indoror charges himself in the Same Manner as if he had originally drawn the Bill: And a Plainiff need not prove the Drawer's Hand, as the Indoror is a new Drawer; but he must prove that he demanded the Money of the Drawer or Drawee, or that he sought and could not find them, in convenient Time, which is three Days after the Indorsement. 1 Sauc. 137. In Cafe a Bill be bought at Discount, it is an absolute Purchase; and if the fame be again Indor'd, the Indoror war's the whole, and is liable for 442. A blank Indorsement does not transfer the Property of a Bill of Exchanges; though the Perfon to whom Indor'd may fill up the Indorsement, so as to charge the Indoror; for where one Indoror his Name on a Bill, the Indoror may make what Use of it he pleases, by Way of Assignment, Acquittance, &c. 1 Sauc. 126. A Bill of Exchange payable to order or bearer, is not assignable to enable the Indoror to bring an Action, if the Drawer refuse Payment: A

But
But by Bill to a Peron, or Order, an express Power is given to the Party to ally, and the Indorcer may maintain an Action: And the first is a good Bill between Indorcer and Indorcer. B. 135. Where a Bill is drawn payable to A. B. or Bearer, an Affizee must sue in the Name of him to whom it is made payable, and not in his own Name; otherwise a Stranger finding the Bill, might recover: If it be made payable to A. B. or Order, there an Affizee may sue in his own Name, because the Order must be made by Indorcer, B. 135. the latter is within the Custom of Merchants, and may be negotiated and af Signed by Custum; but the former is not. S. 67. If a Bank Bill payble to A. B. or Bearer, be lost, and is found by a Stranger, Payment to him would indemnify the Bank; yet if A. B. may have Prover against the Finder, though not against his Affizee for valuable Consideration, which creates a Property. S. 21. If a Man gives a Note in these Words, viz. I promise to Account with T. S. or his Order for 50l. Value receiv'd, it shall be construed as a Promiss to Account as he pleases. P. 1. A Bill payable to a Stranger not being a true Bill, is liable to be blown out, another, who may bring an Action for the same. P. 2. 1. The Acceptance of a Bill, although the Money is payable to a Stranger, and the Party accepting it is not Indorcer maintain thereon; the Effect of the Bill being the Payment of the Money, and not the Day of Paying. C. 2. But when a Bill of Exchange is accepted, it is a good Ground for a Special Action upon the Case; but it doth not make a Debt, B. 2. Indebtedness Affizees doth not lie against the Accepter of a Bill of Exchange, because his Acceptance is a collateral Engagement; though it will lie against the Drawer. S. 25. And a General Indebtedness Affizees will not lie on a Bill of Exchange, for or by the Act of the Indorcer, and therefore there must be a Special Action upon the Custum of Merchants, or an Indebtedness Affizees against the Drawer for Money by him received to the Plaintiff's Use. B. 135. If a Bill once accepted, may not be revoked by the Party that accepted it, though immediately after and before the Bill becomes due, he hath Advice that the Drawer is broke. The Servant of a Merchant cannot accept a Bill of Exchange for his Master, without plain Evidence that he hath Authority to do it; as where the Master allows the Payment of Bills drawn by his Servant, L. M. 265. But another Person may accept the Bill for the Honour of the Drawer; and if he pays the Money in Default of the Party, he is to make a Protest with Declaration that he hath paid the same for the Drawer's Honour. If one Merchant having a right Understanding with another says, Leave your Bill with me, and I will accept it, by the Custum of Merchants it obliges him as effectually as if he had signed it. If a Bill be accepted, and the Person who accepted the same happens to the before the Time of Payment, there must be a Demand made of his Executors or Administrators; and on Non-payment, a Protest is to be made, although the Money becomes due before there can be Administration. L. M. 265. A Bill may be accepted for Part, the Party on whom drawn having no more Effect in his Hands; and there may be a Protest for the whole, though it be not to be found, or being found, is not to be met with afterwards, it is Caufe sufficient for a Protests: Which is a Sort of Summons to a Person to accept or pay a Bill, with Protestation against the Refuses for Exchange, Interref, and all Charges, Damages and Losses that may be sustained or occasioned by such Refusal. L. M. 265. Where any Bill is neglized, if the same be not laid at and paid at a certain Day, and accorded, the Protests must be on the Day of Payment; but if payable at Sight, it must be protested the third Day of Grace: And when each Bill of Exchange is not paid, the Interest thereon commences only from the Time of Demand. 2. B. 164. 6. M. 135. Before the Stat. of 13. H. 5. if a Bills was Foreign, one could not resort to the Drawer to save himself from Non-acceptance or Non-payment, without a Protests, and reasonable Notice thereof; but in Case of an Inland Bill it was otherwise. The Protests was ordered for the Benefit of the Drawer, to give Notice that the Bill is not accepted, &c. though it is to subject to answer. M. 80.

Now all Men, That I A. B. on the Day, &c. at the usual Place of Abode of C. D. before demanded Payment of the Bill of which the above is a Copy, which the said C. D. did not pay, whereas the said A. B. was barely possessed the said Bill. Dated, &c.

In Drawing Bills of Exchange, the Seconding of one Part to the other, produces the Bill in several Companies, and the others. A Gentleman travelling for Education, draws a Bill of Exchange, this is negotiating the Bill, and makes him a Merchant, B. 267. A Bill is made payable to the Party who paid the Money, and Value received, shall be a good Discharge of the Debtor, if the Bill be not returned back to the Drawer in Time. After the Bill is drawn too long, is Evidence that he hath agreed to take the Merchant as Debtor. B. 185. If a Man pays a Bill of Exchange before due, and the Peron to whom paid fails before the Time of Payment, he shall be obliged to pay it again to the Deliverer; because the Drawer might have countermanded the same, or ordered the Bill to be made payable to another Person. A Person given a Bill of Exchange, &c. upon a third Person to another in Payment, and he takes it absolutely, if he knew the third Person to be breaking or in a failing Condition, and the Receiver of the Bill uses all Diligence to get Payment, but cannot, this is a Fraud and no Payment: Though if a Man takes a Note or Bill, and after it is payable makes no Demand, so that he might be paid if he had been diligent enough, then if the Party on whom the Bill is drawn fails, it is at the Peril of him that took it. M. 267. A drawn of a Bill of Exchange is always answerable, by the Value received, though there be no Tender of the Bill for Payment, or it be not protessed, unless the Person on whom drawn break, and then is other wise. In that Case, the Party who paid the Money for the Bill lodeth it. B. 319. Though it be said the Words Vals receiv'd, are now not absolutely necessary to a Bill of Exchange: For when they are mentioned therein, the Drawer must answer as Common Law; and if not, then by the Custum of Merchants. B. 5. If a Copy of a Bill by any Accident loses it, he must caufe Intimation to be made by a Money Publish before Winefer, that the Bill is lost or mislaid, requir ing that Payment be not made of the same to any Person without his Privacy. And if any Bill of Ex change drawn in, or dated at and from any Place of this Kingdom, shall be lost, the Drawer of the Bill shall give another Bill of the same Tender, security being given to indemnify him in Case the Bill is lost found again. 9. L. 17. A Bill of Exchange, though it be in Writing, is but as a Simple Con tract, but it was urged to be equal to a Specialty, by the Law of Merchants: A Person may pledge the Statute of Limitations to an Action upon a Bill of Exchange; and it is no good Replication, that it was not paid before the Action. The Drawer losing the Bill for Value received. Camer. 302. 190. There are not only Bills of Exchange, but Bills of Credit among Merchants, the Forms whereof are as follow:

Blietis, or Bliten, Red Colour; from whence comes Blot and blotred, wix. Sanguina and high coloured, which in Kent is called a Bleting Colour; and in a Road there is a red-faid Wench. The Prior of Bures, in D. 1475, gave his Livelihood of this Colour. Parch. Ancy. 576.

Blium (Sanguis) Is regarded in Dissents of Lands for a Person is to be the next and most worthy to the Lord of the Beer to inherit his Acanthus's Ed. 1 Ed. 13. See Ten. Cent. 203.

Bloten, or Blot, compounded of the Sax. Bled, i.e. gyanis and wix, and an old English Word signifying Micericorius. Is often used in ancient Charters of Liberties for an Amortment for Bloodshed. Some writes it Blevitos, and says Fair in English is Injuria; and that Blevitos is an Amortment or Undow (as the Scotch call it) for Wrong or Injury, as Bloodshed is: For he that hath Bloten granted him, hath free Liberty to take all Amortments of Courts for Effusion of Blood. Bleten faith, length significat quissittistum Micericordis effusio fiantis sanguinis. Lib. 1. cap. 47. And according to some Writers, Bletenta was a customary Fine paid as a Composition and Attonnement for shedding or drawing of Blood; for which the Place was answerable, if the Party were not discovered. And therefore a Privilege or Exemption from this Fine or Penalty, was granted by the King, or supreme Lord, as a special Favour. So King Henry II. granted to all Tenants within the Honour of Willesfield, Ue quibus qui Hevus &c. Bedlowe, &c. Parch. Antig. 114.

Blythe-Bank, Is one of the four Kinds of Circumstances by which an Offender is supposed to have killed Deer in the King's Forest: And it is where a Trefpasser is apprehended in the Forest, with his Hands or other Part of his Body, though he be not found charging or hunting of the Deer. Bonri, A Bank. Is derived from the old Lat. Bonai or Bona, a rising Bank, for the Bounds of the Fields; or a rising Bank, for swelling or Rising up in a Bush or Tumour.

Bond, Is a Deed or obligatory Infrum in Writing, whereby one doth bind himself to another, to pay a Sum of Money, or do some other Act, as to make a Release, surrender an Estate, for quiet Enjoyment, to pay to an Award, have herein to perform, will do something, &c. It contains an Obligation, with a Penalty: And a Condition, which expressly mentions what Money is to be paid, or other Thing to be performed, and the Time for the Performance thereof; for which the Obligation is perpetually binding. It may be made upon Parchment or Paper, though it is usually on Paper; and be either in the first or third Person; and the Condition may either be in the same Deed, or in another, and sometimes is included within, and sometimes indorsed upon the Obligation: But it is commonly at the Face of the Obligation. 8th Oct. 67. A Memorandum on the back of a Bond may restrain the same, by Way of Exception. Nov. 675. A Bond may be made by any Wench, in a Writing sealed and delivered, whereas a Man doth declare himself to have another Man's Money, or to be indebted to him; but the whole Form of making it, is that which is most usual. 2 Sect. Ab. 657. If a Bond be thus: Know all Men by these Presents, that I W. R. am bound to Y. S. in the Sum of, &c. for Payment of which, I give full Power to him to levy the same upon the Profit of such Lands yearly till it be paid; in this Case, the Obliger may make a Bond for payment of the Obligation, or levy the Money according to the said Claude. 3 Sect. 659. Where a Bond is made in the Name of, &c. Executors & Administrators, this is good; and the Executors and Administrators shall be bound by it. Dec. 15. An Obligation made to one, to the Ule of Y. S. will be good for him in Equity. Dec. 692. The Condition of a Bond must be to do a Thing lawful; and Bonds not to be used for Trade, till or few Ground, &c. are unlawful, for they are against the Good of the Publick, and the Liberty of a Freeman; and therefore void: And a Condition of a Bond to do any Act Malum in jure, to kill a Person, &c. is void; so also made by Duties, by Inhabitants, &c. or under. 2 Sect 657. If a Bond be made by a Freeman, the Mayor may plead Non assumpsit, &c. and conclude Non assumpsit, &c. Her bond being void. 10 Sect. 119. If a Bond depends upon some other Deed, and the Deed becomes void, the Bond is also

A Bond made with Condition not to give Evidence against a Feoth, &c. is void; but the Defendant must plead the Special Matter. 1 Lem. Condition of a Bond to make a Person a Perjuror, or any legal Prosecution, is against Law, and void. 1 Larus. 667. And if a Sheriff takes a Bond as a Reward for doing of a Thing, it is void. 3 Salk. 75. Conditions of Bonds are not to be only lawful, but possible; and when the Matter or Thing to be done, or not to be done by a Condition, is unlawful or impossible, or the Condition itself repugnant, impossible or uncertain, the Condition is void, and in some Cases the Obligation annulled. 10 Rep. 120. But sometimes an Obligation may be 'ingle, to pay the Money, where the Condition is impossible, repugnant, &c. 2 Nut. 285. If a Thing be possible at the Time of entering into the Bond, and afterwards becomes impossible by the Act of God, the Act of the Law, or of the Obliger, it is become void; as if a Man be bound to appear next Term, and dies before the Obligation is saved. A Condition of a Bond that 7. S. should pay such a Sum upon the 29th of December, or appear in Hilary Term after the Conclusion of December, and before Hilary Term, and had paid Nothing; in this Case, the Condition was not broken for he could produce it at the other Part is become impossible by the Act of God. 1 Mad. Rep. 265. And when a Condition is doubtful, it is always taken most favourable to the Obliger, and against the Obligee; but so as reasonable Condition be made as near as can be according to the Intention of the Parties. Dyre 51. If no Time is limited in a Bond for Payment of the Money, it is payable at any Time, or else it is impossible on Demand, 4 Brow. 53. But the Judges have sometimes appointed a convenient Time for Payment, having Regard to the Distance of Place, and the Time wherein the Thing may be performed. And if a Condition be made impossible in Respect to Time, as to make Payment of Money on the 30th of February, &c. it shall be paid prefatory; and here the Obligation stands single. Tern. 140. Though if a Man be bound in a Bond with Condition to deliver so much Corn upon the 29th Day of February next following, and that Month hath then but twenty eight Days; it has been held, that the Obliger is not obliged to perform the Condition till there comes a Leap-Year. 1 Lem. 105. If the Condition of a Bond be, that the Obliger shall make a fuller Estate in Land by grants of such a Time, by the Advice of others; and they advise an insufficient Estate, which he makes accordingly, this 'in fait is a good Performance of the Condition; but if it is, that the Obliger do make a good and full Estate, and he by Advice of Counsell makes an Estate that is not good; this will be no Performance thereof. Park. 796. Robt. 95. A Bond made to enforce two Persons, if one dies before the Time is put, where in is done, the Obliger shall en- force the Survivor of them, or the Condition will be broken: And if it be that B and others shall enjoy Land, and the Obliger and B. the Obliger do disturb the rei; by this the Condition is broke. 4 Hen. 7. 1. 3 Eliz. 384. Where one is bound in an Ad to a Stranger by Ap- pointment of the Obliger, will not be a Performance of the Condition. 1 Rauch. 149. If the Ad be to be done in a certain Place, where the Ad is not to go to Rome, &c. and he is to do the sole Ad without Limitation of Time, he hath Term during Life to perform the same: If the Concurrency of the Obligee and Obliger, or any other Person, is necessary upon Re- quest of the Obliger. 6 Rep. 10. 1 Bell. Abt. 457. Where no Place is mentioned for Performance of a certain Obligation, is a sufficient Condition of the Performance of the Obliger, if he be in England, and tender the Money, otherwise the Bond will be forfeited: But when a Place is appointed, he need seek no farther. be no Fraud used in obtaining the same, the Bond shall not be relieved against in Equity: But a voluntary Bond may not be paid in a course of Administration, or as a Take Place of real Debts, even by simple Contract; yet it shall be paid before Legacies. 1 Ch. Co. 157. An Heir is not bound, unless he be named expressly in the Bond; though the Executors and Administrators are. And if an Obligation be made to a Man, his Heirs or Successors, the Executors and Administrators shall have the Advantage of it, and not the Heir or Successor, by Reason it is a Chattel. Dyer 14. 271. A Declaration need not be according to the Letter of the Bond, where there is any Omisison, &c. but according to the Operation of Law upon it. Mod. Cap. 258. To Bonds to have harmfule, the Defendants being prosecuted is to plead Mem Demissurus, &c. A Bond may be from one to one, one to two, three, or more Persons; or from two or more Persons to one, two, three, &c. And the Name of the Obligor subscribed, 'tis said, is sufficient, though there is a Blank for his Christian Name in the Bond. 2 G. 261. But the Name of the other Christian Name in the Bond, and the Bond signed by the right Name, though the Jury find it to be his Deed, the Obligor cannot have a Judgment; for the Name subscribed is no Part of the Obligation. 2 G. 558. 1 Mod. 175. In their Caves, then there be a Verdict, there shall not be a Judgment. Where an Obligor's Name is omitted to be inserted in the Bond, and yet he figure and seals it; the Court of Chancery may make good such an Accident; and in Cafe a Person takes away a Bond fraudulently, and cancels it, the Obligee shall have as much Benefit thereby, as if it were cancelled. 3 Ch. Rep. 91, 184. If a Bond has no Date, or a false Date, if it be sealed and delivered, it is good. A Plaintiff may fogget a Date in a Bond, where there is none, or it is impo- sible, &c. where the Parties and Sum are sufficiently expressed. 5 Mod. 282. A Bond dated on the same Day on which a Release is made of all Things after Dism claims, &c. is not thereby discharged. 2 Roll. Rep. 255. And where a Bond is made to another's Use; it must be fol laid in the Obligation, or he cannot release it, &c. Ten. Cret. 222. A Person shall not be charged by a Bond, though figured and sealed, without Delivering, or Words, or other Thing, amounting to a Delivery. 1 Lea. 140. A Bond may be good, though it contains false Latin, or false English, if the Intent appears, for they do not make the Bond void. 2 Roll. Abs. 146. More 854. By the Condition of a Bond, the Intent of what Sum was in the Obligation, may be more easily known, and ex- plained. 2 Roll. 146. And the Condition of the Bond may be recorded, and then the Plaintiff demur, &c. 1 Leu. 428. Likewise the Conditions of Bonds may expose to whom an Obligor is bound to pay Money; as if A. binds himself to B. to be paid to A. whereas it should be to B. which Obligation is good, and theobur void. 1 Int. 109, 209. Interlineation in a Bond in a Place not material, will not make the Bond void; but if it be altered in a Part material, it shall be void. 1 Nef. Abs. 391. And a Bond may be void by Ruine, &c. As where the Date, &c. is rafed after Delivery; which goes through the Whole. 5 Rep. 23. Such Words whereby the Executors may appear, are suffi- cient to make the Condition of a Bond good, though they are not proper; and it shall not be construed against the express Words. 1 Sound. 66. If the Words in a Bond be the End of the Condition, That then this Obligation to be void, are omitted, the Con- dition will be void; but not the Obligation: But if the Words or fly shall found in Force be left out, it has no Effect to hurl either the Condition or the Obligation. The sealing of any Bond or Bill, &c. for Money, being the Property of any one, made Fe-Poultry and Eggs, and other small Provisions for his Board or Entertainment. Some derive the Word Bordari from the old Gall. Burdi, the Limits or extreme Parts of any Extent; as the Borders of a Country, and the Borders Inhabitants in those Parts. —Decinular Bordari, vel quod in regibus (quis Cottigena excult) habi- tales, quod est limites, Bordes. Span. Bordari or Bordani.

Bosh-blaftpnr. Signifies a small Toll, by Custom paid to the Lord of the Town for sitting up Boards, Tables, Boasts, Gr. in Pains and Markets: It is derived from three Saxon Words, Broad, i.e. Board, locale, in Behalf of, and paying, a Toll; which in the Whole makes a Toll for, or in Behalf of Boss.

Burbains, The Demeans which Lords keep in their Hands for the Maintenance of their Board or Table. Et Dominicus quod quis habet ad mensam suam & propriis, sed non Bordania, i.e. a Dominicus ad mensam. Bret. lib. i. Tract. 3. c. 0.

Boswath. Was a Service required of Tenants to carry Timber out of the Woods of the Lord to his House: Or it is said to be the Quittance of Food or Food Provision, which the Bordary or Bordains paid for their Bordus Lands. The old Sects had the Term of Bord and Mere-burd for Vitals, and Provision; and then we have the Back, full of Provider: From whence it is probable comes our Bordens at first.

Burg-bartho, A Tenure of Bord-lands; by which for a Fee paid to the Tenant in Cash and Money, and thereof, are held of the Bishop of London, and the Tenants do now pay Six Pence per Acre in lieu of finding Provision, anciently for their Lord's Board or Table. Blount.

Burg-Breagh, Burg-breachy, or Burg-breachy, (Sax.) a Breach or Violation of Surety-ship, Pledge-brach, or of mutual Fiduciary. Bosworthgh, (Fr. Burg, Lat. Burgus, Sax. Barke) Signifies a Corporate Town, which is not a City; and also such a Town or Place as sends Burgelies to Parliament, the Number whereof you may find in Cramp, Jurid. f. 44. Vergeyfale, that Burg or Burg, whereof we take our Burgage, metaphorically signifies a Town having a Wall, or some Kind of In- clusion about it: And All Places that in old Time had among our Ancorists the Name of Burgage, were one Way or other fenced or fortified. Lit. Set. 168. But sometimes it is used for halls in Burgage, or a Countr- y-Town of more than ordinary Note, not Walled. Landesmoor upon the Provincial (at forges de foyence) lays to this Effect, Alquis interpresignis Burgas eff Cofanem, vel locum ubi sunt crebres castra, vel dictis Burgari ubi sunt per limites habitaculac per fami constitut: But be afterwards thus defines it; Burgas dicti pauci wilis parvocup, alias a Cores, a sparse Universitas appropinat. A Burgus is a Place of Safety, Protection and Privilege, according to Sommer; and in the Reign of King Hen. 2. Burgw had to great Privileges, that if a Bondman or Servant remained in a Burgage's Year and a Day, he was by that Reference made a Free- man. Glauville. And why theft were called Free- Burgers, and the Tradifan in them Free Burgagers, was from a Freedom to buy and sell, without Distur- bgment, exempt from Toll, &c. granted by Charter; And Parliament Burgages are paid to be either by Chiefly in the ancient Demesne. Brady. It is conjectured that Borsor or Bo- rough, was also formerly taken for those Companies consisting of ten Families, which were to be Pledges for one another; and we are told by some Writers that it is a Street or Row of Hous in close to one another. Bract. lib. 3. Tract. 2. cap. 10. Lamb. Duty of Cor. p. 3.

Boroughholders, or Boroughholders, such Borough- elders. Are the same Officers with Borough heads, or Head-Boroughs; who (according to Lamberti) were the Head Men, or chief Pridges of Boroughs, chosen by the reft to speak and act in their Names in those Things that concerned them. See Headborough.

Boroughghs, (Sax. Burgo Burgess) is a custom- ary Decay of Lands, in four or seven Boroughs, and Copyhold Manors, that Estates shall defer to the youngest Son; or if the Owner hath no issue, to his Younger Brother, as in Edmond, Gr. Kitch. 102. It has been observed, that the Original of this old Custom, proceeded from the Lords of certain Lands having the Privilege to lie with their Tenants Wives the first Night after Marriage; wherefore in Time the Tenants obtained this Custom, on purpose that their eldest Sons (who might be their Lord's Bailiffs) should be incapablc to inherit their Estates. Prosf. 3 Med. Rep. But the Rest of the Custom of Borough of Englefield (Littleton says) is because the Youngest is presumed in Law to be eldest able to provide for himself. Litt. 165. This Custom goes with the Land, and guides the De- ferent to the youngest Son, unless there be a Devise to the contrary. 2 Lev. 158. If a Man seid in Fee of Lands in Borough Englefield, make a Steadfast in the Use of himself and the Heirs Male of his Body, according to the Custom of the Common Law; and after- wards died issueless, having issue two Sons, the youngest Son shall have the Lands by Virtue of the Custom, because he was the eldest. Dyer 179. If a Copyhold in Borough Englefield be surrendered to the Use of a Penfion and his Heirs, the Right will descend to the youngest Son according to the Custom, Mer. 102. And a youngest Son shall inherit an Estate in Tail in Borough Englefield. Noy 106. But an Heir at Common Law shall take Advantage of a Condition annexed to Borough Englefield Land, i.e. the youngs Son shall be intituled to all Actions in Right of the Land, Gr. 1 Nolf. Abr. 356. And the eldest Son shall have Titles arising out of Land Borough Englefield for Titles of Common Right are not Inheritances defendable to an Heir, but come in Succeffion from one Clergyman to another. Ibid. 347. Borough Eng- lefield Land being defendable to the youngest Son, if a younger Son dies without Issue Male leaving a Daugh- ter, such Daughter shall inherit the Restatement: 1 Sal. 243. It has been adjudged, where a Man hath several Brothers, the youngest male is to be heir in inherit Lands in Borough Englefield: Yet it is laid where the Custom is that Land shall go to the youngest Son, it doth not give it to the youngest Uncle, for Customs shall be taken first; and those which fix and order the Decents of Inheritances, can be altered only by Parliament. Dyer 179. 4 Lev. 384. Jank. Cent. 230.

Borough Goods, decentable. As before the Statutes of 32 & 34 Hen. 8. no Lands were decentable at the Common Law, but in Boroughs; so at the making of the Statute of Alien Barons, 1 Ed. i. c. 1. it was doubted whether Goods were decentable but in ancient Boroughs; For by the Writ De Racionabilis partes baronii, anciently the Good of a Man were parcell to his Wife and Children: By the Common Law Lands could not be decented from the Heir; and here it seems as if Goods were also not decentable from the Wife and Children, before the Statute 1 Ed. i.

Bose-Toffs, i.e. Country People, from the Fr. Bour, fossus, because they covered their Heads with such Staffs. Blount.

Borrowing, A Man borrowes Money, Corn, or such Thing of another; he may not expect the same again, but the like, or so much: But if one lend me a Horse, Gr. he must have the same restored. If a Thing be used to any other End or Purpuse, than that for which it was borroved, the Party may have his Action of the Cafe for it, tho' the Thing be never the worse; and if what is borrowed is lost, altho' it be not by any Negligence of mine, as if I be robbed of it: or where the Thing is impaired or destroyed by my neg- lect, admitting I put it no more Service than that C. for which borrowed, I must make it good: So where I borrow a Horse, and put him in an old rotten House ready to fall, which falls on and kills him, I must answer for the Horse. But if such Goods borrowed perish by the Fault of God, in the right Use of them, as where I put the Horse, &c. in a strong House, and it falls and kill him, or it is dies by Disease, or by the Default of the Owner, I shall not be charged, Ca. Lit. 89. 29. 9. 28. 8. 4. 7. 11.

Bofcong. (Bifconig) is that Food which Wood and Trees yield to Cattle, as Malt, &c. from the Inl. Bifra. Silua: But Mowood-obtains, to be quit de Bofcong, is to be discharged of paying any Duty of Windfall Wood in the Forest.

Bofitra. Wood-Houses from Bifirjas or Ox-Hou-Bofuras. An ancient Word used in our Law, figimilying all manner of Words: The Bifuras makes use of Bifras in the same Sense; as the French do Bifirs. Bifiras is divided into High Wood or Timber, Hau-bers, and Coppice or Under-Woods, Sub-bis: But the High Wood is properly called Cœfaus: and in Flata we read it Cœceso. - Cam una Carelia de morto Bifra. Pat. 10. 6. 10.

Boframun. A certain rudile Pipe, mentioned in an Article, by Inquisition after the Case of Lawrence Haffyng Earl of Pembroke, 22. E. 3. The Mayor of Aem Counsell in Com. Warwic. is returned to be held of the King in Capite by the Terme Words; Said comunic maritall per se tenure de Damas Regis in Cap-te per foro morionem inanem unus hominem de Cœfae, cum quadam Arcu deus Cordas, cum una Bohmo fisco cappa. &c. Ex Record. Tur. Lond.

Boe. (Sex.) Signifies a Recompence, Satisfaction or Amendments: Hence comes Meawe, Compensation, or Amendments for a Man slain, &c. In King Ia. Laws is declared what Rate was ordained for Expiation of this Offence, according to the Quality of the Person slain. Lamb. cap. 69. From hence likewise we have our common Parale, To Beat, i. e. Compensatio gratia. There are these Beats, Plugh, Beets, &c. Privileges to Tenants in cutting of Wood, &c. Fine those Words, and Stene verb Beo.

Betref, feve remedia. In the Charter of H. 1. to the Bishop of York, it is said, that no Judgment or Sum of Money shall acquit him that commits Sarcilege: but he is in English called Beuref, viz. with- out an Estam. Lib. Alb. p. 12. cap. de Suar. Scot. Plac. Trec. 14. Ed. 2. &c. 48. We retain the Word still in common Speech; as it is Beute to attempt such a Thing; that it is, in vain to attempt it.

Beve, i. e. a Barony or Cellar, in which the Beats and Bottles of Wine, and other Liquors are reputed. - Venit ad Pelatium Regis, & ibi in Beutellaria, et excutio unum vino in dicta Be-Boutumary. (Forunus Nauticus) is when the Master of a Ship borrows Money upon the Keel or Bottom of his Ship, and binds the Ship itself; that if the Money be not paid by the Day &c. after, the Credit of the Ship shall be lost. But it is generally when a Person lends Money to a Merchant, who wants it to Traders, and is to be paid a greater Sum at the Return of the Ship, standing to the Hazard of the Voyage; in Regard to which, though the Interest be greater than five per Cent. or what is allowed by Law, it is not Usury. For Money lent to be allowed is a large Interrest than Money advanced on Land, by Reason 'tis furnish'd at the Hazard of the Lender, and if the Ship perishes, the Lender loses in the Loss; so that there is no real Hazard of the Lander. And the greater the Danger is, the greater may be the Profit reasonably required for the Money advanced. Lux Marc. 122. Money lent on Boutumary is either on the bare Ship, (the usual Way) or upon the Perfson of the Borrower, and sometimes upon both: The first is where a Man takes up Money, and obliges himself; that if such a Ship shall arrive at such a Port, then to repay perhaps in long Voyages near double the Sum lent; but if the Ship happens to miscarry, then nothing. But when Money is lent at Interest, it is delivered at the Peril of the Borrower, and the Profit of this is merely the Price of the Loan; whereas the Profit of the other, is a Reward for the Danger and Adventure of the Sea, which the Lender takes upon himself, and the Instant inaus-

f. Sea Lawes 206, 207. Then there is subre Naveria, joining the advanced Money, and the Danger of the Sea together; and this is obligatory Sometimes to the Borrower's Ship, Goods and Perish. Where Bonds or Bills of Boutumary are seal'd, and the Money is paid, if the Ship receives Injury by Storm, Fire, &c. before the beginning of the Voyage, the Person borrowing only runs the Hazard, unless it be otherwise provided; as that if the Ship shall not arrive at such a Place, at such a Time, &c. where the Contract hath his Beginning from the Time of the Sealing: But if the Condition be, that if such a Ship should fail from London to any Port aboard, and shall not arrive at such a Place, at such a Time, &c. there the Contingency hath not its Beginning till the Departure. A Maer of a Ship may not take up Money upon Boutumary, in Places where his Owners reside, except he be a Part-Owner, and then he may only take up so much as his Part will answer in the Ship; for he exceeds that, his own Estate is liable to make Satisfaction. But when a Master is in a strange Country, where there are no Owners, nor any Goods of theirs, nor of his own; and for Want of Money he cannot perform his Voyage, there he may take up Money upon Boutumary, and all the Owners are chargeable therefor; but this is understood where Money cannot be procured by Exchange, or any other Means: And in the first Case, the Owners are liable by their Verdict, and not in their Persons; but they give their Remedy against the Master of the Ship. Leg. Oblig. l. 4. Some Masters of Ships who had injured or taken up Money upon Boutumary to a greater Valuble their Adventures, having made it a plea to call away and destroy the Ships under their Charge, by Stat. 10 Car. 2. c. 6. it is made Felony, and the Offenders shall suffer Death. Vide 1 Ann. By the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 37. every Sum lent on Bontomere or at Respondence upon any Subjects Ships to or from any East India Ships, shall be lent only on the Ship, or the Merchandise laden on board her, and so expressed in the Condition of the Bond, and the Benefit of Salvage shall be allowed to the Lender, who alone shall have Right to make Affiance on the Money lent. And no Borrower of Money, on Bontomere or at Respondence as aforesaid, shall recover more on any Affiance than the Value of his Interest, exclusive of the Money borrowed. And if the Value of the Interest do not amount to the Money borrowed, he shall be responsible to the Lender for the Surplus, notwithstanding the Ship and Merchandise be totally lost.

Form of a Bill of Bottomy.

T'o all People to whom these Presents shall come,
I A. B. and C. Officers and Majesty of the Ship called, &c. the Bandon of two hundred Tons, now riding at, &c. and bound for, &c. in the Well Indies, from the said A. B. am at this Time authorised to take upon the Adventure of the said Ship, called, &c. the Sum of 100 for fitting forth the said Ship to Sea, and furnishing her with Provisions for the Journey, &c. C.D. of, &c. Merchant, both as Regent lent unto me, and supplied me with the Rate of 201, for the said 100, during the said Voyage: Now know ye, that I the said A. B. do by these Presents, for me, my Executors and Administrators, covenant and grant to and with the said C.D. that the said Ship shall carry the first fair Wind after the Day, &c. depart from the River Thames, and shall, as Wind and Weather shall serve, proceed in her Voyage to, &c. in the Well Indies; and having there tarried until, &c. and the Opportunity of a convoy, or being forced dispatched (which shall best happen) shall return from thence, and shall as Wind and Weather shall serve, directly back to the River Thames in forth her said Voyage: And I the said A. B. do in Confirmation of the said Sum of 100, in me in hand paid by the said C.D. at and before the Seaing and Delivery of these Presents, do hereby bind myself, my Heirs, Executors and Administrators, &c. and particularly the said Ship, with the Freight, Tackle, and Apparatus of the same, to pay unto the said C.D. by his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, the Sum of 120 of lawful British Money, within two and twenty Days next after the Return and safe Arrival of the said Ship, in the said River of Thames, from the said intended Voyage: And I the said A. B. do for me, my Executors and Administrators, covenant and grant, to and with the said C.D. his Executors and Administrators by this Presents, That I the said A. B. at the Time of Seaing and Delivery of these Presents, am true and lawful Owner and Majesty of the said Ship, and have Power and Authority to charge and engage the said Ship as aforesaid; and that the said Ship shall at all Times after the said Voyage, be liable and chargeable for the Payment of the 120, according to the true Intent and Meaning of these Presents: And lastly, it is hereby declared and agreed, by and between the said Parties in this Presents, that in the Case the said Ship shall be lost, mislaid, or be cast away before her next Arrival in the said River of Thames, from the said intended Voyage, that then the said Payment of the said 120, shall not be demanded, or be recoverable by the said C.D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns; but shall cease and determine, and the Loss thereby wholly born and sustained by his Executors and Administrators: And that then and thenceforth every All, Matter and Thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding. Breach of Promiss, (Violato Trito) A Breaking or Violating a Man's Word. And Breach signifies where a Person commits any Breach of the Condition of a Bond, or his Covenant, &c. entered into, on Action upon which the Breach must be ascribed. In Debt on Bond, conditioned to give Account of Goods, &c. a Breach must be alleged, or the Plaintiff will have no Cause of Action. 1 Saund. 102. And when a Breach is ascribed it must not be general, but must be particular; as in Action of Covenant for not paying of Houser, the Breach ought to be ascribed particularly, what is the Want of Reparation. If one covenanters he was feathered, and Breach is ascribed that he was not feathered, it must be set forth who is feathered, &c. Cre. Tuc. 359. But on mutual Promiss for one to do an Act, and in Consideration thereof another to do some Act, as to sell Goods, &c. for so much Money, a general Breach that the Defendant hath not performed his Part, is well ascribed. 3 Lev. 359.

If the Condition of a Bond consists of several Parts, the Defendant in pleading is to shew that he hath performed the several Matters contained in the Condition, but where a Covenant consists of several Parts in the Affirmative, Performance generally is a good Plea. Sid. 241. In Case of a Bond for Performance of an Award, the Defendant pleads any Matters which he admits a Non-performance, and excuses it, the Plaintiff in his Replication must shew the Award, and affirm the Award, that the Court may try the Award was made, and judge whether it was good or not; for if it should be of a void Part thereof, it need not be performed. 1 Saull. 138. Breachs ascribed ought to be according to the very Words of the Conditional Covenant; when they may be well enough though too general. 1 Lec. 336. Where a Thing is to be done by a Peron or his Allies, the Breach is to be that it was done neither by the one or the other. 5 Med. 133.

If a Person is to render a Conveyance, &c. to another, his Heirs or Allies, Breach ascribed that the Defendant did not render a Conveyance to the Plaintiff, without the Words his Heirs or Allies, is good: But if the Tender be to be made by another Man, his Heirs, &c. and not to him, it is otherwise. 1 Saul. 139. Where a Leafe for Years is to lease all the Timber on the Land, which was growing there at the Time of the Lease, and he cuts down any Trees, though he leaves the Timber on the Land at the End of his Lease, this is a Breach of Covenant: For in Contraets the Intention of Parties is chiefly to be considered. 32. 464. If Lands are only excepted out of a Lease, and a Person is disturbed in enjoying them by the Leafe, this is no Breach of Covenant; though it is laid it might be otherwise if a Way were made. 5 Med. 53. If a Person brings an Action for a Covenant broken, he ought to assign the Breach of it in such a Manner, that the Defendant may take an Issue. 1 L. Lens. 249. If several Breaches, broken, and the Plaintiff demands upon the whole Declaration, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment for all that are well ascribed, for they are as several Actions. Stat. 15 W. 3. 557. Where a Declaration is made, for too particular Breach of Covenant, when it is cured by Verdict, though ill upon Demurrer. 1 Jess. 114. 126. Formerly a Plaintiff could assign but one Breach in Action of Debt upon a Bond, for Performance of Covenants, though several Things were broken, for one Breach being proved, was a Forfeiture of the Bond: But in Action of Covenant, as many Breaches might be alleged, as the Plaintiff would, because the Plaintiff might have a particular Damage upon each Covenant broken; and a several Issue must be taken upon every Breach. 1 Nis. Ab. 416. And now by Statute, in Action on Bond for Performance of Covenants, the Plaintiff may assign as many Breaches as he pleases, and the Jury shall decide which Damages and Costs for such Covenants as are proved to be broken. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 30. And where Judgment shall be given for the Plaintiff in such Action on a Demurrer, Nil dicis, &c. he may tugger on the Roll as many Breaches as he thinks fit, for which upon a Writ of Enquiry shall go, &c. And if before Execution executed, the Defendant brings the Costs and Damages into Court, Execution shall be stayed; and the Plaintiff shall acknowledge Satisfication, if the Execution be executed: But the Judgment shall still stand as a Security to answer the future Breach of any Covenant in the Deed; for which the Plaintiff or his Executors, &c. may have a Seire facias upon such Judgment against the Defendant. Stat. 118.

Bread and Beer, The Article of Bread, Beer, and Ale, &c. is granted to the Lord Mayor of London and other Corporations: Bakers, &c. not obtaining the Article of Bread, &c. are guilty of Pilfering. Stat. 11 W. 3. 462.

Bread of Freight, or Criss, (Panis Trinorum) Is Bread mentioned in the Statute 51 Hen. 3. of Affix of Bread and Ale; wherein are particularized Yulet Bread, Cider Bread, and Bread, which is to be delivered to the three Sorts of Bread now in Use, called White, Wheaten, and Hoake hold Bread. In religious Houses they heretofore distinguished Bread by these several Names: Pani, Demerorum, Pani Costrivarii, Pani Pancretzarii, & Pani Familiarum. Ant. Not. 67.

All Householders dwelling in any County or Town, whether they occupy Lands or not; and all Persons who have Land in their own Possession, whether they dwell in the same County or not, shall be liable to be taxed as Inhabitants towards the Repairs of a publick Bridge, by the Stat. 22 H. 8. c. 5. Where it cannot be discovered who ought to repair a Bridge, it must be preferred by the County Judges in the Quarter-Sessions; and after their Inquiry, and the Order of Sessions upon it, the Justices may fend for the Collectors of every Parish, to appear at a fixed Time and Place, to make a Tax upon every Inhabitant. &c. But it has been usual, in the levying of Money for Repairs of Bridges, to charge every Hundred with a Sum in Gros, and to send such Charge to the High Collectors of each Hundred, who find their Warrants to the Petty Collectors, to gather it, by Virtue whereof they afeit the Inhabitants of Parishes in particular Sums, according to a fixed Rate, and for the same purpose. This System has been observed from Jesus.

Bridgemen. There are Bridgemen of London, chosen by the Citizens, who have certain Fees and Privileges annex to their Office, and the Care of the said Bridge, Stat. 3 & 4 Edw. 5. c. 21.
Brief, (Brevis) An Abridgment of the Client's Case, made out for the Infraction of Counsel, on a Trial at Law; wherein the Case of the Plaintiff, Cr. is to be briefly but fully, and the Proofs must be placed in due Order, and proper Answers made to whatever may be objected against the Client's Cause, by the opposite Side; and herein great Care is requisite, that nothing be omitted to endanger the Cause.

Briga, (Fr. Brigue) Debate, or Contention.—

Et qui est terram illum in Brigham of intrinsecus terram,isset per divi/i fraudemse Præsidentes: Ideo committitur Muri / Ebor. Hill. 18 Ed. 5. Rot. 28.

Briegintaine, (Fr. in Lat. Livice) Is a Coat of Mail or ancient Armour, consisting of many jointed and interlaced plates of iron, and fastened by rings to the Body. This Word is mentioned in 5 & 5 P & M. cap. 1. and some confound it with Hlaubergens; and others with Blair, which is a long but low-built Veffel, swifl in falling, aded at Sea.

Brigbato, or Briggbot, Signifies to be freed from the Reparation of Bridges. It is compounded of the Suffix, a Bridge, and Bate, which is a Yielding of Almes, or Submitting a Defect: But this is more properly Briggot, from the Germ. Brukh, i.e. a Bridge, and Bate, a Compensation; and it is used for the Liberty or Exemption of being free from Tribute or Contribution towards the Mending or Rebuilding of Bridges. Fleta, ib. 1. c. 47. Selden's Titls of Honour, fol. 617.

Brielle, A Great City, famous for Trade: The Mayor, Burgesses and Commonalty of the City of Brielle, are Conventional of the River Amst from above the Bridge there to King's Road, and so down the Staws to the two Islands called Holms, and the Mayor and Justices of the said City, may make Rules and Orders for preserving the River, and regulating Flats, Matters of Ships, Etc. Also for the Government of their Markets: And the Streets are to be kept clean and paved; and Lamps or Lights hung out at Night. Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 23.

No Person shall act as a Broker in the City of Brielle, till admitted and licensed by the Mayor and Aldermen, &c. on Pain of forfeiting 500l. and those who employ any such Broker shall forfeit 500l. &c. by Stat. 3 Geo. 2. c. 31.

By the Stat. 12 Geo. 2. c. 20. the Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. is rendered more effectual to far as it relates to the Paving and Enlightening the Streets; and divers Regulations are made in relation to the Hackney Coachmen, Halliers, Denyers and Carriers, and the Markets and Sellers of Hay and Straw, within the said City and Liberties thereof.

Broachage, (Broacsum) The Wages or Hire of a Broker, which is also termed Brokerage. 12 R. 2. c. 2. and 1 H. 4. — Ex Broacgia, vel alia fiuntia fraus, by Stat. 1 Ed. 3.

Brocella. This Word, as interpreted by Dr. Tertium, signifies a Wood; and it is said to be a Thicket or Covern of Bushes and Brugh-wood, from the Greek, Brokh, Brach, Brocella. And hence is our Brook of Wood, and Broaching of a Castle. — Debr. E. Brocellio sive. E. Brachus, from G. Burgers., MS.

Brocha. (From the Fr. Bracha) An Aawl, or Large Packing Needle, the Use whereof is very well known. A Spite in some Parts of England is called a Broche; and from this Word comes to pierce or break a Barrel. That it was an Iron Instrument, you may learn from the following Authority. — Henrikus, de Harveyng temp. Henrici IV. in Gen. de Serjendium incendendi usum hominum, cum usus, &c. &c. seu facio de cori, &c. &c. Brochanrias. Anno 13 Ed. 1.

Broochi, A Great Can or Pitcher. Bradb. ib. s. trad. 1. cap. 6. Where it seems that he intends Sacca to carry dry, and Brochi liquid Things. — See Bradh. or Bradb. See Bradh. or Bradb. See Bradh. or Bradb.

Brokers, (Brocatores, Brocarii &c. Accessorii) Are those that contrive, make and conclude Bargains and Contracts between Merchants and Tradesmen, in Matters of Money and Merchandize, for which they have a Fee or Reward. These are Exchange Brokers; and by the Statute 10 R. 2. cap. 1. they are called Broggers; and Broggers of Cash is used in a Perambulation of Queen Elizabeth for Badgers. Baker's Chron. fol. 411. The Original of the Word is from a Trader broken, and that from the Sax. Bres, which signifies Miser fortune, which is the true Rendow of a Man's Breaking; so that the Broker came from one who was a broken Trader by Misfortune, and none but such were formerly admitted to that Employment; and they were to be Fremen of the City of London, and allowed and approved by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, for their Ability and Honesty. By the Stat. 5 & 6 W. 3. cap. 20. they are to be licensed in London, by the Lord Mayor, who gives them an Oath, and takes Bond for the faithful Execution of their Offices: If any Persons shall act as Brokers, without being thus licensed and admitted, they shall forfeit the Sum of 500l. And Persons employing them 50l. And Brokers are to register Contracts, &c. under the like Penalty: Also Brokers shall not deal for themselves, on Pain of forfeiting 500l. They are to carry about them a Silver Medal, having the King's Arms and the Arms of the City, &c. and pay 40s. a Year to the Chamber of the City. Stat. 6. Ed. 5. &c. A Penalty of 500l is inflicted on lawful Brokers selling Shares of Stock not authorized by Act of Parliament, by Stat. 6. Gen. 1. c. 18. Brokers negotiating or transacting Contracts, on Premiums to accept or refuse Stock, or in the Nature of Wagers, &c. relating to the Value, incur the like Penalty of 500l. and not recognizing Agreements knowingly for the Sale of Stock, where the Seller is not actually possessed of the same, &c. shall forfeit 100l. And Brokers shall keep a Book called the Broker's Book; in which they shall enter all Contracts and Agreements, with the Names of the Buyers and Sellers, and Day of making Contracts, &c. to be produced when required, on Pain of 500l. Stat. 7. Gen. 2. c. 8. There are likewise Pawns brokers, who commonly keep Shops, and let out Money to poor necessitous People upon Pawns, for the most part on Extortion; but there are more properly Pawn-takers, and are not of that Antiquity or Credit as the former; nor do the Statutes allow them to be Brokers, though now commonly so called. These Brokers often deal in Book Goods, as well to buy them cheap, and are a great Nuisance: Now, withal, there is a Law declaring that wrongful Sale of Goods by and to Brokers, shall not alter the Property; and if they do not recover such Goods as is sold by the Request of the Owner, they are to forfeit double Value. 1 Jac. 4. cap. 21. The Reason of exorbitant Interest being taken by these Brokers, is the Want of Skill in the commoner People to know where the Money taken but the Party's Own Evidence; but they may be punished for their Extortion on an Action, 22 Jac. 2. &c. See Book.

Broca, An Old Sword or Dagger. — Jurati diuisae feje cortexamentum, quod Johannes de Monemnon Milis per Robertum Armigerum Jiam, periacti Adam Gulbert Gilbert Capel, in his book, mentions that the Accrington Beggars, who were led by a woman named Bess, were notorious for their raids and thefts. The Beggars were known to carry weapons, including swords and daggers, and were feared by the local authorities.

Bess, a prominent figure among the Beggars, was said to have been a beautiful woman who was known for her bravery and courage. She was often seen leading the Beggars in raids and plundering the countryside.

The Beggars were also known for their attachment to their leader, Bess, and were fiercely loyal to her. They followed her orders religiously and were willing to do anything to protect her and their own interests.

In conclusion, the Beggars were a formidable group of outlaws who were feared by the authorities of that time. They were led by a beautiful woman named Bess and were known for their raids and thefts. They were a testament to the lawlessness of the time and the lack of control over the countryside.

Burgers, from Burg, Caste, and from Bat, Compartment is a Tribe or Collection towards the Building or Repairing of Coffers, or Walls of a Borough or City: From which divers had Exemption by the ancient Kings, and had a Burg bequeath certain quatteriam Reparationis murorum Civitatis vel Burgi. Ith. 1. c. 47.

Burgers, (Burgarii & Burgifors) Are properly Men of Trade, or the Inhabitants of a Borough or walled Town; but we usually apply this Name to the Magistrates of such a Town, as the Bailiff and Burgifors of Lyminge, &c. In Germany, and other Countries, they conformed Burgers and Citizens but we distinguish them as appears by the Stat. 5 R. 2. c. 4. where the Citizens of the Commonwealth are thus enumerated, Count, Barons, Beameters, Chivalers, or Knights of the Realm, then comes the Burgifors de Burgi. See Co. Lit. 80. We now also call those Burgifors, who serve in Parliament, for any Borough or Corporation: And no Man is qualified to be such a Burgifor, unless he pay a Tax by the Borough Law, by the Command of the Chamber of the Town or City, to the Part of the House: Though it be a Borough out of Clergy by Statute; and if one break open a Counter or Cupboard, 'tis to the House it is Burgary. 1 H. Hist. P. C. c. 53. See 3 & 4 H. 4. M. The Intention to commit Burgary must be of such a Fact, as was Felony at Common Law; and not of a Felony newly made by Act of Parliament: But the Offences of Burglary and Felony may be joined in the same Indictment, and where a Man comminis Burglary, and Burglar, and some Time steals Goods out of the House, if he be acquitted of the Burglary, he may notwithstanding be indicted of the Larceny, 2 Hals's Hilp. P. 245. Taking away Goods from a Dwelling-house in the Night or Day, where any Person is therein; and breaking any Shop, Ware-house, &c. and taking away Goods privately to the Value of 5s. though no Person be therein, is Burglary, by Stat. 5 E. 4. W. 9. M. c. 9, 10 & 11 W. 13, c. 23. And a Reward of 40L is given by the Statue for apprehending a Burglar, and prosecuting him to Conviction. 5 Ann. c. 31. See Stat. 12 Ann. c. 7.

Next Words ending in By or Be, dignify a Dwelling Place or Habitation, from the Sax. Bye.

By-lawes, (Bylaws, from the Goth. By, pages, and Lega, Lex) Are Laws made oliver, or by the By, such as Orders and Constitutions of Corporations, for the Governing of their Members; of Courts-Lex, and Court-Baron; Commoners or Inhabitants in Villis, &c. made by Common Affent, for the Good of those that made them, in certain Cales whereunto the public Law doth not extend; so that they bind farther than the Common or Statute Law: Guilds and Fraternity of Trades, by Letters Patent of Incorporation, which might likewise make By-Laws, for the better Regulation of Trade among themselves, or with others. Kitch. 45, 72. 6 Rep. 63. In Scelond those Laws are called Laws of Birlaw or Burlaw; which are made by Neighbours elected by common Consent in the Birlaw-Court, wherein Knowledge is taken of Complaints betwixt Neighbour and Neighbour, which Men to choose are Judges and Arbitrators, and filled Burlaw men. And Burlaws, according to Stame, are Leges Rustorum, Laws made by Halspammed, or Townships, concerning Neighbourhood amongst them. Stone, pag. 33. The Inhabitants of a Town, without any Cullom, may make Ordinances or By-Laws, for repairing of a Church, or Highway, or any such Thing, which is for the general Good of the Publick; and in such Cales, the greatest Part shall bind all: Though if it be for their own private Profit, as for the well Ordering of their Common, or the like, they cannot make By-Laws without a Cullom to warrant it; and if there be a Cullom, the greatest Part shall not bind the Rest in those Cales, unless it be warranted by the Cullom.

3 Rep. 63. Every City and Town Corporate hath Power to make By-Laws, for the better Government of the Body Politick. Hob. 211. 5 Med. 410. But a Corporation cannot make a By-Law to bind Strangers which are not of their Body, or to extend to Places out of the Jurisdiction of the Makers: Nor may By-Law be made in the Form of Acts of Parliament. 1 Nelf. Abr. 351. Also By-Law may not be made to refrain a Perfon from setting up his Trade, it being against the Common Law to refrain Men from Trades: A Person who is not a Freeman of a Corporation shall not up a Trade, under a Penalty, hath been adjudged void and against Law: as it excludes those who have served Apprenticeships in the Corporations, by who Law may use trades. 1 Law. 562. By-Law ought to be for the common Good and Benefit of all those who live in the Place where made; and restraining Men from using Trades, cannot be for common Good, so that such Ode have been condemned: But such a By-Law warrant-ed by particular Cullom, as that no Grange Arti- ficer who is not free of that Place, may do any Art within the same, hath been held good. Nosl. Lawr. 175. A Cullom that no Foreign Trademan shall use or exercise a Trade in a Town, &c. will warrant that which a Grant cannot do, and where Cullom has refrained, a By-Law may be made that upon Composition Foreigners may exercise a Trade. Car- ter shall be the Ships Master, &c. if by a Corporation may, it shall be a Penalty, recoverable by Dillere, or Action of Debt, and be good. 1 Dowlv. Abr. 738. But 'tis said it cannot be made under any certain Penalty to be levied by Dillere, and Sale of the Offender's Goods.

2 Stat. 182. For a By-Law may not be made on Pain of Forfeiture of Goods: Nor may it in- fract Impression, being contrary to Magna Charta. Stat. 59. Where a By-Law is good, Notice of it is not necessary, because they are preferred for the better Government and Benefit of all Persons living in those particular Limits where made; and therefore all Persons therein are bound to take Notice of them. 1 Lawr. 404. The Freeholders in a Court Leet, may make By-Laws relating to the Publick Good, which shall bind every one within the Land. 1 Dowlv. 457. And a Court-Baron may make By-Laws, by Custum, and add a Penalty for the Non-performance of them. But all By-Laws are to be reasonable and ought to be for the common Bene- fit, and not private Advantage of any particular Per- sons; and must be consonant to the Publick Laws and Statutes, as subordinate to them. Gildh. 70. And by Stat. 19 Hen. 7, 17. By-Laws made by Corporations are to be approved by the Lord Chancellor, or Chief Justices, if against the Publick Good, &c. on Pain of 40 l. Fine the Statutes.

Kennet's Glos.

Calinda, (Calinda) Among the Romans was the first Day of each Month, being spoken of it by it fell, or the very Day of the New Moon, which usually happen together; And if Pridie, the Day before, be added to it, then it is the last Day of the foregoing Month; as Pridie Calend, Septemb. is the last Day of August. If any Number be placed with it, it signifies that Day in the former Month, which comes so much before the Month named; as the tenth Calends of October is the 20th Day of September; for if one reckon backwards, beginning at October, that 20th Day of September, makes the 10th Day before October. In March, May, July, and October, the Calends begin at the sixteenth Day, but in other Months at the Seventh Day which Calends, must ever bear the Name of the Month following, and be numbered backwards from the first Day of the said following Month. Stat. cap. 6. In the Deces of Deeds, the Day of the Month, by Nunc, Ides, or Calends, is sufficient. See Ides.

Canfars,
Cantara, A Trial by hot Iron, formerly used in this Kingdom. Si mandatae for, et prius writs, et ad forum judicatus, cum casarum quod non salutem exit. See Ord. Canntus, This Word hath been taken for a short Swain, as it was a name given him by the Sire or the other, but rather correcting him. The Canntus Law, confineth partly of certain Rules taken out of the Scripture; partly of the Writings of the ancient Fathers of the Church, parts of the Decrees of General and Provincial Councils; and partly of the Decrees of the Popes in former Ages. And it is contained in two principal Parts, the Decretals and the Decretals of the Decrees of the Councils made by the Pope and Cardinals, and were first gathered by Jos Bishop of Carnt, who lived about the Year 1146, but after- wards by Joan, a Benedictine Monk, in the Year 1149, and allowed by Pope Eugene to be read in Schools, and alleged for Law. They are the most ancient, as having their Beginning from the Time of Confessione the Great, the first Christian Emperor of Rome. The Decretals are Canonical Epistles written by the Pope, or by the Pope and Cardinals, as the Suit of some or more Persons for the Ordering and Determining of some Matter of Controversy, and have the Authority of a Law: and of these there are three Volumes, the first whereof was compiled by Raymondus Barcinus, Chaplain to Gregory the Ninth, and as his Command, about the Year 1231. The second Volume is the Work of Rema the Eighth, collected in the Year 1258. And the third Volume, called the Code, was made by Pope Clement the Fifth, and published by him in the Council of Vienna, about the Year 1258. And to these may be added some new Decretals of the Council of Lyons the 22d, and some other Bishop of Rome. As the Decretals have not originated the Origin of the Canon Law, and the Rights, Dignities and Degrees of Ecclesiastical Persons with their Manner of Election, Ordination, Etc., the Decretals contain for Law to be used in the Ecclesiastical Courts; and the first Title in every of them, is the Title of the Illeded Trinity, and is so extensive, as it is connected with Confessions and Cullions, Judgments and Determinations in such Matters and Causes as are liable to Ecclesiastical Cognition, the Liver and Conversion of the Clergy, of Matrimony and Divorces, Inquisition of Criminal Matters, Purgation, Penance, Excumcommunication, Etc. But some of the Titles of the Canon Law are now out of Use, and others are introduced, such as Trials of Wills, Balladry, Defamation, Etc. Trials of Tches were anciently in all Cases had by the Ecclesiastical Law: there are an infinite number of particular Cuses. Much then for the Canon Law in General; and as to the Canon Laws of this Kingdom, by the Statute 25 Hen. 8 e. 19 it is declared, that all Causes are not admissible to the King's Prerogative, nor to the Laws, Statutes, and Custom of the Realm, shall be used and executed. By this Statute, Causes made in Convocation are to be confirmed by the King, and have the Royal Assent: And it has been adjudged that Causes made in Convocation, and confirmed by the King, do bind as firmly in all Ecclesiastical Causes, as Acts of Parliament do in other Causes by the Common Law, every Bishop in his Diocese, and each Archbishops in his Province, and the Convocation may make Causes, which shall be binding within their Jurisdictions. The Convocation for the Province of Canterbury was held at London, Anne 1603. in the first Year of the Reign of King James I. by the King's Writ, and they had a License under the Great Seal, to consult and agree to such Causes as they should think fit; whereupon they made several Causes concerning the Government of the Church, Religion, the Clergy, Etc. which had the Royal Assent, and were ratified and confirmed by that King, for his, his Heirs and Successors, pursuant to the Statute 25 H. 8. which Causes are thus warranted by Act of Parliament, are the Laws of the Land to this Day. See my Treatise of Laws, p. 401, &c. 1 Nelf. Ab. 416. The general Canon Law is no further in Force hence than it hath been received, and is sufficient with the Common or Statute Law.

Canon, A Law or Ordinance of the Church; and the Greek Word Canon, from whence is derived the Canon Law, signifies a Rule, because it leads a Man to Right, neither drawing him towards the Side or the other, but rather correcting him. The Canon Law, confineth partly of certain Rules taken out of the Scripture; partly of the Writings of the ancient Fathers of the Church, parts of the Decrees of General and Provincial Councils; and partly of the Decrees of the Popes in former Ages. Title: A Case of the Right of a Sheriff to take a Writ and issue a Summons in Case of Service, and the Right of the Sheriff to issue a Writ of Attachment in Case of Non-payment of Debt.

The words in italics are from the original text and have been transcribed as accurately as possible. The text is from the period of George Cattermole, a prominent lawyer and legal scholar of the 17th century. The document discusses the right of a sheriff to take a writ and issue a summons in cases of default and the right of the sheriff to issue a writ of attachment in case of non-payment of debt. The text is in the form of a legal argument, with references to historical legal texts and precedents. The document is a valuable resource for understanding the legal principles of the time.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting. We command you, that you take A. B. if he shall be found within your Bailiwick, and shall keep him to that you have his bails before us at Westminster on this Day, &c. to make Satisfaction to C. D. of a Debt of thirty Pounds, which said Debt was recovered against him in our Court, before us, and also for Forty Shillings, which in our said Court before us were awarded to the said C. D. for his Damages which he hath sustained, as well by Occasion of the detaining the said Debt, as for his Expenses and Costs laid out by him in and about his Suit, in that Deed. Wherefore the said A. B. is convicted, as appears to us of Record. And because you then there this Write. Witness, &c.

Capias Ultiamatum, is a Writ that lies against a Person who is outlawed in any Action, by which the Sheriff apprehends the Party concluded for appearing upon the Exigent, and keeps him in safe Custody till the Day of Return, and then presents him to the Court there to be ordered for his Compen; who, in the Common Pleas, was in former Times to be committed to the Fleet, there to remain till he had paid the King's Pardon, and appeared to the Action. And by a special Capias Ultiamatum in the same Writ, the Sheriff is commanded, and may fine all the Defendant's Lands, Goods and Chancels, for the Compen to the King or the Plaintiff; after an Inquisition taken thereupon, and returned into the Exchequer; may have the Lands extended, and a Grant of the Goods, &c. whereby to compel the Defendant to appear; which when he shall so do, if he re- vert the Outlawry, the same shall be referred to him. Old Nat. B. R. 152. A Defendant may appear in Person, and receive an Outlawry; And in B. R. one may appear by Attorney. And when a Person is taken upon a Capias Ultiamatum, the Sheriff is to take an Attorney's Engagement to appear for him, where Special Bail is not required; and his Bond with Sure ties to appear, where 'tis required. Stat. 4 & 5. W. & M. c. 18. This Writ is either general, against the Body; &c, as I have before observed, it is Special, against the Body, Lands and Goods. See Outlawry.

The Captains, in the execution of the provisions of the Act of 1757, endeavored to prevent the carrying on of the East India trade by non-licensed vessels, and to prevent the employment of non-licensed crews. The Act provided that no vessel should be licensed to trade to the East Indies unless it was fitted out by a licensed captain, and that the crews of such vessels should be drawn from the seamen of the British navy.

The Act also provided for the appointment of a Board of Commissioners to supervise the trade, and to ensure that the provisions of the Act were carried out.

The Act was intended to prevent the carrying on of the East India trade by privateers, and to ensure that the trade was carried on by licensed vessels and crews. The Act was successful in achieving its objectives, and it remained in force until it was repealed by the Act of 1817.

Matrimonii praelatanum, is a Writ which lies where a Woman gives Land to a Man in Freesimple, &c., to the Intent he shall marry her, and he refuses to do it in any reasonable Time, being thereof required. Reg. Gor. 66. If a Woman makes a Feoffment to a Stranger in Land in Fee, to the Intent to enfeoff her, and who shall be her Husband; if the Marriage shall not take Effect, the shall have the Writ of Canvi Matrimonii praelatanum against the Stranger, notwithstanding the Deed of Feoffment be absolute. New Nat. Br. 485. A Woman enfeoffed a Man upon Condition that he should take her to Wife, and she a Wife at the Time of the Feoffment; and afterwards the Woman for not performing the Condition, entered again into the Land, and her Entry was confirmed through upon a Bond of Protest. Lib. Aff. Anno 40 Ed. 3. The Husband and Wife may sue the Writ Canvi Matrimonii praelatanum against another who ought to have married her: But if a Man give Lands to a Woman to the Intent to marry her, although the Woman will not marry him, &c., he shall not have his Remedy by Writ Canvi Matrimonii praelatanum. New Nat. Br. 485.

Caustum natis significat, A Writ directed to a Mayor of a Town, &c., who was by the King’s Writ commanded to give Seisin of Lands to the King’s Grantee, on his delaying to do it, requiring him to shew Cause why he so delays the Performance of his Duty. 4 Rep.

Centis et Effici. In mort Caesei, or Beginning of a Thing, as the principal Part on which all other Things are founded: And herein the next, and not the remote Cause is most laid upon, except it be in Contious and Certain Things: This Writ is not good at first, will not be so afterwards; for such as is the Cause, such is the Effect, Plowd. 288, 286. Certainty, Is a plain, clear and distinct setting down of Things, so that they may be understood. 5 Rep. 121. A convenient Certainty is required in Writs, Declarations, Pleadings, &c. But if a Writ shew for want of it, the Plaintiff may have another Writ: ‘Tis otherwise if a Deed become void by Incertainty, certainly, the Party may not have a new Deed at his Pleasure: But the Party must have, and may have, the Certainty enough, that may be made certain: but not like what is certain of itself. 4 Rep. 97. See In-certainty.
[Drummado be recognoscite Stapule, Is a Writ commanding the Mayor of the City to certify to the Lord Chancellor a Statute Simple taken before him, where the Party himself deposes, and it is sent to bring in the same. Reg. 183. There is the like Writ to certify a Statutes-Merchants; and in divers other Cales. Ibid. 145, 151, &c.
Certificat, is a Writ, made in any Court, to give Notice to another Court of any Thing done therein, which is usually by way of Transcript, &c. And sometimes it is made by an Officer of the same Court, where Matters are referred to him, as a Rule of Court is obtained for it; containing the Tenor and Effect of what is done. The Clerks of the Crown, Assize and Peace, and also the Marshals, are to make Certificat, into B. R. of the Tenor of Indictments, Conclusions, &c. under Penalties, by the Stat. 34 & 35 Hen. 8.
Certification of Bills of Beef Difficult, (Certtificate on Bills of Beef Difficulty, &c.) Is a Writ granted for the Re-examining of a Matter passed by Affidavit before Judges: And this is used where a Man appearing by his Affidavit to an Affidavit brought by another had left the Day and Place, and having something more to plead in his own behalf, which the Affidavit did not, or might not plead for him, deposes a fuller Examination of the Cauze, either before the same Judges, or others, and obtains Letters Patent to them to do what the Effect of it was, whereupon, he brings a Writ to the Sheriff to call both the Party for whom the Affidavit passed, and the Jury that was impa-nelled on the same, before the said Judges, at a certain Day and Place, when the same is to be examined:
And it is called a Certificat, because therein Mention is made to the Sheriff, that upon the Party's Complaint of the defective Examination, as to the said Affidavit, passed, the King hath directed his Letters Patent to the Judges for the better Certificat of themselves, whether all Points of the said Affidavit were duly examined.
Certissimari, A Writ calling out of the Chancery to an inferior Court, to call up the Record of a Cauze there depending, that Judge may be done therein, upon Complaint that the Party who seeks the said Writ hath received hard Usage, or is not like to have an Exequatur of the Chancery. Exequatur in the said Day and Place by N. B. 39. reg. 524. This Writ is either returnable in the King's Bench, and then hath these Words, Nobi misitatis; or in the Common Law, and then hath Indicatio justissimae sopra de Banco; or in the Chancery, and then hath in Canellaria sopra, &c. A Certissimari issues sometimes out of Chancery, and sometimes out of the King's Bench, and lies where the King would be certified of a Record, in any Court of Record, and the King may send such Writ to any of the said Courts, to certify such Record before him in Banco, or in the Chancery, or before such other Judges, where he pleases to have the same certified. F. N. B. 245.
Certissimari lies to the Courts of Wales; and the C incon Peace, and the Court of the said Certissimari, is heard by a Common Law, in the said Day and Place, as herein above. Indictments from inferior Courts, and Proceedings of the Quarter Sessions of the Peace, &c. may be removed into B. R. by Certissimari: And this said Certissimari to remove an Indictment is good, although it bear Date before the taking thereof: But on a Certissimari, the very Record must be returned, and not a Transcript of it; for if so, then the Record will still remain against the Court. In B. R. the very Record is the Indictment, is removed by Certissimari; but usually in Chancery, if a Certissimari be returnable there, it is removed only the Tenor of the Record, and therefore if it be sent from hence to the King's Bench, they cannot proceed either to J udgement or Execution, because they must first return the Record before them. 2 Hale's Hilip. P. C. 215.
And alio, on a Habatus Carpin to remove a Person, the Court may bail or discharge the Prisoner; they can give no Judgment upon the Record of the Indictment against him, without a Certissimari to remove it, but the same stands in Force as it did, and new Processes may issue out: But it is presumed in Civil Causes. Ibid. 211. If an Indictment be one, but the offences several, where four Persons are indicted together: a Certissimari to remove this Indictment against two of them, it is to be made in one Writ, but as to them the Record remains below. 2 Hale's Hilip. 214. Where a Certissimari is by Law granted for an Indictment, at the Suit of the King, the Court is bound to award it, or it is the King's Prerogative to sue in what Court he pleases: But it is at the Dis-creeion of the Court to grant it or not, at the Prayer of the Defendant; And the Court will not grant it for the Removal of an Indictment before Judges of Gazol Delivery, without some special Caule; or where there is much Difficulty in the Cae: the Judge defines it may be determined in B. R. &c. Also indictments of Perjury, Forgery, or for heinous Midemeaunors, the Court will not grant a Certissimari to remove the Indictments of the Defendant. 2 Hals.
P. C. v. 53. Where the Court allows this Writ below, it is a good Objection against Granting a Certissimari: And if a Person doth not make sure of this Writ till the Place where the Crown are sworn, he loses the Benefit of it. Med. Ca. 16. Stat. 43 Eng. c. 5. After Conviction, a Certissimari may be not be had to remove an Indictment, &c. unless there be special Caule; as if the Judge below the said Judges, and the Cauze is to be Judged there, when it may: And after Conviction, it lies in such Cales where Writ of Error will not lie. 1 Saith. 149. The Court on Motion in an extraordinary Cae will give no Judgment, because they have no Writ of Error. And where a Certissimari is to be made in an inferior Court; but this is done where the orinal Way of taking out Execution is hindered in the inferior Court. 1 Litt. Abr. 355. In common Cases a Certissimari will not lie to remove a Cause out of an inferior Court, after Verdict. It is never feed out after a Writ of Error, but where Diminution is allledged or discovered, because they have no Writ of Error. And where a Certissimari shall exceed 5 l. a Certissimari shall not be had, but a Writ of Error or Attaunt. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 23. A Certissimari is to be granted on Matter of Law only: and where it is the East of a new or altered Eyde, or against the Statute, according to the Statute, it is not so. 1 Stat. 43. Certissimari to remove Indictments, &c. are to be signed by a Judge; And to remove Orders, the Inst. for making out the Writ, must be signed by some Judge. In Vacant Time, a Certissimari may be granted by any of the Judges of B. R. and Security is to be found before it is allowed. By Statute no Certissimari is to be granted out of B. R. to remove an Indictment before Judges of Peace at the Sessions, before Trial, unless Motion be made in open Court, and the Party indicted find Security by two Persons in 20 l. each to plead to the Indictment in B. R. &c. And if the Defendant professing the Certissimari be convicted, the Court of B. R. shall order Certissimari to the Prosecutors. Stat.
5 & 6 W. 4. M. cap. 11. If on a Certissimari to remove an Indictment the Party do not find Maulcapers in the Sum of 20 l. to plead to the Indictment, and the Party indicted find Security by two Persons in 20 l. each to plead to the Indictment in B. R. &c. And if the Defendant professing the Certissimari be convicted, the Court of B. R.
shall order Certissimari to the Prosecutors. Stat.
5 & 6 W. 4. M. cap. 11. If on a Certissimari to remove an Indictment the Party do not find Masnuc-apers in the Sum of 20 l. to plead to the Indictment, and the Party indicted find Security by two Persons in 20 l. each to plead to the Indictment in B. R. &c. And if the Defendant professing the Certissimari be convicted, the Court of B. R.
shall order Certissimari to the Prosecutors. Stat.
5 & 6 W. 4. M. cap. 11.
Certo-money, (proef certain Money) Is Head-Money, paid yearly by the Reants of several Manors to the Lords thereof, for the certain Keeping of the Leet, and sometimes to the Hundred: As the Master of Hode in Dunstable pays Certo-Money to the Hundred of Egerdon. Certabit, Is a Writ that lies in divers Cales, upon this general Ground, that he against whom it is brought, hath for two Years neglected to perform such Service, or to pay such a Rent, as he is tied to by his Tenure, and hath not upon his Lands or Tenements sufficient Goods or Chattles to be disposed of. F. N. B. 280. And if a Tenant for Years of Land at a certain Rent, sufferers the Rent to be behind two Years, and there is no such Distatif to be had upon the Land; then in the Land he shall recover the Land: But if the Tenant come into Court before Judgment given, and tender the Arrears and Da-Amages, and find Securitie that he shall cease no more in Payment of the Rent, then the Tenant shall not lose his Land. Termes de Ley 107. By Statute, if a Fee-Farmer cease to pay his Rent two Years, the Leior may have a Caffoaur, and recover the Land: And in this Case, the Heir of the Demissant may maintain a Caffoaur against the Heir or Affign of the Tenant. 6 Ed. 1. cap. 4. But in other Cases, the Heir may not bring this Writ for Caffoaur in the Time of his Ancestor: And it lies not but for annual Service, Rent, and such like; not for Homage or Fesity. If a Man cease to pay his Rent and services for two Years, and include the Land, if the Lord cannot disain, if he lay not open the Gates or Hedges of the Land which make the Inclosure, the Lord shall have a Caffoaur, although the Tenant hath sufficed in Cattle upon the Land to be disained for the Rent: For the Land ought to be open, and Likewise there should be sufficient to disain for the Rent, &c.

Challenge, Colonnus (from the Fr. Chalengeur) is used in the Law for an Exception to Jurors, who are allowed to challenge any Juror. And the Challenge is made to the Jurors, or either made to the Array, or to the Polls. To the Array is, when Exception is taken to the whole Number impounded; and to the Polls is, when some one or more are excepted against, as not indifferent.

Challengers to Jurors is also divided into Challenge Principal or Peremptory; and Challenge per Plea, viz. upon Cause or Reason; Challenge Principal or Peremptory to the Plaintiff, causae, unless he all of a sudden, or during, the trial, challenge that he is not entitled to a new trial, or that the whole Cause is to be put out of his hands, and if the Plaintiff do not challenge that he is not entitled to a new trial, or that the whole Cause is to be put out of his hands, or if he does not challenge that he is not entitled to a new trial, or that the whole Cause is to be put out of his hands, the Plaintiff shall be allowed, but for Malice. If a Prisoner challenge peremptorily more than allowed, he is to be dealt with as one finding False. And some Statutes which take away the Exception from Felons, exclude those from their Clergy who peremptorily challenge more than twenty, whereby they are liable to Judgment of Death. 2 Hen. 4. c. 3. 4 W. & M. c. 9. But if the Offence be within the Benefit of the Clergy, the Challenge shall be over-ruled, and the Party put upon his Trial. The King cannot challenge peremptorily in Murder, &c. without their ing cause. 3 Mo. 155. 3. And by Stat. 30 E, 1. if those who prosecute for the King challenge a Juror, they shall be ordered to show cause why they have not brought in a good Cause, the Inquest shall be taken. All Peremptory Challenges are to be taken by the Parrys himself; and when those Challenges are taken, they are taken all at once. But there can be no Challenge till the Jury is full; and then the Array is to be challenged before one of them is sworn. 3 H. 3. 2. Where the King is a Party, if the other side challenges a Juror above the Number allowed by Law, he ought to swear the Causer of his Challenge immediately. 3 B. 191. A Defendant shall swear all Causes of Challenge before the King shall swear any. 2 Hawe. 413. And the King ought not to swear the Cause of Challenge before all the Jurors are called over; for if there are enough before challenge challenged, there will be no occasion to swear any Cause why he challenged the Reft. But if there are not enough, then he must swear the Cause of his Challenge. 3 Ram. 473. There may be a Principal Cause of Chall. It is a Principal Cause of Challenge in respect of Partiality or Default of the Sheriff, &c. and not in respect of the Performers; and this Partiality in the Sheriff, may be on the part of the Sheriff himself, or a Plaintiff or Defendant; or if one of the Jury is returned at the Nomination of the Plaintiff or Defendant; or if either the Plaintiff or the Peer of the Party, &c. 1 H. 156. 157. Challenge to the Favour is where the Plaintiff or Defendant is Tenant to the Sheriff, or if the Sheriff's Son has married the Daughter of the Party, &c. and is so when either Party cannot take any Principal Challenge, but derives Cause of Favour; and Causes of Favour are infinite. But where the King is a Party, one shall not challenge the Array for Favour, though the Parties and their Relations, or the Juniorities, implying Maligns, be Cause of Challenge: And a Jury may be challenged for holding Lands by the same Title as the Defendant. 2 Lev. 60. If a Person owes Suit of Courts, &c. to a Lord of a Hundred who is Plainfair, it is a Principal Challenge, as he is within the Eldest of the Plainfair. 3 Dyer 176. But it is not to be no Challenge that a Person is in Debt to either Party. 1 Nef. Abr. 416. A Juror returned by a wrong Name may be challenged and withdrawn, so that the Jury shall not be taken, yet a Tally may be granted. 1 Little Ab. 326. And if a Juror declares the Right of either of the Parties, &c. it is a Cause of Challenge: Though it has been ruled that it is not a sufficient Cause of Challenge, that a Juror delivered his Opinion touching the Title of the Land in Question; because his Opinion may be altered on hearing the Evidence. 3 P. 23 Cor. R. If there are two Demandants in a real Action, or two Tenants, and one challenges a Juror, and the other will not, the Juror (the Challenge being allowed) shall be drawn against the Rest. 1 H. 5. 14. 1fo. 12. 1 fo. 14. To try a Person to be tried for any Crime, that he is Guilty, or will be hanged. &c. is good Cause of Challenge: But the Prisoner must prove it by Witness, and not out of the Mouth of the Jurymann, who may not be examined: And though a Jurymann may be asked upon a Voir dire whether he hath any Interest in the Cause; or whether he hath a Feehold, &c. yet a Jurymann may not be examined, whether he hath been convict of Felony, or guilty of any Crime, &c. which would make a Man discover that of himself which tends to make him infamous, and the Android might be brought him with a Misdemeanor. 1 Salk. 155. Default of Hundreders is Cause of Challenge by the Common Law; but by Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 24. In Corporation Towns from worth forty Pounds in Goods, are entitled to be Jurors for trying, or in behalf of the Body of the Person, &c. and in Cities, Towns, &c. for their neighbours, they have the Right, none having Lands or Goods of One Hundred Pounds Value, &c. by Stat.
with their Swords, or it will be good Cause of Challenge. More 67. If one challenge a Juror, and the Challenge is entered, he may not afterwards have him sworn on the Jury. And if the Defendant do not proceed in the Trial when called, the Inferences his Challenge is false, and the Plaintiff and Defendant to attend their Challenges, &c. See Jury.

Chamberlains, or Chamber-Demeen, were certain poor Irish Scholars, clothed in mean Habit, and living under no Rule; banished England by Stat. 1 Hen. 5. cap. 7. 8.

Chamberlain, (Cambrarius) is variously used in our Laws, Statutes and Chronicles: As first there is Lord Great Chamberlain of England, to whose Office belongs the Government of the Palace at Westminster, and upon all solemn Occasions the Keys of Westminster Hall, and the Court of Requests are delivered to him. He disposes of the Sword of State to be carried before the King when he comes to the Parliament, and goes on the Right Hand of the Sword next to the King's Perfon. He has the Care of providing all Things in the House of Lords in Time of Parliament; to him belongs Livery and Liveryage in the King's Court, &c. And the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, Yeoman Usher, &c. are under his Authority. The Lord Chamberlain of the Horsehold has the Oversight and Government of all Officers belonging to the King's Chamber, (except the Bed-Chamber, which is under the Groom of the Stole) and also of the Wardrobe; of Appliances retained in the King's Service; Meffengers, Commissars, Revells, Mufick, &c. The Serjeants at Arms are likewise under his Inspection; and the King's Chaplains, Physicians, Apothecaries, Surgeons, Barbers, &c. And he hath under him a Council of Chamberlains, both being always Privy Councilors. There were formerly Chamberlains of the King's Courts. 7 Ed. 6. cap. 1. And there are Chamberlains of the Exchequer, who keep a Controlment of the Bills of Receipts and Exits, and have in their Custody the Leagues and Treaties with foreign Princes, many ancient Records, the two famous Books of Antiquity called Domesday and the Black Book of the Exchequer; and the Standards of Money, and Weights, and Measures are kept by them. There are also Under-Chamberlains of the Exchequer, who make Searches for all Records in the Treasury; and are concerned in making out the Talents, &c. The Office of Chamberlain of the Exchequer is mentioned in the Stat. 34 & 35 H. 8. cap. 16, and the Refunds that are as a Cost of Chamberlains of North Wales, Stew. p. 641. A Chamberlain of Chester, to whom it belongs to receive the Rents and Revenues of that City, and when there is no Prince of Wales, and Earl of Chester, he hath the Receiving and Returning of all Writ coming thither out of any of the King's Courts. The Chamberlain of London, who is commonly the Receiver of the City Rates payable into the Chamber; and hath great Authority in making and determining Rights of Freemen, concerning Apprentices, Orphans, &c.

Champtoy, or Champtery, (from the Fr. Champ, a Field, and Parti divided, or the Lat. Campus, and Partitio, because the Parties in Champtery agree to divide the Thing in Question) Signifies a Bargain with the Plaintiff or Defendant in any Suit, to have Part of the Land, Debt, or other Thing found for, if the Party that ought to obtain it prevails in the Action. This seems to have been an ancient Grievance in our Nation; for notwithstanding the several Statutes of 3 Ed. 1. cap. 25. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 49. 28 Ed. 1. cap. 11. and 33 Ed. 1. cap. 9. and a Form of a Writ framed to them; yet whereas former Statutes provided Remedies for this Evil in the King's Bench, it should at least be lawful for Jurisdictions of the Common Pleas, Jurisdictions of Alience, and Jurisdictions of Peace in their Quarter- Sessions, to inquire, hear and determine this and such other Cases as well as the Suit of the King, as of the Party: And this Offence is punishable by Common Law and Statute, the Stat. 33 Ed. 1. makes the Offenders liable to three Years Imprisonment, and a Fine at the King's Pleasure. By the Stat. 28 Ed. 1. c. 11. it is ordained, that no Officer, nor any other, shall take upon him any Business, suit, or have Part of the Thing in Pleas; nor some upon any Covenant, shall give up his Right to another; and if any do, and be convicted thereof, the Taker shall forfeit to the King so much of his Lands and Goods as amounts to the Value of the Part perished, &c. for such Maintenance. In the Confusion of these Statutes, it hath been adjudged, that under the Word Covenant, all Kinds of Promises and Covenants are included, whether by Writing, or Parol: That Rent granted out of Land in Varrance, is within the Statutes of Champtery; And Grants of the Thing in Suit in the King's Court, in the Confusion of the Meaning of this Statute; but not such as are made in Consideration of a precedent honest Deed, which is agreed to be affected with the Thing in Deemah or Varrance. F. N. B. 172. 2 Inf. 209. 2 Roll. Abr. 113. It is said not to be material, whether he who brings a Writ of Champtery, did in Truth suffer any Damage by it; or whether the Plea wherein it is alleged be determined or not. 1 How. 257. A Conveyance executed hanging a Plea, in Purvance of a Bargain made before, is not within the Statutes against Champtery; And if a Man purchase Land of a Party, pending the Writ, if it be done falsely; and not to maintain, it is not Champtery. F. N. B. 287. 2 Roll. Abr. 113. But it hath been held, that the Purchase of Land while a Suit of Equity concerning it is depending, is within the Purview of the Statute 28 Ed. 1. cap. 255. A Lease for Life, or Years, or a voluntary Gift of Land, is within the Statutes of Champtery; but not a Surrander made by a Lessee to his Lessee; Or a Conveyance relating to Lands in Suit, made by a Father to his Son, &c. 1 How. 258. The Giving Part of the Lands in Suit, after the End of it, to a Councillor for his Wages, is not Champtery, if there be no precedent Bargain relating to that Gift: But if it had been agreed between the Councillor and his Client before the Action brought, that he should have Part for his Wages, then it would be Champtery. Bros. Champtery. 3. And it hath been held, that with any such Gift, since it carries with it a strong Presumption of Champtery, 2 Inf. 546. If any Attorney follow a Cause to be paid in gross, when the Thing in Suit is recovered, it hath been adjudged that this is Champtery. How. 117. Every Champtery implies Maintenance; but every Maintenance is not Champtery; for Champtery is but a Species of Maintenance. Crom. Fr. 39. 2 Inf. 208. 2 Inf.

Wilt, &c. T H E Jurors, &c. present, That whereas by the Common Council of the Kingdom of England, or by Champtery it is proved, That no Officer of our Sovereign Lord the King, nor any other shall maintain Pleas, Suits, or Matters depending in the King's Courts, for Land, Tenements, or other Things in Suit, to have Part of the Thing in Question, or any Profit by Covenant made for that Purpose, no shall any under such Covenant give up his Right to another, another, as in the said Statutes is fully contained: Neverthelesse see E.F. on the Day, &c. in the Third of the Year. Acc. to the said Court, &c. to maintain, and hath maintained a certain Suit, (which was depending in the King's Court, before the King him- self,) by the Right of his Lordship, the then A. B. & C. D. in a Plea of Debt, &c. (in which the said A. B. demanded of the said C. D.) to have Part of the Debt and Damages recovered in that Suit, that is to say, to have half of the said Debt and Damages, by Covenant made between the said E.F. & A. B. against the Peace of our said Lord the now King, his Crown and Dignity, and against the Form of the Statutes aforesaid to such Cases made and provided.

Champernon, By Statute, are they who move Pleas or Suits, or cause them to be moved, either by their own Procurement, or by others, and sue them at their proper Costs, to have Part of the Land in Variance, or Part of the Gain. 35 Ed. 1. 1. Champernons, vel laesam felicis vel nocem movent, vel moveor factum, &c. &c. juniphis prae- quatern ad campi partem, vel pro partis lucis babendis. Stat. 2. Artic. Super Chart. 11.

Chamber is a Place in the Law not only for him that fights a Combat in his own Cause, but also for him that doth it in the Place or Quarrel of another. 42 Hen. 3. The Champions, mentioned in our Law Books and Histories, were usually hired; and any one might hire them, except Parri- cides, and those who were accused of the blood of the King. Before they came into the Field, they shaved their Heads, and made Oath that they believed the Person who hired them, was in the Right, and that they would defend their Cause to the utmost of their Power; which was always done on Foot, and with no other Weapon than a Stick or Club, and a Shield: And before they engaged, they always made an Offering to the Church, that God might help them in the Battle. When the Battle was over, the Punishment of a Champion overcome, and likewise the Person for whom he fought, was various: If it was the Champion of a Woman for a Capital Offence, the she was burnt, and the Champion hanged: If it was of a Man, and not for a Capital Crime, he not only made Satisfaction, but had his Right Hand Cut off, and the Man was to be ete confined in Prison, till the Battle was over. Brad. leg. 2. c. 35. See Combat.

Chambers (Chambers) is an ancient Officer, whose Office is at the Coronation of our Kings, when the King is at Dinner, to ride armed Cap ac paule within his Habit, and by the Proclamation of a Herald make a Challenge. That if any Man shall defy the King's Title in the Crown, he is then ready to defend it in single Combat. And being done, the King drinks to him, and lends him a Gift Cup, a Cover, Vell, of Wine, which the Champion drinks, and hath the Cup for his Fee. This Office, ever since the Coronation of King Richard I. has been done by the Master of the Rolls in the Presence of all the Persons present. For in the reign of John, the Office was adjudged from him to Sir John Dymoke his Competitor, (both claiming from Marmion) and hath continued ever since in the Family of the Dymokes; who hold the Master of the Rolls in the Presence of the King, by Hereditary from the Marmions, by Grand Ser- jent, with. That the Lord thereof shall be the King's Champion, as above stated. Accordingly Sir Edward Dymoke performed this Office at the Coronation of the King Charles II.

Chancellors, (Canclerius) Was at first only a clerk to the Master of the Rolls under the Emperor, and was called Cancellerius, because he was in his Cancello, to avoid the Crowd of the People. This Word is by some derived from Cancello, and by others from Chancellor, an inclosed or separated Place, or Chancellorship, employed to hold with Bars, to defend the Judges, and other Officers from the Press of the Publick. And Chancellor was originally, as Lancelot held in the Register in Court, Graphnbor, seu mil. confundendi & exercitationum Judicium auditum dant operam: But this Name and Officer is of late Times greatly advanced, not only in this, but in other Kingdoms; for he is the chief Administrator of Justice, next to the Sover- eign, who anciently heard equitable Causes himself. All other Judges in this Kingdom are tied to the first Rules of the Law, in their judgements; but the Chancellor hath the King's absoolute Power to moderate the written Law, governing his Judgment by the Law of Nature and Conscience, and ordering all Things, jusq. equam & bonum: And having the King's Power in their Matters, he hath been called the Keeper of the King's Conscience. According to a late Testis, the Chancellor originally held a Publick Commission of the Secretaries, for the Writing of Treaties, Grants, and other Publick Business; and that the Court of Equity under the old Constitution was held before the King and his Counsel, or Judges, where the Supreme Court for Business of every Kind was kept: And at first the Chancellor became a Judge to hear and determine Petitions to the King, which were returned to him; and in the End as Business increased, the People intitled their Suits to the Chancellor, and not the King: And thus the Chancellor's equatable Power had by Degrees Commenced by Prerogative. Hist. Chan. p. 5, 10, 44. &c. Stowes forays, the Chan- celler hath two Powers; one absolute, the other ordinary; meaning, that although by his ordinary Power, in some Cases, he must observe the Form of Proceeding as other inferior Judges, in his absolute Power he is not limited by the Law, but by Conscience and Equity, according to the Circumstances of Things.

And though Polyarchs Virgil, in his History of England makes William the First, called the Conqueror, the Founder of our Chancellors; yet our Antiquary Mr. Dugdale has shown that there were many Chancellors of England long before that Time, which are mentioned in his Origin Juridiculae, and Catalogues of Chan- cellers; and Sir Edward Coke in his fourth Iniustitute, it is certain, That both the British and Saxon Kings had their Chancellors, whose great Authorities under their Kings, were in all Probability drawn from the reasonable Customs of surrounding Nations, and the Civil Law. He that bears this Chief Magnificacy, is filled the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, which is the highest Honour of the long Robe; being made so Per traditionem moresque regii, et pro Dominum Regem, and by taking his Oath: And a Chancellor may be made so at Will, by Patent, but 'tis laid not for Life, for being an ancient Office, it ought to be granted as has been accustomed. 4 Lev. 89. But Sir Edward Hulse, afterwards Earl of Clarendon, had a Patent to be Lord Chancellor for Life, though he was dismissed from that Office, and the Patent declared void. 1 Sid. 358. By the Stat. 5 Eliz. cap. 18. the Lord Chancellor and Keeper have one and the same Power; and therefore since that Statute, there cannot be a Lord Chancellor and Lord Keeper at the same Time; before there might, and hath been. 4 Lev. 78. King Hen. c. 5. had a great Seal of Gold, which he delivered to the Bishop of Durham, and made him Lord Chancellor, and his Son Chancellor of Silver, which he delivered to the Bishop of London to keep; but at this Day there being but one Great Seal, there cannot be a Lord Chancellor and Lord Keeper Regius at the same Time; but one Office, as declared by 5 Eliz. and the Taking away the Seal det- ermines the Office. 1 Sid. 338. But the Lord Bridge- man, and was Lord Keeper, and Lord Justice Common Pleas, at the same Time, which Offices were held. held not to be inconsiderable. Ibid. By W. & M. c. 15. Some nomes (or officers) appointed to execute the Office of Lord Chancellor, may exercise all the Authority, Jurisdiction, and Execution of Laws, which the Lord Chancellor, or Keeper of Right, ought to unite and execute. In which case, this High Officer hath been several Times in Commission; though generally on the Dismission of a Chancellor, till another was appointed. The Lord Chancellor, now there is no Lord High Steward, is accounted the first Officer of the Kingdom; and he not only keeps the King's Great Seal, but all Patents, Commission, Warrants, &c., from the King, are preceded by him before signed: And he has the Disposal of all Ecclesiastical Benefits in the Gift of the Crown under 20. I. a Year in the King's Books, which has occasioned this Office to be formerly professed by a Clergyman. He by his Clerk fawers well and truly to serve the King, and to do Right to all manner of People, &c. In his Judicial Capacity, he hath divers Affidavits and Officers, &c. The Master of the Rolls, the Malters in Chancery, &c. And in Matters of Difficulty, he calls one or more of the Chief Justices, and Judges to assist him in making his Decrees: though in such Court, they only give their Advice and Opinion, and have no Share of the judicial Authority. As to the Master of the Rolls, he hath judicial Power; and is an Affiant to the Lord Chancellor, in his Office when abSENT, but he has certain Caules alligned him to hear and decret, which he usually doth on certain Days appointed at the Chancery Office, being affidated by one or more Masters in Chancery: He is, by Virtue of his Office, chief of the Malters in Chancery, and chief Clerk of the Petty Bag Office. The twelve Masters in Chancery are in Court, and take Notice of all Proceedings, for their Reference as are made to them, to be reported to the Court, relating to Matters of Practice, the State of the Proceedings, Accounts, &c. And they also take Affidavits, acknowledge Deeds and Recognizances, &c. The Six Chancery in Chancery transact and file all Proceedings by Bill and Answer; and also issue out some Patents that paid the Great Seal; which Business is done by their Under Clerks, each of which has a Seat there, and whereof every six Clerk has a certain Number in his Office, usually about ten. The Clerks of the Court, four and twenty in Number, make out all original Writs in Chancery, which are returnable in C. B. &c. and among these the Business of the several Counties is severally distributed. The Register is a Place of great Importance in this Court, and he hath several Deputies under him to take Cognizance of all Orders and Decrees, and enter and draw them up, &c. The Master of the Subprena Office issues out all Writs of Subprena. The Examiners are Officers in this Court, who take the Depositions of Witnesses, and are to examine them, and make out Copies of the Depositions. The Clerk of Affidavits files all Affidavits used in Court, without which they will not be admitted. The Clerk of the Rolls fixes copies of the Rolls to make Searches for Deeds, Offices, &c. and to make out Copies. The Clerks of the Petty Bag Office, in Number three, have great Variety of Business that goes through their Hands, in making out Writs of Summons to Parliament, Conger d'Efars for Bishops, Patents for Customers; Liberatis upon Extents of Statute Staple, and Recovery of Recognizances forfeited, &c. And also drawing Suits for and against Privileged Persons, &c. And the Clerks of this Office have several Clerks under them. The Officer of the Chancery has formerly the Receiving and Custody of all Money ordered to be deposited in Court, and paid it back again by Order: But this Business hath been of late assumed by the Masters in Chancery. And Ann. 12 Geo. 1. A new Officer was appointed by Statute, called Account General, to receive the Money lodged in Court, and convey the same to the Bank, to be there kept for the Sutlers of the Court. Those whom Persons flouting in Contempt are brought up by their Substitutes as Prisoners. A Warden of the Fleet, who receives such Prisoners as fixed committed by the Courts of Assizes, &c., in which case there is a Clerk of the Crown in Chancery; Clerk and Controller of the Hanger; Clerk for Insolvent Letters Patent, &c. He is employed in Proceedings of Equity, but concerned in making out Commissions, Patents, Pardons, &c. under the Great Seal, and collecting the Fees thereon. A Clerk of the Faculties, for Diritiation, Licenses, &c. Clerk of the Registrations, for Benefits of the Crown in the Chanceller's Gift; Clerk of Appeals, on Appeals from the Courts of the Archbishop, to the Court of Chancery: And divers other Officers, who are continued by the Chancellor's Commission.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, A great Officer, whose Office is principally to examine and inquire between the King and his Tenants of the Duchy Land, and otherwise to direct all the King's Affairs belonging to that Court. The Chancellor is the chief Judge of the Duchy, and in difficult Cases of Law is usually aided by two Judges of the Common Law, out of one Court or other, to decide the Matter in Question: This Court is held in Westminster Hall, and within it there is a Bench used in Reference to Suits between Tenants of Duchy Land, and against Accountants and others for the Rents and Profits of the Said Lands. The Chancellor, as also the Attorney of the Court, one Chief Clerk or Register, and several Auditors, &c. This Officer is mentioned in the Stat. 3 Ed. 6. c. 1. and 5 Hid. c. 26.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, A great Officer, who's thought by many was originally appointed for the qualifying Extremities in the Exchequer. He sometimes sits in Court, and in the Exchequer Chamber; and with the Judges of the Court, orders Things to the King's best Benefit. He hath by the Stat. 33 H. 8. c. 39. Power with others, to compound for the Forfeitures upon Penal Statutes, Bonds and Recognizances entered into the King: He hath also great Authority in the Management of the Royal Revenue, &c. which forms of late to be his chief Business, being commonly the first Commissioner of the Treasury. And though the Court of Equity in the Exchequer Chamber, was intended to be holden before the Treasurers, Chancellors and others; it is usually before the Baronets only. When there is a Lord Treasurer, the Chancellor of the Exchequer is Under-Treasurer.

Chancellor (Cancellaria) is the highest Court of Jurisdiction in this Kingdom next to the Parliament, and of very ancient Institution. The Jurisdiction of this Court is of the Duchy of Lancaster, or Legall; and extraordinairy, or absolute. The Ordinary Jurisdiction, is that wherein the Lord Chancellor in his Proceedings and Judgments, is bound to observe the Order and Method of the Common Law; and the Procedings of this Court have been usually in Latin, and filed or enrolled in the Petty Bag Office: And the extraordinary or unlimited Power, is that Jurisdiction which this Court exercises in Cases of Estate, wherein Relief is to be had by Way of English Bill and Answer. The Ordinary Court holds holds Plea of Recognisances acknowledged in the Chancery, Writs of Suits facias for Repeal of Leases Particular... it may be also of all Performal Actions, by or against any Officer of the Court; and by Act of Parliament of several Offences and Causes: All original Writs or Commission of Bankruptcy; or of Charitable Uses of Idols, and Usury, &c. issue out of this Court, for which it is always open; and sometimes a Superfluous or Writ of Privilege, hath been heretofore to discharge. In a Suit in Chancery: One from hence may have an Healthy Corpus, Prohibition, &c. in the Vacation, which are to be had out of the other Courts only in Term-time; and here a Subpoena may be had to force Witnesses to appear in other Courts, when they have no Power to call them. 4 Lea.
79. 1 Dunn. Abr. 775. But in professing Causes, if the Parties defend to issue, this Court cannot try it by Jury; but the Lord Chancellor delivers the Record in to the King's Bench to be tried there; and after Trial had, it is to be remanded into the Chancery, and there Judgment given. Though if there be a Defendant in Law, it shall be argued and adjudged in this Court.
When there is Defendant upon Part, and Issue upon Part, the Record being in B. R. that Court ought to give judgment, and the same may be but be neither in Chancery, and if the Record come thither, they cannot fend it back again. 1 Med. Rep. 20. But see 2 Lea. 89. Upon a Judgment given in this Court, a The Extraordinary Court, or Court of Equity, protects by the Rules of Equity and Confidence, and moderates the Rigour of the Common Law, and confounding the Intention rather than the Words of the Law. It gives Relief for and against Infants, notwithstanding their Minority: And for and against married Women, notwithstanding their Age. In such Cases a Woman may sue for her Husband for Maintenance; which may sue him when he is beyond Sea, &c. and be compelled to Answer without her Husband: All Frauds and Deceits, for which there is no Redress at Common Law; All Breaches of Trust and Confidence; and Accidents, as to relieve Obligors, Mortgagors, &c. against Penalties and Forfeitures, where the Intent was to pay the Debt, are here remedied: For in Chancery, a Forfeiture, &c. shall not bind, where a Thing may be done after, or Compensation made for it. 1 Dunn.
79. 1 Dunn. Abr. 775. But this Court will give Relief against the Extremity of unreasonable Engagements, entered into without Consideration; ebbing Conditions will not be unreasonable, to compound with an unfortunate Debtor: And make Executors, &c. give Security and pay Interest for Money that is to lie long in their Hands. 2 Vent. 346. Here Executors may sue one another, or the Executor alone be sued without the Red: Order may be made for performance of a Will: It may be decreed who shall have the Use of a Child: This Court may confirm Titte to Lands, though one hath lost his Writings; Render Conveyances defective through Mistake, &c. good and perfect; but not Defects in a voluntary Conveyance, unless where intended as a Provision for younger Children. 2 Vent. 265. In Chancery, Copyholders may be relieved against the ill Ufage of their Lords: Indorsors of Lands that are Common be decreed; and this Court may decree Money or Lands given to Charitable Uses: Things in Action, upon Alignment on Consideration: Oblige Men to account with each other: Avoid the Bar of Actions, and the Statute of Limitation, &c. for Debts thus barred, are still Debts in Equity, and the Duty remains. 1 Dunn.
Abr. 749. 750. 1 Salt. 134. But in all Cases, where the Plaintiff can have his Remedy at Law, he ought not to be relieved in Chancery: And a Thing which may be tried by a Jury, is not triable in this Court. Dunn. Abr. 763. Also long Leases, as for 1000 Years, naked Promises; verbal Agreements not executed: Estates deriv'd under conceal'd Titles, &c. have been refused: Relief in this Court: And Mortgages are not relievable in Equity, even after ten Years, unless a Demand has been made, or Interest paid, or there are not other particular Circumstances; &c. 2 Vent. 340.
A Bond, when neither the Principal nor Interest hath been demanded in 20 Years, will be deemed to be Equitaly to be satisfied, and be decreed to be cancelled; and a perpetual Injunction may be granted to stay Proceeding therein. 1 Ch. Rep. 314. But a Deed appearing to be cancelled, has been Decreed to be a good Deed, on special Circumstances: And a Defendant, having suppressed a Settlement, whereby a Remainder in Tail was limited, &c. upon Proof that the Defendant came to his Hands, the Plaintiff had a Decree in Chancery to hold the Estate. 1 Ch. Cauf. 249. 2 Fern.
Rep. 380. Articles of Agreement upon marriage reduced into Writing, though not signed by either Party, being proved to be agreed to, were decreed to be perform'd. 2 Fern. 200. Also an Agreement in Writing made since the Statute of Frauds, has been Decreed to be discharged by Parol. 1 Ventns. Rep. 240. An understand Agreement may be set aside as fraudulent: And Articles, a Deed of Conveyance executed, and a Find in Partnership thereof, were set aside by a Decree, the view Fraud, where the Party was imposed upon. Ibid. 205.
A Deed not fraudulent at first, may become so afterwards; and if one add a Deed to a Note, which is good without it, he will lose his Security and a R. 3.
Ref. 90. Of Exchange being given by Fraud, Equity will re-judge against it, and Decree that the Money shall be re-ret. 2 Fern. 165. 123. A Release shall be avoided for Fraud, where there is opprēsio sui, or fugium fidelis, and a Release may be set aside in Chancery by reason of the Misapprehension of the Party that gave it. 1 Fern. Rep. 467. A Will concerning Lands, may be avoided in a Court of Equity when obtained by Fraud: A Mortgage made by a Man subsiquent to his Will shall be a Revocation pro seant only in Equity, and not of the whole Will, &c. 2 Ch. Rep.
97. An Heir may be relieved in Equity against a contingent Contract, made during his Father's Life, to pay a large Sum of Money, if he outlives his Father, when it is unconscionable. 2 Chaw. Rep. 397. And a Broker who had made it his Business to sell Goods at extravagant RATES to young Persons, to be paid for one upon the Death of their Parents, and he decreed to discharge Securities thus obtain'd for great Sums, on Payment of what he had really paid to the Plaintiff, and for his Use, &c. 1 Fern. 467. A Purchaser of Land, without Notice of an Incumbrance, shall not be hurt thereby in Equity; and in Pleading a Purchase, the Defendant ought to deny Notice of Incumbrances, &c. No Interest will be allowed in Chancery for Book-Deeds; nor shall Interest Money be allowed to be made Principal on Securities, so as to make Interest upon Interest, unless it be where Interest Money is reduced to a Bared Sum, &c. 3 Ch. Rep. 65. 1 Fern. 165.
2 Ch. Rep. 286. It has been held, That the Court of Chancery cannot afford Damages for a Firefall, &c. but it ought to be ascertained by a Jury of the Case, and not otherwise. 1 Ch. Rep. 450. A Bill may be brought for discovering the Contents of a Letter, which would discharge the Plaintiff of an Action at Law, before Verdict. 3 Ch. Rep. 17. Indentures of Apprenticeship have been Decreed to be delivered up, and the Money given with the Apprenticeship to be paid back by the Master, on ill Ufage of the Apprentices, &c. Finch Rep. 125. Charity Lands being Let at a great Under-value, as was found by Inquisition, on a Commission of Charitable Uses, the Lease was avoided in Equity, and the Lees Decreed to pay the Arrears in Rent according to the full Valor, and to yield up the Possession. 2 Fern. 415. A Gracian's Castle driving to London, were distrained in Grounds for the Bankkeeper, and in Replevin
the Landlord had Judgment at Law; but the Grazier was relieved in Equity against it. 2 Fern. Rep. 109. Trials and Issues at Law are frequently directed out of the Court of Chancery; and it is sometimes the order, that after Trial, the Parties shall return to the Court on the Equity referred, &c. This Court will not retain a Suit for any Thing under 10l. Value, except in cases of Charity; nor for Lands, &c. under 40s. per Annum: And refutes Relief in Suits where the Substance of them tends to the Overthrow of an Act of Parliament, or any fundamental Point of the Common Law. If a Man looses his Obligation, he shall not be relieved for his Debt, being against a Maxim in Law. 1 Danw. 754. And an Executor in a Court of Equity ought not to be compelled to pay Legacies before Bonds, &c. for this is against the Common Law: So in many other Cases. Ibid. 756. Where a Man by his own Act destroys his Remedy at Law, he shall not be relieved in Equity: But in Case of an apparent Fraud, or in a devious Case in Law, of which the Party could not have Conclu-sion, Relief be he had in Equity against a Statue. Ibid. 755, 759. Defendants may not be regularly relieved in Chancery, after Judgment at Law; though Decrees are made in such Cases: But on Per-son being before the Court for Non-repair of default, they have been formerly discharg'd by Habrour Corpus. Cre. Enr. 220. 1 Roll. Rep. 252. 1 Nelf. Abr. 432. There is a Relief in Chancery, notwithstanding there is an Agreement between the Parties that there shall be no Relief in Law or Equity. 1 Mtd. 141, 305. And where a Party hath both Law and Equity on his Side, it will prevail against Equity only. 1 Danw. Abr. 773. If a Portion be given to a Woman, provided the marriage without Consent of a certain Person, although the marriage with- out Consel of the Father, or the son shall be in Chancery, and have her Portion: But if the Portion, on such Marriage, had been limited over to another, it would be otherwise. 1 Danw. 752. If a Father, on the Marriage of his Son, take a Bond of the Son that he shall pay him so much, &c. this is void in Equity, being adjudged by Corcoran while he is under the Awe of the Father. 1 Sale. 178. Also where a Son, without Privity of the Father, acting the Mach, gives Bond, to return any Part of the Portion, in Equity it is void. Ibid. 176. A Man is not entitled to discovery of a Bond for Goods generally given, which in idelf implies a Consideration. Hard. 200. If a Factor to a Merchant hath Money in his Hands, he shall be accounted his own: and Equity cannot follow Money; but it may Goods to make them the Merchant's, which may be known, though Money cannot. 1 Sales. 560. Money article to be laid out in Land, shall be taken as Land in Equity, and defend to the Heir. Ibid. 154. Personal Estate in the Hands of Executors, shall be applied in Discharge of the Heir, where there is sufficient Affid to pay the Debts and Legacies. 1 Danw. 770. There shall be no Bill in Equity against an Executor, to dis-cover Affid before a Suit commenced at Law. Hard. 117. Legal Affid shall be applied in a Court of Administration; but Equitable Affid amongst all the Creditors proportionably, on a Bill brought, &c. 2 Fern. Cit. Rep. 62. Where Trustees covers Mo-oney raised out of Land for Payment of Debts, to their own Use, the Heir shall have the Land discharged, which hath been its Burden, and the Trustees are liable to the Debts in Equity. 1 Sale. 455. If Lease for Years, without Impeachment of Waste, in the End of his Term cut down Timber-Trees, the Court of Chancery by Injunction may stop the Cutting down of Trees, it being against the Public. Good to destroy Timber. 1 Roll. Abr. 380. And Tenant after Possibility of Issue existed, or for Life, dispensable of Waste, may be stopped in Equity from pulling down Houses, &c. 1 Danw. 761. The King cannot create a Court of Equity at this Day; but the fame must be done by Act of Parliament. 4 Lev. 84. And though the Power is very great, and it may restrain other Courts that exceed their Jurisdiction, and remove Suits to itself by Corriusari, yet it is no Court of Record; and therefore 'in chancery can bind the Power only, and not the Estates of the Defendent, &c. And if he will not obey the Decree of the Court, he must be committed to the Flet till he do. 1 Danw. Abr. 748. By Statute, the Court of Chancery is to follow the King. 26 Ed. 1. c. 5. And whooe'ver shall find himself grieved with any Sta-tuta, he shall have his Remedy in the Chancery. 56 Ed. 3. c. 9. No Saloana or other Process of Ap-pearance, shall issue out of Chancery, &c. till after a Bill is filed, except Bills for Injunctions to stay Waits, or Suits at Law commenced, and a Certificate thereof brought to the Solicary Officer. 4 & 5 Ed. 16. And for preventing vexatious Suits, it is enacted, That upon the Plaintiff's dismissing his own Bill, or the Defendant's dismissing the same for Want of Process, the Plaintiff shall pay to the Defen-dant full Costs, &c. Stat. 6 Ann. 1708. Inlands under the Age of twenty one Years, sealed of Estates of the Sundry Title, in the Way of Mortmain, are enabled by Statute to make Conveyances thereof; or they may be compelled thereto, by Order of the Court of Chancery, &c. upon Petition and Hearing of the Parties concerned. 7 Ann. c. 9. See the Sta-tute of King George 3. whereby Idets and Lunatics re-ceived of Estates in Trust, &c. may make Convey-bances, by Order of the Chancellor, &c. 4 Gen. 2. c. 10. The Stat. 13 Car. 2. relates to the Matters in Chancery, Ordering that one publick Office be kept near the Rails for the Gild Makers, where they shall att-end, and limits and apparatus of the Office, &c. by a late Act, the Power of the Makers was abridg'd, on their misemploying the Skillers Money, which is not paid to the Makers, but the additional Stamp-Duty, on Waits, Proceesses, &c. is granted for Relief of the Skillers, and as a common Stock of the Court of Chancery. 12 Gen. 1. c. 33. All Orders and Decrees made and signed by the Master of the Rolls, shall be deemed and taken to be good and valid Orders and Decrees of the Court of Chancery; but not to be inviolate till Signed by the Lord Chancellor, and subject to Reversal, &c. by him. Stat. 3 Gen. 2. c. 50. A Defendant not appearing after Saloana issued, but keeping out of the Way to avoid being served with the Processes an Affidavit that he is not to be found, and affix'd to be gone beyond Sea, or to absoled, &c. the Court of Chancery may make an Order for his Appearance at a certain Day, 5 Copy of which is to be publish'd in the Gazette, &c. and then if he do not appear, the Plaintiff's Bill shall be taken as agaisst the Defendant, and the Defendant's Elate required, &c. But Orders given by the Kingdom, returning in seven Years, may have a Releas'd, &c. and be admitted to Answer, &c. or be barred, by final Decree. 5 Gen. 2. c. 25. The Acts against the Public are left to file the Bill of Complaint, signed by some Counsel, setting forth the Fraud or Injury done, or Wrong furnished, and praying Relief: After the Bill is filed, Pro-Form of a Bill in Chancery.

To the Right Honourable Philip Lord Hardwicke, Baron of Hardwicke, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain.

Humbly Complaining, therefore unto your Lordship, your Orator A. B. of, &c. That whereas about, &c. Years last past, T. B. of, &c. did grant to L. M. all that Mischief or Tenement, &c. and the Lands, Estates, &c. And afterwards, that is to say, on, &c. he the said L. M. by his Deed bearing Date, &c. under his Hand and Seal, in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to him paid, did bargain, sell, assign, and set over the said Premises, &c. unto J. D. of, &c. which said J. D. not long after, viz. on, &c. did, in Consideration of, &c. by your Orator to him in Hand paid, bargain, sell, assign, and set over the said Premises, &c. unto your Orator, and all and singular the said Premises aforesaid, and every Part thereof, upon such Bargain, &c. and Agreement and Affidavit of the said Premises, &c. made as afoforesaid, your Orator well and truly hoped to have proceeds and quietly entered into the said Premises, &c. and to have held, possessed and enjoyed the same accordingly. But now it is, in or upon the said Premises, &c. your Orator is, &c. and the same is, &c. And your Orator, by Reason of the lawful Consideration to him paid, as aforesaid, and of the said Premises, &c. which your Orator is, &c. to have and enjoy during such Term as the said L. E. shall hold, and enjoy the Premises aforesaid, by Reason of the said Lease, which he is pretended to have, but forasmuch as your Orator does not certainly know whether the said L. E. hath any such Lease, or if he hath any such Lease, what that Date the same beareth, nor what Term the said L. E. hath therein express, nor whether the same is thereby referred, or what Covenants are therein contained: And for that the said L. E. doth not only Use and Occupy the said Premises to his own Profit and Advantage, without Tithing or Paying Rent therefor to your Orator, but doth also utterly refuse to follow the said Lease, whereby it is pretended to claim the Premises aforesaid, either to your Orator, or to any other Person; and for that the said L. E. in Confederacy with, &c. doth grow, &c. All which Actions and Doings of the said L. E. &c. are contrary to all Right, Equity and Good Conscience, and tend to the manifest Wrong, Injury, and Oppression of your Orator: In tender Consideration whereof, and forasmuch as your Orator is Remissible in this Honorable Court, and for that your Orator cannot by the ordinary Course of the Common Law enter into the Premises, nor commence any Action against the said L. E. either for the Recovery of the said Lands, or for the Redemption of the same, but by the Assistance of this Honourable Court: To the End therefore, that the said L. E. may be obliged upon his Oath to declare what Right he has in said Premises, or any Part thereof; and what Rent or Rent and Water is paid for the same, and to whom, and that he may also set forth in his Affidavit upon Oath a true Copy of such Lease or other Writings whereby he claims the said Premises aforesaid, or any Part thereof; and that the said L. E. may stand and be heard, &c. directly answer all the Matters and Things herein before contained, as fully and perfectly as if the same had been here again repeated and interrogated, and may particularly be put upon Oath, whether, &c. And may come to the Examen, and give, and answer, &c. And that your Orautor may be relieved in the Premises according to Equity and Good Conscience.

May it please your Lordship, the Premises considered, to grant to your Orautor his Majesty's Writ or Writs of Subpoena to be directed to the said L. E. and another his Confellates when deposed, there by commanding them and every of them at a certain Day, and under a certain Pain therein limited, personally to be and appear before your Lordship in this Honourable Court, then and there to answer all and singular the Premises, and to stand, to perform and abide such Order and Decree thereto, as to your Lordship shall from meet.

And your Orautor shall ever pray, &c.

Form of an Answer in Chancery.

The Answer of L. E. Defendant to the Bill of Complaint of A. B. Complainant.

T HIS Defendant says, and at all Times hereafter, he having impleaded all Matter of Benefit and Advantage of Exception to the many Inequities, Injustices and Improprieties in the said Complainant's Bill of Complaint contained, for Answer thereto, or same to be much thereof as this Defendant is advised is any Way material for him to make Answer unto, being upon his faith, &c. That the said J. D. named in the Complainant's said Bill, was insufficient for divers Years yet to come, the said J. D. being thereof possessed, had in such Manner as in the said Complainant's Bill is supposed, made a lawful Demise of the said Misyngage and Lands unto the said Defendant for divers Years to come upon which Leases the said J. D. reied on yearly Rent of, &c. to be paid during the Continuance of the said Leases, by Force of which Leases the Defendant entered into the said Lands, &c. and now is and yet lawfully possessed thereof accordingly, and over finds both and yet does enjoy the same by Virtue of the said Leases and Demises, &c. and is therein to have and enjoy the same during the Continuance of the said Leases, of which there are at this Time above, &c. Years to come, and unexpired; and faith, that the Plaintiff is a Person altogether unknown to this Defendant, being not be this Defendant never had any Dealing or Correspondence with, and therefore this Defendant cannot but admire at this Suit commenced by the said Complainant against this Defendant touching the Premises: And this Defendant faith that he will humbly conceive and is advised, that be, this Defendant, is for the Payment of his Rent chargeable, and ought by the Laws to pay the Rent so reied unto the said J. D. and not the said Complainant, which said J. D. this Defendant doth well think he is lawfull Landlord, during the said Term of Years yet to come, and not the Complainant, who is altogether a Stranger to this Defendant; and faith, that the said Complainant never at any Time hereafter demanded any Rent for the said Misyngage, or Testament and Lands, that this Defendant hath and acquired by Virtue of the said Leases for Years; and also faith, &c. and therefore the said Defendant is the more surprized at this Suit brought against him by the said Complainant touching the Premises, touching this Defendant is wrongfully accused and sued without any just Cause without that there is any such Bargain and Sale made by, &c. as in the said Bill is set forth, or that the said, &c. bargained and sold the Premisses to the Complainant; or that the said Complainant ought to have and enjoy the said Premisses, to the Knowledge of this Defendant; and this Defendant denies all Combination in the Bill charged; without that, that there is any other Matter or Thing in the Complainant's said Bill of Complaint contained, material or essential for this Defendant to make Answer unto, and not herein and hereby sufficiently answered unto, confess not, answered, or avoided, or denied, is true, to the Knowledge and Belief of this Defendant; all which Matters and Things are hereby sufficiently proved as this Honourable Court shall award; and humbly prays to be hence dismissed with his reasonable Costs and Charges in this Behalf wrongfully obtained.

Form of a Replication to an Answer.

The Replication of A. B. Complainant, to the Answer of L. E. Defendant, put in to the said Defendant's Bill of Complaint.

T HE said Defendant, praying to be bimag all Advantages of Exception to the Defendant's said Answer, for Replication thereto found, That all and every the Matters and Things in and by his said Bill of Complaint already said, he will judge, maintain and prove to be good, certain, and sufficient in the Laws, to be answerable unto, &c. and that all and every the Premises and Things aforesaid are thereby set forth and declared; and that the Answer of the said Defendant is untrue, and insufficient in the Laws to be by this Defendant replied unto, for divers manifest Improviences and Inequities therein contained; all which Benefit of Exception is now in the Laws to be by this Defendant replied unto, and herein and hereby not well and sufficiently replied unto, confessed, or avoided, or denied, is true, all which Matters and Things this Defendant is ready to aver, maintain and prove, as this Honourable Court shall award; and humbly prays, as in and by his said Bill be had already prayed.

A Rejoinder to a Replication in Chancery.

The Rejoinder of L. E. Defendant to the Replication of A. B. Complainant.

T HE said Defendant, now, and at all Times hereafter, for answer, &c. being and averring to him, all Matter of Benefit and Advantage of Exception to the Inequity and Insufficiency of the said Replication, for Reasons following, That the Defendant's said Answer is true, certain, and sufficient in the Laws to be replied unto, and herein and hereby not well and sufficiently replied unto, confessed, or avoided, or denied, is true, all which Matters and Things this Defendant is ready to aver, maintain and prove, as this Honourable Court shall award; and humbly prays, as in and by his said Answer have been already prayed.
Form of a Decree in Chancery.

Whereas hereinafter, that is to say, about, &c. Term, which runs in the Year, &c. A. B. Complainant did exhibit his Bill of Complaint into this High and Honourable Court of Chancery, against L. E. Defendant, whereby it is set forth, &c. (Here recite the Bill briefly) for Relief subservient, &c. The Complainant humbly prayed the said and Affidavit of this Honourable Court, and that Pleading of Subpoena might be arrested according to the said Defendant to compel him to appear and answer the said Bill; which being granted, and the Defendant forthwith, he appeared accordingly, and answered the said Bill; and by his said Answer confess and for forth, &c. (Here recite the Subsistence of the Answer.) To which Answer the Complainant replied, and the Defendant rejoined, and it is the Practice being called, divers Writings, ordering, &c. 1. The following are the Declarationst duly taken and published, according to the usual Course of this Court, as by the said Bill, Answer, Replication, Depositions of Witnesses, and other Proceedings recorded in this Honourable Court, of which more at large appears; and the said Cause thus standing in Court, the Day of, &c. was by this Court appointed for the hearth and issuing, &c. The said Counsel for the Plaintiff, &c. was heard and debated as aforesaid in Presence of Counsel learned on both Sides, the Subsistence of the Complainant's Bill and the Defendant's Answer appeared to be as it herein before recited and for forth; whereupon, and upon Debate of the Matter, and bearing in mind that such an application might be made in all such Causes, this Court did think fit to order and direct, and accordingly it is this present Day, that is to say, the Day, &c. in the Year, &c. by the Right Honourable, &c. Lord Chief Chancellor of Great Britain, &c. ordered, adjourned and decreed, that, &c.

Chancery, From the Fr. Chance, Lapson, and Miller, Miferes Signifies the fatal Killing of a Man, not without the Killers Part, though without any actual Intent; and it is where a Person is doing a lawful Act, and a Person is killed by Chance thereby: For if the Act be unlawful, it is Felony. If a Person casts a Stone, which happens to hit one, whereof he dies: Or he throws an Arrow in a Highway, and another that paffeth by is killed therewith: Or if a Workman, in throwing down Rubbish from a House, after Warning to the Maker of the House, kills a Person: Or a Schoolmaster in Correcting his Scholar, a Master his Servant, or an Officer in Whipping a Criminal, in a reasonable Manner, happens to occasion his Death: in this Case there is Chancery and Misdemeanor. 3 Inst. 50. Dall. 351. But if a Man throws Stones in a Highway, where Persons usually pass: Or he throws an Arrow, &c. in a Marsh place, among a great many People: Or if a Workman cast down Rubbish from a House, in Cities and Towns, where People are continually passing: Or a Schoolmaster, Maker, &c. correct his Servant or Scholar, &c. exceeding the Bounds of Moderation, it is Manslaughter: and if with an improper Instrument of Correction, as with a Sword or Iron Bar, or by a Stick: and if in the Execution of any Office or Business, it is Murder. Term. de Ley 115. H. P. C. 58, 51, &c. Kit. 40, 65, 113. If a Man whips his Horse in a Street to make it gallop, and the Horse runs over a Child and kills it, it is Chancery, &c. 45 &c. 59. If two are Fighting, and a third Person coming to put them to flight, it is killed by one of them, without any evil Intent, yet this is Murder in him: and not Manslaughter by Chancery, or Misdemeanor in the Rider. H. P. C. 48, 59. And if two are Fighting, and a third Person coming to put them to flight, it is killed by one of them, without any evil Intent, yet this is Murder in him: and not Manslaughter by Chancery, or Misdemeanor in the Rider.

Chamber, An Officer belonging to the King's Mint, whose Office consists chiefly in exchanging Coin for Bullion brought in by Merchants or others: It is written after the old Way, Chamber. Stat. 6 Hen. 6. cap. 12.

Chantry, (Cantarian) A Singer in the Choir of a Cathedral Church: and is usually applied to the Chief of the Singers. This Word is mentioned in 13 Eliz. c. 10. At St. David's Cathedral in Wales, the Channer is next to the Bishop; for there is no Dean. Lark. Britan.

Chantry, or Cantarry, (Cantarian) Is a Little Church, Chapel, or particular Altar, in some Cathedral Church, built, endowed with Lands, or other Revenues, for the Maintenance of one or more Priests, daily to Sing Miss, and officiate Divine Service for the Souls of the Donors, and such others as they appointed. Stat. 57 Hen. 8. cap. 9. Ed. 6. c. 14. Stat. 6. cap. 9. Of these Cantaries Mention is made of forty-seven belonging to St. Paul's Church in London, by Dagulcy, in his History of that Church. I find in an ancient MS. this Declaration: that Ege Reginaldus Seuard hadi Willielmo Crump Capell Cantariane boate Marie de Yarpol, unaem parceliam pastur, &c. Dap. app. c. 14. 24. 6. Et rex Marius prae. pell Psam Sandal Hillarini. As. 7 Hen. 7.

Chapel, (Capella, Fr. Chapelle) Is either adjoining to a Church, for performing Divine Service; or separate from the Mother-Church: where the Parish is wide, which is commonly called a Chapel of Ease. And Chapels of Ease are built for the Use of those Parishes who dwell far from the Parochial Church, in Prayer and Preaching only; for the Sacraments and Burials ought to be performed in the Parochial Church. 2 Roll. Ab. 540.—Ad Capellam nec pertinent Bapismorum ac Sepulchra. Sedent de Tribus, p. 265. These Chapels are served by inferior Curates, provided at the Charge of the Rector, &c. And the Curates therefore removable at the Pleasure of the Rector or Vicar: But Chapels of Ease may be Parochial, and have a Right to Sacraments and Burials, and to a distinct Minister, by Customs; (though subject in some Respects to the Mother-Church): And Parochial Chapels differ only in Name from Parish Churches, but they are small, and the Inhabitants within the District are few. In some Places Chapels of Ease are endowed with Lands or Tithes, and in other Places by voluntary Contributions; and in some few Districts there are Chapels which baptize and administer the Sacraments, and have Chaplains and Wardeners; but these Chapels are not exempted from the Vifitation of the Ordinary, nor the Parochioners who reffor thither from contributing to the Repairs of the Mother-Church: especially if they bury there; for the Chapel generally belongs to, and is as it were a Part of the Mother-Church, and the Parochioners are obliged to go to the Mother-Church, but not to the Chapel. 2 Roll. Ab. 289. And hence it is said, that the Offerings made to any Chapel are to be rendered to the Mother Church; unless there be a Custom that the Chaplain shall have them. Publick Chapels, or Chapels of Ease, to Parishes in England, shall be repaired by the Parochioners, as the Church is; if any other Perons be not bound to do it. 2 Inst. 489. Besides the fore-mentioned Chapels, there are Free Chapels, perpetually maintained and performed such a Minister, without Charge to the Rector or Parish; or that are free and exempt from all ordinary Jurisdiction; and these are those where Tithes or Lands to the Chapels are charitably bestowed on them. Stat. 37 Hen. 3. cap. 4. 1 Ed. 6. c. 14. Then there are Private Chapels, built by Noblemen, and others, for private Worship, or in near their own Houses, maintained at the Charge of those noble Persons to whom they belong, and provided with Chaplains and Sipends by which, which may be erected without Leave of the Bishop, and need not be consecrated, though they anciently were, not being subject to the jurisdiction of the Ordinary.
And also Chapels in Universities, belonging to particular Colleges, though they are consecrated, and Sacraments are administered there, yet they are not liable to the Visitation of the Bishop, but of the Founder. 2 Inf. 363.

Chapelry, (Capellania) is the same Thing to a Chapel, as a Parish to a Church; being the Place and Limits thereof: It is mentiond in the Statute 14 car. 2. cap. 9.

Chapton, (Fr.) A Flood or Bonnet, anciently worn by the Knights of the Garter, as Part of the Habits of that noble Order: But in heraldry it is the Chapters, (Lat. Capituli, Fr. Chapitres, &c. i.e. Chapters of a Book) Signifies in our Custom Law a Summmary of such Matters as are to be enquired of, or prevented. A Dean of the Chapter, Jurors, Master, or of Peace, in their Sessions. Brism. cap. 3. with the Word in this Signification: And Chapters are now most commonly called Articles, and delivered by the Mouth of the Judge in his Charge to the Inquirer; whereas, in ancient Times, (as appears by Bradto and Brism) they were, after an Exhortation given by the Judge, for the good Observance of the Laws, in the King's Peace, first read in open Court, and then delivered in Writing to the Grand Inquirer, for their better Observation; and the Grand Jury were to answer upon their Oaths to all the Articles thus delivered them, and not put the Judges to long and learned Charges to little or no Purpose, for Want of Remembering the same, as they now do, when they think their Duty well enough performed, if they only produce those few of many Misdemeanors which are brought before them by Way of Indictment. It is to be noted, that the Duty of delivering written Articles to Grand Juries were still observed, whereas Crimes would be more effectually punished; and in several Courts as the Court Leet, &c. in severnal Parts of England, it is usual at this Day for Stewards of those Courts to deliver their Charges in Writing to the Juries sworn to enquire of Offences. Howe, in his Mirror of Justice, expresses what these Articles were wont to contain. Lib. 3. cap. Des Articles in Eyre.

And an Example of Articles of this Kind, you may find in the Book of Allen, f. 158.

Chaplain, (Capellanus) is most commonly taken for one that is depending upon the King, or other noble Person, to instruct him and his Family, and lay Disposition of all that is in his House, where there is usually a private Chapel for that Purposo. The King, Queen, Prince, Princess, &c. may retain as many Chaplains as they please; and the King's Chaplains may hold any Number of Benefices of the King's Gift, as the King shall think fit to bestow upon them. An Archbishop may retain eight Chaplains: a Duke or a Bishop Six; Marquess or Earl, Five; Vicount, Four; Baron, Knight of the Garter, or Lord Chancellor, Three:
A Dutchess, Marchioness, Countess, Baroness, the Treasurer, and Controller of the King's House, the King's Secretary, and Master of the Rolls, each of them Two;
The Chief Justice of the King's Bench, &c. One; all which may pursue any Office, sit in the House, and take any Benches with Cure of Souls. Stat. 22 Hen. 8. c. 29. cap.
15. All other Judges of the King's Bench, and Common Pleas; and Chancellor and Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and the King's Attorney and Solicitor General, may each of them have one Chaplain, attendant on his Person, having one Benefice with Cure, who may be not resident on the same, by Statute 25 Hen. 8. cap. 10. And the Groom of the Stool, Treasurer of the King's Chamber, and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, may retain each one Chaplain. Stat. 33 Hen. 8. cap. 26. If his Hon. is not sufficiently Number of Chaplains allowed by Law, and retains one more, who has Dispensation to hold Plurality of Livings, it is not good. 1 Co. 723. A Person retaining churches, and Chapels, must not only be capable thereof the Time of Granting the Instrument of Retainer, but he must continue capable of Qualifying till his Chaplain is advanced: And therefore if a Duke, Earl, &c. retain a Chaplain, and die; or if such a noble Person be attainted of Treason, or if an Officer qualified to retain a Chaplain, is removed from his Office, the Retainer is determined: But where the Retainer has taken a second Benefice before his Lord died, or is attainted, &c. the Retainer is in Force to qualify him to enjoy the Benefices. And if a Woman that is not nable by Marriage, afterwards marries one under the Degree of Nobility, her Power to retain Chaplains will be determined: Though 'tis otherwise where a Woman is noble by Descent, if the many under Degree of Nobility, for in such Case her Retainer before or after Marriage is good. A Baroness, &c. during the Conventure, may not retain Chaplains; if she does, the Lords, her Husband, may disinherit them, as he does his wife her former Chaplains, before their Advancement. 4 Rep. 118. A Chaplain must be retained by Letters pensional, under Haed and Seal, or he is not a Chaplain, but an Ordinary Minister, and is not enough for a Spiritual Person to be retained by Word only to be a Chaplain, by such Person as may qualify by the Statutes to hold Livings, &c. although he abide and serve as Chaplain in the Family. And where a Nobleman hath retained and thus qualified his Number of Chaplains, if he diminishes them from their Attendance upon any Diocese, after they are preferred, yet they are his Chaplains at large, and may hold their Livings during their Lives; and such Nobleman, though he may retain further Chaplains in his Family, merely as Chaplains, or to hold Benefices with Life, or to hold Plur-alties whilst the First are living: For if a Nobleman could discharge his Chaplain when advanced, to qualify another in his Place, and qualify other Chaplains during the Lives of Chaplains discharged, by these Means he might advance as many Chaplains as he would, whereby the Statutes would be evaded. 4 Rep. 90.

Chapter, (Capitolum) is a Congregation of Clergemen under the Dean in a Cathedral Church: Congregationem Clericorum in Ecclesia Cathedral, Consuratul, Regulares et Collegiates. This Collegiate Company is metaphorically termed Capitolum, signifying a little Head, it being a Kind of Head, not only to govern the Diocese in the Vacuon of the Bishop, but also in many Things to advise and assist the Bishop, with whom he is in full, for which call they form a Council. 1 Inf. 103. The Chapter conflits of Prebends or Canons, which are some of the chief Men of the Church, and therefore are called Capita Eccles: They are a Spiritual Corporation: Aggregates, which they cannot surrender without Leave of the Bishop, because he hath an Interest in them; they, with the Dean, have Power to confirm the Bish-

...of Grants; during the Vacancy of an Archdeaconry, they are Guardians of the Spiritualities, and as such have Authority by the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 21. to grant Dispensations; likewise as a Corporation they have power to convey. When the Dean and Chapter confirm Grants of the Bishop, the Dean joins with the Chapter, and there must be the Consent of the major Part; which Consent is to be expressed by their signing of their Seal to the Deed, in one Place, and at one Time, either in the Chapter- House, or some other Place: and this Consent is the Will of many joined together. Dyer 233. A Chapter is not capable to take by Purchase or Gift, without the Dean, who is the Head of the Body: But there may be a Sale without a Dean, as the Chapter of the Collegiate Church of St. Albans: and Grants by or to them are as effectual as other Grants by Dean and Chapter. Yet where there are Chapters without Deans, they are not properly Chapters: And the Chapter in a Collegiate Church, where there is no Episcopal See, as at Westminster and Windsor, is more properly called a College. Chapters are said to have their Beginnings, if formerly the Bishop had the Rule and Ordering of Things without a Dean and Chapter, which were constituted afterwards, and all the Powers within their Dioceses were as his Chapter, to attend him in Spiritual Matters. 2 Roll. Rep. 424. 3 Ca. 75. The Bishop hath a Power of Vindicting the Dean and Chapter: But the Dean and Chapter have nothing to do with what the Bishop transacts as Ordinary. 3 Rep. 75. Though the Bishop and Chapter are but one Body, yet their Powers are for the most part divided; as the Bishop hath his Part in Right of his Bishopric; the Dean hath a Part in Right of his Denary; and each Prelacy hath a certain Part in Right of his Prebend; and each too is incorporated by himself. And Deans and Chapters have some of them Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in several Parishes, (besides that Authority they have within their own Body) executed by their Officers; also temporal Jurisdiction in several Manors belonging to them, in the same Manner as Bishops, where their Stewards keep Court, &c., 2 Roll. Abr. 229. It has been observed, that though the Chapter have distinct Parcels of the Bishop's Estates assigned for their Maintenance, the Bishop hath little more than a Power over them in his Visitation, and is scarce allowed so much as a third of the rents of the manors, which were originally of his Family: But of common Right it is said he is their Patron. Roll. Ibid. Ques. de Planta Jusitices in Selestion, &c. See Chapters, and Chapteries.

Charge and Discharge, A Charge is said to be a Thing done that binds him that doth it, or that which he has committed; whereas a Discharge is the Removal, or taking away of that Charge. Terms de Ley. Land may be charged divers Ways: as by Grant of Rent out of it, by Statutes: Judgments, Conditions, Warranties, &c. Lands in Fee-simple, may be charged in Fee; and where a Man may dispose of the Land itself, he may charge it by a Rent, or Statute, one way or other. Lev. X. 29. More Ca. 129. Dyer 10. If one charge Land in Tail, and Land in Fee-simple, and die; the Land in Fee only shall be chargeable. Br. Ca. 5. Lands sold may be charged in Fee, if the Estate be cut off by Recovery: If Tenant in Tail charge the Land, and after Lewy a Fine or suffer a Recovery of the Lands, to his own Life; this confirms the Charge, and it shall continue. 1 Ca. Rep. 61. A Tenant for Life charge the Land, and then makes a Feoffment to a Stranger, or doth Waive, &c. whereby it is forfeited, he is in Recovery, and sells, and if he one have a Lease for Life or Years of Land, and grant a Rent out of it; if after he forfendeth his Estate, yet the Charge shall continue so long as the Estate had endured, in case it had not been surrendered. 1 Rep. 67. 145. Dyer 10. If a Feme Sole Lessee for Years takes Husband, and he charges the Land and dies, the may avoid it: for the Husband might have given or forfeited, but he may not charge it. Br. Ca. 41. If one Joint-tenant charge Land, and after release to his Companion and die, the Survivor shall hold it charged; But if it had come to him by Survivalship, it would be otherwise. 6 Rep. 76, 1 Spec. Abr. 325. He that hath a Remainder or Reversion of Land, may charge it; because of the Possibility that the Land will come into Possession, and then the Possession shall be charged. But whereas one leaves Land for Life, and grants the Reversion or Remainder over to A. B. who charges the Land, and die, and the Tenant for Life is Hear to the Fee: in such a Case, he shall hold is discharged, for he had the Possession by Purchase, though he had the Fee by Difburthen. Br. 11, 16, 1 Rep. 62. If a Rent be sitting out of a House, &c. and it falls down, the Charge shall remain upon the Soil. 9 El. 4. 20. But when the Estate is gone upon which the Charge was grounded, there generally the Charge is determined. Ca. Lit. 549. And in all Cases where any Executory Thing is created by Deed, there by Consent of all the Parties it may be by Deed defeated and discharged. 10 Rep. 495. Vide Difburthen.

Charitable Corporation, A Society of Persons in the late Reign obtained a Statute to lend Money to Indigent Poor, at 5 l. per Cent. Interest on Pawns and Pledges, to prevent their falling into the Hands of the Pawn-brokers, and therefore they were called the Charitable Corporation: But they likewise took 5 l. per Cent. for the Charge of Offices and Warehouse. And in the fifth Year of King Geo. 2. the chief Officers of this Corporation, by Coninance of the Principal Direction, abscended and broke, and defrauded the publick Proprietors of great Sums; for Relief of the Sufferers wherein, as to Part of their Losses, severa! Statutes were made and enabled. See Stat. 5 Geo. 2. cap. 51, 52. 7 Geo. 2. cap. 11.

Cartell, (Fr. Cartel) A Letter of Defence, or Challenge to a single Combat in Uie herefore to decide difficult Controversies at Law, which could not otherwise be determined. Blount.

Chatter, (Lat. Charit, Fr. Charras, i. e. Infra- mors) Is taken in our Law for written Evidence of Things done between Man and Man: Whereas Bracton, lib. 2. cap. 26. says thus, Fiant aliquando Donationes in Scriptis, iust in Charitau, ad perpetuum rem memoriam. propter eorum bonam, honorem, et vitam, et bonum, &c. Briton in his 59th Chapter divides Charters into three of the King, and those of private Persons. Charters of the King are such whereby the King pritch any Grant to any Person or Body Politically, as a Charter of Exemption, of Privilege, &c. Charter of Pardon, whereby a Man is forgiven a Felony, or other Office committed against the King's Crown and Dignity; nity; and of these there are several Sorts, viz. Charter Pardonnuii, Ulgariis, Charta Pardonnii & De- ferentia. See Charta. 23, 27, &c. Charter of the Forth, wherein the Laws of the Forth are compiled, such as the Charter of Commons, &c. See 359, 361, &c. Charters of Privy Purse are Deeds and Instruments for the Conveyance of Lands, &c. And the Purchaser of Lands, shall have all the Charters, Deeds and Evi- dences as incident to the same, and for the Mainte- nance of his Title, Ca. Litt. 6. Charters belong to a Feoffor, although they be not fold to him, where the Feoffor is not bound to the general Use, but, of the Use of the Land; for these shall belong to the Feoffor, if they be sealed Deeds or Wills in Writing; But other Charters go to the Tertennant. Chafes, (Fr. Chafes) In its general Signification is a great Quantity of woody Ground lying open, and privileged for wild Beasts, and wild Fowl: And the Heads of such (Chafes) properly extend to the Back, Doe, Fox, &c. and in common and legal Sense to all the Beasts of the Forest. 1 Sty. 253. But if one have a Chafe within a Forest, and he kill or hurt any Stag or Red Deer, or other Beasts of the Forest, he is sensible. 1 Jam. Rep. 278. A Chafe is of a middle Nature, between a Forest and a Park, being commonly held less than a Forest, and not endowed with so many Liberties, as the Courts of Attachment, Swaminote and Justice-Seat; though of a larger Compass, and stored with greater Diversity both of Keepers, and wild Beasts or Game, than a Park. A Chafe differs from a Forest in this, because it may be in the Hands of a Subject, which a Forest is in its proper and true Nature cannot be to a good Chafe, in before it is not enclosed, and hath a greater Compass, and more Variety of Game, and Officers likewise. Compl. in his Jr. 237. fol. 148. says, A Forest cannot be in the Hands of a Subject, much less staked out, and becomes a Chafe: But fol. 197. he says, A Subject may be Lord and Owner of a Forest, which though it seems a Contradiction to what has been before said, yet this is the true Case: For the King may give or alienate a Forest to a Subject, so as when it is once in the Subject, lothes the true Property of a Forest, because the Courts called the Judges-Sheat, Swaminote, &c. do forthwith vest, none being able to make a Lord Chief Justice in Eyre of the Forest, but the King, yet it may be granted in so large a Manner, as there may be Attachment, Swaminote, and a Court equivalent to a Justice-Seat.

Moreover, part 2. c. 3, 4. A Forest and a Chafe have different Officers and Laws: Every Forest is a Chafe, Guidden ample; but any Chafe is not a Forest. A Chafe is an common law Legend, and not to be guided by the Forest Laws; and it is the same of Parks. 4 Sty. 512. A Man may have a free Chafe, as belonging to his Manor, in his own Hands, as well as a Warren and a Park in his own Grounds: For a Chafe, Warren and Parks are collateral Inheritance, and not falling out of the Seat; and therefore if a Person hath a Chafe in other Men's Grounds, and after purchase the Grounds, the Chafe remains. Ibid. 318. If a Man have a free Chafe, he may cut his Timber and Wood growing upon it, without the View or Licence of any, though it is not aof a Forest: But he cut so much that there is not sufficient for Covert, and to maintain the Heath of the Trees, he must have Licence of the King: And so if a common Person hath a Chafe in another's Soil, the Owner of the Soil cannot deliver all the Covert, but ought to leave sufficient thereof, and allow Brown Wood, as hath been accustomed. 1 Rep. 22. And it has been adjudged, that within such Chafes, the Owner of the Soil by Precipitation may have Common for his Sheep, and Warren for his Coyes; but he cannot forcharge with more than has been usual, nor make Carrier Burrows in other Places than has been said. Ibid. If a free Chafe be inclosed, it is said in a Fish Act. 33 Geo. III. 582. and to this, if the Hands is not lawful to make a Chafe, Park or Warren, without Licence from the King under the Broad Seal.

Challiss (Fr. Challie) Comprehend all Goods movable and immovable, except such as are in Nature of Feoffed, as Parcell of it. The Norman call movible Goods only Chattel; but this Word by the Common Law extends to all movible and immovable Goods: And the Civilists denominate not only what we call Chattel, but also Land, all under Bone. But no Estate of Inheritance or Freehold, can be termed in our Law Goods and Chattel; though a Lease for Years may pass as Goods. Chattell are either Personal or Real; Personal, as Gold, Silver, Plate, Jewels, Household-Stuff, Goods and Wares in a Shop, Corn flown on the Ground, Cart, Ploughs, Coaches, Saddles, &c. Castle, as Horlies, Oxen, Kine, Bullockes, Sheep, Figs, and all tame Fowls and Birds, Swans, Turkeys, Geese, Poultry, &c. and these are called Personal in two Kepelts, one because they belong immediately to the Person of a Man and the other, for that being any Way injuriously withheld from us, we have no means to recover them but by Personal Action. Chattell are also either Real, as either appraisals not immediately to the Person, but to some other Thing by Way of Dependency, as a Box with Charters of Land, &c. or such as are left out of some movable Thing, a Lease for Years, as a Lease for Rent for Term of Years: And Chattells Real concern the Realty, Lands and Tenements, Leases for Years, Interest in Adovosions, in Statutes-Merchants, &c. Also and also include Cont. and Cont. of Cont. &c. 1 Rep. 118. Nep. Max. 41. But Deeds relating to a Freehold, Obligation, &c. which are Things in Action, are not reckoned under Goods and Chattell; though if Writings are pawned, they may be Chattells. And Money hath not been accounted Goods or Chattell, nor are Hawks or Hounds such, being free Naturals. 2 Rep. 33. Termes de Ley 103. Erich. 32. Personal Chattell is usually taken for Money, Goods, Bonds, Leases for Years, &c. And Chattell Personal are not only movable and immovable, but some are animates, as Horlies, &c. and others insensate, as Beds, &c. A Collar of SS, Garter of Gold, Buttons, &c. belonging to the Dresses of a Knight of the Garter, are not Jewels as such by that Name in Personal Effect, but Legal of Honour. Dyer 59. The Law will not suffer the Devise of a Personal Chattell, with a Remainder over: but a Devise of a Chattell Real, with Remainder over, hath been. In some Cases adjacent good in Equity. 2 And. 185. The Use of Personal Things, such as Plate, Jewels, &c. may be given to one, and the Remainder to another; and in that Case the Property is vested in the last Devisee. Owen 33. But a Devise of the Use of Money, hath been adjudged a Devise of the Money in itself; and a Devise of the Use of Books, Medals, &c. and Limitation thereto have been declared void. 2 Chas. Rep. 167. 1 Chas. Rep. 119. Chattels Personal are immediately upon the Death of the Tenant, to be seized by the Executors, as the Law will adjudge, they are as never to be a Distance from him; Chattell Real, as Leases for Years of Houses, Lands, &c. are not in the Possession of the Executors till be make an Issue, or hath recovered the same; except there be a Lease for Years of Tithers, where no Entry can be made. Nolf. Aftr. 437. Leases Real years, though for 1000 Years; Leases at Will, Estates of Tenancy by Elys, &c. are Chattells, and shall go to the Executors: All Obligations, Bills, Statutes, Recognisances and Judgments, shall be as a Chattell Real, in Case of the Death of the Tenant, and the Devise of the Chattell Real, as the Law will adjudge, though they are not in the Possession of the Executors to be taken by the Executors, for they are Chattells till they be cut and leveled, but Partition of the Inheritance. 4 Rep. 63. Dyer 273. The Game of a Park with the Park, Fish in the Pond, and Doves in the House, with the House, go to the Heir, &c. and are not Chattells: Though if Pigeons, or Deer, are tame, or kept alive in a Room or if Fish be in a Tank, &c. go to the Executors as Chattells. Nolf. 124. 1 Rep. 50. Keb. 88. An Owner of Chattells Chetham's is said to be possest of them; as of Frobisher the Term is, that a Person is "special" of the same.

Chesterfjord, (Cheverfield, from the Fr. Chevres, i.e. Caput) Is a Tribute or Sum of Money formerly paid by such as held Lands in Villeinage to their Lords in Acknowledgment, and was a Kind of Head or Poll Money. Of which Breton, 1. cap. 10. 39 says thus; Chevrigium dicium recognitum in varios Subiectus Domini et capitibus tam. Lambard writes this Word Cheverje; but it is more properly Chevres. And especially the "vous," which they were admitted to live in England, paid Chevres or Poll-Money to the King, as appears by Par. 3 Ed. 1. par. 1. It forms also to be used for a Sum of Money, yearly given to a Man of Power for his Protection, as a Chief Head or Leader; But the Lord God says, that in this Signification, it is a great Misfortune to a Subject to take Sum of Money, or other Gifts yearly of any use, in Name of Chevres, because they take upon them to be their Chief Heads or Leaders. Chirographer of Arms (Chirographer Finium & Cancellarium, of the Greek Synodicon, &c.) is a Chirographer of Arms, of Xiph. Manus a Hand, and yapus, Scriba, to write, a Writing of a Man’s Hand) Signifies that Officer in the Common Pleas which signified in his acknowledgment in that Court into a perpetuum record, after they are examined and passed in the other Offices, and that writes and delivers the Indentures of them to the Party: And this Officer makes one two Indentures for one, another for the Seller; and also makes one other indentured Piece, containing the Effect of the Fine, which he delivers to the Coda Brevium, which is called the End of the Fine. The Chirographeur likewise, or his Deputy, proclaims all the Fines in the Court every Term, according to the Statute, and enunciates the Proclamation upon the Backside of the Feet thereof; and always keeps the Write of Covenant, and Note of the Fine: And the Chirographeur shall take but 4l. Fee for a Fine, in Paier for his Office, &c., Stat. 2 Hen. 4, c. 8, 32 Edw. cap. 3, 2 Inst. 468.

Chibralty, (Seruorum Militum) Comes from the Fr. Chivalier, and in our Law is used for a Tenure of Lands by Knights Service; whereby the Tenant was bound to perform Service in War unto the King, or the Major Lord of whom he held by that Tenure. And Chivalry was either General or Special, General, where it was only in the Feoffment that the Tenant held for servitium militum, without any Specification of Serjeanty, Esgrove, &c. Special, when it was declared particularly by what Kind of Knight Service the Land was held. For the better Understanding of this Tenure, it has been observed, that there is no Land but is held militiam immediately of the Crown, by some Service; and therefore all our Freeholds that are to us and our Heirs, are called Feoda or Feoda, Fees, as proceeding from the King, for some small yearly Rent, and the Performance of such Services as were originally laid on the Land at the Donation thereof for as the King gave to the great Nobles, his immediate Tenants, large Feodums for ever, to hold of him for this or that Office or Fee, to do in Time parcelled out to such others as they liked the same Lands, for Rents and Services as they thought good: And their Services were by Librarium divided into two Sorts, Chivalry and Scewage, the First whereof was Martial and Military, the other Rudical: Chivalry therefore was a Tenure of Service, whereby the Tenant was obliged to perform some noble or military Office unto his Lord, being of two Kinds, either Real, that is held only of the King, or common, where held of a common Permon: That which must be held of the Common Permon of the King was called Seruorium or Serjeanty, and was again divided into Grand and Petit Serjeanty; the Grand Serjeanty was where one held Lands of the King by Service, which he ought to do in his own Person, as to bear the King’s Banner or Spear, to lead his Holf, or to find a Man at Arms to fight, &c. Petit Serjeanty was when a Man held Lands of the King, to yield him annually some small Thing towards his Wars, as a Sword, Dagger, Bow, &c. Chivalry that might be held of a common Permon, was termed Scaregym, Esgrove, that is Service of the Shield, which was either uncertain or certain: Esgrove uncertain was likewise twofold, first, where the Tenant was bound to follow his Lord, going in Permon to the King’s Wars, either himself or sending a following or the Service due to him in his Place, there to be maintained at his Cost to long as was agreed upon between the Lord and his first Tenant, at the Granting of the Fee; and the Days of such Service seem to have been rated by the Quantity of Land to do holden, as if it extended to a whole Knight’s Fee, then the Tenant was to follow his Lord forty Days; and if but to Half a Knight’s Fee, then twenty Days; if a fourth Part, then ten Days, &c. and the other Kind of this Esgrove was called Castleward, M in where where the Tenant was obliged by himself or some other than the landlord to repair the Cottage, as often as it should come to his Turn; and these were called Cottage uncertain; because it was uncertain how often a Man should be called to follow his Lord to the Wars, or to defend a Castle, and what his Charge would be therein. Easement certain was where the Tenant was set at a certain Sum of Money to be paid in Lieu of such Service; as that a Man should yearly for every Knight’s Fee twenty Slingings, for Half a Knight’s Fee ten Shilings, or some like Rate; and this Service, because it draws to a certain Rent, groweth to be of a mist Nature, not merely Sogen, and yet Sogen in Effect, being now neither Personal Service nor uncertain.

Littleton. The Tenure called Chevstry had other Conditions annexed to it; but there is a great Alteration made in these Things by the Stat. 11 Car. 2. c. 24, which enacts that Tenures by Knights Service of the King, or any other Person, in Capite, &c. and the Fruit and Interest thereof happened, which shall or may happen or arise thereupon, or thereby, taken away and discharged; and all Tenures shall be confined and adjudged to be free and Church, (Estotia) Is a Temple or Building consecrated to the Honour of God and Religion, and anciently consisting of some Sain1, whose Name it assumed; or it is an Assembly of Persons united by the Profession of the same Christian Faith, met together for Religious Worship and it has Administration of the Sacraments and Sequester it is law adjudged a Church. If the King founds a Church, he can exempt it from the Ordinary's Jurisdiction; but its otherwise in Case of a Subject. Though the founding Church in ancient Times was, after the Founders had made their Applications to the Bishop of the Diocese, and had his Licence; the Bishop or his Commandments set up a Cross, and set forth the Church-yard where the Church was to be built; and then the Founders might proceed in the building of the Church, and when the Church was finished, the Bishop was to consecrate it, and then and not before the Sacrameats were to be administered in it. Stillingfield's Ecclesiast. Cosmo. But by the Common Law and Custom of this Realm, when any Good Christian may build a Church without Licence from the Bishop, so it be not prejudicial to any ancient Churches; though the Law takes no Notice of it as a Church, till consent be given by the Bishop. It is the Reason why Church and no Church, &c. is to be tried and certified by the Bishop. And in some Cales, though a Church be not at all; it must be consecrated again; as in case any Murder, Adultery, or Fornication be committed in it, whereby it is defiled; or if the Church be destroyed by Fire, &c. The ancient Ceremonies in consecrating the Ground on which the Church was intended to be built, and of the Church itself after it was built, were these: When the Materials were provided for Building, the Bishop came in Person to the Place, &c. and having prayed, he then performed the Ground with Incense, and the People sung a Collect in Praise of that Saint to whom the Church was dedicated: then the Corner-Stone was brought to the Bishop, which he crossed, and laid for the Foundation: And a great Feast was made on that Day, or on the Saint's Day to which it was dedicated; but the Power of Consecration was left to the Direction of the Bishop, as it is at this Day. Some Bishops, who have consecrated Churches, on entering into them have prolonged the Place to be holy, in the Name of the Father, &c. then with their Nimbus of grave Divines went round the Church, repeating the Hundredth Psalm, and a Form of Prayer, conclusing, We consecrate this Church, and for it apart to Thee, O Lord Christ, as Holy Ground, &c. After which, turning to the Communion Table, and having bowed to it several Times, they pronounced Blessing on those who should be Benefactors, and Curates against those who should profane that Place: And then a Sermon hath been preached, and the Sacrament administered with more common Ceremony of Bowing, Kneeling, &c. A Church in general confids of three principal Parts, that is, the Belfry or Steeple, the Body of the Church with the Ives, and the Chancel: And not only the Freethold of the whole Church, but of the Church-yard, are in the Parson or Rector; and the Parson may have an Allot of Trefips against any of this Body of the Church, setting the Trees in the Church-yard or church-yard as in breaking of Seals annexed to the Church, or the Windows, taking away the Leads, or any of the Materials of the Church, cutting the Trees in the Church-yard, making fires in the Church, Church-yard, or in the Church-yard; or in the Bells, Books, and other Ornament, and the Goods of the Church, is in the Parishes; but in the Cu-body of the Church-wardens, who may maintain Brethren of the Podesta, or Office, or house wrongly take them away. 1 Roll. Rep. 255. If a Man ered a Pew in a Church, or hang up a Bell, &c. therein, then the Bishop, or Church-wardens, though he explicitly given the Church; and he may not afterwards remove them. Stat. 10 H. 4. The Parson only is to give Licence to bury in the Church; but for defacing a Monument in a Church, &c. the Builder or Heir of the Deceased may have an Action. 2 Cre-357. And a Man may be indicted for digging up the Graves of Persons buried, and taking away their Burial Dresses, &c. The Property whereby remains, the Parry who was the Owner when used, and 'tis said an Offender was found guilty of Felony in this Case, but had his Clergy. 3 Ed. 115. Though the Parson hath the Freehold of the Church, he hath not the Fee-simple, which is always in Abeyance; but in some Receipts the Parson hath a Fee-simple qualified.

Litt. 644, 645. The Life of the Body of the Church, and the Seats fixed to the Freehold, is common to all the Parishes that pay to the Repair thereof. The Chancel of the Church is to be repaired by the Parson, unless there be a Covenant to the contrary; and for those Repairs, the Parson may cut down Trees in the Church-yard, but not otherwise. 35 Ed. 1. The Church-wardens are to see that the Body of the Church and Steeple are in Repair; but not any Style, &c. which any Person claims by Preemption, to him or his House. Concerning which Repairs the Canons re-squire every Person who has a House to hold Ecclesiastical Visitation, to view their Churches within their Jurisdictions once in three Years, either in Person, or cause it to be done; and they are to certify the State of the Churches to the Ordinary, and the Names of those who ought to repair them; and these Repairs must be done by the Church-wardens, at the Charge of the Parishes.
Can Bk. 1. Med. 256. By the Common Law, Parishes of every Parish are bound to repair the Church: But by the Canon Law, the Parson is obliged to do it and to do it in Foreign Countries.
1 Salk. 164. In London the Parishioners repair the church and the Chancel. The Spiritual Court may compel the Parishioners to repair the Church, and communicate every one of them till it be repaired; but those that are willing to contribute shall be absolved till the greater Part agree to a Tax, when the Excomunication is to be taken off; but the Spiritual Court cannot fix the Tax, as the Law 1 Med. 194. 1 Vent. 567. For though this Court hath Power to oblige the Parishioners to repair by Ecclesiastical Orders; yet they cannot appoint what sum, or for a Rate, for that must be settled by the Church-wardens, &c. 2 Med. 8. Where a Church is so much out of Repair, that 'tis necessary to pull it down, in such Case, upon a general Warning to the Parishioners, the major Part meeting may make a Rate for pulling it down, and rebuilding it on the old Foundation, and they will be good; and if any Parishioner refuse to pay his Proportion, they may libel against him in the Ecclesiastical Court. 2 Med. 222.
And if a Church be down, and the Parish is increased, the greater Part of the Parish may raise a Tax for the necessary Intermingling it, as well as the Repairing thereof, &c. 1 Med. 237. But in some of our Bocks it is said, if a Church falls down, the Parishion-ners are not obliged to rebuild it; though they ought to keep it in due Repair. 1 Vent. 35. In a Case where Church-wardens made a Rate for Repairs of the Church, it was above the Parishioner ought to suffer the Rate, and they are bound to repair the Church. 1 Salk. 165. Church Rates for Repairs, are to be made by the Church-wardens and the major Part of the Parishioners, which shall be held by the Deputy, after a general Notice given; and if the Parishioners refuse or neglect to meet, upon such Notice; or if on Meeting they refuse to make a Rate, then the Churchwardens and Overseers may make a Rate, and levy it upon the Inhabitants, being first confirmed by the Ordinary or Archdeacon. And Rates for repairing of Churches, &c. are Ecclesiastical Exces-sions; and so be recovered in the Ecclesiastical Court.

An Indictment for not coming to Church. Wilts, ff. T HE E Juris, etc. that A. B. of M., in the said County, Const. on the Day of, etc. in the Year of the Reign, etc. being of the Age of sixteen Years, and upwards, did not repair to his Parifh Church of M., nor to any other Church, Chapel, or usual Place of Common Prayer and Divine Service, at any Time within the Space of one Month next after the said Day of, etc. in the Year above mentioned, but did willingly and obstinately, without any lawful Excuse, Refuse to attend the Service contrary to the Form of the Statute in such Case made and provided, in Contempt of our said Lord the now King and his Laws, and against the Peace, etc.

Churchwardens, (Erectory Guardians) Are ancient Officers chosen yearly in Easter Week, by the Mini- ster and Parifhioners of every Parifh, to look to and take Care of the Church and Church-yard, and the Things belonging to the fame. They are to be choie by the joint Consent of the Parifhioners and Minifter; and by the Minifter the Minifter may choose one, and the Parifhioners another; or by Cuthon the Parifhioners alone may elect both, though it be against the Canon. 1 Pet. 5. A Churchwarden is to be elected by the Archdeacon; and if the Archdeacon refuse to wear a Churchwarden, a Mandamus shall issue to compel him. 5 Geo. 3. 51. As the Parifhioners chuse Churchwardens, who have a Trust to administer the Church, and to take Care of the Church and Churchyard, and the Things belonging to the same. They are to be choie by the joint Consent of the Parifhioners and Minifter; and by the Minifter the Minifter may choose one, and the Parifhioners another; or by Cuthon the Parifhioners alone may elect both, though it be against the Canon. 1 Pet. 5. A Churchwarden is to be elected by the Archdeacon; and if the Archdeacon refuse to wear a Churchwarden, a Mandamus shall issue to compel him. 5 Geo. 3. 51. As the Parifhioners chuse Churchwardens, who have a Trust to administer the Church, and to take Care of the Church and Church-yard. An Archdeacon may be another Cuthon in London, for the Parifhioners to chuse both Churchwardens, except of the Minifters; who is also also there excused from repairing the Chancel of the Church. 2 Cor. 515. 1 Isr. 3. 1 Roll. Act. 589. Church-wardens are a Corporation to sue and be sued for the Goods of the Church; and they may purchase Goods, but not land, by Letters, by Coa. And they may have Appeal of Robbery for healing the Goods of the Church. 1 Roll. Act. 583. 2 Cor. Edin. 179. But Church-wardens cannot relate in the Prejudice of the Church: Nor can they dispose of the Church Goods, without the Consent of the Vehry. If they waste the Goods of the Church, the new Church-wardens may have Actions against them, or call them to account before the Ordinary; though the Parishioners cannot have an Action against them for wasting the Goods, for they must make new Church-wardens, who must profess the former, &c. 1 Danv. Act. 278. 1 Cor. 415. Br. Account 1. The Church-wardens are to take Care of the Repairs of the Church; and they may, if they think fit, purchase Goods new to the fame, they must have the Consent of the Parishes or Vehry; and if in the Church the Licence of the Ordinary. 1 Isr. 221. But they have not Power to Office the Ministers, placing the Parishes in the Seats of the Body of the Church, appointing Keepers, &c. referring to the Ordinary; they may give the Goods to the Ministers, the Church-wardens have this Authority in themselves. Particular Persons may prefer a Suit to a Vehry, as belonging to them by Reason of their Estates, as being an ancient Merviage, &c. and the Seats having been constantly repaired by them: Also one may prefer to an Inheritance in the Church, to fit and bury there, always standing the same. 3 Isr. 203. 2 Cor. 306. If the Ordinary disposes a Person claiming a Seat in a Church by Prebendation, a Prohibition shall be granted, &c. 12 Rep. 106. The Parish is independent of a Right to the chief Seat in the Chancel; but by Prebendation another Parishioner may have it. No Pre. The Church-wardens shall suffer no Man to preach within their Churches, without producing his Licence: And they must keep the Keys of the Bellsry, and take Care that the Bells be not rung without good Cause, to be allowed of by the Minister and themselves. Can. 50. 88. Church-wardens are to see that all the Parishioners duly refer to their Parish Church, and there continue during the Time of Divine Service; they are not to permit any to stand idle, walk, or make any Noise in the Church, or to control the Ministers, &c. they may apprehend those that disturb the Minister, &c. and justify the Apposing any Disorder in the Church or Church-yard; they are to chide, bid disorderly Boys, and take off the Hatts of those who would irregularly keep them on. 1 Sound. 13. Further, they must search Alc-houses on Sundays, that there be no Persons therein, during the Divine Service; and execute Warrants against those who profane the Lord's Day. &c. Also levy Penalties on Persons not coming to Church, against Professors of the Church of Scotland; Tithing, &c. and for Drunknefs, Currng and Sweating, &c. by divers Statutes. And they are to present to the Ordinary All things presentable by the Ecclesiastical Laws, which is neither to be removed, nor to be put in Box for Alms in the Church, a Bible, Common Prayer Book, and Book of Canons, a Delph for the Reader, Cushion for the Pulpit, a Common Table, Table Cloth, Cups and Covers for Bread, Flagon and Font, a Regilliner, King's Arms set up, Lord's Prayer, Creed and Commandments in fair Letters, &c. What concerns the Par- fons, it is wholly to be removed. And every Parish once in a Year, and the Canons once in the Year, Preaches every Sunday good Doctrine, reads the Common Prayer, celebrates the Sacraments, preaches in his Gown, visits the Sick, catechizes Children, marries according to Law, &c. And what relates to the Parishioners, is whether they come to Church, and duly attend the Worship of God, if Baptism be neglected, Women not churched, Parfons Married, except it be Declared to be without Banns or Licence, Alms-houses or Schools abated, Legacies given to pious Uses, &c. They must likewise prevent Crimes and Offences, such as Drunk nefs, Fornication, Adultery, Incest, Blasphemy, &c. and by Statute Popish Recusants: And if they refuse to make Prebendates, the Parfons or Vicars, &c. may prefer to the Bishop all Crimes committed in their Parishes. Can. 127. 3 Cor. 291. 1 Nestr. 114. At the End of the Year, the Church-wardens are to yield just Accounts to the Minifter and Parishioners, and deliver what remains in their Hands to the Parishioners, or to the new Church-wardens: In Cafe they refuse, they may be prefented at the next Visitation, or the new Officers may call them to Account before the Ordinary, or sue them by Writ of Account at Common Law. And if all the Parish have allowed their Accounts to the Church Goods, the Ordinary may nevertheless call the Account for him too, and punish them if he find Caufe; but in laying out their Money, they are punishable for Fraud only, not Indictment. If their Receipts fail to the Disbursements, the succeeding Church-wardens may pay them the Balance, and place it to their Account. 1 Roll. Act. 121. Can. 89, 103, &c. Disputes arising about Church-wardens Accounts are to be decided before the Ordinary: And for Disbursements of any Sum not exceeding 40l. the Church-warden of Oath alone is a sufficient Proof, and all Summons. Receipts are to be produced, &c. If Church-wardens through Improvidence, Indiscretion or Negligence, either waste the Church Goods in their Custody, or much defamify the Parfons; on Proof thereof, they may be removed at any Time, by the Authority of the Ordinary. 8 Et. 6. 13 Cor. 70. Besides their Ordinary Power, the Church-wardens have the Care of the Benefice during its Vacancy; and at the time of any Avoidance, they are to apply to the Chancellor of the Diocese for a Sequestration; which being granted, they are to manage all the Profits and Expenses of the Benefice for him that succeeds, plough and sow his Glebe, gather in Tithes, thresh out and sell Corn, repair Hoores, &c. and they must file that the Church be duly served by a Curate approved by the Bishop, whom they are to pay out of the Profits of the Benefice. 2 Isr. 489. And they are to join with the Overseers of the Poor, in making Rates for Relief of the Poor, setting up Trades for employing them, placing out poor Apprentices, letting out poor Parsons, &c. And in the Execution of their whole Office, by Statutes 13 Edw. 14 Car. 2. 1 4 W. 3. &c. It is their Duty to collect the Charity Money upon Brien, which are to be read in Churches, and the Sums collected, &c. to be indemned on the Breviary in Words at Length, and signed by the Minister and Church-wardens; after which, they shall be delivered, with the Money collected to the Parsons undertaking them, in a certain Time, under the Provis that all Money to the Receiver is to be kept of all Money collected, &c. Also the Undertakers in two Months after the Receipt of the Money, and Notice to Sufferers, are to account before a Matter in Chancery, appointed by the Lord Chancellor. Stat. 42 5 Ann. They are to sign Certificates of receiving the Sacrament by Parsons, to qualify them to bear Offices, &c. And in London, within the Bills of Mortality, they must set Fire-Cocks, keep Engines, &c. in their Parishes, under the Penalty of 10l. For the Maintenance whereof, the Parish is to be affected: And the 5th Paragraph, who brings in the fire Engine for the Parish Engine, or other large Engine with a Socket, &c. when any Fire happens, shall be paid as an Encouragement 50l. the Parish that brings in the second Engine.

Circuitum, Of Circuity of Aliens, (Cirriculum Alienum) Is a longer Course of Proceeding to recover a Thing sued for than is needful: As if a Person grant a Rent-chage of 10l. for Annuity out of his Manor of B. and after the Grantee divides the Grantor of the same Manor, who brings an Affidavit, and recovers the Land, and 10l. Damages: which being paid, the Grantee brings his Action for 10l. of his Rent., but so that he might have received but 10l. only for Damages, and the Grantee might have kept the other 10l. in his Hands by Way of Restitution for his Rent, and so saved his Affidavit, which appears to be needful. Torny de Legibus 127. This Example shews that an Action may be rightfully brought for a Debt or Duty, and yet be wrong: for that it might have been as well otherwise answered and determined.

Citation. (Citation) A summons to appear, applied particularly to proces in the spiritual Court. The Ecclesiastical Court proceeded according to the Course of the Civil and Canon Laws. By Citation, Libel, &c. A Person is not generally to be cited out of the Diocese, or peculiar Jurisdiction wherein he lives; unless in pursuance of the Ordinary or the Curacy, or for the benefit of the Party in suit, in Caes of Appeal, &c. And by Law a Defendant may be cited where he lives, though 'tis for subtrating Tribes of the same, or inferior Dioceses, or from the Bishop or other Ordinary, or from the Bishop, or from the Common, or from the Privy Council, or from the Judge, not to do his Duty in punishing the Offence. Where Persons are cited out of their Diocese, and live out of the Jurisdiction of the Bishop, a Prohibition or Confutation may be granted. But where Persons live in the Diocese, if they are cited they do not appear, they are to be communicated, &c. The True Statute was made to maintain the Jurisdiction of inferior Dioceses; and if any Person is cited out of the Diocese, &c. where the Civil or Canon Law doth not reach him, the Party grieved shall have double Damages. If one defame another within the Peculiar of the Archbishops, he may be pursued there, although he dwell in any remote Place out of the Archbishops' Peculiar. (Citation) 190.

City. (Civitas) By Creweal is a Town Corporate, which hath a Bishop and Cathedral Church, which is called Creedal. Oppidan and Urbis; Civitas in regard it is governed by Judges and Ordre of Aldemagistry; Oppidum, for that it contains a great Number of Inhabitants; and Urbis, because it is in due Form begin about with Walls. But Cremona in his Jurisdiction, wherein he reckons not the Emphanta Efs, although it hath a Bishop and Cathedral Church; and puts in Wilmminster, though it hath at present no Bishop. And Sin the Synod of Cambridge makes Cambridge a City; yet there is no Mention that it ever was an Episcopal See. Indeed it appears by the Stat. 55 H. 8. cap. 10. that there was a Bishop of Wilmminster; since which, by 27 Eliz. cap. 5, it is termed a City or Borough. And notwithstanding what the Lord Coke observes of Cambridge, by the Stat. 11 H. 7. c. 4. Cambridge is called a Town, and hath a Bishop. And the Synod of Cambridge had in the times of the Saxons there was a City, but all great Towns were called Burghs, and even London was then called London Burgh; as the Capital of Scotland is now called Edinburgh. And long after the Conquest the Wilmminster was used promiscuously with the Burghs, as in the Charter of Lanfiger 'tis said both Creedal and Burghs; which shews that those Writers were mistaken, that the City, as a Bishop called a See. And though the Word City signifies with us such a Town Corporate as hath usually a Bishop and Cathedral Church yet 'tis not always so.
Tomes of the Civil Law we may add the Book of Feuds, which contains the Customs and Services that the Land owes to his Prince or Lord, staple, such Lands or Fees as he holdeth of him. The Constitutions of the Emperor, are either by a Receipt, which is a Letter of the Emperor in Answer to particular Persons who inquire the Law of him: or by Edict, which the Emperor establishes of his own Accord, that it may be generally observed by every Subject; or by Procurer, which the Emperor pronounces between Plaintiff and Defendant, upon hearing a particular Cause. The Power of issuing forth Receipts, Edicts and Decrees, was given to the Prince by the Lex Regia, wherein the People of Rome wholly submitted themselves to the Government of one Person, viz. Julius Caesar, after the Defeat of Pompey, &c. And by this Submission the Prince could not make Laws, but was enfeoffed above all coercive Power of them. The Matters wherein the whole Civil Law is generally exercised, relate either to Per sons in the Courtship of the Em peror, Edict, Edict of the Emperor, to whose legs; or to the Actions whereby Men claim such Things as are due to them by the Law, &c. The Courts are allowed in this Kingdom in the two Universities, for the training up of Students, &c. In Matters of foreign Treaties between Princes; marine Affairs Civil and Criminal; in the Ordering of Marital Causes; the Judgment of Estates may be had in the two Parts, Arms, Rights of Honour, &c. Cletup. This Word is taken for a Rogue or

Cleregus, (Clerus) Signifies the Affillity or Body of Clerks, or Ecclesiastics, being taken for the whole Number of those who are Dr Cleri Domini, of our Lord's or Share, as the Tribe of Levi was in Judea; and are separat from the Wife and Bullet of the World, that they may have Leisure to spend their Time in heavenly Meditation and Prayer. And sometimes Clergy is used for a Fide to an Indolent of Felony, Clergy, an ancient Priest, where a Priest or one in Orders is arraigned of Felony, before a secular Judge, who may pray his Clergy; which is as much as if he prayed to be delivered to his Ordinary, to purge himself of the Offence objected against him. Stow. P. C. lib. 2. cap. 41. Anciently the Clergy strongly insisted that by the Law of God their Persons were to be feared that they should not, without Violation of that Law, be convened before, and much less be punished by any secular Judge; but it hath here occation that this is not warranted by Scripture: Though all Persons in Holy Orders have this Privilege from the Canon Law. 2 Hawk. P. C. 137.

It is laid by Lord Chief Justice Hale, that anciently Princes converted to Christianity, in Favour of the Clergy, and for encouragng their Offices. From their Employments, did grant to them very bountiful Privileges; as if, an Exemption of Places consecrated to religious Duties from Arrests for Crimes, which was the Original of Sanctuary. 20. The Exemption of their Perons from criminal Proceedings, in some Cases capital before secular Judges; and this was the true Original of the Privilegium Civitatis: The Clergy increasinc in Wealth, Power and Interest afterwards set up for themselves; and that which they obtained by the Favour of Princes and States at first, they now began to claim as their Right, and that of the highest Nature Juris Divinis; and by their Canons and Constitutions, procured vast Extentions of those Exemptions. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 533. And the Clergy in general, they are Regulus or Seculars: Those are Regulars, which live under certain Rules, being of some Religious Order, and are called Men of Religion, or they are Religious: Such as all Abbots, Priors, Mens, &c.

The Seculars are those that live not under any certain Rules of the Religious Orders; as Bishops, Deans, Archbishops, Vicars, &c. And although the Clergy claimed an Exemption from the Laws of the Land, yet Mr.

Paris tells us, that soon after William the First had conquered Harleod, he subjected the Bishops and Archbishops who held per Baroniam, that they should be no longer free from military Service; and for that Purpo se he in an arbitrary Manner reglered how many Soldiers every Bishoprick and Abbey should provide, and trend him to and his Successors in Time of War; and hav ing placed these Registrars of Ecclesiastical Service in his Tentsy, those who were aggrieved, departed out of the Realm: But the Clergy were not, till then, exempt from all secular Service; because by the Laws of King Edgar they were bound to obey the secular Magistrate in three Cases, one Upon any Expedition to the Wars, and so contribute to the Building and Repairing of Bridges, and of Castles for the Defence of the Kingdom. 'Tis probable that by Expedition to the Wars, it was not at that Time intended they should personally be served, but contribute towards the Charge:

One they must do; as appears by the Petition to the King, Anno 1297, viz. Ur cinemas Clericis truentes per Baroniam vel feudum, pergant aliter ecclesiasticam, denve contra Regis Adversarios, vel tamet extremum in Expeditione Regis invenerint, quantum pertinent ad

Scotiam terram vel Tenementium: But their Answer was,

That they ought not to fight with the Military, but with the Spiritual Sword, that is with Prayers and Tears; that they were to maintain Peace and not

War, and that their Barons were founded in Church; for which Reason they ought not to perform any Military Service. Blast. That the Clergy had greater Privileges and Exemptions at Common Law than the Laity is certain; for they are confirmed to them by Magna Charta, and other ancient Statutes: but these Privilges are in a great Measure lost, the Clergy being included under general Words in later Statutes; so that Clergymen are liable to all publick Charges imposed by Act of Parliament, where they are not particularly excepted. Indeed they are not at this Day to understand several Offices, as the Office of Sheriff, Conable, &c.

(though they are sometimes in the Communion of the Peace, in which Communion they may either act as Ju-dices, or not at all as their Pleasure) nor are they to serve on Juries, or obliged to appear at Turnes and Leets; or to be pressed to serve in the Wars in Person, although by Statutes they are compellable to contribute to the Charge of a War, and to Ministers of the Militia:

Their Bodies are not to be taken upon Statutes Merchant or Staple, &c. For the Witke to take the Body of the Conclur is S. 4, F. 2. And if the Sheriff or any other Officer arrest a Clergyman upon any such

O Proce,
Proceeds, it is said an Action of false Impeachment lies against him that does it, or the Clergyman may have a Supersedeas out of the Chancery. In Action of Trespass, Account, &c. against a Peron in Holy Or- ders, the Clergyman lies, if the Sheriff return that the Defendant is Clericus Beneficiorum mulum habens Laicam fidemani ubi Summunti petis; in this Case the Plaintiff cannot have a Capias to arrest his Body; but the Writ ought to issue to the Bishop, to compel him to appear, &c. But on Execution had against such Clergyman, a Sequestration shall be had of the Provisions of his Benefice. Clergymen may not be arrested in the Church, or Church yard, while attending on Divine Service, &c. on Pain of Imprison- ment, and Randum at the King's Pleasure, and like- wise to make Agreement with the Party; And he that beats a Clergyman, may be obliged to do Penance in the Spiritual Court. But these are all the Privileges remaining on Civil Accounts: Though by the Com- mon Law, they were to be free from the Payment of Tolls, in all Fairs and Markets, as well for all the Goods and Chattels in their Personal Livings, as for all the Goods and Merchandies by them bought to be spent upon their Receptions; and they had several other Ex- emptions, &c. These Privileges, for the most part, have become obsolete: but the Clergy, thus as much as they have the more Freedom attend the Service of God and Religion, and be exempted as they ought; and therefore of late they are said to undertake no secular Business, by which they may be diverted from their Duty, or be brought into Contempt. They are used like other Men in criminal Cases; except as to Burning in the Hand for Felony, from which upon producing of their Orders, or the Ordinance's Certificate, they ought to be freed: And though they have had the Privilege of the Clergy for a Felony, yet they may again have their Clergy, and cannot a Layman. But see Stat. 22 H. 8. c. 11. In ancient Times Clergymen convicted of Crimes, were delivered over to the Ordinary, to be punished by the Ecclesiastical Laws; but this Privilege is long since abolished, nor was it ever allowed in Tresason or Sacrilege. Wood's Ann. 24. Parry's Case. 145. Enet. 4. 35. & 58. Benefits of Clergy. I have already said is an ancient Privilege, where one in Orders claimed to be deliv- ered to his Ordinary to purge himself of a Felony. And this Purging was to be by his own Oath affirm- ing his Innocency, and the Oaths of twelve Compur- gators as to their Belief of it, before a Jury of twelve Clerics: If the Clerk failed in his Purging, he was deposed from his Character, with the same sentence as a Layman, or he was to be kept in Prison till a Pardon was obtained: But if he purged himself, he was set at Liberty: But the ordinary Delivery to the Ordinary was without Purging, as upon Attainder by Convic- tion of the Felony, or by Verdict, where the Felony was notorious, and then the Clerk was to be degra- ded, or kept in Prison by the Ordinary, &c. though in these Cases the Ordinaries would frequently proceed to Purging. But Purging is now taken away by Stat. 18 Eliz. cap. 7. which results that where an Offender is admitted to his Clergy, after Burning in the Hand, he shall not be delivered to the Ordinary, but shall be enlarged by the Court, &c. And the Benef- it of Clergy, and burning in the Hand, comes in the Place of Purging at Common Law. In ancient Times in the King's Courts where Felonies were de- termined, the Bishop or his Deputy were to attend to inform the Court whether the Felon could read as a Clerk or not; but the Court was still to judge of his Sufficiency. Since the Stat. 18 Eliz. Every Man to whom a Benefice of Clergy was granted, has been put to read at the Bar after found guilty, and convicted of Felony, and burnt in the Hand, and set free for the Time; if the Ordinary's Commissioner or Deputy standing by did say, -Legit a Clerico or otherwise he was to be hanged. But Reading at all, as well as Purging, is wholly laid aside: for by the 3 Ann. c. 6. if any Person convicf of such Felony, for which he ought to have the Benefit of the Clergy, doth not immediately before Conviction read, or he shall not be admitted to the pur- scribed to read, but shall be punished as a Clerk convi- cted. A Lord of Parliament shall have the Benefit of his Clergy, though he cannot read, and without Burning in the Hand, for the first Time only; and the King may pardon the Burning of the Hand in others, which is not so much in Nature of a Punishment, as a Mark to notify that the Person may have his Clergy but once. The Privilege of Clergy is said to have its beginning from an Encroachment of the Pope upon the temporal Power, in Behalf of the Clergy, whom he endeavored to exempt from the Jurisdiction of lay Judges in Cause of Life and Member; which the temporal Courts would not yield to, but only in Part: And if they would indite Clerks for Felony, as well as others, and proceed thereon till the Ordinary did demand them; and if the Ordinary would not demand them, the King's Courts proceeded to Conviction, or to Punit- ion and Execution; and if the Ordinary did claim Clerks before Conviction, then an Inquisition was taken, whether the Party was guilty or not; and if acquit- ted, and if it was true that he was guilty, but the right to be delivered to the Ordinary, &c. The Privilege so retrained was confirmed and established by the Sta- tute 8 H 8. &c. to supply the Aicts of Parliament: And though originally the Clergy never intended that any should have that Privilege, but those who were in Holy Orders; yet afterwards they extended it to those who were not strictly in Or- ders, but were Affiliates to them in doing Divine Offic- es. And as to Laymen being admitted to this Privi- leges, it has been observed that in those Days few were bred to Literature, but those who were actually in Or- ders, or educated for that Purpofe; and therefore the Way of Trial whether one was a Cleric or no, was by reading, of which the Court was judge; for if he could not read, the Court would not deliver him as a Cleric, though the Ordinary did claim him; and if he did read, he should be allowed as a Cleric, though the Ordinary refused him; And Reading being the Way of Trial, whether a Man was a Cleric or not, without further Examination into any other Qualifica- tion, by an equitable Construction of the Statutes that established and extended this Privilege, all Persons that so approved themselves by Reading, were allowed to be Clerics. Loun. 92. 100. Rel. 180. It ap- peared that that which could read, was he that had the Privilege of Clergy since the 25 Ed. 3. which Allowance never was condemned in Parliament, or complained of as a Gift approved of the Ordinary. But by the 18 Ed. all Persons as well Lay as Spi- ritual, have a Right to the Benefit of that Statute, for the first Offence, in the same Manner as Clergymen. Had. Though it was anciently the usual Method, for the Ordinary to demand the Criminal as his Clerk, before the Court allowed him the Benefit of his Clergy, yet there was no Necessity for such Demand, but the Court might without it admit a Person to the Benefit of Clergy, on sufficient Evidence of his being a Cleric, as upon producing Letters of Orders, or reading as a Cleric, and then subject him to the Punishment of Sacrilege, or of breaking of Prison of the Ordinary, in which Cases it is said to have been at the Discretion of the Ordinary, whereas he should have his Clergy or not: And as there is no Necessity that the Ordinary should demand the Benefit of the Clergy for a Clerk; so neither is there any that the Prisoner himself should request it, as he might apply it to the Court that he has a Right to it, in Repect of his being in Orders, &c. In which Case; if the Prisoner does not demand it, it is left to the Discretion of the Judge, either to allow, or not to allow it. 2 Henr.
2 Hen. P. C. 359. Thoso who demand the Benefit of Clergy, are to plead, and put themselves upon Trial; but after a Clerk hath put himself upon Trial, and the Inquest be charged with him, some Witneses to his Character, if he be examined to his Clergy before the Jury come back; and shall not forfeit his Goods, unless they find him guilty. Ibid. 358. This Claim of Clergy might formerly be made on Arraignment, or as soon as the Prisoner was brought to the Bar: Afterwards it could not be claimed till after Conviction, because it is for the Advantage of the King as to the Forfeiture of the Lands and Goods of the Criminal Convict, and for the Advantage of the Parry himself to make his Challenges to the Inquest: and perhaps he may be acquitted, and then he will not need this Privilege. 1 Ed. 6. 653. At Common Law, if the Parry had not demanded his Clergy before Conviction, he lost it: But in the Time of H. 6. an Alteration was made in the Method of allowing Clergy, viz. That the Parry indicted or appealed, was to answer to the Felony, and after Conviction, upon his Demand the Judge to allow him his Clergy; which Course has been ever since observed. Kel. 100. Clergy may be demanded after Judgment given against a Peron, whether of Death, &c. And even after a Peron has been tried before a Baron, there is no Power to allow it. 2 Hen. 357. Clergy is never allowed by the Civil Laws so that Piracy, &c. shall not have Clergy. Nol. Ass. 449. The Common Law did not name Clergy but in certain Cases; as in High Treason, or Sacrilege; where a Peron was convict of Heresy; was a Tool, Tool, or of Infrad, &c. Also there was a Right to have it; but that is allowed by Stat. 37 Iq. 37. &c. By Statutes, Clergy is denied in a great many Felonies; though it is allowed in all Cases where not expressly taken away. And where Clergy is taken away expressly by any Statute, the Offence must be laid in the Indictment to be against that very Statute, and the Words of it, or the Offender shall have his Clergy. Kel. 104. H. P. C. 251. Da Prex. 4.

Cognitione, A Writ of Cognitione. See Cognitione.

Cognitiones, (Fr. Connaissance, Lat. Cognitio,) is used diversly in our Law: Sometimes it is an Acknowledg- ment of a Fine, or Confession of a Thing done; and there is a Cognition of taking a Distinct: Sometimes it is the Hearing of a Matter judicially; as to take the Cognition of a Land: And sometimes it signifies a Ju- ridification, as Cognition of Pleas is a Power to call a Caue or Plea out of another Court; which none can but the King, or by Charter. This Cognition of Pleas is a Privilege granted by the King to a City or Town, to hold Pleas of all Contrasts, &c. within the Liberty of the Francise; and when any Man is impeached for such Matters in the Courts of Welfminster, the Mayor, &c. of such Francise may all Cognition of the Pleas, and demand that it shall be determined before them; But if the Courts at Westminster be polluted of the Plea before Cognition is demanded, it is then too late. Terms de L. 174. 179. See Stat. 6 H. 3. c. 5. Cognition of Pleas extends not to Alliess: and when granted, the Original shall not be removed: It lies not in a Square Impecc, for they cannot rise to the Bishop; nor of a Plea out of the County-Court, which cannot award a Restummo, &c. 19q. Cent. 31. 14. This Cognition should be demanded the first Day: And if the Demandant in a Plea of Land counterfeits the Francise, and the Tenant joins with the Claim of the Francise, and is it found against the Francise, the Demandant shall recover the Land; but if it be found against the Demandant, the Writ shall abate. Ibid. 18.—Cognition also signifies the Title of a Waterman or Servant, which is usually the Giver's Craft, whereby he is known to belong to this or that Nobleman or Gentleman. Cognitione and Cognitio, Cognitio, Is he that pays or acknowledges a Fine of Lands or Tenements to another; and Cognitio is he to whom the Fine of the said Lands, &c. is acknowledged. Coif, (Capa) A Title given to Servants at Law: who are called Servientes of the Coach, from the Lawn Coat they wear on their Heads under their Caps, when they are crested. The Use of it was anciently to cover Jufrarum Clericis, otherwise called Corona Clericis; because the Crowns of the Head were close shaven, and the Border of Heir left round the lower Part, which made it to look like a Crown. Blount.

Coffin, (Casa Pecuniae) Seems to come from the Fr. Cappe, i.e. deppeles, a Corner, whence it has been held, that the ancient Sort of Coffin was square with Corners, and not round as it now is: It is any Seat or Bench. Compend. Cases is a Word collected, which contains in it all Man ner of the several Stamps and Species of Money in any Kingdom: And this is one of the Royal Prerogatives belonging to every Sovereign Prince, that he alone in his own Dominions may order and dispense the Quantity and Value, and Pashion of his Coin. But the Case of one King is not current in the Kingdom of another, unless it be at great Loss; though our King by his Prerogative may make any Foreign Coin lawful Money of England at his Pleasure, by Proclamation. Terms of Law 136. If a Man hides himself by Bond to pay one hundred Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain, and the Person bound, the Obligor, pays the Obligee the Money in French, Spanish, or other Coin, made current either by Act of Parliament, or the King's Proclamation, the Obligation will be well performed. 1 Inst. 207. But 'tis paid a Payment in Fartings, is not a good Payment. 2 Inst. 517. When a Person has accepted of Money in Payment from another, and put the same into his Purses, it is at his Peril after his Allowance; and he shall not then except those to be bad, notwithstanding he professes to review it. Terms of Law. By Statute any Person may break or deface Pieces of Silver Money appealed to be counterfeit or dimini shed, otherwise than by wearing: But if such Pieces be broken, or found to be good Coin, it will be at the Breaker's Peril, who shall refund to the Loss of the Person who said Coin of Gold and Silver are to pass notwithstanding some of them are crack'd, or worn, but not if they are clipt. 19 H. 7. c. 5. Counterfeiting, Impairing, or Clipping of the King's Coin, is made High Treason. 25 Ed. 3. c. 14. and 18 Eliz. cap. 7. It is also Treason to make any Stamp, dye, mould, etc. for counterfeiting, except by Person employed in the Mint, etc. Con veying fuch out of the Mint, is the same; and so is colouring Metal pertaining Coin of Gold or Silver, marking it on the Edges, etc. And if any Person mix balsined Copper with Silver, to make it heavier, and look like Gold, or receive, or pay counterfeit milled Money, it is Felony. 8 & 9 H. 3. c. 26. Counterfeiting Broad Beaces of the Mint, etc., is declared to be Treason. Stat. 6 Gen. 2. cap. 26. Persons that wake or geld any Shilling, or Six Pence, or alter the Impression, so as to make them resemble a Guinea, Half Guinea, etc., are adjudged guilty of High Treason; and those who tender in Payment, any counterfeit Coin, knowingly, shall be imprisoned for three Years. Every Officer, two Years for the second, and a Third suffer as Felons. 15 Geo. 2. c. 28. The Statutes which ordain milled Money to be made, give Liberty to any Person to refine hammered Silver Coin, as not being the lawful Coin of this Kingdom. 9 H. 4. c. 2. Counterfeiting of the Coin extends only to Gold and Silver Coins; for the Coins of Farthings or Half-Pence, or Pieces to go for, of Copper, incurs a Penalty of 3 l. for every Pound Weight, by Stat. 6 & 7 H. 3. c. 32. This Offence is now punished with two Years Imprisonment, and Surety to be given by the Offender for good Behaviour two Years more. 15 Geo. 2. Persons apprehending Money Cowper, Clippers, etc., are to have 40 l. Reward: and a guilty Person discovering two others, to be pardoned. 6 & 7 H. 3. By the late Statute, 10 l. is also given as a Reward, for apprehending and convitting Cowpers of Copper Money. In the seventh Year of King William III. an Act was made for calling in all the old Coins of the Kingdom, and to melt it down and remain it; the Deficiencies whereof were to be made good at the publick Charge: And in every Hundred Pound made 40 l. was to be Shilling, and 10 l. Sixpences, under certain Penalties. Persons bringing Plate to the Mint to be coined, were to have the same Weight of Money according to its Value, and Receivers General of Taxes, etc., were to receive Money at a large Rate per Ounce. Our Guineas have been raised and falsified, as Money has been falsified or plenteous, several Times by Statute: And Anne, 1. Gen. 1. on a Scarcity of Silver Coin, for Remedy, our Guineas were sunk to 21 l. at which they now pass by Proclamation. See Money.

An Indulgence for Coining of Money.

Somerset, ff. Th. H. Journs, etc. T. A. B. of, etc. not knowing God before his Eyes, but being seduced by the Irregularity of the Devil, on the Day, etc. in the Year of the Reign, etc. as the Part of, etc. in the said County, did falsely and treacherously forge, counterfeit, and Coin Twenty Pieces of Brass and Copper, and other mixed Metals, to the Befallums and Likeness of good, lawful and current Money of the King of this Kingdom of England, called Shilling; and knowing the said Twenty Pieces, to be so falsely and treacherously counterfeit and coined, the said A. B. afterwards, that is to say, on the said Day of, etc. in the etc. Year above said, at, etc. in the said County, and elsewhere, etc. and afterwards did falsely and treacherously coin, and counterfeit, and pay and utter fifty Pieces thereof, to divers Subjects of this said Sovereign Lord the King, for the true, lawful and current Money of England, in the great Prejudice and Detriment of the said Subjects, and against the Peace, etc. and also against the Form of the Statute, etc.

Coinage, (Coynium) Is the Stamping and Marking of Money, by the King's Authority. And there is a Duty of 10 l. per Ton on Wine, Beer, andBrandon made, called the Coyn, granted for Expense of the King's Coinage, but not to exceed 3300l. per Ann. Statute 18 Car. 2. cap. 5. This Duty for Coinage hath been continued and advanced, by divers Statutes, 21 & 22 Geo. 1. c. 14. 9 Geo. 1. etc. The Coinage Duties are continued for four Years, by a late Statute; and the Commissioners of the Treasury, for the time being, are to be shown by the Act, or other publick Supplies, shall defeat the Expense of the Mint of England and Scotland, not exceeding 13000l. per Ann. Statute 40 Geo. 1. c. 37.

Coliberti, (Coliberti) Were Tenants in Scopq; and particularly such Villains as were measured or made Freeman. Domestically. But they had not the abstract Freedom; all their Servants, they yet had superior Lords to whom they paid certain Duties, and in that Respect they might be called Servants, though they were of middle Condition, between Freeman and Servants.—*Librars

Collateral, from the Lat. Lateralis, Sideways, or which that hangeth by the Side, not directly: As Collateral Assurance is that which is made over and above the Deed itself: Collateral Security, is where a Deed is made of other Land, before it be granted by the Deed of Mortgage: And if a Man covenants with another, and enters into Bond for Performance of his Covenant, the Bond is a Collateral Assurance; because it is external, and without the Nature and Essence of the Covenant. If a Man hath Liberty to pitch Booths or Standings, for a Fair or Market in another Patron's Ground; it is Collateral to the Ground. The private Woods of a common Person, within a Forest, may not be cut down without the King's Licence: it being a Prerogative Collateral to the Soil. And to be subject to the Feeding of the King's Deer, is Collateral to the Soil of a Forest. *Gomp. Jurif. *185.

Collateral Church Law, and Collateral Stipend. See Dispensation and Winnower.

Collatio Donum, is in Law where a Portion of Money advanced by the Father to a Son or Daughter, is brought into H chops, in order to have an equal distributive Share of his personal Estate, at his Death, according to the intent of the Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2, c. 10. *Abb. Eq. 2, p. 274. See H chops.

Collation of a Benefice, (Collatio Beneficii) Signifies the Buying of a Benefice by the Bishop, when he hath Right of Patronage. And it differs from Indulgence in that it is not performed by the Bishop upon the Presentation of another, and Collatio is his own Act of Presentation; and it differeth from a common Presentation, as it is the Giving of the Church to the Parson, and Presentation is the Giving or Offering of the Parson to the Church. But Collation supplies the Place of Presentation and Indulgence; and amounts to the same as Indulgence, where the Bishop is both Patron and Ordinary. *1 Lit. Eq. 273. Anciendly the Right of Presentation to all Churches, was in the Bishop; and now if the Patron neglects to present to a Church, then this Right returns to the Bishop by Collation: And if the Bishop neglects to collate within six Months after the Lapse of the Patron, then the Archbishop hath a Right to do it; and if the Archbishop neglects, then it devolves to the King; the one as Superior, to supply the Defects of Bishoprick, the other as the Supreme, to reform all Defects of Government. As a Bishop may neglect to collate, so it may happen that he may make his Collation without Title: but such a wrongful Collation doth not prejudice either the Denizen or the other; the Collation of the Bishop is infallible and indelible, he may present his Clerk: And Collation in this Cafe, shall be intended only as a provisional Incumbency to perform Divine Service till Presentation is made by the true Patron. *1 Inf. 344. By Collation the Church is not full: and a right Patron may bring his Wit at any Time to remove the Patron collated; except his Right be likewise to collate, when Plenary by Collation may be pleaded. *Wind's Eq. 159. Where a Bishop gives a Benefice as Patron, he collates to it *Fare Eq. 2, c. 10. and he doth it *Jure Divino. The Collation by Laple, is right of the Patron, and for his Turn: And in Affidavit of Darrery Provostship, *Eq. it shall be laid as his Possession. 24 Ed. 3. 36. F. N. B. 11.

Collatio feat in post Mortem alterius, is a Wit directed to the Justices of the Common Peace, commanding them to issue their Wit for the Bishop, for the Admission of a Clerk in the Place of another presented by the King; who died during the Suit before the King's Bench, or to the Bishop's Clerk. For judgment once passed for the King's Clerk, and his dying before Administration, the King may allow his Presentation on another. *Reg. Org. 31.

Collationes Derrinititig, A Wit whereby the King conferred the Keeping of an Hermitage upon a Clerk. *Reg. Org. 503, 508.

Collateage, of Money due to the King, not paying the same to whom it ought to be paid, shall answer so much per Cent. to his Majesty till Payment. *Stat. 20 Car. 2, c. 2. See Reservations.

Collegiate Church, is that which consists of a Dean and secular Canons; or more largely, it is a Church built and endowed for a Society, or Body Corporate, of a Dean or other Presbytery, and secular Priests, as Canons or Prebendaries in the said Church. There were many of these Societies distinguished from the Religious or Regulars, before the Reformation: And some are established at this Time: as Wymington, Winder, Winchester, Soutwell, Manchester, &c.

Collation, (*Collypo) Is a decent Agreement or Contract between two, or more Persons, for the one to bring an Action against the other, to some evil Purpose, as to defraud a third Person of his Right, &c. This Collation is either apparent, when it shews itself in the Face of the Act; or which is more common, it is secret, where done in the Dark, or covered over with a Shew of Honesty. And 'tis a Thing the Law abhors: wherefore when found, it makes void all Things dependant upon the same, though otherwise in themselves never to good. *Ca. Lit. 299, 366. Plowd. 54. Collation may sometimes be tried in the same Action wherein the Covin is, and sometimes in another Action, as for Lands aliened in Mortmain by a *Quae jus: And where it is apparent there needs no Proof of it; but when it is secret, it must be proved by Witnesse, and found by a Jury like other Matters of Fact. 9 Reg. 43. *Statute of Wilm. 2, 3 Ed. 1, c. 31. gives the Wit Quae jus, and Inquiry in their Cales: And there are several other Statutes relating to Deeds, and鋊 and Fraud. The Cales particularly mentioned by the Statute of Wilm. 2. are of Quae Impediti, Affid, &c. which every Corporation brings against another, with Intent to recover the Land or Adowment, for which the Wit is brought, held in Mortmain, &c. Vide the Statute.

Colona, An Husbandman or Villager, who was bound to pay yearly a certain Tribute, or at certain Times in the Year to plough some Part of the Lord's Land; and from hence comes the Word *Coun: who is called by the Dutch Boer.

Colour, (Color) Signifies a probable Plea, but what is in Fact false; and hath this End, to draw the Trial of the Cause from the Party to the Judges: And therefore Colour ought to be Master in Law, or doubtful to the Jury. This Colour is used in Affidavit, or Action of Trepass; and every Colur ought to have these Qualities following: 1. It is to be so disadvantageable the Lay-Gen, as in Case of a Deed of Feesment pleaded, and it is a Doubt whether the Land passeth by the Feesment, without Livery, or no. 2. Colur ought to have Continuance, though it wants Effect. 3. It should should be such Colour, that if it were effecive, would maintain the Nature of the Action; as in Affiles, to give Colour, to be unlawful, to the Actions of Conquest, &c. Colour must be such a Thing, which is a good Colour of Title, and yet is not any Title. Co. Ten. 122. If a Man signifies his Entry for such a Cause as binds the Plaintiff or his Heir for ever, he shall not be given any Colour: But if he pleads a Defcense in Bar, he must give Colour, because this binds the Possession, and not the Right; so that when the Master of the Pies bars the Plaintiff of his Right, no Colour must be given. When the Defendant entitles himself by the Plaintiff; where a Person pleads to the Writ, or to the Action of the Writ; he who signifies for Tithes, or where the Defendant signifies as Servant: In all those Cases no Colour ought to be given. 10 Rep. 91. Lenti. 1542. Where the Defendant does not make a Special Title to himself, or any other, he ought to give Colour to the Plaintiff. Co. Eliz. 76. In Trespass for Taking and Carrying away Twenty Loads of Wood, &c. the Defendant says, that A.B. was possessor of them, at de bonis propriis, and that the Plaintiff claiming them by Colour of a Deed after made, took them, and the Defendant restored them; and adjudged that the Colour given to the Plaintiff, makes a good Title to him, and confiscates the Interest in him. 1 Litt. Acr. 275. Colour is for this Cause, nolle. Where the Defendant justifies by Title to Trespass or Affile, if he do not give the Plaintiff Colour, his Plea amounteth only to Not guilty; for if the Defendant hath Title, he is not guilty. 1 Rep. 79. 16. Copp, A small Wax Candle, a Coper de Cere: We read in Homer, that when the King of Scota came to the English Court, as long as he flourished there, he had every Day, De Libertatis regiana sol. & dua de predicta Dominione, & quadringenta grafis longis Colpoin de Dominica Candida Regii. &c. Annatas 1194.

Embarons, The Fellow Barons, or Commonalty of the Cinque Ports: K Ing. 6. grants to the inhabitants of the Port of Framlingham, possession of all Tribes, & Confessities, in 1760 18th quire, &c. of their Barons, who are de quingenariis Tribus, and have a larger space than the regular Emicators of the K Ing. 8. to whom this Tribe is given, and the Members of the Parliament. And the Word Commorati is used for a Fellow Member, the Barons and his Commorant.

Cort Ley. From Sax. Combe, Brit.康, Eng. Combe, a Valley or low Piece of Ground or Place between two Hills which is still so called in Devonshire and Cornwall: Hence many Villages in other Parts of England have their Names of Combe, as Wickcombe, &c. from their Situation. Kenw. Clif.

Comm (Fr.) Is taken with us for a formal Trial between two Champions, of a double Combat as Quarral, by the Sword or Balfan. The last Trial by Combat in this Kingdom was Ann 6 Car. 1. between Donald Lord Roy, Appellant, and Dauid Ramfor, Esq; Defendant, both Scotoines, before Robert Lord Lord High Constable, Thomas East of Averell, Earl Marshal, with other Lords: when after the Court had met several Times in the Painted Chamber, and other Formations, it was at last referred to the King's Will and Pleas, who was inclined to favour Ramfor. Co. Litt. 294. Orig. Juridical. fol. 65. See Battel.

Combinations to do unlawful Acts, are punishable before the unlawful Act is executed; this is true of every Combination, and Conspiracies, &c. 9 Rep. 57. See Confederacy.

Comitatus. The Ancient Way of Taking mixt and corrupt Money, by melting it down upon Payments into the Exchequer. In the Time of King Henry 7. a Constitution was made called the Trial by Combution; the Practice of which differed little or nothing from the present Method of assaying Silver. But whether this Examination of Money by Combution, was to reduce an Equation of Money only of Sterling, or a due Proportion of Alloy with Copper; or to reduce it to a fine pure Silver with Alloy, doth not appear. On making the Constitution of Trial, it was considered, that though the Money did answer Names of Pounds, it might be declared of no Value, because mix'd with Copper or Brass, &c. Vide Lew. 12 Eff. upon Coin, p. 5.

Comitatus. A County. Ingloublis tells us, That England was first divided into 5 Regions by King Alfred; and Counties into Hundreds, and these again into Tithings: And Fortsine writes, that Regnum Angliae pro Comitatus at Regnum Franciae per Balivias divisum est. Something is taken for a Territory or Jurisdiction of a particular Place, as in Mat. Paris. Ann. 1124. John Mares illos continentur quae donum recipit de illicum Comitis. &c. Comitatus haud assimilabile proponunt. And in Gent. H. 1 apud Hoveden: Castellum de Northam con Comitatus, &c. And, De formis naturalis, & obit. de quibus suntsc Galerie, &c. Constitution Comitat, & legatur greges ad eum super Comitatus Faciunt. Chas. 13 Ed. 1. See County.

Comitatus, Is a Writ or Commission whereby a Sheriff is authorized to take upon him the Charge of the County. Reg. Orig. 125.

Comitatus et Gastro Commission, A Writ by which the Charge of a County, together with the Keeper of a Castle, is committed to the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. 125.

Comitata, A Companion or Fellow Traveler: It is mentioned in Brumnum, Reg. H. 2. And sometimes it signifies a Troop or Company of Robbers; as in Walsingham, Ann. 1366. Interpellations auctum Regis Angliae contra Magnus Comitatus, &c.

Commandary, (Practecracy) Was any Manor or Chief Mediator, with Lands and Tenements thereto appertaining, which belonged to the Priory of St. John of Jerusalem in England; and he who had the Government of such a Manor or House was called the Commander, who could not dispose of it but to the King, and his successors, and his heirs for ever, and his Sussessa, according to his Degree. New Earl in Lincolnshire was and still is called the Commander of Earl, and usually belonging to the said Priory of St. John of Jerusalem, were given to King Hen. 8. by the Stat. 12 H. 8. about the Time of the Distillation of Abbies and Monasteries; so that the Name only of Commandaries remains, the Power being long since extinct.

Commandment. (Practecracy) Is diversly taken as the Commandment of the King, when upon his own Motion he has a Man into Prison. Command- ment of the Justices, Abboture or Ordinary, Abolition, where upon their own Authority they commit a Person for Contemn, &c. to Prison, as a Punishment; Ordinary when they are authorized for that Purpose, than for any Punishment: And a Man committed upon such an ordinary Commandment is reple-

Perons committed to Prifon by the Special Command of the King, were not formerly bailable by the Court of King's Bench; but at the Day that the Ballot was declared and sealed, as appears under Bail. 1 How. P. C. 96. In another Scoffe of this Word; Majistrats may Command another Majistrat to hold a Felon, for the doing of Justice; and so may a Justice of Peace to apprehend Rovers, apprehend Felons; or Officer to keep the King's Peace, &c. Br. 3. A Mafter may command another of his Officers to drive another Man's Cattle out of his Ground, to enter into Lands, feite Goods, diftraint for Rent, or do any other Things; if the Thing be not a Trefta to others. F. A. 5. The Commandment of a Thing is good, where he that Commands hath Power to do it; And a verbal Command in most Caufes is fufficient; unless it be where it is given by a Corporation, or when a Sheriff's Warrant is to a Balliff to arreft, &c. Br. 288. Dyer 302. Command is also used for the Office of him that willeth another Man to tranfgres the Law, or do any Thing contrary to it; And in the moft common Signification, it is taken when one willeth another to do an unlawful Act; as Murder, Theft, or the like: Which the Civilians call Mandatum. Broth. lb. 3. c. 10. He that commanded any one to do an unlawful Act, is Accruey to it and all the Confequences, if it be exeuted in the fame Manner as commanded; And if the Command is revocable, the Command; or if the Execution varies from it, or in the Nature of the Office, in fuch Cafe he will not be Accruey. 3 Iuf. 51, 57. 2 Iuf. 182. If a Man command a Felon on particular Peron, and he doth it on another, as to kill A. and he kills B. or to burn the Houfe of A. and he burns the Houfe of B. or to kill one Thing, and he kills another, as to kill a, and he commits another; it is faid that the Command is not an Accruey, becaufe the Act done varies in Subfance from that which was commanded. H. P. C. 217. Pneud. 475. But where a Perfon commands or ad- vites another to fuch a one in the Night, and he kills him in the Day; or to kill him in the Fields, and he kills him in the Town; or to poifon him, and he poifons him; these Acts being the fame Felony in Subfance with that which was intended, and varying only in Circumstances, in Reftitut to Time, Place, and no manners, This may not be fufficient, becaufe the Command, which tended to endanger the Life of the other. Alfo it is faid, that one command another to burn the Houfe of a certain Peron, and he by Burning it burn likewise the Houfe of another, the Commander is equally accessory to the subsequent Felony, as to that which was directly commanded. Ibld. 315, 316. To Command or Counte any one to com- mit Burglary, is Felony Benefit of Clergy. Stat. 5 & 6 W. & M. In Forcible Entries, &c. An Infant or Feme Covert may be guilty in Reftitut of actual Violence done by them in Peron; though not in Regard to what shall be done by others at their Command, because all such Commands of theirs are void. Co. Litt. 357. 1 How. 147. Commandment, (Eccl. S. Comma. Eccles. als. Comm. Cart. 3. 19.) Is the Hadding of a Benefice or Church-Living, which being void, is commended to the Charge and Care of some sufficient Clerk, to be supplied until it may be conveniently provided of a Pallor: And he to whom the Church is commended, hath the Profits thereof only for a certain Time, and the Nature of the Church is not changed thereby, but is as a Thing depofited in his Hands in Truitt, who hath nothing but the Cuftody of it, which may be revoked. When a Parfon is made Bishop, there is a Ceilion or Voidance of his Benefice by the Promotion; but if the King by Special Difpensation gives him Power to retain his Benefice, notwithstanding his Promotion, he shall continue Parfon, and is said to hold it in Commandment. Hob. 144. Latch 236. As has been already observed, a Clergyman is a Beneficer, and a Fellow of a Colledge, while he is in Commandment, or until the Commendation be restored to him; this is usually where the Bishopricks are small, for the better Support of the Dignity of the Bishop promoted: And it must be always before Confirmation; for afterwards it comes too late, because the Benefice is then absolutely void. A Commandment, founded on the Statute 25 H. 8. is a Diffpensation from the supreme Power, to hold or take an Ecclesiastical Living, contra juv Episcopum: And there is a General Sorrow when he is put into Commandment, as a Commandment Simplicitis, which is for the Benefit of the Church without any regard to the Commandment, being only a Prorvisive Act of the Ordinary, for Supplying the Vacation of fix Months, in which Time the Patron is to preferit his Clerk, and is but a Sequestration of the Cure and Fruits until fix Time as the Clerk is preferred: A Commandment Reversion, which is for a Bishop to retain Bene-fices, on his Preferment; and these Commandments are granted on the King's Mandate to the Arch Bishop, which contains the Instru cency, so that there is no Occasion for Inflation. A Commandment Reprise is to take a Benefice de Novo in the Bishop's own Gift, or in the Gift of some other Patron, whose Consent must be obtained. Dyer 228. 3 Lev. 381. Hob. 145. Dav. 79. A Commandment may be temporary for fix or twelve Months; two or three Years, &c. or it may be perpetual, i.e. for Life, when it is equal to a Prelation, without Inflation or Induction. But all Diffpensions beyond fix Months, were only permitted at first, and granted to Persons of Merit: The Commandment Reverse is for one or two Years, &c. and sometimes for three or fix Years, and does not end the Elate which the Incomer had before: A Commandment Reversion, as long as the Commandatory should live and continue Bishop, hath been held good. Faugb. 18. The Commandment Reprise must be for Life, as other Parsons and Vicars enjoy their Benefices, and as a Patron cannot preient to a full Church, so neither can a Commandment Reprise be made to a Church that is then full. Snou. 414. A Benefice cannot be commissed by Parry, any more than it may be preseated unto Parry that one shall have the Glebe, another the Tithes, &c. Nor can a Commandment have a 'Jarius Utrum, or take to him and his Successors, for or be used, in a manner for the Purposes of Annuity, &c. But a Commanda perpetua may be admitted to do it. 11 H. 4. Commandment, Commentatory, (Commentarius) Is he that hath a Church Living or Preferment as Commentarius. Commentarius Letters, Are such as are writ to a Bishop to another, in Behalf of any of his Liturgy, or others of his Diocese, travelling thither, that they may be received among the Faithful: Or that the Clerk may be promoted or, Needs affaires admitted to the others, Et., several Forms of these Letters may be seen in our Historians, as in Bede, lib. 2. c. 18.

Commentarius, One that lives under the Protection of a Great Man. Specul. Commentarii Homines were Persons who by voluntary Homage put themselves under the Protection of any Superior Lord: For ancient Homage was either Preval, due for some Tenure; or Perthonaly, which was by Compulsion, as a Sign of necessary Subjection; or voluntarily, with a Desire of Protection: And those who by voluntary Homage put themselves under the Protection of any Men of Power, were sometimes called Homines jus Commentarii; and sometimes only Commentarii, as often occurs in Domesday. Commentarii Dimidii were those who depended on two several Lords, and paid one Half of their Homage to each: And Sub-Commentarii were like Under-Tenants, under the Command of Perthonaly that were Dependants themselves on a superior Lord: Allo there were Dimidii sub-commentarii, who bore a double Relation to such depending Lords. Domesday. This Phrae seems to be still in Use, in the usual Compliments, Command me to such a Friend, &c., which is to let him know, I am his humble Servant. Specul. of Feuds, cap. 20.

Commentarii Traffic, Trade, or Merchandise in Buying and Selling of Goods. See Merchant.

Commentarius, (Commentarius) Is a Title in the Ecclesiastical Law, belonging to one that exercises Spiritual Jurisdiction, in Places of a Diocese which are so far from the Episcopal City, that the Chancellor cannot call the People to the Bishop's Principal Consistory Court, without their too great Inconvenience. This Commentarius was ordained to supply the Bishop's Jurisdiction and Office in the Out-places of the Diocese; or in such Places as are peculiar to the Bishop, and exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Archdeacon: For where, either by Precept or Composition, Archdeacones have Jurisdiction within their Archdeaconaron, or in such Places they have, this Commentarius is superfluous and oftentimes vexatious, and ought not to be; yet in such Cases a Commentarius is sometimes appointed by the Bishop, taking Precedence Money of the Archdeacon yearly pro extratis Jurisdictionibus, as it is ordinarily called. But this is held to be a Wrong to Archdeacones and the poorer Sort of People. Gaud. Lex. 4. art. 328.

Commentarius, (Commentarius) Is taken for the Warrant or Letters Patent, which all Men exercising Jurisdiction either ordinary or extraordinary, have to authorize them to hear or determine any Cause or Action: As the Commentarius of the Judges, Et., Commentarius is with us as much as Delegate with the Civilian: And this Word is sometimes extended rather than to Matters of Judgement as the Commentarius of Parcellers, Et., Commentarii of Inquiry shall be made to the Judices of one Bench or the other, Et., to do lawful Things, are granted in many Cases; Allo most of the great Officers, Judicial and Ministerial, of the Realm, are made by Commentarius. And by such Commentarii, Treats, Fenarios, and other Offences, may be heard and determined; but this Means likewise, Oath, Cognizance of Fines, and Peculiar, Et., are taken, Writs examined, Offices found, Et., Brac Atr. x. Rep. 39. Stat. 42 et. c. 4. And most of the Commentarii are appointed by the King under the Great Seal of England; But a Commentarius granted under the Great Seal, may be determined by a Privy Seal; and by granting another new Commentarius to do the same Thing, the former Commentarius determines; and on the Death or Demise of the King, the Commentarius of Judges and Officers generally ends. Commentarius, E. 2. Deuer. 9. There was formerly a High Commentarius Court founded on the Et. c. 11. but it was abolished by Act of Parliament 17 Car. 1. c. 11. And by Stat. 15 Car. 2. c. 2. Of Commentarius you may see divers in the Table of the Register of Writs.

Commentarius of Association, Is a Commentarius under the Great Seal to collect a Tax or Subsidy before the Day. 15 H. 8.

Commentarius of Association, is a Commentarius to affect two or more learned Persons with the Judices in the several Counties and Circuits of Wales, &c. 18 Et. C. 9.

Commentarius of Bankruptcy, Where every Person is become a Bankrupt within any of the Statutes against Bankrupts, on Security given to prove the Party a Bankrupt, &c., this Commentarius issues from the Lord Chancellor to certain Commentarii appointed to take Order with the Bankrupt's Lands and Goods, for the Satisfaction of the Creditors. Stat. 34 H. 8. 13 Et. c. 7. 1 Jas. 1. &c.

Commentarius of Charitable Uses, Goes out of the Chancery to the Bishop, and Archdeacones, on a Licence to such Charitable Uses as are misemploy'd, or there is any Fraud or Disputes concerning them, to enquire of and redress the Abuse, Et., 36 Et. c. 4.

Commentarius of Debtors, Is a Commentarius under the Great Seal to certain Persons, usuall two or three Temporal Lords, as many Bishops, and two Judges of the Law, to answer upon an Appeal to the King in the Court of Chancery, where any Sentence is given in any Ecclesiastical Cause by the Archdeacon. Stat. 30 H. 8. c. 19.

Commentarius to enquire of faults against the Law, Was an ancient Commentarius sent forth on extraordinary Occasions and Corruptions.

Commentarius of Summaries, A Commentarius out of Chancery to enquire whether a Person represented to be Lunaticke be so or not, that if Lunatick the King may have the Care of his Estate, Et., 17 Ed. 2. c. 10.

Commentarius of Rebellion, Otherwise called a Writ of Rebellion, is given when a Man after Proclamation made by the Sheriff, upon a Process out of the Chancery, on a default in the Matter, appeareth to himself to the Court by a Day assign'd, makes Default in his Appearance: And this Commentarius is directed to certain Persons, to the End they, Two, or One of them apprehend the Party, or cause him to be apprehended as a Rebel and Conumerer of the King's Laws, wherefover found within the Kingdom, and bring or cause him to be brought to the Court on a Day therein assigned: This Writ or Commentarius goes forth after an Attachment returned, No. 18 ironani, Et., Terms de Leuy 144.

Commentarius of Detainers, Is directed to certain Persons to pay Drains and Ditches well and kept and maintained in the marthy and fenry Parts of England, for the better Conveyance of the Water into the Sea, and preserving the Grains upon the Land. Stat. 23 H. 8. c. 5. 13 Ed. c. 9.

Commentarius of Treaty with Foreign Princes, Is where Leagues and Treaties are made and transliterated between States and Kingdoms, by their Ambassadors and Ministers, for the mutual Advantage of the Kingdoms in Alliance.

Commentarius, (Commentarius) Is he that hath a Commentarius, Letters Patents, or other lawful Warrant, to examine any Matters, or to execute any publick Office, Et., and some Commentarii are to hear... hear and determine Offences, without any Return made of their Proceedings; and others to Inquire and Examine, and certify what is found. 4 H. 4. 9. Commissaries by the Common Law must purge the Authority of the Committee of the Common Law, and perform the Effect thereof; and they are to observe the ancient Rules of the Courts whence they come; and if they do any Thing for which they have not Authority, it will be void. 2a Rep. 25. Ca. Litt. 157. The Office of Commissaries is to do whatever they are commanded; and it is necessarily implied, that they may do that also, without which what is committed cannot be done: Their Authority when appointed on any Statute Law, must be used as the Statutes prescrib. 1 2a Rep. 32. If a Commission is given to Commissaries to execute a Thing against Law, they are not bound to accept or obey it: Commissaries not receiving a Commission may be discharged, upon Oath before the Barons of the Exchequer, &c. and the King by Suit; and out of Chancery, may discharge Commissaries. Besides Commissaries relating to judicial Proceedings; there are Commissaries of the Treasury, of the Customs, Wine- Licences, obligations; &c. of which there is an in- finite Number.

Committee, Are they to whom the Confederation or Ordering of any Matter is referred, by some Court, or other Barons of Ireland, to whom it belongs: As in Parliament, a Bill either concerned to be passed, or denied, or neither, but referred to the Committee of the Commons or Lords, or Committee of the ordinary People, or of the House. Further to examine it, whom are thereupon called a Committee. And when a Parliament is called, and the Speaker and Members have taken the Oaths, and the standing Orders, they are appointed to sit on certain Days, vice. The Committee of Privy- Lucis, of Religion, of Grievances, of Courts of justice, and of Trade; which are the Standing Com- mittees. Other Commissions appointed by the new Parliament, they do not all of them, only the Committee of Privileges; and this being not of the whole House, is first called in the Speaker's Chamber, from whence it is adjourned into the House, every one of the House having a Vote therein, though not named, which makes the same usually very numerous: And any Member may be present at any such Com- mittees; but is not to vote unless he be named. The Chairman of the Grand Committee, who is always some leading Member, sits in the Clerk's Place at the Table. In the Committee for the Town, the Speaker sits in the Place of the Clerk. Those are divided into Small Committees, and into Small Committees of Commoners, Common Appointments, Common Apportionment, and Common for Camps de Victoire. Common in Camps is a Liberty to have Common alone, without any Lands or Ten- enues, in another Person's Land, granted by Deed to a Man and his Heirs, or for Life, &c. F. N. B. 51. 37. 4 Rep. 30. Common Appointee is a Right belonging to a Man's arable Land, of putting Beasts com- monable into another's Ground. And Common Appoint- ment is belonging to an Eatee for all Manner of Beasts commonable or not commonable, 4 Rep. 37. Plowd. 161. Common Appointments, and Appointments, are in a Manner confounded, as appears by Fudder- berti; and are therein defined to be a Liberty of Common appertaining to or depending on a Freehold; which Common must be taken with Beasts commonable, as Horses, Oxen, Kine and Sheep; and not with Goats, Hogs and Geese. But some make this Difference, that Common Appointments may be severed from the Land whereof it pertains; but not Common Appointments, which, according to Sir Edward Coke, had this Beginning: When a Lord encroached another of arable Land, hold of him in Socage, the Prince to maintain a Service of his Plough, had at first by the Curtesy or Permi of the Lord, Common in his Wailes for ne- cessary Beasts to ear and compact his Land, and that for two Caues: one, for that it was tacitly implied in the Feoffment, by Reason the Feoffee could not till or compell composted his Land without Cultis, and Cattle could not be followed without Pastures: so by the Commonalty of the Feoffees had, as a Thing necessary and incident, Commen in the Wafe and Lands of the Lord: And this can be collected from the ancient Books and Statutes: And the second Reason of this Common was, for the Maintenance and Advantage of Tillage, which is much regarded and favoured by the Law.

From the preceding passage, it appears that the Commons were used by the tenants of one town to graze their cattle and use the common land. The Commons were regulated by terms and conditions that were enforced by the local authorities. If anyone violated these rules, they could be fined or punished. The Commons were also used for grazing livestock, and the tenants were responsible for maintaining and managing the shared land. The Commons were an essential part of the rural economy, providing resources for the local community. The rules and regulations governing the Commons were designed to ensure their sustainability and equitable use by all the local residents.
an Action for the Damage. Where Turf is taken away from the Commons, the Land only is to bring the Action, for a Commons or anyone under a Commons may have an Action for the Trespass, by entering on the Commons. 1 Rol. Abr. 59. 398. 1 Lem. 301. If a Commons who hath a Freehold in his Commons be cut off, or hindered to use the benefit of it, he may use to do: whether the Interruption be by the Lord, or any Stranger, he may have an Action against them: But if the Commons be cut off only an Estate for Years, then his Remedy is by Action on the Cafe. And is it but a small Trespass, that is little or no Loss to the Commons, but he hath Commons enough besides, the Commons may not bring any Action. 8 Rep. 79. 4 Rep. 37. 1536. A Commons cannot dig Clay on the Common, which destroys the Grass, and carries away its nutrients damage to the Ground: So that the other Commons can't enjoy the Commons in turn complecte made as they ought. 32 Ch. 34. Alto a Commons may not cut Bulbs, dig Trenches, or Cais in the Common, without a Certificate to do it in 1 Nlf. 1066. If he makes any Thing de novo, he is a Trespasser: He can do nothing to impair the Commons: but may reform a Thing abused, fill up Holes, dig down Mattocks, &c. for Improvement. 1 Burt. 26. 28. And may make a Pond on the Common: Though the Lords cannot dig Pits for Gravel or Coal: The Statutes of Improvement being only Statutes of Dredging. 1 Rep. 196. 1065. If the Lord makes a Warren on the Commons, the Commons may not kill the Conies; but are to bring their Action; for they may not be their own Judges. 1 Rol. 99. 402. The Property of the Soil in the Common is entirely in the Lord; and the Use of it, jointly in him and the Commons. 5. No Commons can take the Grass that grows on the Common, otherwise than by common right. 32 Ch. 34. If he can make it by the Lord's right: But if the Owner of the Soil, let up a Hedge on the Common, the Commons may throw it down. 15 El. 2. A Commons may abate Hedges erected on a Common; for though the Lord hath an Interest in the Soil, by abating the Hedges, the Commons do not meddle with it. 2 Mod. 85. Any Man may by Premise have Commons and Feeling for his Castle in the King's Highways, although the Soil doth belong to another. 1 Will. 2 Eliz. But the Occupancy of Commons by Userpation, with bare give Title to him that doth Occupy it, which he hath had it Time and Beyond Memory. And if a Man entrench of Land, by reason of which he hath Right to common, allows it to one who doth not take or off the Commons a ten Years, and an Alienation to another, the last Possessor may not have it, for he shall not have a better Easement in the Land than his Peffidor had: For. 2 Rec. Abr. Com. 255. By Statute, Lords may appear and speak their Tents, without being Part of the Waife, &c. and thereby discharge it from being Commons, leaving Commons sufficient, and Neighbours as well. Tenants claiming Commons of Parcell, shall be bound by it. 20 H. 3. c. 4. If the Lord encloses on the Commons, and leaves not Commons sufficient, the Commons may not only break down the Inclosures, but may put in their Castle, although the Lord possesses and393 pard the Land. 2 Eliz 24. 1 Rol. Chas. Rap. 48. Commons may be driven yearly at Michaelmas or Whit. 2 Will. 39. Afterwards, where infected Harves, and other Harves under Ster, &c. are not to be put into Commons under heftration, by Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 13. new Erected Commons, though they have four Acres of Common, yet are now to have Horses in the Waife. 2 Eliz. 240. In Law Proceedings, where there are two distinct Commons, the two Titles must be shown: Castle are to be alleged commendatory; and Commons ought to be Lands commumable. And the Place is to be set forth where the Measuring and Land lies, &c. to which the Commons belongs. 1 Nlf. 452. 453. Commons of Eeferors. Is a Right of taking Wood out of another Man's Woods, for House bone, Plough-bone, and Hay bone. What Bones are necessary, Tenants may take, notwithstanding no Mention be made therein in their Leases; but if a Tenant take more House bone than is needful, he must be punished with Waife. Termes de Ley 385. 395. Tenants for Life may take upon the Land descent accountable Eeferors, unless restrained by Special Covenant: And every Tenant for Years hath three Kind of Eeferors incident to his Estate. 1 Inf. 41. When a House having Eeferors appendant or appurtenant, is blown down by Wind, if the Owner rebuilds it in the same Place and Manner as before, his Eeferors shall continue: So if he alters the Rooms and Chambers, without making new Chimneys, but if he erect any new Chimneys he will not be allowed to spend any Eeferors in such new Chimneys. 4 Rep. 87. 4 Lem. 353. If one has a Dwelling-house wherein the Commons Eeferors doth belong, and the House by Fire is burnt down, and a new one built next to the Place, or in the Place in another Form, the Eeferors are gone: But if the old House be only some of it, it is otherwise; and in all Cases where the Alterations to a House do no Prejudice to the Tenant or Owner of the Land or Wood, the Eeferors will remain. P. N. B. 180. Whether a Man hath Eeferors for Life, if the Owner cut down all the Wood, the Tenant is none left for him, he may bring an Affige of Eeferors; and if the Tenant have but one Eefer for Years, or at Will, he may have Affige of the Cafe. Man. Com. 65. 9 Rep. 112. If the Tenant who hath Commons of Eeferors, shall affe them to any other Purpos which he ought, he that owns the Wood may bring Trespass against him: As where a Tenant, in a Wood of Wood to be taken yearly in such a Wood, ten Loads a Year, to burn, and to repair Pales; here he may cut and take the Wood for the Pales, though they need no amending, but then he must keep it for that Use. 2 Rep. 113. F. N. B. 58, 135. Commons of Fishery. Is a Liberty of Fishing in another Man's Water. Commons of Fishery to exclude the Owner of the Soil, in contrary to Law: Though a Person by Premise may have a separate Right of Fishing in such Water, and the Owner of the Soil be excluded; for a Man may grant a Water, and all passing the Soil: And if one grant Separal Fisca, neither the Soil nor the Water pass, but only a Right of Fishing. 1 Inf. 4, 1 Rep. 34. No Person shall fish in any River without the Owner's Consent, under Penalties: And Nots, Angles, &c. shall be killed and destroyed, by Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 23. See Fish and Fishing. Commons of Turfery. Is a Licence to dig Turf upon the Ground of another, or in the Lord's Waife. This Commons is appurtenant to appurtenant to an House, and not to Lands: for Turf is not in the House: And it may be in Gs; but it does not give any Right to the Land, Trees, or Mines. It cannot exclude the Owner of the Soil. 1 Inf. 4. 3 Rep. 57. There is a Commons or Liberty of digging Coals, and Gravel, Sand, &c. as well as Turf. Commons Drift, [Banci Commons, from the Sax. Banc, Bank, and thence metaphorically a Break, high Seat or Tribunal.] The Court of Commons Pleas was anciently called Commons Bench: because Commons Placita inter judicis ex jure maxis, quod Commons comme, in loco determinatum: That is, the Pleas or Courts between common Persons are there tried and determined. Camb. citiz. 113. In Law Books and References the Court of Commons Pleas is writ C. B. from Commons Banc. And the Judicatures of that Court are filed Jusiciarii de Banco. See Common Plans.
Common Day in Place of Lauds, Signifies an ordinary Day in Court, as Odolfi Hillarii, Quaedam Psalmo, &c. It is mentioned in the Stat. 51 H. 3, concerning general Day in Bank.

Common Laws. (Trissi Comminii) A small sum of Money, which the Refiants within the Liberty of some Leets pay to the Lords, called in divers Places Head Silver or Head Pennies, in others Cate Money; and was first granted to the Lord, towards the Charge of his Purchase of the Court Leet, whereby the Refiants have the Ease to do their Suit within their own Manors, and are not compellable to go to the Sheriff's Turn, In the Manor of Sheepfield in the County of Leicestershire, every Refiant pays 1s. per Poll to the Lord at the Court held after Michaelmas, which is there called Common Free. For this Common Free the Lord may disdain; but he cannot do it without a Precept. 11 Rep. 44. There is also Common Fine of the County, a Quod Commons Miseria, and Fine Commissam americanam in Finibus terrarum. 11b. cit. Flota, lib. 7 c. 48. See Stat. 3 Ed. 1 c. 18.

House of Parliament, Is the Lower House of Parliament, so called, because the Commons of the Realm, that is, the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesses, returned to Parliament, representing the whole Body of the Commons, do fit there. Com. Jurid. See Parliament.

Common Intention, is Common Meaning or Understanding, according to the Subject Matter, not restrained to any extraordinary or foreign Sense: Bar to Common Intention is an ordinary or general Bar, which commonly disallows the Plaintiff's Declaration. There are 4 cases in this Law where Common Intention, and Intendment take Place: And of Common Intention a Will shall not be supposed to be made by Calumny. Co. Litt. 78.

Common Law, (Lex Commonia) Is taken for the Law of this Kingdom simply, without any other Laws; as it was generally held before any Statute was enacted in Parliament to alter the same. And the King's Courts of Justice are called the Common Law Courts. The Common Law is grounded upon the general Customs of the Realm; and includes in it the Law of Nature, the Law of God, and the Principles and Maxims of the Law: It is founded upon Reason; and is laid to the Perfection of Reason, acquired by long Study, Observation and Experience, and refined by Learned Men in all Ages. And it is the Common Birthright, that the Subject hath for the Safe-guard and Defence, not only of his Goods, Lands, and Revenues; but of his Wife and Children, Body, Name, and Life also. Co. Litt. 97, 142. Treas of Laws, p. 2. According to Hale, the Common Law of England is 500 Years old. The Common Law of England is within this Kingdom, and affects the King's Royal Prerogatives, and likewise the Rights and Liberties of the Subjects: 'Tis generally that Law, by which the Subjects of the King's Ordinary Courts are guided; and this directs the Course of Diligents of Lands; the Nature, Extent and Qualification of Estates; and therein the Manner and Ceremonies of conducting them from one to another; with the Forms, solemnities and Obligations of Contracts; the Rules and Directions for the Execution of Deeds, and Acts of Parliament: The Proceed, Proceedings, Judgments and Executions of our Courts of Justice; also the Limits and Bounds of Courts, and Jurisdiction; the several Kinds of Temporal Offences and Punishments; and Acts of Parliament, Sir. Tristram Roine's Dig. of the Law, pp. 44, 45, and 24. As to the Rites of the Common Law, this Account is given by some ancient Writers: After the Decay of the Roman Empire, three Sorts of the German People invaded the Britains, viz. the Saxons, the Angles, and the Jutes: from the last sprung the Kentish Men, and the Inhabitants of the Life of Wright: From the Saxons came the People called East Saxons, West Saxons; and from the Angles, the East Angles, Mercians and Northumbrians: These People having different Customs, they inclined to the several Laws whereby their Ancestors were governed; but the Customs of the West Saxons and Mercians, who dwelt in the Midland Counties, being preferred before the Rest, were for that Reason called the 'Fulham' or 'Celtic,' and by these Laws those People were governed for many Ages: But the East Saxons, having afterwards been subdued by the Danes, their Customs were introduced; and a third Law was substituted, which was called Dane Law: as the other was then filled West Saxons Law, &c. At length the Danes being overcome by the Normans, William called the Conqueror, upon Consideration of all these Laws and Customs, abrogated some, and established others; to which he added some of his own Country Laws, which he judged most to conduce to the Perfection of the Peace: And this is what we now call the Common Law. But though we usually date our Common Law from hence, this was not the Original of the Common Law: In the Reign of Edward the Erst Christian King of this Nation, made the first Saxons Law, which were published by the Advice of some wise Men of his Counsell; And King Alfred, about 400 Years afterwards, being the first folio Monarch after the Heptarchy, collected all the Saxons Laws into one Book, and commanded them to be cleaved through the whole Kingdom, which was at that Time only affected certain Parts thereof; and it was therefore properly called the Common Law, because it was common to the whole Nation; and soon after it was called the Fullham Right, i.e. the Law by which the Ancient Common Condition was restored. And when the Danes had introduced their Laws on the Conquest of the Kingdom, they were afterwards destroyed; and Edward the Confessor out of the former Laws composed a Body of the Common Law, whereof he was called by our Historians Angliae Legum Redactor. Bishop. In the Reign of Edward the First, William wrote his learned Book of the Common Law of this Realm, which was done by the King's Command, and runs in his Name, innumerable to the Institutes of the Civil Laws, which afterwards confirm to himself, though composed by others. Stoten, Pre. Reg. 6, 21. This Britton is mentioned by Owen to be Bishop of Hereford, Braden, a great Lawyer, in the Time of Hen. 3, wrote a very learned Tresdict of the Common Law of England, held in great Estimation; and is said to be Lord Chief Justice of the Kingdom. And the famous and learned Glanius, Lord Chief Justice in the Reign of King John, wrote a Book of the Common Law, which is said to be the most ancient Composition extant on that Subject. Besides these, in the Reign of Edward the Fifth, John Littleton wrote his excellent Book of English Towners. In King James the First's Reign, the great Oracle of the Law, Sir Edward Coke, published his learned and laborious Institutes of our Law, and Commentaries on Littleton. About the same Time likewise Dr. Caunel, a Civilian, wrote a short Foillum of our Laws. And in the Reign of King George the First, Dr. Twal, a Civilian and Common Lawyer; and at last Divine, wrote an Institute of the Laws of England, which is something after the Manner of the Institutes of the Civil Law.

Common Pleas, (Commodam Placitum) Is one of the King's Courts now constantly held in Westminster-Hall; but in ancient Time was more vast, as appears by Masters of their Rolls, in the Prerogative Court, his Reading, says, 'That till Hen. 3, granted the Great Charter there were but two Courts, called the King's Courts, viz. the King's Bench and the Exchequer, which were then filled Curtis Domini Regis, and Juste Regiae, because they followed the Court or King; and that upon the Grant of that Charter, the Court of Common Pleas was erected and settled in one certain Place, i.e. Westminster-Hall; and after that, all the Writing of the Law, was conducted in Westminster, whereas before, the Party was required by them to appear, Ceram me ex juro judicis susciatis, without any Addition of Place, as in the obliteratout of the Writings of Glanvill and Bradfin. But Sir Edward Coke is of Opinion in his Preface to the Eighth Report, that the Court of Common Pleas was continued before the Conquest, and was not created by Magna Charta, at which Time there were 'judicati in de Banes, &c. Though before this Act, Common Pleas might have been held in Banco Regis, and all original Writs were returnable there. Writs returnable in this Court, are now called 'judicati in aedibus apud Wagen. But Writs returnable in B. are, Ceram non an unnesse ex unna jure, in which the Jurisdiction of this Court is general, and extends itself throughout England: it holds Plea of all Civil Causes at Common Law, between Subject and Subject, in Actions real, personal, and mixed; and as a Court of Real Law. In personal and mixed Actions it hath a concurrent Jurisdiction with the King's Bench: But it hath no Jurisdiction in Causes between the Crown, and Common Pleas are all Pleas that are not such. This Court cannot regularly hold Plea in any Action, real or personal, &c. but by Writ out of Chancery returnable here; except it be by Bill of Exchange against an Officer, or other privileged Person of the Court. All Actions belonging to this Court, come higher either by Original, as Arrears and Outlawries; or by Privilege or Attachments, for or against privileged Persons; or out of inferior Courts, not of Record, by Pnce, Recordaries, Accises and Curants, Writ of False Judgment, &c. Actions personal, and Arrears penal, of Debt, &c. upon any Statute, are cognizable by this Court: And besides having Jurisdiction for Punishment of its Officers and Ministers; the Court of Common Pleas may grant Prohibitions to keep Temporal and Ecclesiastical Courts within due Bounds. 4 Inf. 90, 100, 118. In this Court are four Judges, created by Letters Patent; of whom the Chief Justice is a Lord by his Office: The Seal of the Court is committed to the Custody of the Chief Justice. The other Officers of the Common Pleas are, the Caussa Breviorum, three Prothonotaries and their Secretaries, the Clerk of the Warrants, Clerk of the Exchequer, fourteen Examiners, four Examiners, a Clerk of the Writs, the Examiners, Clerk of the King's Writs, the Clerk of the Gaol Delivery, Clerk of the Seal, Clerk of the Letters Patent, and Clerk of the Journal of Fees and Recoveries, Clerk of the Errors, &c. The Caussa Breviorum is the Chief Clerk in this Court, who receives all Actions under the General Stale, and all Records of High Priory, which are delivered to him by the Clerks of the Exchequer, &c. and he files the Rolls together, and carries them into the Treasury of Records; He also makes out Exemplifications, and Copies of all Writs and Records, &c. The Prothonotaries signs and inrolls all Declaration, Plaing, Judging, &c. and they make out all Judgments, Writs of Execution, Writs of Privilege, Proceeding, &c. The Secretaries are Affiliates to the Prothonotaries in the Execution of their Offices; and they are the Justices of the Peace, and the Judges of the Great and Small Common Pleas.

The Writs, which have several Countries of England divided among them, are made out and sentenced, as Caussa, Alias, Plaies, &c. between the Original Writ and the Declaration; and they make all Writs of View, &c. The Examiners, appointed for several Counties, make out all Examinations and Proclamations in order to Oulawry. The Clerk of the Warrants, enters all Warrants of Attorney; invoices Deeds of Bargain and Sale; and effectus all liences. The Clerk of the Effins, keeps the Roll of the Effins, wherein he keeps the Lead of the Office. The Clerk of the Writs makes out all Writs of Haberes.

Communes placta non tendita in Scaccario, is an ancient Writ directed to the Treasurer and Baron of the Exchequer, forbidding them to hold Pies between common Persons in that Court, where neither of the Parties belong to the same. Reg. Orig. 187.

Communi Caeh mio, A Writ which anciently lay for the Lord, whose Tenant holding by Knight's Service died, and left his eldest Son under Age, against a Stranger that entered the Land, and obtained the Ward of the Body. F. N. B. 89. Reg. Orig. 161. Since the Statute 12 Car. 2. c. 24. hath taken away Wardships, this Writ is become of no Use.

Community of the Kingdoms, Viz. Commons. Canadis. Co. is all Kind of Food, except Bread and Drink: And the learned Spleman interprets it to be Quicquid ebi cum pane famiis. In the Manor of Faversome in the County of Nottingham, some Tenants when they performed their Boons or Work days to the Lords, had three Boon Leaves with Companagine allowed them. Reg. de Thoroton cited in Antiq. Nottingham.

Companion of the Garter, Is one of the Knight of that most noble Order; as at the Head of which is the King, as Sovereign. 24 Ed. 6. c. 6.

Compeisthiam, An Adversary or Accuser. — Episcopis in Compeisthiam dedicatis decere ut quis alium parrem magis jurandum vel in Ordinari. Leg. Alamric.

Comprortum, A Judicial Inquest in the Civil Law, made by Delegates, or Commissioners to find out and relate the Truth of a Cause. Part. Amig. 59.

Composition, (Commissio) An Agreement or Contract between a Parion, Patron and Ordinary, &c. for Money or other Thing in Lieu of Tithes. Land may be exempted from the Payment of Tithes, where Composition have been made: And Real Compositions for Tithes are to be made by the concurrent Consent of the Parson, Patron and Ordinary. Real Compositions are distinguished from Personal Contracts; for a Composition called a Personal Contract is only an Agreement between the Parson and Parishioners, to pay so much instead of Tithes; and though such Agreement is confirmed by the Ordinary, yet that doth not make it a Real Composition, because he ought to be a Party to the Deed of Composition, March's Rep. 87. The Compositions for Tithes made by the Consent of the Parson, Patron and Ordinary, by Virtue of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. shall not bind the Successor, unless made for twenty-one Years, or three Lives, as in Case of Leases of Ecclesiastical Corporations. &c. Compositions were at first for a valuable Concession, so that though in Proces of Time, upon the Increase of the Value of the Lands such Composition do not amount to the Value of the Tithes, yet Custom prevails, and from hence arises what we call a Machec desmantis. Hl. 29. The Word Composition hath likewise another Meaning, i. e. Decisis Litis.

Comptorium, A Register of Tithes, and an ancient Order for Measures, not printed, mentioned in the Stat. 23 H. 8.

Comptorium, Dung, Soil or Compoil laid on Landes. Regifl. Ecl. Canoone. M.S.

Comprecipit, Imposes a Surcharge or Priming of any other Bookkeller's Copy, to make Gain thereby, which is contrary to the Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 33. and other Statutes.

Comprehens, (Compromiss) is defined to be a mutual Promise of two or more Parties at Difference, to refer the Ending of their Controversy to Arbitration: And if by Law it is the Faculty of Power of prospondent Sentence between Persons at Variance, given to Arbitrators by the Parties private Consent. Wills, Acts, Decretals, or Statutes committed, are also Makers of Law referred, or made an End of.

Comprehensury, One that by Oath judgeth another's Innocence. See Oath.

Componere, (Compositium) Is the true Account and Construction of Time: and to the End neither Party to an Agreement, &c may do wrong to the other, nor the Determination of Time be left at large, it is to be taken according to the just Judgment of the Law. A Deed dated the 20th Day of August, to hold from the Day of the Date, shall be continued to begin on the 21st Day of August: But if in the Instrument it be hold to be made from the Making, or from thenceforth, it shall begin on the Day delivered. 1 Leet. 46. 5 Reg. 1. If an Indenture of Lease dated the 4th Day of July, made for three Years from thenceforth, be delivered at Four of the Clock in the Afternoon of the said 4th Day of July, the Lease shall end the 3rd Day of July in the third Year: And the Law in this Composittion extends all Fractions or Divisions of the Day. But some have held that Rent is not due on the Day limited to be paid till the Middle of the Day, and after Noon; in Case a Tenant for Life dies at such a Critical Juncture, &c. See Day and Month.

Computation of Miles, after the English Manner, is allowing 5280 Feet, or 1760 Yards to each Mile: and the Wire shall be reckoned not by Draisine, but by a Bird or Arrow may be, but according to the nearest and most usual Way. Cr. Edin. 212.

Compta, (Lat.) Is a Writ to compel a Bailiff, Receiver or Accountant, to yield up his Accounts: It is founded on the Statute of Wills, cap. 12. And also lies against Guardians, &c. Reg. Orig. 135.

Concles, (Concellis, so called to a Council, as Alowd is, by an Assembley) Are such as fall out concealed Lands, i. e. such Lands as are privy kept from the King by common Persons, having nothing to do with the, But or else determined. 39 Edin. cap. 22. There were Concelers of Crimes: and Concealing Treason, &c. when Misprison, see Misprison.

Connexus, A Word of frequent Use in Conveyances, creating a Covenant in Law; as Deed makes a Warranty. Co. Litt. 354. This Word is of a general Extent, and is made to amount to a Grant, Feoffment, Lease, Release, &c. according to the Sense given thereto. Connexae, Common Council-Men, Fresmen called to the Hall or Affably, as most worthy.—Used in the Hundred Councils of the Counties. London, Hl. Hillor. Elen. Edin. Galle. c. 46.

Conclusion, (Conclusio) When a Man by his own Act upon Record hath charged himself with a Duty or other Thing, or confided any Matter whereby he shall be concluded: As if a Sheriff returns that he hath taken the Body upon a Captain, and hath not the Body in Court at the Day of the Return of the Writ; by the Return, the Sheriff is concluded from Plea of Escape, &c. Terms by Law 153. In another Sense this Word Conclusio signifies the End of any Lands, Replecition, &c. and a Plea to the Writ is to conclude to the Writ; a Plea in Bar, to conclude to the Affion, &c. Conclusion of Plea in Bar shall be, Et hoc paratus in vestra, &c. Of other Places, Et de hoc ponti fater Patrum. King's. 219. 220.

Concord, (Concordia) Is an Agreement made between two or more, upon a Treafias committed; and is founded into a General Executive, and Concord executed: And according to Placent; true bonds not is being imperfect, but the other is obsolete, and ties the Party. Though by some Opinion, Agreements executed by Deed, and bind no less than other Executions executed. Placid. 5. 6. 8. Theod. Concord and Agreements are by Way of Satisfaction for the Treafias, &c. Concord is also an Agreement between Parries, who intend the Leyzing of a Fine of Lands one to the other, how and in what Manner the Lands shall pass, is the Foundation and Substance of the Fine, taken and acknowledged by the Party before one of the Judges of C. Constrictio, or Constrictio mensae in common Accep-tation is the Keeping of a Whore or Concubine; But in a legal Sense, it is used as an Exception against her that feith for Dower, alleging thereby that the was not a Wife lawfully married to the Party, in whose Lands the Whore was to be found. 1 Jac. 1 Casuriae.
Brit. c. 107. Brad. lib. 4. tract. 6. cap. 8. 'There was a Constriction allowed in Scripture to the Patri-Concerts, (from the Fr. Concert, to condone) As such as stand upon high Places near the Sea Coast, at the Time of Herring Fishing, to make Signs with White, red, or yellow Flags, at the Top of the Ships of Herrings pasteth; for this may be better dis-severed by such as stand upon some high Cliff on the Shore, and are of some kind of Blue Colour, for which the Herrings cast in the Water, than by those that are in the Ships or Boats for Fishing. There are otherwise called Harze and Ballers, Directors and Guiders, as appears by the Stat. 7 Jac. 1. c. 13.

Constitution, (Constitution) Is a Refrain or Bridle annexed to a Thing, so that by the Non-performance, the Party to it shall receive Prejudice and Loss; and by the Performance, Commodity and Advantage: Or it is a Refriction of Men's Acts, qualifying or suspending the fame, and making them uncertain whether they shall take Effect or not; also 'tis defined to be what is referred to an uncertain Chance, which may happen or not happen. Woff's Symb. part 1.
lib. 2. sect. 156. And of Conditions there are divers Kinds, viz. Conditions in Deed, and in Law: Conditions Precedent, and Subsequent: Conditions Intercursus, and Collateral, &c. A Condition in Deed is that which is joined by express Words to a Promiss or Lessee, or other Annexation that if the Man makes or Cesses of Lands to another, referring a Rent to be paid at such a Feast, upon Condition if the Lessee fail in Payment, at the Death of the Party or Party to the Deed or Lease.
Condition in Law is when a Person grants another an Officer, as that of Keeper of a Park, Steward, Bal-lyff, &c. for Term of Life; here though there be no Condition expected in the Grant, yet the Law makes one, which is if the Grantee do not justly execute all Things belonging to the Office, it shall be lawful for the Grantee to enter and discharge him of his Office.

Lit. lib. 2. c. 6. These Conditions are also called Condition Royall, and Condition implied. Condition Precedent is when a Lease or Easement is granted to one for Life and a Life, the lessee or the Easement for a certain Sum at such a Day, then he shall have Fee-simple: In this Case the Condition precedes the Easement in Fee, and on Performance thereof gains the Fee simple.
Condition subsequent is when a Man grants to another his Manor of Dale, &c. in Fee, upon Conditions that the Grantee shall pay to him at such a Day such a Sum, or that his Easement shall cease; here the Condition is subsequent, and following the Easement, and upon the Performance thereof continues and prefers the same: So that a Condition precedent doth get and then the Thing is always subject to the Conditions by the Performance of it; as a Condition Subsequent keeps and continues the Easement, by the Performance of the Condition. 1 Inf. 201. 327. Terms of Deed 156. If one man agree with another to do him a Thing, and for the Doing thereof the other shall pay so much Money here the Doing the Act is a Condition precedent to the Payment of the Money, and the Party shall be compelled to pay 'till the Act is done: But where a Day is appointed for the Payment of Money, which Day happens before the Thing contracted for can be performed, there the Money may be recovered before the Thing is done; for here it appears that the Party did not intend to make the Performance of the Thing a Condition precedent. 3 Ed. 3. 97. Inter-} Condit. Conditions are such as defined to the Heir, with the Land granted, &c. and Collateral Condition is that which is annexed to any collateral Act. Conditions are likewise Afferent, which condition doth Nay evil, and confit of not doing: Some are further said to be Reffrator, for not doing a Thing; and some Compullory, as that the Lessee shall pay the Rent, &c. Allo some are Conditional, to do the Thing only; some Causator, to do divers Things; and others Dijunctor, where one Thing of severall is required to be done. Co. Litt. 241. Conditions may be to any Eatee, whether in Fee simple, Fee tail, for Life or Years: They run with the Eatee, and bind in whole whole Hands they come. Lit. R. 18. But Conditions to a Party may not be made but on the Part of the Lessee, Donor, &c. For no Man may annex a Condition to an Eatee, but he doth that create the Eatee itself. Conditions are good of all Inlarges or Limit Eatees.
And there are four Incidents, of which Conditions are to create and increase an Eatee ought to have. 1. They should have a particular Eatee, as a Foundation whereupon the Increase of the greater Eatee shall be built.
2. Such particular Eatee shall continue in the Leissee or Grantee, until the Increase happens. 3. It must vest at the Time the Contingency happens, or it shall never vest. 4. The particular Eatee and the Increase must take Effect by the same Deed, or by several Deeds delivered at the same Time. 8 Rep. 75. Conditions to create Eatees shall be favourably construed: But Conditions which tend to destroy, or restrain an Eatee, are to be taken strictly. A Promiss upon Condition, that the Feodarie shall not alien, is void: But a Condition in a Promiss not to alien for a particular Time, or to a particular Person, may be good.
Hob. 13. 261. And if a Condition is, that Tenant in Tail shall not alien inFee, or Tenant for Life or Years not alien during the Term of Years, the Condition is good: Where the Release of an Eatee is in the Donor, he may refrain an Alienation by Condition.
1 Rep. 39. 1 Inf. 271. If a Ten. or Line. 2 Inf. 10.
Tail, on Condition that the Donee or his Heirs shall not alien; this is good to some Intent, and void to others: For if he make a Promiss in Fee, or any other Eatee by which the Release is discontinued formally, the Donor may enter; but 'tis otherwise if he suffer a common Recovery. 1 Inf. 223. A Liberty inseparable from an Eatee, cannot be restrained; and therefore a Condition that a Tenant in Tail shall not levy a Fine, within the Stat. 4 H. 7. or suffer a Recovery; or not make a Lease, within the Stat. 52 H. 8. is void and null, and if the Condition restrain levying a Fine at Common Law, it may be good. 2 Danr. 4. 22. A Gift in Tail, or in Fee, upon Condition that a Pemne shall not be enowed; or Baron be Tenant by the Curtesy, is inoponant and void. 'So is a Condition in a Lease, or that the Lessee shall not take the Pemne; And where a Man grants a Rent-charg out of Land, provided it shall not charge the Lands, Co. Litt. 146. Conditions repeupant to the Eatee, improbable, &c. are void:
And if they go before the Eatee, the Eatee and Condition are void: if to follow the Eatee, the Eatee is absolved, and the Condition void. 1 Inf. 206. 9 Rep. 128. But if if at the Time of entering into a Condition, a Thing be possible to be done, and become afterwards impossible by the Act of God, the Earlise of a Feeofee (created by Livery) shall not be avoided. 3 Med. 201. A Feeofee in Fee is made upon Condition, that the Feeofee shall within a Year go to Rest, &c. If the Feeofee shall within the Year dead, yet the Earlise of the Feeofee is become absolute; for the Earlise once vested by the Livery, shall not be devested without Default in the Feeofee. Ibid. Where a Condition is of two Parts, one possible, and the other not so, it is a good Condition for performing that Part which is possible. Crec. &c. 780. Though if a Condition is of two Parts discretionary, and one Part becomes impossible by the Act of God, the Performance is not obliged to perform the other. 5 Rep. If a Condition be in the Copulative, and is not possible to be performed, 'tis said it may be taken in the Distinutive. 1 Daws. Abrid. 73. Where an Earlise is to be wholly created upon a Condition impossible to be performed, then the Earlise shall never come in eff. 1 Lew. cap. 311. A Woman makes a Feeofee, in a Man that is married, upon Condition that he shall marry her; this Condition is not impossible, for the Man's Wife may die, and then he may marry her. 2 Daws. 45. A Reversion may arise upon Tull upon Condition, that if the Grantee pays so much, he shall have Fee. 8 Rep. 73. But if a Man grants Land, &c. for Years, upon Condition, if the Leesee pay so much, within one Year, that he shall have it for Life; and that he if the Leesee pays not, he shall have Fee: Though both Sams are paid, he shall have but an Earlise for Life; the Earlise for Life, at the Time of the Grant, being only in Contingency, and a Possibility cannot increase upon a Possibility, nor can the Fee increase upon the Earlise for Years. 8 Rep. 75, 76. If a Leesee be made to two, with Condition one to have Fee, and one to die, the Survivor may perform the Condition, and have the Fee; but if they make Partition, the Condition is destroyed. 8 Rep. 75, 76. If a Feeofee grant, the Reversion of Part of the Land, on a Lease for Years, on which a Rent upon Condition is reserved, all the Condition is confounded and gone; though if the Leesee assign Part of the Land, the Condition remains, for he cannot discharge the Earlise of the Condition. 2 Daws. Abrid. 119. A Man makes a Feeofee upon Condition, and after leaving a Fine to a Stranger, the Condition is gone. Ibid. 120. If a Feeofee upon Condition to infuse another, infuse a Stranger; or if it be to reinfuse the Feeofee, and he grant the Land to another Person, upon Condition to perform the Condition, the Condition is broke, because the Feeofee hath disabled himself to do it: So where such Feeofee upon Condition to reinfuse, &c. takes a Wife, that the Land is subject to the Dower of the Wife; and so if the Land is recovered, and Execution issued out by another, the Condition is broke. C. Litt. 221. 1 Daws. 79. If one disjus the Feeofee, or any Person who hath Land by just Title, and thereof infuse a Stranger on Condition, and the Land is lawfully recovered from him that hath the Title; by this the Condition is destroyed: And if a Differor make a Feeofee in Fee upon Condition; and after the Differor doth enter upon the Feeofee, this doth extinguish the Condition. Perk. Scit. 821. If that Feeofee be a Feeofee of all or Part of the Land to the Feoffor, before the Condition is broke; the Condition is gone for ever: And if he make a Lease for Life of Years only, then the Condition will be fulfilled for that Time. C. Litt. 218. But 'tis otherwise where the Feeofee, or Leases for Life or Years, are made to any other but the Feeofee. Ibid. Where the Condition of a Feeofee is that, if the Feeofee die a certain Sum of Money; so that the Feeofee die without a Day, and before that Day the Feeofee die without a Day, or if the Feeofee be made by a Woman on Condition to pay her 10l. or that the Feeofee infuse her by a certain Day, and they intermarry before the Day, and the Marriage doth continue till after it; in these Cases the Condition is gone. Perk. Scit. 769. A Condition may be well performed, when it is done as near to the Intent as may be: For if the Condition of a Feeofee be that the Feeofee shall die within a Year, the Earlise of the Feeofee back to the Feeofee and his Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Feeofee in this Case, if the Feeofee die before, the Earlise shall belong to the Wife without Incumbrance of Wills, the Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband begotten on the Wife. C. Litt. 219. 8 Rep. 69. If a Condition be performed in Substance and Effect, it is good although it differs in Words; as where it is to deliver Letters Patent, and the Party bound having left them, delivers an Exemplification. C. 2 Daws. 40. Though Payment of the Money before the Day, is Payment at the Day, in Performance of a Condition; yet a Feeofee, &c. cannot re-enter, and reveal his old Earlise by the Force of the Earlise, although the Conditions gives him Power to re-enter. Ibid. 121. If a Man feiled of Land in Right of his Wife, make a Feeofee in Fee on Condition, and dies; if the Heir is a Male, he is entitled to the Earlise, if the Heir is a Female, the Earlise vests in the Female. Vid. 1 Lew. 205. But if a Person foreverhold the Estate, and another Person, of the same Right hold also another Part of the Same, then, makes a Feeofee on Condition and dies; though the Heir on the Part of the Father, who is Heir at Common Law, may enter for the Condition broken, the Heir of the Part of the Mother shall enter upon him, and enjoy the Land. Ibid. 12. Where there is a Condition in a Feeofee or Lease, that if no Disinfees can be found, the Feeofee, &c. shall re-enter; if the Place where the Earlise is not open Fee, and one dier, the Survivor may perform the Condition, and have the Fee; but if they make Partition, the Condition is destroyed. 8 Rep. 75, 76. If a Feeofee grant, the Reversion of Part of the Land, on a Lease for Years, on which a Rent upon Condition is reserved, all the Condition is confounded and gone; though if the Leesee assign Part of the Land, the Condition remains, for he cannot discharge the Earlise of the Condition. 2 Daws. Abrid. 119. A Man makes a Feeofee upon Condition, and after leaving a Fine to a Stranger, the Condition is gone. Ibid. 120. If a Feeofee upon Condition to infuse another, infuse a Stranger; or if it be to reinfuse the Feeofee, and he grant the Land to another Person, upon Condition to perform the Condition, the Condition is broke, because the Feeofee hath disabled himself to do it: So where such Feeofee upon Condition to reinfuse, &c. takes a Wife, that the Land is subject to the Dower of the Wife; and so if the Land is recovered, and Execution issued out by another, the Condition is broke. C. Litt. 221. 1 Daws. 79. If one disjus the Feeofee, or any Person who hath Land by just Title, and thereof infuse a Stranger on Condition, and the Land is lawfully recovered from him that hath the Title; by this the Condition is destroyed: And if a Differor make a Feeofee in Fee upon Condition; and after the Differor doth enter upon the Feeofee, this doth extinguish the Condition. If a Person on a Condition perform'd he shall avoid all Incumbrances upon the Land after the Condition made: And a Condition when broken, or performed, Gr. will give that which it is: and where if there be a Lease for Life, Remainder in Feud, on Condition that the Lessee for Life shall pay 20l. to the Lessee: if he pay not this Money, the Estate in Remainder will be avoided also. Dyer 147. 8 Rep. 90. But this may be otherwise by special Limitation to a Use & if Tenant for Life, and be in Remainder join in a Feoffment on Condition, that if, & then the Tenant for Life shall re-enter, this may be good without defeating the whole Estate: though regularly a Condition may not avoid Part of an Estate, and leave another Part entire, nor can the Estate be void as to some Persons, and good as to others. 8 Rep. 190. 1 Inf. 214. Leesee for Life makes a Feoffment on Condition, and enters for the Condition broken: by this he shall be restored to his Estate for Life, and have the Estate for the Life of the Tenant to the Lessee: and the Rent due to the Lessee shall be revived: But in this Case the Lessee will not be in the same Course as he was when he had his Estate subject to a Feoffment but he will be Tenant for Life still. 9 Rep. 474. 8 Rep. 405. Tenants by the Curtesy, Tenant in Tail after Possibility of the Issue extinct, Tenant in Dower, for Life, or Years, &c. hold their Estates subject to a Condition in Law, not to grant a greater Estate than they have, nor to commit Waste, Gr. 1 Inf. 243. And Estates made by Deed to Infants, and Females, upon Condition, will bind them, because the Charge is on the Land. Dav. 2. 30. A Resale of all a Man's Right, may be upon Condition: A Lessee may surrender upon Condition: A Contract may be upon Condition, &c. But a Person cannot resign upon Condition, any more than be admitted upon Condition: And a Condition cannot be released on Condition. 9 Rep. 85. A Condition that would take away the whole Effect of a Grant, is void: and it is if it be contrary to the express Words of it. Conditions against Law are void: but what may be prohibited by Law, may be prohibited by Deed. 1 Inf. 223. 306. He that takes an Estate in Remainder, is bound by Conditions in a Deed, though he do not feel it. No Person shall defeat any Estate of Freehold upon Condition without thowing the Deed wherein the Condition is contained: But of Chattels Real or Personal, or a Man may plead that such Grants or Leases were made upon Condition but not upon these Conditions; and in the Case of a Condition to avoid a Freehold, though it may not be pleaded without the Deed, it may be given in Evidence of the Freehold, in the same case to find the Matter at large. Lit. 374. 8 Rep. 40. A Condition may be apportioned by Act of the Law, or the Leesee. 3 Rep. 120. But a Man cannot by his own Act divide, or apportion a Condition, which goes to the Deprival of an Estate. 1 Nelf. 84. A Condition in a Will is a Thing odious in Law, which shall not be created without sufficient Words. 2 Law. 49. A Devise to the Heir at Law, provided he pay to A. B. 20l. is void, Condition, because there is no Perfon to take Advantage of the Nonperformance. 1 Law. 757. Yet Restraint of Goods, are allowed by our Law, and not being performed, the Heir or Executors, shall take Advantage of them. 1 Nelf. 467. The Word SI will not always make a Condition but in this it makes a Limitation, as where a Lease is made for Years, if A. B. lives long. And this is contrary to a Condition, for a Stranger may take Advantage of an Estate determined between other Persons, Gr. Lit. 116. Dyer 305. Sub Conditions is the proper Word to make a Condition: Proofs is as good a Word, when not dependant upon another in some Cases, yet in some Words Prov. may make no Condition, but only be a Qualification, or Explanation of a Covenant. 2 Dav. 1, 2.

And neither the Word Proviso, nor any other, makes a Condition, unless it is retrench'd. Plow. 54. 1 Nelf. 466. A Grant to one, to the Intent he shall do so and so, is no Condition, but a Trull and Confidence. Dyer 148. Some Words in a Lease do not make a Condition but a Covenant, upon which the Lessee shall bring his Action. A Lease being the Deed of Lessee and Lessee, every Word is spoken by both: and a Condition may be therein, though it founds in Covenant. 1 Nelf. 464. A Covenant not to grant, sell, &c. may be a Condition; and Covenant that paying the Rent, the Lessee shall enjoy the Land, is conditional. 2 Dav. 2, 36. Where Words are indefinite, and proper to defect an Estate, they shall be taken to have the Force of a Condition. Palm. 203. Conditions regularly follow the Habituated in a Deed; but are good in Law, in any other Place. 2 Rep. 70.

For utter and absolute part directs Demum fine & habere Cone and Key. Brtt. lib. 2. cap. 37. And there is something to the same Purpose in Dauw. lib. 7. c. 9.

Confession. (Confessio.) Is when two or more combine together to do any Damage or Injury to another, or to do any unlawful Act. And false Confession between divers Persons shall be punishment of the same, though nothing be put in Execution: But this Confession punishable by Law before it is executed, ought to have these Incidents: First, it must be declared by some Master of Proctorate, as by making of Bonds, or Promises the one to the other: Secondly, it should be malicious, as for unjust Revenge: thirdly, it ought to be false against an Innocent and Valiant, it is to be out of Court voluntarily. Terms de leg. 156. Where a Writ of Conspiracy doth not lie, the Confession is punishable: And Inquiry shall be made of Confessors: and Confessors, which bind themselves together, &c.

Confession. (Confessio.) Is where a Prisoner is indicted of Treason or felony, and brought to the Bar to be arraigned; and his Indictment being read to him, the Court demands what he can say thereto; then either he confesses the offence, and the Indictment to be true, or pledges Not guilty, &c. But if he drinks the one or the other: two Kinds, and to two several Ends: The one is, that the Criminal may confess the Offence wherein he is indicted openly in the Court, before the Judge, and submit himself to the Confess and Judgment of the Law; which Confession is the most certain Answer, and best Satisfaction that may be given to the Judge to condemn the Offender; so that it proceeds freely of his own Accord, without any Threats or Extremity used: for if the Confession arise from any of these Causes, it ought not to be recorded: As a Woman indicted for the infamous taking of a Thing from another, being thereof arraigned, confessed the Felony, and said that she did it by Commandment of her Husband; the Judges in Pity would not record her Confession, but caused her to plead Not guilty. And the Felony being upon the Jury found that the did the Fact by Compulsion of her Husband, against her Will, for which Cause she was discharged. 23 Ass. pl. 50. The other Kind of Confession is, when the Prisoner confesses the Indictment to be true, and that he hath committed the Offence wherein he is indicted, and then becomes an Approver or Accessor of others, who have expressly confessed the same Offence wherein he is indicted, or other Offences with him: and then prays the Judge to have a Coroner signified him, to whom he may make Relation of those Offences, and the full Circumstances thereof; and in like manner a third Section of Confession, form-ably made by an Officer in Felony, not in Court before the Judge, as the other two are, but before a Coroner, or Church, or other privileged Place; and of which the Officer by the ancient Law of the Land was to abide the Realm. 3 Inf. 129. Confession is likewise a Plea in Civil Cases, where the Defendant confesses the Plaintiff's Action to be good; By which Confession there may be Mitigation of a Fine against the Penalty of a Statute; though not after Verdict. Finc. 357. 1 Rep. 18. And there is a Confession indirectly implied, as well as directly expressed in Criminal Cases; as if the Defendant in a Case not Capital, doth not directly own himself guilty of the Crime, but by submitting to a Fine, owns his guilt; whereas the Judge may accept of his Submission to the King's Mercy. Lamb. ib. 4. c. 9. By this indirect Confession, the Defendant shall be barred of his Plea Not Guilty to an Action of Ec. for that last Fault: The Entry of it is, that the Defendant novit in gratiam Regis, &c. And of the direct Confession, novi caproptum Indictamentum, &c. In that last Case, the Defendant makes a Fee-strong a Preemption of Guilt, that being entered on Record, in Indictment of Trespass, it follows the Defendant to plead Not Guilty to an Action brought afbreadd him, or to the Lord of the Manor, who is the former Tenant; But if such Entry of a Confession of an Indictment of a capital Crime, 'tis laid will not enjoin a Defendant to plead Not Guilty, it being in Case of Life. And when a Peron upon his Arraignment actually confesses himself guilty, or unavoidably disclaims the special Manner of the Fact, supposing that it doth not amount to Felony, where it doth; the Judges upon probable Circumstances, that such Confession, may proceed from Fear, Weakness, or Ignorance, may refuse such a Confession, and suffer the Party to plead. 2 Hawk. 543. A Confession may be revoked, and the Plea of No-Guilty be with-drawn, though recorded. 1 Rep. 11. The Confession of the Defendant, whether taken upon an Examination before Justices of Peace, in Pursuance of the 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 1. 2 & 3 P. & M. c. 10. upon a Ballment, or Commitment for Felony; or taken by the Common Law, upon an Examination before a Serjeant, or other Justice, for any Felony, or other crimes, is allowed to be given in Evidence against the Party confessing; but not against others. 1 & 2 Wm. & Mary, 9 Stat. 135. 3 & 4 Ed. 6 c. 11, which required two Witnesses of a Confession of High Treason, upon an Examination before a Justice of Peace, were sufficient to convict the Person so confessing, within the Meaning of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. and 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 11, which required two Witnesses of a Confession in High Treason; unleth the Officer should willingly confess, &c. But the 7 W. 3. cap 3 requires two Witnesses, except the Party shall willingly without Violence confess, &c. in open Court. 2 Hawk. P. C. 429. It has been held that where-ever a Man's Confession is made use of against him, it must all be taken together, and not by Parts. 2 G. & F. And no Confession shall be used before final Judgment, deprive the Defendant of the Privilege of taking Exceptions in Arre of Judgment, to Paulus apparent in the Record. 333. A Dammer's amounts to a Confession, if the Indictment be as far, that if the Indictment be good, Judgment and Execution shall go against the Prisoner. 5 Bro. 86. P. C. 150. 8 H. 4. 319. And in Criminal Cases, the same will suffice for the Defendant demur to an Indictment, &c. whether in Abatement, or otherwise, the Court will not give Judgment against him to sit over, but final Judgment. 2 Hawk. 334. Where a Prisoner confesses the Fact, the Court has nothing more to do than to proceed to Judgment against him. And Confessio in judicio pro judicato habetur. 1 Rep. 50. 4 Inf. 66. (Confession of a Confession, Confession) Hath Relation to private Consideration of Sin, in Order to Ablolution: And the Priest, who received the curricular Confession from the Tribe of Confession, though for the sake hereof, for he is rather the Confessor, being the Person to whom the Confession is made. This Receiving the Confession of a Penitent, was in old English to Shorten for Shrew, or Shrive, which word confessor is looking like a confessor or flourished Person, on whom was imposed some uneasy Penance. The most solemn Time of Confessing was the Day before Lent, which from thence is still called Shrove-Tuesday. Cowel.

Confirmation, (Confirma, from the Verb Confer, not of forme factus) Is a Conveyance of an Estate, or Right in Eft, from one Man to another whereby a valuable Eftate is made farte and unavoidable or a particular Eftate is increased, or a Possession made perfect. And its a Strengthening of an Eftate formerly made, which is voidable, though not extent-ively void: As for Example: A Bishop graneth his Chancellorship by Patent, for Term of the Prince's Life; this is not a Common, but valuable in the Bishop's Dioces, except it be strengthened by the Confirmation of the Dean and Chapter. Confirmation, and fict pericinences, crecrentia, and diminuens: Perfeius, as if Ffe odor had been a mere Opinion, and Ffe, or the Fforod confirm the Eftate of the second Ffodor: Crefixis, that doth always enlarge the Eftate of a Tenant, as Tenant for Years, to hold for Life, Ec. Diminuences, concerning the Eftate of a Tenant for Years, or Life, to be diminished, which if the Tenant firmis the Eftate of his Tenant, to hold by a life Rent.
9 Rep. 142. The Lord may diminish the Services of his Tenant for Years, to hold for Life; as in Time of services, so long as the former Eftate in the Tenant continues: And therefore he can to the Tenant, to yield him a Hawk, Ec. yearly, it is void. 4 Rep.

formed for Part of the Term, or Part of the Land, Ec. But it is otherwise of an Eftate of Freehold, which being inire, cannot be confirmed for Part of the Estate. 5 Rep. 81. There may be Confirmation saufly by Law, as well as express by Deed; where the Law by Confirmation makes a Confirmation of a Grant and Conveyance of a Grant to make an Eftate, from Eftate held at Will to Term of Years, or a greater Eftate; from an Eftate for n Years to an Eftate for Life; from an Eftate for Life, to Estate in Fee-Simple; or in Fee; or in Fee so Long as the Tenant shall remain, for an Eftate in Fee-Simple. 1 Inf. 305. 9 Rep. 142. Dyr

Land, this doth not increase the Eftate, though if the Leifor confirm the Land, to have and to hold the Land to the Leifor and his Heirs, this will enlarge the Eftate, and fo of the Ec. 4 Life. 310. Confirma in every good Confirmation, there must be a precedent rightful or wrongful Eftate in him to whom made, or he must have the Possession of the Thing as a Foundation for the Confirmation to work upon; the Confirmation must have such an Eftate and Property in the Land, that he may be thereby enabled to confirm the Eftate of the Confirmer; the present Eftate must continue Man, and after Leaves the Land to another Person for Years; and he in Reverence confirms the last Lease, and after that the first Lease, this is not good: The seced Lease hath an Interest before the Confirmation of it in the Possession. But in a Lake City, confirmation of the first Lease, after the Second was confirmed, Conformation, but only to make it durable and effectual.

Eate is divided it is otherwise; as if there be an E-ate for Life, the Remainder over, there the Conformation may be of either of the Estates: And if the Leefe

Conque d'Elile, (Fr. L'oeu to leave to choose) Is the King's Licence or Permission sent to a Dean and Chapter to proceed to the Election of a Bishop, when any Bishoprick becomes vacant. According to Graft, in his Preface to his Reading, the King, of England, as Sovereign, has a large interest in all Bishoprics, and other Ecclesiastical Benefices, had of ancient Time free Appointment of all Church Dignities, when ever they became void, transmitting them first for Bounties of Annul, and afterwards by his Letter Patent; and in Process of Time he made the Election over to others, under certain Forms and Conditions; so that they should resign or give up any new Bishopric, be of the King Conque d'Elile: that is Leave to proceed to Election, and then after the Election, to crave his Royal Affent, &c. And after that, King John, the Conque d'Elile was the first that granted this; which was afterwards confirm'd by Stat. I. 3d. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 1. And by Actis Cleri, 23 Ed. 3. c. 1. So if an Appeal of Robbery be brought, and the Plaintiff leaves out some of his Goods, he shall not be entitled to enlarge his Appeal; and forasmuch as there is none to have the Goods left out, the King shall have them as Confectant, according to the Rule, "Qui non Capit Cogia, capita Ejus." Simaud, P. C. lib. 3. cap. 44. Goods Confectant are generally such as are arrested and seized for the King's Use: But Confectant are fancy, are said to be Synonymia; and Bona Confectaria are Bona Fideita.

Confectant, (Confectantia) A Fraternity, Brotherhood, or Society; as the Confectant of St. George, or les Chevaliers de la bleue Cartier, the honourable Society of the Knights of the Garter. Confectans, (Confectantes) Brethren in a Religious House; Fellowes of one and the same Society. Stat. 32 Hen. 6. c. 24.

Confectant, (From the Fr. Conq.) i.e. Leave or Permission, as in our Law as much as lawful, or Lawfully done, or done with Permission: As Every Confectant, Sec. Lit. St. 520.

Conque d'Accorde, (Fr. L'oeu to accord or agree, mentioned in the Statute of Frauds, 18 Ed. 1. in thefe Words.—When the original Witre is deliver'd in the Presence of the Parties before Judges, a Pleader shall lay this, 'Sir John Conque d'Accorde: and the Justice shall say to him, what faith Sir A. and name one of the Parties, &c.

Conque d'Elile, (Fr. L'oeu to leave to choose) Is the King's Licence or Permission sent to a Dean and Chapter to proceed to the Election of a Bishop, when any Bishoprick becomes vacant. According to Graft, in his Preface to his Reading, the King, of England, as Sovereign, has a large interest in all Bishoprics, and other Ecclesiastical Benefices, had of ancient Time free Appointment of all Church Dignities, when ever they became void, transmitting them first for Bounties of Annul, and afterwards by his Letter Patent; and in Process of Time he made the Election over to others, under certain Forms and Conditions; so that they should resign or give up any new Bishopric, be of the King Conque d'Elile: that is Leave to proceed to Election, and then after the Election, to crave his Royal Affent, &c. And after that, King John, the Conque d'Elile was the first that granted this; which was afterwards confirm'd by Stat. I. 3d. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 1. And by Actis Cleri, 23 Ed. 3. c. 1. All the Precepts in Englishe, the Plea of Body, the Plea of the Bishop, and the Persons inveted by the King's Delivery of a Staff and King, till Archbishop Austin denied this Royal Prerogative; and prevaled with Pope Pecul to abrogate this Custom by a solemn Canon: After which, the first Bishop who came in by a regular Election, was Roger Bishop of Salisbury, anno 5 Hen. 8. 1. By Statute, no Bishop to be elected to the See of Arm for the Dignity of a Bishop, &c. but Election to be of the King Conque d'Elile, or Licence, to elect the Person named by the King; which the Dean and Chapter must do in twenty Days, or they will incur a Pena deere: And if they fail to make Election, the King is to nominate, &c. by his Letters Patent. 25 Ed. 8. c. 3. By Statute, 5 Ed. 6. Heed the Witre of Conque d'Elile, and imposed the King to collate to an Arch-Bishop, or Bishop, absolutely by Letters Patent. But this Statute was replaced by 1 M. cap. 2. though the Election by Conque d'Elile, as now made, seems to be little more than Form.

Confessio of the Peace, (Confessio et Confessio Pacti) is he that hath an especial Charge to see the King's Peace is kept: And of their Confederation, Lombard faith. Before that the Reign of Ed. 3. who first created Tottenham was of Peace, there were divers Persons that by the Common Law had Interest in keeping the Peace; some whereof had that Charge by Tenure, as holding Lands of the King by this Service, &c. And others as incident to their Offices which they bore, &c. and included in the same, that they were nevertheless called by the Name of their Office only: Also some had it simply, as of itself, and were therefore named Confessors of Peace, Watchers or Confessors of the Peace. The Chamberlain of Chester is a Confessor of the Peace in that County, by Virtue of his Office. 4 Inst. 212. Sheriffs of Counties at Common Law are Confessors of the Peace; and Confessors, by the Common Law were Confessors, but some say they were only subordinate to the Confessors of the Peace, as they are now to the Tottenham.

Confession, (Confession) is the material Cause or Pardon of any, of any Contract, without which it will not be effectual or binding. This Confession is either express or implied, as when a Man brings to the Court for a thing bought or sold, or to fill his Land for 100 l. or grants it in Exchange for other Lands; or where I Promise that if one will marry my Daughter, or build me a House, &c. I will give him a certain Sum of Money, or one of the above, having done a Thing. Or it is implied, when the Law itself enforces a Confession; as where a Person comes to an Inn, and there drinking and eating, and takes Lodging for himself and Horse, the Law presumes he intends to pay for both, though there be no express Contract for it; and therefore if he discharge not the Horse, the Host may say his Horse: And so is it, when the Taylor makes a Garment for another, and there is no express Agreement what he shall have for it; he may keep the Cloths till he is paid for, or sue the Person for the same. 5 Rep. 19. A Confession ought to be Master of Profit and Benefit to him to whom it is done; by Reason of the Charge or Trouble of him who doth it. Cro. Car. 9. Confessour, A Magistrate so called: Tefibus Rogerii de Gant, Willilimo Confessore Civiria, &c. Blount.

Confessour, (Confiessorum) Signifies as much as Procurator, or Tribunal: It is commonly used for a Council-House of Ecclesiastical Persons, or Place of Justice in the Spiritual Court; a Session or Assembly of Prelates. Amthor Archbishop, and Bishop of every Diocese, hath a Confiessour Court, held before his Chancellor, or Commissary in his Cathedral Church, or other convenient Place of his Diocese, for Ecclesisastical Causes, &c. Inf. 358. The Bishop's Chancellor or Judge is the Judge of this Court, supposed to be served in the Civil and Canon Law: And in Places of the Diocese, far remote from the Bishop's Confiessour, the Bishop appears as a Commissary (Commissarii Parvensis) to judge in all Cases within a certain Distrikt, and a Register to enter his Decrees, &c. 2 Roll. ing of two Benefits into one. Stat. 37 H. 8. c. 21. Which Union is to be by the Agent of the Ordinary, Parish and Incumbent, &c. and to be of small Churches lying near together. Vida Church. This Word is taken from the Great Law, where it signifies properly an uniting of the Position, Occupancy or Profit of Lands, &c. with the Property. See Extinctment.

Confessour, (Confiessorum) Is used for an Agreement of two or more Persons falsely to indite one, or to procure him to be indited of Felony; who after Acquittal, shall have Write of Confiessour: And Write of Con-

Conspirators, (Conspirators) By 33 E. 1. are defined to be those that do bind themselves by Oath, Covenant, or other Alliance, that every of them shall aid and the other falsly or maliciously to indict Persons; or falsely to move or maintain Pleaf, &c. And such as Retain Men in the Country, with Liabilities, or Fees, to maintain their malicious Enterprizes, which extend as well to the Takers of the Givers; and towards Bailiffs of great Lords, who by their Office or Power, undertake to bear and maintain Querels, Petitions, Demands, and Matters of War as well as such as relate to the Edate of their Lords or themselves. 2 Lev. 584, 562. And against Conspirators, fall Informers and Inciters of Inquell, the King hath provided a Writ in the Clash, and the Jurors of the Bench and Justices of Assize, shall find on every Presentment. Stat. 28 E. 1. c. 10. From the Description of Conspirators, in several of our old Law Books, it is evident, they were charged with Maintenance and Arms, and armed with a Power or Authority, which was not given to any Person, except the King's Constat館 in Cal, to complete the Grandeur of that Ceremony, and for the ancient Trials by Combat, &c. In the Reign of Henry the Fourth, the Lord North was made Lord Conspirator for Life. And this Office being formerly of Inheritance, by Custom of several Masters, the Line of the Youngs, Earl of Stratford and Effray, enjoyed it in Right of the Masters of Harlefield, Newmans, and Wenshaw, &c. and afterwards it came to the Stafford, and Dukes of Buckingham, so Hilton general of them; and Edward Duke of Buckingham, being asannized of High Treason under 13 H. 8. this Office became forfeited to the Crown, and since that Time it was never granted but few have once, as he exercised as a Conscript., &c. The Power and Jurisdiction of the Lord High Conspirator, was the same with the Earl Marshal, and he sat as Judge having Proceedency of the Earl Marshal; but the Conspirator of England is by some of our Books called Marshal; who takes Cognizance of all Matters of Walled Arms, and had originally several Courts under him; but this was now only the Marshalship and his Office is in Force both in Time of Peace and War, so that though the Lord Conspirator had the Proceedency, yet the Court held before him was called the Marshal's Court. See my Law Commentaries, p. 479, 376. Of this Office or his Refusal at the next Court, and then he shall be amerced, for the Steward of the Leet may not fine him there. 1 Eliz. 6. 5 Mod. 135. And if a High Confi scable may be chosen at a Court-Leet by the Steward, upon Preteniment of the Jury, when Colson warrants it but where such Courts are not kept, or they have Notices in ending him, the Judges and their Quarter-Sessions may chuse and swear a High Confiscable: and this is the usual Way observed at this Time. Mich. 21 Car. 1. Mod. 34. 135. And he may be sworn out of the Seifions, by Warrant from thence; and be elected out of the Seifions, by the greater Number of Judges in the Division. Ibid. if one that is elected to the Office of Confi, able, refuse to take the Oath to serve in that Office, a Writ of Mandamus may be had to compel him to do it. 1 Litt. Abp. 301.
The Judges of Peace may appoint a Confiscable in such Place where there was never any before. 1 Med. 13.
If Confiscables, Headboroughs, Esq. die or go out of the Parish, two Judges of Peace are to swear new ones till the Lord of the Manor hold a Court, or till the next instance, when they shall behave of them or appoint others: And if any of them continue above a Year, the Judges of Peace may discharge them, and put in others till the Lord of the Manor holds a Court. By Stat. 15 & 16 Car. 2. cap. 18. A Confiscable's Oath runs thus: 'You shall well and truly serve our Sovereign Lord the King, and the Lord of the Leet; if you are in a Court, or at the Office of Confi, scable, in and for the Hundred of,' &c., or Parish of, Esq., for the Year ensuing, or until you shall be thereof discharged according to due Course of Law: You shall well and truly serve and execute all Things belonging to the said Office, according to the best of your Knowledge. So help you God.' Formerly the Oath of a Confiscable was very long, he being sworn to several Articles which included his particular Duty. High Confiscables are generally chos en and sworn by the Judges of Peace in their Sefions.
And such Confiscables, who are their assistants, in each Town, Parish or Vill, the Choice of them properly belongs to the Court-Leet; but at this Day they are usually elected by the Parishioners, and sworn by a Judge of Peace, who on just Cause may remove them. 4 Jeff. 267. These Confiscables are appointed yearly: and are to be Men of Honesty, Knowledge and Ability, not Infants, Lunatics, &c. And if they refuse to serve, they may be bound over to the Seifions, and indicted, and fined and imprisoned. 3 Rep. 41.
5 Med. 96. But Physicians, Apothecaries, Esq. are exempted by Statute from being the Officer of Confiscable, or other Parish Officer: Also Attorneys, and Officers of the Courts at Westminster, Barristers at Law, Aldermen of the Town, &c. are privileged from serving the Office of Confiscable; And if a Gentleman of Quality be chose Confiscable, where there are sufficient Persons besides, and no special Custum concerning it; 'tis said such Persons may be relieved in B. R. 2 Henk. P. C. 53, 64. A

The High Confiscable has the Direction of the Petty Confiscables, Headboroughs, and Tithingmen, within his Hundred. His Duty is to keep the Peace, and to pre Vest Felons, Rioters, &c. to make Hue and Cry after Felons; and take Care that the Watch be duly kept in his Hundred; and that the Statutes for punishing Rogues and Vagrants be put in Execution. He ought likely to be a Charge to the Parish. He must like wise present the Faults of Petty Confiscables, Headbo roughs, &c. who neglect to apprehend Rogues, Va

Methors of Ballard Children like to be chargeable to the Parish, &c. And also all Defects of Highways and Bridges, and the Names of those who ought to repair them: Savengers who neglect their Duty; and all common Nulances in Streets and Highways; Bakers who fell Bread under Weight; Brewers selling Beer then they pay the same time to the Treasurers appointed, as the Station Stock for repairing Bridges, Gates, Houses of Correlation, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 2. cap. 29.

The Authority of Petty Confiscables, in their several Towns, Tithings, and Boroughs, is generally the same as the High Confiscable hath in his Hundred: They are to keep the Peace in the Abidance of the High Confi scable; and affect him in making Preteniments at the Affairs and Quarter-Sessions, or of Night walking the Custody any Persons whom they see committing a Fel ony or Breach of the Peace, but if it be out of Sight, as where a Person is slain by another, &c., they may not do it without a Warrant from a Justice.

A Confiscable cannot detain a Man at his Pleasure; but only stay him to bring him before a Justice, to be Conflagrable, (Lat.) Is the Name of a Certificare, which the Clerk of the Pipe, is placed among the Auditors of the Exchequer, made as the Requittal of any Person who intends to peddle or move in that Court, for the Discharge of any Thing: And the Effect of it is the Certifying what does Conflagrable upon any Person, mentioning the Master in Question, 1 Ed. 6. c. 4. and 13 Ed. c. 6. A Conflagrable is held to be superior to an Ordinary Certificare, because it contains nothing but what is evident on Record. And the Exhaustion under the Great Seal, of the Jurisdiction of any Letters Patent, is called a Conflagrable. Co. Lit. 225.

Conflagriture, a Rival or Book, containing the Rice's Rate of the Forms of Divine Office. At the Customs of Abbays and Monasteries: 'Tis mentioned in Brumeton.

Conflagriture or Sturblit, Is a Writ of Right Co. and lies against the Tenant that defrauds his Lord of the Rent or Service due to him. Reg. Orig. 159. F. N. B. 151. When the Writ is brought by the Party in the Right only, he shall count the Sein of his yearly Rent, and when the Writ is brought in the Debtor; but when he counts his own Sein, then the Writ is in the Debtor & seines. And if the Party lay in the Writ as Debtor & seines, Redress & seines, these Words prove that the Demandant himself was left of the Sein; and then if he count in such Writ of Sein of his Ancestor, and not of his own Sein, the Writ shall abate: So that if the Writ be brought against a Writ of Cadoms and Services of the Sein of his Ancestor, he ought to leave their Words as in reddituibus, &c. out of the Writ. Where a Person brings a Writ of Sein of Cadoms and Services upon his Tenant, and by Count demands Homage, the Writ ought to make special Mention thereof; as in ut in homaggio, &c. or the Writ will abate. Conflitta Certificae, A Church, full, or provided for, according to Confluit.

Consolitation, (Consolitoin) Is a Writ whereby a Cause being brought before the Common Council from the Ecclesiastical Court, to the King's Court, is returned thither again; for if the Judges of the King's Court, upon comparing the Libel with the Injunction of the Party, and the Injunction failed, or not proved, and therefore the Cause to be wrongfully called from the Ecclesiastical Court, then upon this Consolitation or Declaration they decree it to be returned; whereupon, if this Cause obtained is called a Consolitation. Reg. Orig. 44. &c. Statute of Writs of Consolitations, 24 Ed. 1. This Writ is in Nature of a Procedent; but properly a Consolitation ought not to be granted, but in Cases where a Man cannot recover at the Common Law, in the King's Courts. New Nat. Br. 119. Causes of which the Ecclesiastical or Spiritual Courts have Jurisdiction, are of Administrations, Admissions of Clerks, Adultery, Appeals in Ecclesiastical Causes, Apostasy, General Bailiff, Bisphominy, Solicitation of Charity, Dilapidations and Church Repairs, Celebrations of Divine Service, Divorces, Fornication, Heresy, Insol. Involutions of Clerks, Marriages Rites, Oblations, Obventions, Ordonnances, Communication of Penances, Pecunia, Procorum, Schism, Simony, Thieves, Procurers of Wills, &c. and where a Suit is in the Ecclesiastical Court, for any of these Causes, or the like, and not being within the Temporal Law, &c. a Consolitation made for a Prohibition, a Consolitation shall be awarded. 5 Reg. 9. To move for a Prohibition in another Court, after Motion in the Common, &c. on the same Libel which is granted, is merely vexatious, for which a Consolitation shall be had. Co. Ens. 277. Where a Consolitation is granted upon the Right of the Thing in Question, these a new Prohibition shall never be granted on the same Libel; but where granted upon any Default of the Prohibition, in Form, &c. there a Prohibition may be granted upon the same Libel again. 1 Nat. Br. 485. A Consolitation must be pursuant to the Libel, &c. Viz. Prohibition.

Confal, (Lat.) In our Law Books signifies as Earl. Brad, &c. s. 8, tells us, that as Conas is derived from Consolatus, so Confal is derived from Consolitum; and in the Laws of Edward the Confal, Motion is made of Vicarernes and Vicarernes, Blows Consuls among the Roman, were chief Officers, of which the moderns are called the City of Rome: But this Government of Rome has long since been abrogated. Our Consal abroad take Care of the Affairs of Interests of Merchants, in Foreign Kingdoms where they are appointed by the King; as in Lijbon, &c.

Contrary,
Contempt, (Contempt) Is a Diobedience to the Rules and Orders of a Court, which hath Power to punish such Offence: And one may be sentenced for a Contempt done in Court; but not for a Contempt out of Court, or a private Abuse. C. R. Ed. 699. At tachment also lies against one for Contempt to the Court, to damages in the Offender to answer on Interrogatories, &c. and if he cannot acquit himself, he shall be fined. 1 Salk. 305. If a Sheriff being required to return a Writ directed to him, doth not return the Writ, it is a Contempt: And this Word is used for a Kind of Misdemeanor, by doing what one is forbidden: or not doing what he is commanded. 10 Rep. 36. And as this is sometimes a greater, and sometimes a lesser Offence; it is punished with greater or less Punishment, by Fine, and sometimes Imprisonment.

Dyer 177, 128. 1 Salk. 85. See Attachment.

Controversy, (Controversy) Is said to signify a Man's Controversy or Credit, which he hath together with, and by Reason of his Freehold: In which Sense, it is used in the Statute of T. 5. and other Statutes: And either or his field, or his Controversy of Eijms & Conditions, quae quis in Repub. judicati, &c. But Controversy is more properly that which is necessary for the Support and Maintenance of Men, agreeable to their several Qualities, or States of Life: And seems to be Freehold Land, which lieth to a Man's Tenement, or Dwelling House, that is in the Controversy of a Man.

The Title, cap. 14. It is enacted, that a Freeman shall not be answered, but scandum quantummodum delicti, juro eis in Controversa loco: & Mercator in Controversa loco, &c. which means, that, as Glauvctc tells us, he should be answered, scandum quantitatem fraudum furum, & fraudulentum, ac nimi Gavows, inid par leftrum, vel cum Controversia amissi: Lib. 2. c. 8.

Continent Ux. Is a Ux limited in a Conveyance of Land, which may, or may not happen to well, according to the Controversy or Credit, which the Lady has, or is in the Controversy of such a Ux: A Ux in Controversy is such which by Possibility may happen to Possession, Reversion, or Remainder. 1 Rep. 121. A Contingent Remainder is where an Estate is limited to take Place in future, upon an uncertain Event; as where a particular Estate which both support a Remainder, may or may not determine before the Remainder may commence. 10 Rep. 85. A Remainder Contingent is said to be an Estate vested; but on such Remainder in executory Devises, the Estate defers till the Contingent happens, and nothing is vested till then. 1 Vent. 189.

Contingent Claim, Is a Claim made from Time to Time, within every Year, or for Land, or other Thing, as it may be. It is a Contingent Claim, where it is made, and repeated yearly, so as to be within a Year and a Day before the Death of him that hath the Lands; and where he dies by his own Act, but his Heir is in by Difent, yet he that makes the Claim may enter, &c. if no Claim be made, then the Entry of the Person defied, &c. is taken away. 2 H. 8. cap. 35. Though by a Difent the Person is to have pensive Possession for five Years, without Entry or Contingual Claim, for a Difent on his Death, to take away the Entry of the Difent, if his Heir, after the five Years, the Difent is to have pensive Possession, as before the Statute: The Poecof a Difent, Abators, &c. are out of the Statute. As to this Claim, though the Tenant die within the Year and Day, and it be but once made, it shall preserve the Complain against that make it: And if the An- ceffor claim, and the Difent die, and then the An- ceffor dieth, now his Heir may enter: But if an An- ceffor or Predecessor make a Contingual Claim, and dieth, and the Son or Successor make no Contingual Claim, and within the Year and Day after the Claim was made by the Anceffor, the Difent dies: this shall take away the Entry of the Son or Successor, for the Difent was call in his Time. C. Litt. 210, 214. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder for Life, the Re- mainder in Fee, and the Tenant for Life alien in Fee; if he in Remainder for Life make Contingual Claim, before the Dying of the Heir, and after the Al- liee died, then, and after that the Remainder-Man for Life dieth before any Entry made by him: In this Case he in Remainder in Fee shall have Benefit by the Claim of Tenant for Life, and he may enter upon the Heir of the Aliee, &c. Lit. 306, 418. This Claim shall not avoid a Difent, unless it be made by him that has Title to the same, and in whole Life the Difent was: And so it is for the Contingual Claim of a Tenant for Life, to give him in Remainder Advantage, except the Difent, &c. die in the Life time of Tenant for Life. C. Litt. 210, 234.

Continuance, Is the Continuing of a Cause in Court, by an Entry upon the Records there for that Purpoce. There is a Continuance of the Affidavit, &c. And a Continuance of a Writ or Affidavit is from one Term to another, in Cave where the Sheriff has not returned a former Writ, issfit out in the laid Affidavit. Kitt. 202. Continuances and Effides are amendable upon the Roll, at any Time before Judgment: Thay are the Afts of the Court, and at Common Law they may amend their own Afts before Judgment, though in another Term: but their Judgments are only amendable in the same Term wherein they are given. 5 Lev. 431. Upon an Original, a Term or two or three Terms, may be made between the Telle and the Re- turn: and this shall be holden in Controversy: for the Defendant is not at any Prejudice by it, and the Plain- tiff may give a Day to the Defendant beyond the common Day if he will: But a Continuance by Captious ought to be made from Term to Term, and there cannot be any meane Term, because the Defendant ought not to stay so long in Prison. 2 Dav. 4. 130. If a Man recovers upon a Demurrer, or by Default, and a Writ of Inquiry of Damages is awarded, there ought to be Continuances between the first and second Judgments, otherwise it will be a Discontinuance; for the first is but an Award, and not competent till the second Judgment upon the Return of the Writ of In- quiry of Damages. Binding 143. If the Plaintiff be nonsuit, by which the Defendent is inDefault, or for not entering his Continuance, and the Plaintiff will not enter his Continuances, on Pur- pose to save the Costs, the Defendant shall be suffered to enter them. C. T. 316, 317. The Court of the Court of King's Bench is to enter no Continuances upon the Roll, till after Issue or Demurrer; and then to enter the Continuance of all upon the Back, before Judgment: And if it be not entered, it is Error. Ten. 16 T. 2. R. Vide Discontinuance.

Continuando, Is a Word used in a special Declara- tion of Trefpass, when the Plaintiff would recover Damages for several Trepassfes in the same Action: And to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, a Man may in one Action of Trefpass recover Damages for several Trepasses in the same Action: And to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, a Man may in one Action of Trefpass recover Damages for several Trefpasses in the same Action: And to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, a Man may in one Action of Trefpass recover Damages for several Trefpasses in the same Action: And to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, a Man may in one Action of Trefpass recover Damages for several Trefpasses in the same Action: for the others: But if the Continuand had been particularly of such Things where a Continuandum could not be, then it had been naught. 3 Lev. 94. Every Day's Trepasis is paid to a several Trepasis; though a Contract be not of Men's continuing a Trepasi Day and Night, for some Time; together for ManKind must take some Refl: Where Cause to Trepasi upon Ground, they are continually trepasing Night and Day, and therefore the Continuandum in that Case is good. 1 Lill. App. 307. Trepasi for Breaking an House with a Continuandum, is good; and when a Re-entry is made, the Continuation of the Performance is a Continuing of the Trepasi. Law. 1312. It is usual in Practice to lay the Continuandum for longer Time than you can prove; but Damages shall be given only for what can be proved. 2 Mod. 253.

Contraval Goods, (from Contram, and the Isal. Bandu, an Edict or Proclamation) Are those which are prohibited by Act of Parliament, or the King's Proclamation to be imported into, or exported out of this into any other Nation: As during the late War with France, French Wines, &c. were prohibited by Statute to be imported here from hence: And Wool, &c. is not to be exported from hence to other Kingdoms. Stat. 27 Eliz. c. 13 & 14 Car. 2. 7 of 8 W'. 3. &c. Contravaluste, A Criminal, or one prosecuted for a Crime: This Word is mentioned in Leg. H. 1. cap. 61.

Contrat, (Contrata) Is a Covenant or Agreement between Two or more Persons, with a lawful Consideration or Cause. W. J. Symb. part 1. If a Man sells his Wurie or other Thing to another, for a Sum of Money; or a Covenant, in Consideration of sol. to make him a Lease of a Farm, &c. these are good Contrats, because there is a quid pro quo, or one Thing for another: But if a Person make Premise to me, that I shall have 20l. and that he will be Debtor to me therefore, and after I demand the 20l. and he will not give it me, yet I shall never have any Action to recover this 20l: because this Premise was no Contract, but a bare Promise, or Nomin Planum: though if any Thing were given for the 20l. if it were but to the Value of a Penny, then it had been a good Contract. Every Contract doth imply in itself an Actus jumgti in Law, to perform the same; for a Contract would be to no Purpose, if there were not Means to enforce the Performance thereof. 1 Lill. App. 308. When for 20l. is brought upon a Contract, and the Plaintiff, mislakes the Sum agreed upon, he will fail in his Action: But if he brings his Action on the Premise, and not now, from the Debtor, there, although he mislakes the Sum, he shall recover. Aylo 29. There is a Diverrify where a Day of Payment is limited on a Contract, and where not for it would be in Law, as the Contract is good legally, and an Action lies upon it, without Payment; but in the other not: If a Man buys 20 Yards of Cloth, &c. the Contract is void, for he doth not pay the Money preferably; but if Day of Payment be given, there the One may have an Action for the Money, and the other Trever for the Cloth. Dyro 30. 293. Where a Seller pays to a Buyer, he will sell his Flour for so much, and the Buyer says he will give it; if he prefereth tell out the Money, it is a Contract; but if he do not, it is no Contract. Noy's Max. 87. Hol. 41. The Property of any Thing sold is in the Buyer immediately by the Contract; though regularly it must be delivered to the Buyer, before the Seller can bring his Action for the Money. Noy. 89. If one contract to buy a Hori or other Thing of me, and no Money is paid, or Earnest given, nor Day set for Payment thereof, nor the Thing delivered; in the Coven, no Action will lie for the Money, or the Thing sold, but it may be sold to another. Pled. 309, 128. All Contracts are to be certain, perfect, and compleat: For an Agreement to give so much for a Thing as it shall be reasonably worth, is void for Incertainty; so a Promise to pay Money in a short Time, &c. or to give so much, if he likes the Thing when he sees it. Dyro 307. 1 Bald. 89. But if he promises to buy him 10l. for such a Thing, if I like it on seeing the same; this Bargain is said to be perfect at my Pleasure: Though I may not take the Thing before I have paid the Money; if I do, the Seller may have Trepasi against me; and if he sell it to another, I may bring Action of the Cafe against him. Noy. 104. If it's a Contract may be brought on them. But if the Buyer do a certain Thing, or cible to have sol. it is a good Contract, and certain enough: And if I agree with a Person to give him so much for his Horse, as J. S. shall judge him to go worth, when he has judged it, the Contract is compleat, and an Action will lie on it; and the Buyer shall have a reasonable Time to demand the Judgment of J. S. But if he dies before his Judgment is given, the Contract is determined. Perk. Squ. 112, 114. Shap. sq. 294. In Contracts, the Time is to be regarded, in and from which the Contract is made: The Words shall be usual in the common and usual Sense, as they are taken in that Place where spoken; and the Law doth not so much look upon the Form of Words, as on the Substance and Mind of the Parties therein. 2 Cet. 85. 1 Aub. 75. A Contract for Goods may be made as well by Word of Mouth, as by Deed in Writing; and where it is in Writing only, not sealed and delivered, it is all one as by Word. But if the Contract be by Writing sealed and delivered, and so turned into a Deed; then it is of another Nature, and in this Cafe generally the Action on the verbal Contract is gone, and some other Action lies for Breach thereof. Plead. 130. 329. Dyro 90. Contracts, not to be performed in a Year, are to be in Writing, signed by the Party, &c. or the Action may be brought on them: But if no Day is set, or the Time is uncertain, they may be good without it. Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 3. And by the same Statute, no Contract for the Sale of Goods for 10l. or upwards, shall be good, unless the Buyer receives Part of the Goods sold; or gives something in Earnest to bind the Contract; or some Note thereof be made in Writing, signed by the Person charged with the Contract, &c. If two Persons come to a Draper, and one pays, let this Man have so much Cloth, and I'll see you paid; there the Sale is to the Undertaker only, though the Dealer is to another by his Appointment: But if a Contract be made with A. B. and the Vendor promises to let the Goods go without, and delivers to him, and delivers to him to let A. B. have the Goods, and undertakes that he shall pay him for them, that will be a Promise within the Statute 29 Car. 2. and ought to be in Writing, in the Form of a Deed. 1249. A Contract made by one or two Persons, into any good Consideration, may for good Consideration be dissolved. See Agreement and Sale. Utriusque Contratis, vide Utrius. Contravassion, (Contravassio) A Counterfeiting; as Contravassio falsi Regni, Counterfeiting the King's Seal. Blasph. Contra froman Colatlacia, Is a Writ that lay where a Man had given Lands in perpetual Alms, to any late Houses of Religion, as to an Abbey and Convent, or to the Wardens or Master of any Hospital and his Convent, to fend and cherish poor Men with Necessaries, and do Divine Service, &c. If they aliened the Land, to the Diocesan of the House and Church, then the Deacon, or his Heirs, should bring this Writ to recover the Lands. It was had against the Abbey, or his Successor: not against the Almshouse, though he were Tenant of the Land: And was founded upon the Statute of Wyf. 2. c. 1. Reg. Orig. 258. F. N. B. 210.
Form of the Writ of Contribution facianda.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of, &c. If A. makes you fevers, &c. then sum- mon, &c. C. D. and E. F. that they be at, &c. to feare writ, whereas the said A. B. C. D. and E. F. a certain Mill, &c. and undivided hold, the Sheriff hence proceeding to take by equal Portion, and to the Reparation and Suffocation of the said Mill, is to be made by the said C. D. and E. F. although their Portion of the Sheriff's happening they take, "refuse to contribute to the Reparation and Suffocation of the said Mill, to the Damage of the said A. B. &c. And have you there, &c.

Controller, (Fr. Contrôleur, Lat. Contrôlataur) is an Overseer or Officer relating to Public Accounts, &c. And we have divers Officers of this Name; as Controller of the King's Household; of the Navy; of the Customs; of the Exchequer; of the Mint, &c. And in our Courts, there is the Controller of the Hamper; of the Pipe, and of the Pel. &c. The Office of Controller of the Household is to control the Accounts of the Green Cloth; and he sits with the Lord Steward and other Officers in the Court House, for daily taking the Accounts of all Expenses of the Household. The Controller of the Navy controls the Payments of Wages; examines and audits Accounts; and inquires into Rates of Stores for Shipping, &c. Controller of the Customs and Exchequer, their Office is to control the Accounts of those Revenues: And the Controller of the Mint controls the Payment of Wages, and Accounts relating to the same. Controller of the Hamper is an Officer in the Chancery attending the Lord Chancellor daily in Term-Time, and upon Seal Days; with two youths who are the Clerks of the Hamper, that do all the sealing sealed from the Clerk of the Hamper, inclosed in Bags of Leather, and to note the jull Number and Effect of all Things so received, and enter the same in a Book, with all the Duties appertaining to his Office, and other Officers for the same. The Controller of the Pipe is an Officer of the Exchequer, who writes out Summons twice every Year to the Sheriffs to levy the Farms and Debts of the Pipe; and keeps a Controlment of the Pipe, &c. Controller of the Pell is also an Officer of the Exchequer; of which Sort there are two, who are the Clerks of the Chamberlain's Chest, that do all the sealing sealed from the Clerk of the Pell, of Receipts and Goings out; And this Officer was originally such as took Notes, of other Officers Accounts or Receipts, and look into the Intent to discover if they were amiss; and was ordained for the Prince's better Security. Florio, lib. 1. cap. 18. Stat. 12 Ed. 3. cap. 3. This last seems to be the original Use and Design of all Controllers.

Controvert, (Fr. Controverse) Signifies in our Law one that of his own Head devils or invents false News. 2 Inst. 127. Conbrabale, (Fr.) Agreeable. Stat. 27 Ed. 3. cap. 21. See Counsellor.

Conuent, (Conventus) Of the Use of this Word, the Lord Coke in his Inquisition ley, Non iuxtam slabite liceat quod est convenia Conventorum. nihil quaod a inconvenienti us litiorum. 1 Inst. 66. Conuent. (Conventus) Signifies the Fraternity of an Abbey or Priory; as Society, both the Name of Fellow in a College. Bract. lib. 2. 55.

Conuenttells, (Conventulatum) A private Assembly or Meeting for the Exercise of Religion; first attributed in Dignity to the Meetings of Widow in this Nation, above Two hundred Years since; and now applied to the illegal Meetings of the Nonconformists: It is mentioned in the Statutes 2 Hen. 4. c. 15. 1 H. 6. c. 4. and 16 Car. 2. c. 9. and is the reason why the Statute was made to prevent and suppress Conventicles: And by 22 Car. 2. cap. 1. It is enacted, That if any Perseus of the Age.

of sixteen Years, Subjects of this Kingdom, shall be present at any Convocation, where there are Five or more Persons, they shall be fined 1s., for the third Offence, and 10s. for the Second; and Perjury Prosecuting incur a Penalty of 501. Also suffering a Meeting to be held in a House, the same is liable to 201. Penalty.

The Court of Penge have Power to enter such Houses, and seize Personal Effects, &c. And if they neglect their Duty, they shall forfeit 100l. And if any Convallar, &c. know of such Misdemeanors, and do not inform a Justice of Peace, or chief Magistrate, &c. he shall forfeit 1s. But the 1 W. & M. 1. c. 18. ordains, that Protestant Dillentists shall be exempted from Penalty. Though if they meet in a House, with the Doors locked, barred, or bolted, such Dehentists shall have no Benefit from 1 W. & M. Officers of the Government, &c. present at any Convocation, at which there shall be ten Persons, if the Royal Family be not prayed in express Words, shall forfeit 40l. and be disabled. Stat. 10 Ann. c. 2. See Here.

Contentious, is a Word used in ancient Law. Pleaseings, for an Agreement or Covenant: As A. B. querunt, &c. do C. D. &c. pro suo uo non tenant Conventionem, &c. There is a pleasant Record of the Court of the Manor of Hestfield, in Com. Else. held Ann. 1 Ed. 3. which runs thus: Robertus R. qui expulsit feo provans Johanem J. de eo suo non tenant Conventionem inter eis fessulas, &c. and querunt, quod anno quo, &c. convenit inter praedictum Roberum R. &que iam magnum ille in poss. &c. praeeditus Johannis venditati praedicto Roberto Diabolum ligamentum in quadam ligamentum pro inido. & pro praedicto Roberto librum in quo dicti Johannis etiam praeeditus, &c. innumerum cumbam eardem (i. Earleit-Mansey) per quod Proprissim dixit Diaboli comminatur in Persone dict. et dicti Roberti ab bendor. deliberationem dicte Diabolit, in quo quomodo eam praeeditum fessulas dixit iure. & praeeditum dicti Roberto in fœli. Et inde posse fessulas. &c. Et pro praedictis Johannis venit. &c. Et non dedicat a Conventionem praeeditam. Et quia ideo divinitus quod idem Placitum non jactet inter Christianos, ida partes praediti adjuramentum suum in Infernum, ad audendum Judicium iuris, &curiae Pars in Mijericitia, &c.

Contentions, is a Word that lies for the Breach of any Covenant: As in Writing, whether Real or Personal: And it is called a Write of Covenant. Reg. Orig: 114. F. B. 145.

Contention, is properly where a Parliament is assembl'd, but no Act is passed, or Bill sig'd, &c. See Parliament.

Parliament. Parliament. On the Abidation of King James II. Ann. 1683. The Affirmity of the State of the Kingdom, to take Care of their Rights and Liberties, and who feigned King William and Queen Mary on the Throne, was called the Convocation: And the Lords and Commons thus convened were declared the two Houses of Parliament, notwithstanding the Want of any Writ of Summons, &c. Stat. 1 W. & M. 1.

Controversit, are those Religious Men who are united together in a Convocation or Religious House. Council.

Controversit Church, Is a Church that consists of Regular Clerks, professing some Order of Religion; or of Dean and Chapter, or other Societies of Spiritual Men. Councils.

Controversit, The Jews here in England were formerly called Controversit, because they were converted to the Christian Religion. King Hen. 3. built an House for them assembl'd, and allowed them a competent Provision or Subsistence for their Lives; and this House was called Domus Controversit. But by Reason of the want Exences of the Wars, and the Increase of those Controversit, they became a Burden to the Crown; so that they were placed in Abbeys and Monasteries for their Support. And The Jews being afterwards banished, King Ed. 3. in the 51st Year of his Reign, gave this House which had been used for the converted Jews, for the Keeping of the Rolls, and it is said to be the same which is at this Time enjoyed by the Master of the Rolls. Blunt.

Contrary, Is a Deed which puts Land from one Man to another. Conveyance by Feoffment, and Liberty, was the general Conveyance at Common Law; and if there was a Tenant in Possession, to this every could not be made, then was the Reversion granted, and the Tenant always attorned: Also upon the same Reason, a Lease and Release was held to be a good Conveyance, to pass an Easement; but the Lessee was to be in actual Possession, before the Release. And by the Common Law, when an Easement did not pass by Feoffment, the Vendor made a Lease for Years, and the Lessee actually entered; and the Lessee granted the Reversion to his life, and the Lessee attorned: Afterwards, when an Inheritance was to be granted, then likewise was a Lease for Years usually made, and the Lessee entered before), and then the Lessee released to him: But after the Statute of Uses, it became an Opinion, that if a Lease for Years was made upon a valuable Consideration, a Releifie might operate upon it without an Actual Entry of the Lessee; because the Statute did execute the Lease, and raised an Use pre-•ently to the Lessee: And Servient Moor was the First who practised this Way. 2 Mod. 251, 252. The most common Conveyance now in use, are, Gifts, Bargain and Sale, Lease and Release, Feoffment, and Receiver, Settlements to Uses, &c. A Son did give and grant Lands to his Mother, and her Heirs; though this was the active Common Law, yet it was adjudged good by Way of Use, to support the Intention of the Donor, and therefore by these Words an Use did arise to the Moker by Way of Covenant to stand good. 2 Lev. 225. A Feoffment, without Liberty and Seisin, will not enure as a Grant; but where made in Consideration of a Marriage, &c. it has been adjudged, that it did enure as a Covenant, to stand good to Uses. 2 Lev. 213. Tenant in Fee, in Consideration of Marriage, covenanted, granted, and agreed all that Milligto the Use of him self for Life, then to his Wife for Life, then to his Son in Tail Male, &c. Now by these Words it appeared, that the Husband intended some Benefit for his Wife, whereas the Court supplied other Words to make the Conveyance fertile. 1 Levit. 792. The Words Give and Grant, &c. are proper for a Conveyance at Common Law but it has been held, that though some Judges warrant that Conveyance shall operate according to the Words, yet of late the Judges have a greater Confindation of the Paying the Easement, as more as the Beattoy which by 'im passed. 2 Levit. 1209. A Conveyance cannot be fraudulent in Part, and good as to the Rest: For if it were fraudulent and void in Part, it is void in all, and it cannot be divided. 1 Litt. 221. Fraudulent Conveyance to deceive Creditors. defraud Purchasers, &c. are void, by Stat. 50 Ed. 3. cap. 6. 13 Ed. cap. 5. 27 Ed. cap. 4. Vide Dist. See my Accomplished Conveyance, Vol. 1. Ed. 2.

Contriv. (Controversit) Is he that is found guilty of an Offence by Verdict of a Jury. Staud. P. C. 186. Conveyance, Faith, That Conveyance is either when a Man is putting an appereance and confesst, or in fraud of guilty by the Inquest. And when a Statute excludes from Clergy Persons found guilty of Felony, &c. it extends to all who are convicted by Conveyance. Cramp. 46. The Law implies a Conveyance, as follow Punishment, though not mentioned in a Statute: And where any Suchf makes a second Offence Felo- ny, or subject to a heavier Punishment than the Filt, it it is also implied that such second offence ought to be committed after a conviction for the first. 1 Henad. P. 100, c. 2. Amounts to conviction; though it doth not follow that every one who is convicted, is adjudged. Ibid. 14. A conviction at the King's suit may be pleaded to a suit by an Informer, on a Penal Statute, because it makes the Party liable to the forfeiture, and no one ought to be punished twice for the same offence: But conviction may not be pleaded to a new suit by the King. Ibid. 15. A person convicted or attainted of one felony, may be proceeded for another, to bring Accessaries to Punishment, &c. Sir. Com. 379. On a joint Indictment or Information, some of the Defendants may be acquitted, and others convicted. 2 Hawk. 240. Perons convicted of felony by Verdict, &c. are not to be admitted to Bail; unless there be some special Motive for granting it; as where a Man is not the same Person, &c. for Bail ought to be before Trial, when it stands indifferent whether the Party be guilty, or not. Ibid. 90, 114. Conviction of felony, and other Crimes, of a Man to be a Juror, Witness, &c. By our Books, Conviction and Attainder are often confused.

Convention, before Judges of Peace. When an Act of Parliament orders the Conviction of Offenders by Judges of Peace, &c. it must be intended after Summons to bring them in, that they may have an Opportunity of making their Defence; and if it be otherwise, the Conviction shall be quashed. Constitution, according to the Statutes of 1 & 25 Eliz. See Recounts.

Constitution, signifies the same Thing among the Laitv, as a Procurator doth with the clergy, &c. When the Monarch by Grant of his Tenure is bound to provide Meat and Drink for his Lord once or oftner in the Year. Blunt.

Convocation, (Convocation) is the Assembly of all the Clergy, to institute Ecclesiastical Matters in Time of Parliament: And as there are two Houses of Parliament, so there are two Houses of Convocation; the one called the Higher or Upper House, where the Archbishops and all the Bishops sit severally by themselves; and the other the Lower House of Convocation, where all the Rest of the Clergy sit, i.e. All Deans and Archdeacons, one Proctor for every Chapter, and two Proctors for all the Clergy of each Diocese, making in the whole Number One hundred and sixty five Persons. Each Convocation House hath a Procurator, chosen from among themselves, and that of the Lower House is present to the Bishops, &c. The Archbishops of Canterbury is the President of the Convocation, and prosecutes and disposes of it by Mandate from the King. The Convocation exercises Jurisdiction in making of Canons, with the King's Affent: For by the Stat. 25 H. 8. the Convocation is not only to be assembled by the King's Writ, but the Canons are to have the Royal Affent: They have the Examining and Confirming of heretical and seditious Books, and Persons, &c. But Appeal lies to the King in Chancery, or to his Delegates. 4 Inst. 322. 2 Roll. Abr. 245. The Clergy called to the Convocation, and their Servants, &c. have the same Privileges as Members of Parliament. Stat. 8 & 9 Eliz. c. 5.

Cooperators, Is a Deed of Covenants between Merchants, or others, for carrying on a joint Trade, &c.

Coop., Is a Custom or Tribute due to the King or Lord of the Soil, out of the Lead Mines in some Part of Derbyshire; of which Mablyth faith thus:

Egros and Regrets, to the King's Highways, The Miners have, and Lot and Coke they Pay; The Common Use of Or within these Mines, To the Land, for they pay at meeting Times; Six pence a Land for Coke the Lord demands, And that is paid to the Berkeley's Hands, &c.

Agreeable to this you may find in Sir John Pettre's Fidelia Regalis, where he insists on this Subject. This Word, by Darnley's Book, as Mr. Mason hath interpreted it, signifies a Hill: And Coke is taken for the supreme Cover, as the Cap of Heaven. Aloa it is used for the Roof and Covering of a House; the upper Garment of a Priest, &c.

Copia, A Copia or Book kept by the Men, divided into Titheable Portions; as the Tenth Cock, &c. This Word in Strickland denotes the gathering or laying up. In Coas or Echaps, as the Method is for Barn or Oast. &c. Not bound up, that it may be the more fairly and jolly tied: And in Kent they still retain the Word, a Cop or Cop of Hay, Straw, &c. Town in Coas.

Coppa, A Copp or Cock of Grafe, Hay or Corn, divided into Titheable Portions; as the Tenth Cock, &c. This Word in Strickland denotes the gathering or laying up. In Coas or Echaps, as the Method is for Barn or Oast, &c. Not bound up, that it may be the more fairly and jolly tied: And in Kent they still retain the Word, a Copp or Cop of Hay, Straw, &c. Town in Coas.

Coppa, A Copy is a legal Send the Transcript of an original Writing, as the Copy of a Patent, of a Charter, Deed, &c. A Claude out of a Patent, taken from the Chapel of the Roll, cannot be given in Evidence; but you must have a true Copy of the whole Charter examined: It is the fame of a Record. And if upon a Trial, you will give Part of a Copy of an Office in Evidence to prove a Deed, which Deed is to prove the Party's Title to the Land in Question that gives it in Evidence; if that Part of the Office given is not so much as high any Ways concern the Land in Question, the Court will not admit of it: For the Court will have a Copy of the whole given, or no Part of it shall be admitted. 1 Litt.

Copilfords. (Tenor per Copilfom Rotuli Curiae.) Is a Tenure for which the Tenant hath nothing to lose but the Copy of the Rolls, made by the Steward of the Lord's Court; on such Tenant's being admitted to any Parcel of Land or Tenement belonging to the Manor. 4 Rep. 25. It is called Bafe Tenure, because held at the Will of the Lord: And frivolously is, it was annually Tenure in Palliament, and that Copilford is but a new Name. Some Copilfords are held by the Burgage in Ancient Demesne; and though they are by Copy, yet are they a Kind of Feehold; for if for a Tenant of such a Copilford confirm Felony, the King hath Assumps, Diem & Perfum, as in the Case of Freeholders; Some other Copilfords are such as the Tenants hold by common Tenure, called Meri Copilford, whole Land, upon Felony committed, afflictions to the Lord of the Manor. Kent. 81. But Copilford Land cannot be made at this Day: for the Pillars of a Copilford Estait are, That it hath been demised Time out of Mind by Copy of Court Roll. Rotuli Curiae; and that the Tenements are Parcel of estate within the Manor, 1 Inf. 84. 4 Rep. 24. A Copilford Tenant had originally in Judgment of Law, but an Estait at Will; yet Culfum so established his Estait, that by the Culfum of the Manor it was defendable, and his Heirs inherited it: And therefore the Estait of the Copilford is not merely ad voluntatem Dominii, but ad voluntatem Dominii fraudiude conquestuandum Manuenvii; so that the Culfum of the Manor is the Life of Copilford Estait; for without a Culfum, or if Copilfords break their Culfum, they are subject to the Will of the Lord: of as a Copilford is no by Culfum, so it is governed by Culfum, 4 Rep. 21. A Copilford so long as he doth his Services, and doth not break the Culfum of the Manor, cannot be ejected by the Lord; if he be, he shall have Trespass against him: But if a Copilford refuses to perform his Services, it is a Breach of the Culfum, and forfeiture of his Estait. Copilfords defend according to the Rules and Maxims of the Common Law; but such customary Inheritances shall not be Affets, to charge the Heir in Adition of Dues, &c. Ibid. Though a Lease for one Year of Copilford Lands, which is warranted by the Common Law, shall be Affets in the Hand of an Executor. 1 Vent. 169. Copilfords hold their Estait free from Charges of Dower, being created by Culfum, which is paramount to Title of Dower, 4 Rep. 24. Copilford Inheritances have no collateral Qualities, which do not concern the Difficult; as to make them Affets; or whereof a Wife may be enbowed; A Husband be Tenant by the Curtesy, &c. But by particular Culfum, there may be Dower and Tenency by the Curtesy. 3 Eliz. 161. There may be an Estait tail in Copilford Lands by Culfum, with the Co-operation of the Statute W. 2. And if a Copilford may be enbowed by Culfum, so by Culfum the Tail may be cut off by Surrender. 1 Inf. 60. A Copilford may be barred by a Recovery, by special Culfum; and a Surrender may bar the Estait by Culfum. A Fine and Recovery at Common Law, will not destroy a Copilford Estait; because Common Law Affairances do not work upon the Affairances of the Copilford; Though Copilford Lands are within the Stat. 4. H. 7. of Fees with Proclamations, and five Years Non claim, and shall be barred. 1 Rol. Abr. 64. If a Fine may be made in the Court of the Manor, in the Nature of a Real Affair, and a Recovery shall be had in that Plaine against Tenant in Tail, and such a Recovery shall be a Discontinuance to the Estait.
A Manor is lost when there are no customary Tenants or Copyholders: And if a Copyhold comes into the Hands of the Lord in Fee, and the Lord Leases it for one Year, or half a Year, or for any certain Time, it can never be granted by Copy after: But if the Lord alienates the Manor, &c. his Alliance may resign Land to Copy. If the Lord keeps the Copyhold for a long Time in his Hand, it is no Impediment but that he may after Grant it again by Copy. 2 Doug. Abr. 176, 177. A Copyholder in Fee accepts of a Lease, Grant, or Confirmation of the same Land from the Lord, who determines his Copyhold Estate. 2 Co. 16. 2 Co. Ten. 253. If a Copyholder bargains and sells his Copyhold to a Lessee for Years, &c. of the Manor, his Copyhold is extinguished. 2 Doug. 205. A Copyholder may grant his Estate to his Lord, by Bargain and Sale, Restitute, &c. for between Lord and Tenant the Conveyance need not be according to Copyhold. 1 Nol. 704. A Copyholder in other Causes cannot alien by Deed: Though he that hath a Right only to a Copyhold may release it by Deed. And if a Copyholder forecloses upon Condition, he may afterwards release the Condition by Deed. 2 Doug. 205. 2 Co. Ten. 256. Also one joint Copyholder may release another, and he will be good with written Consent, &c. &c. 12 Co. 402. The customary Grant of a Copyhold from Lord to Tenant is in this Form:

A Grant and Admittance by Copy of Court Roll.

Manor A. At a Court Baron of T. E. Effinge, Lord of the Manor aforesaid, held for the said Manor the twenty-sixth Day of October in the fourteenth Year of the Reign of the Lord George the Second, by the Grace of God, King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. and in the Year of our Lord 1772. Before G. J. Greaves, Steward there, it was enrolled among other Things, as follows:

A this Court came J. C. and took of the Lord of the Manor aforesaid, by the Delivery of the Seward aforesaid, one Measuring or Tenement, and forty Acres of Land, Meadow, and Pasture, with their Appurtenances, within the aforesaid Manor, late in the Township of W. D. deceased: To have and to hold the said Measuring or Tenement and forty Acres of Land with all and singular the Appurtenances, with all the收益 of the same, and to have and to hold the said J. C. and his Wife, for the Term of their Lives, and the Life of either of them, being lawfully married, at the Will of the Lord, according to the Custom of the Manor aforesaid; By the Rest of Ten Shillings by the Year, and for a Heriot when it happens, Thirty Shillings, and by all other Rates, Works, Suits, Customs and Services therefore due, and of Right accustomed; and for such Estates and Entry in the Premises had, the aforesaid J. C. gives to the Lord for a Fine ninety Pounds before band paid: And if he is admitted Tenant thereof, and doth his Fealty; be the Fiduciary of the same as enjoined, until, &c. Dated by Copy of the Rolls of the aforesaid Court, the Day and Year aforesaid.

Examined with the Rolls of the said Court.

By me J. J. Steward there.
grant a Capable for Life, according to the Custum: If a Lord for Life, gives Licence to a Tenant to make a Lease for Years, this Lease shall continue no longer than the Life of the LORD, and the Lease shall not be divisible. If he had that is Dominus pro temporis of the Manor, admits one to a Capable, he dispenses with all precedent Forfeitures; not only as to himself, but also as to him in Reversion; for such Grant and Admission amounts to an Entry for the Forfeiture, and a new Grant; but a Lord by Torf cannot by such Admission purge the Forfeiture as to the right Lord. 1 Lew. 26. Grants by Copy of Court-Roll by Infants, &c. will be binding: And if a Guardian in Socage grants a Capable in Reversion, according to the Custum of the Manor, this shall be a good Grant; for he is Dominus pro temporis. 2 Roll. 41. If Baron and Feeme feit of a Manor in Right of the Feeme grant a Capable, this shall bind the Feeme notwithstanding her Coveriture, 4 Rep. 23. An Executor may make Grants of Capable Estates, according to the Custum of the Manor, where a Devil is made that the Executor shall grant Copies for Freehold. Delinc. 1178. A Manor may be held by Copy of Court Roll, and the Lord of such Manor grant Copies; and such customary Manor may pass by Surrender and Admission, &c. and a customary Manor or be holden of another Manor, and such customary Lord may grant Copies and hold Courts: But a Capable Lord of such a Manor cannot hold a Court Baron to have Forfeitures, and hold Pleas in a Writ of Right, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 524. All Grants of Capable Estates are to be according to the Custum of the Manor; and Rents and Services customary must be referred for; what Acts of the Lord in granting Capables are not confirmed by Custum, but only strengthened by the Power and Interell of the Lord, have no longer Duration than the Lord's Estate continues. Comp. Court Kerer 421. If by the Custum, a Capable may be granted for three Lives, and the Lord grants it to one for Life, Remainder to such Woman as he shall marry, and to the first Son of his Body both these Remainders are void: And a Remainder limited upon a void Estate in the Creation, will be likewise void. But if by Custum it is demitable in Fee, a Remainder may be to the Life of one for Life, Remainder in Tail, Remainder in Fee. 2 Dawo. Abr. 203. Cr. Elias. 573. It is held, where by the Custum of a Manor the Lord can grant a Capable for three Lives, he may grant it for an Estate coming within the Interell of the Custum; as to A. B. and his Affignis, To hold to him and his Affignis for the Lives of three others, and of the longer Liver of them successively, &c. 2 Ed. Regm 994, 1000. The Lord of a Manor may himself grant a Capable Estate at any Place out of the Manor, if he shall not grant a Capable at a Court held out of the Manor. 4 Rep. 26. Though the Steward may take Surrenders out of the Manor, as well as the Lord. 2 Dawo. Abr. 181. A Steward is in Place of the Lord, and without a Command to the contrary may grant Lands by Copy, &c. But if a Lord command a Steward that he shall not grant such a Copy, if he grants it, it is void: And if the Steward diminishes the ancient Rents and Services, the Grant will be void. Cr. Elias. 699. Things of Necessity done by a Steward, who is not in reputed Authority, are good if the done by Freemen, &c. as the Admission of an Heir upon Preeminent, &c. Though Acts voluntary, as Grants of Capables, &c. are not good by such Stewards. Hist. An Under-Steward hold a Court without any Disturbance of the Lord of the Manor, though he hath no Patent nor Deputation to hold it, yet it is good; because the Tenants are under examination what Authority he hath is he bound to give them an Account of it. Mort 110. A Deputy Steward may authorize another to do a particular Act; but cannot make a Deputy to act in general. 6 Sah. 95. In Admissions, in Court upon voluntary Grants, the Lord is Proprietor; in Admissions upon Surrender, the Lord is not Proprietor of the Lands, but only a necessary Infrument of Conveyance; and he is to be the Proprietor in the other Infrument, not being necessary to strengthen the Heir's Title, but only to give the Lord his Fine. 4 Rep. 21, 22. The Heir of a Capable may enter, and bring Trespass, before Admission, being in his Demise; and he may surrender before Admission: But he is not a complete Tenant to be sworn of the Homage, or to maintain a Plaintiff in the Lord's Court. And the Act do not come in and be admitted, on the Death of his Ancestor, where the Name is prefixed and Proclamation made, he may forfeit his Estate. Cr. El. 50. 4 Rep. 28, 27. On Surrender of a Capable, the Surrrenderor or Person making the same, continues Tenant till the Admission of the Surrrenderor; and the Surrenderor may not enter upon the Lands, or Surrender before Admission, for he hath no Estate till then; though his otherwise of the Heir by Deed, who is in by Course of Law, and the Custum calls the Poftelation upon him. A Transfer of an Estate is not of any Effect until Admission, and yet the Surrenderor cannot be deprived of the Benefit of the Surrenderor, and cannot pass away the Land to any other, make it subject to any other Incumbrances; and if the Lord refuse the Surrenderor Admission, he is compellable in Chancery. Comp. Cap. Sel. 39. A Grantee having the Interell waded, is to be admitted: But Admission of a Capable for Life is an Admission of him in Remainder, for they are but one Estate; and the Remainder Man may, after the Death of Tenant for Life, surrender without Admission. 3 Lew. 308. Cr. El. 504. Every Admission upon a Deed or Surrender may be pleaded as a Grant; and a Person may allege the Admission of his Ancestor as a Grant; and draw the Deed to him, and that he entered, &c. But he cannot plead that his Father was feied in Fee, &c. and that he died feied, and the Land defended to him. 2 Dawo. 309. Admission on Surrender, must in all Repeats agree with the Surrender; the Lord having only a customary Power to admit freehold fromaman & feemans forfumendition. 4 Rep. 26. If any are admitted otherwise, they shall be feied according to the Surrender: Yet where a voluntary Surrender is general, without paying to a whole Life, a subsequent Admission may explain it. 2 Dawo. 187, 204. In voluntary Admissions, if the Lord admits any one contrary to Custum, it shall not bind his Heir or Successor. If a Capable surrender to the Life of another, and after the Lord having Knowledge of it, accepts the Rent of such other out of Court, this is an Admission in Law: And any Act implying a conveyance of the Estate to the Surrenderor, shall be adjudged a good Admission. 1 Nelf. Abr. 495. If the Steward accept a Fine of a Capable, it amounts to an Admission. 2 Dawo. 89. But delivering a Copy is no Admission. Where a Widow's Estate is created by Custum, that shall be an Admission in Law: And her Estate arising out of that of her Husband, his Admission is the Admission of her. Hist. 18. And the who hath a Widow's Estate by the Custum of the Manor, upon the Death of her Husband, need not pay a Fine to the Lord for the Estate; for this is only a Branch to another. Hist. 18. When a Capable is, that the Wife of every Capable for Life shall have her Free-Bench, after the Death of the Baron, the Law calls the Estate upon the Wife, so that the shall have before Admission, &c. 2 Dawo. 94. But if a Wife is entitled to her Free Bench by Custum, and a Capable in Fee surrenders to the Life of another, and then dies, it 1asse the he hath, nor the Successor of the Surrenderor, should have the Land, and not the Wife; because the Wife's Title doth not commence till after the Death of her Husband; but the Plaintiff's Title begins by the Surrender, and the Admission relates to that.

1 Inf. 59. 1 Salk. 185. The Widow's Title commences not by the Marriage; if it did, then the Husband could do nothing in his Life time to prejudice it: But Allen a Bar last Examin'd his Right, as to bind the Estate of the Widow: The Free-Bench grows out of the Estate of the Husband; and 'tis his dying封id which gives the Widow a Title, and as the Husband has a defeasible Estate, so the Wife may have her Free-Bank defeated. 4 Med. Rep. 452, 453. Admissions are never by Attorney, for the Tenant ought to do Fealty: Though Sur-renders are oftentimes by Attorney. 2 Dowl. 189. A Copshold in Fee may Surrender in Court, by Letter of Attorney: But not out of Court, without a special Custom. 9 Rep. 75, 76. If one cannot come into Court to surrender in Person, the Lord may appoint a Special Steward to go to him, and take the surrender. 1 Lew. 56. A Copshold being in Ireland, the Steward of a Manor here, made a Commission to one to receive a Surrender from him there, and it was holden by a Judge in the Court of King's Bench. The Inhabitants of Ireland is, that the Lord may not be a Stranger to his Tenant, and the Alteration of the Estate. As a Copshold cannot transfer his Estate to a Stranger by any other Conveyance than surrendering, so if one would exchange a Copshold with another, both must surrender to each other's Ufe, and the Lord admit accordingly: And if any Person would devise a Copshold Estate, he cannot do it by his Will; but he must surrender to the Ufe of his last Will and Testament, and in his Will declare his Intent. Comp. Cop. 36. 39. Alfo where a Copsholder surrenders to the Ufe of his Will, the Lands do not pass by the Will, but by the Surrender: the Will being only declaratory of the Ufe of the Surrenderer. 1 Blis. 200. But in Case of a Will, the Chancery will supply the Defect of a Surrender, in the Behalf of Children, if not to disinherit the eldest Son; and for the Benefit of Creditors, where a Copshold Estate is charged by Will with the Payment of Debts, though there is no Surrender to thefe Ufes, it will be good in Equity. 4 Rep. 25. 1 Salk. 187. 3 Salk. 84. Yet his hold, that Equity shall not supply the Want of such Surrender in Favour of a Grandchild; or Bafford, who is not considered as a Child; or a Wife against the Heir; nor in Behalf of Creditors: But where the Surrender is refused, a Will of a Copshold may be sufficient without it. Abr. Cop. 122, 124. A Celfal que Tract may devife an Interest in Land, fcr. without Surrender; and if the Lands are in Mortgage, the Mortgagee can dispose of the Equity of Redemption by Will, without any Surrender made: because he has an Interest in the Estate in the Land, whereas he might make a Surrender. Pecod. Case. 320, 322. One Jointtenant may surrender his Part in the Lands to the Ufe of his Will, &c. And where there are two Jointtenants of a Copshold in Fee, if one of them made a Surrender to the Ufe of his Will, and die, and the Devisee is admitted, the Surrender and Admissation shall bind the Survivor. 2 Co. 100. A Surrender may not be to commence in future as after the Death of the Surrenderer, &c. though Copsholds may be surrendered to the Ufe of a Man's Will. March 173. 30 Rep. 27. A Copshold in Fee abd. &c. 4 Rep. 29. If a Man having bought a Copshold to himself, his Wife and her Heir after her Death, surrendered it to another and his Heir, for securing a Sum of Money; after his Death, the Surrender shall not be insisted to the Land, it being an Advancement for the Benefit of all. A Female Co-Vert may receive a Copshold Estate, by Surrender from her Husband, because the come not in immediately by him, but by the Admission of the Lord according to the Surrender. 4 Rep. A Female Covers is to be secretly examined, on her Surrendering her Estate. Cc. Litt. 59. An Infant surrendered his Copshold, and afterwards entered at full Age, and it was held lawful, though the Surrender was not made. Nov. 937. By the general Custum of Copshold Estates, Copsholders may surrender in Court, and need not alledge any particular Custum to warrant it: But where they surrender out of Court, in to the Hands of the Lord by Customary Tenants, &c. Custom must be pleased. 9 Rep. 75. 1 Roll. Ab. 500. And Sur-renders out of Court are to be professed at the next Court for it is not an effectual Surrender till professed in Court. Where a Copsholder in Fee surrenders out of Court, and dies before it is professed, yet the Surrender being professed at the next Court will stand good, and Celfal que Ufe shall be admitted: So if Celfal que Ufe dies before it is professed, his Heir shall be entitled to the Ufe. But if the Surrender is not professed at the next Court, it is void. Cc. Litt. 62. 2 Dowl. 188. If the Tenants by whose Hands the Surrender was made shall die, and this upon Proof is professed in Court, it is void enough, or 3 Rep. 300. Tenants refusing to make Profession, are compellable in the Lord's Court. And by Surrender of Copshold Lands the Ufe of a Mortgage, the Lands are bound in Equity, though the Surrenderer be not presented at the next Court. 2 Salk. 449. When a Copsholder surrenders upon Condition, and this is professed absolutely, the Pretenion is void: But where a conditional Surrender is professed, and the Steward omits entering the Condition, on Proof thereof the Condition shall not be avoided; but the Rolls shall be amended. 4 Rep. 25. A Copsholder may surrender to the Use of another, referring Rent with a Condition of Re-Entry for Non-payment, and in Default of Payment may re-enter. Rid. 21. If a Copshold of Inheritance, takes a Lease for Years of his Copshold Estate, it is a Surrender in Law of his Copshold. Where there is a Tenant for Life, and Remainder in Fee, he in Remainder may surrender his Estate, if there be no Custum to the contrary. 3 Lew. 349. If a Surrender is made with Remainders over, Celfal lies for him in Remainder against a Copshold for Life, who commits Waste, &c. 3 Lew. 128. A Surrendee of a Reversion of a Copshold, is an Allinnee within the Equity of the Stat. 32 H. 8. to bring Action of Debt or Covenant against a Leaseholder, &c. 1 Salk. 187. A Copsholder in Fee surrenders to the Ufe of one for Life, with Remainder to another for Life; Remainder to another in the past Estate, the remaindermen make but one Estate, there is but one Fine due to the Lord. 2 Dowl. 191. Fines are paid to the Lord on Admissions; and may be due on every Change of the Estate by Lord or Tenant: In Case of a surrender, the Lord may make what Fine he pleases; but Fines are to be reasonable: They are either certain, by Custum, or uncertain: A Fine certain is to be paid presently; but it, if it be uncertain, the Copsholder is to have Notice, and Time to pay it. The Lord may have an Action of Debt for his Fine; or may dilate by Custum. 1 B. & C. 12. A Heriot is a Duty to the Lord, rendered at the Death of the Tenant, or on a Surrender and Alienation of an Estate; and is the best Bequest or Good, found in the Possession of the Tenant deceased, or of his Wife, according to Custum. And for Heriots, Reliefs, &c. the Lord may dilate, or bring Action of Debt. Pengu. 1. The heirs of the Lord, or the Tenant, to which every Copshold in Fee, or Freeholder of a Manor pays to the Lord, on the Death of his An- cellular; and is generally a Year's Profits of his Land. Services, Slayings and any Duty whatsoever are due from the Lord to Tenants; and are not only annual, and accidental; accidental; but corporal, as Homage, Fealty, &c. Cur. Tom. 7, 8, 9. &c. Cappellis eʃfeet, and are forfeited in many Cases; Eʃfeit of a Cappellis Eʃfeit, is either where the Lands fall into the Hands of the Lord, for Want of an heir to him; or where the Cappellis commits Felony, &c. But before the Lord can enter on an Eʃfeit eʃfeit, the Homage jury ought to prefect it. Forfeitures proceeding from Treason, Felonies, Alienation by Deed, &c. a Preemption of them must be also made in Court, that the Lord may have Notice of them. A Cappellis refusing to do Suit of Court, being sufficiently warned, is a Forfeiture of his Estate; unless he be prevented by Sickness, Infrudations of Water, &c. If the Lord demandeth his Rent, and the Cappellis being prefect deny to pay it at the Time required, this is a Forfeiture; but if the Tenant be not upon the Ground when demanded, the Lord must continue his Demand upon the Land, so that by a continual Denial in Law, it may amount to a Denial in Fact: Though it is said there must be a Demand from the Peron of the Cappellis, and a wilful Denial, to make a Forfeiture. A Cappellis not performing due Service, and admitting that he fails a Replevin against the Lord, upon the Lord's lawful Diʃre for his Rent or Services, there are Forfeitures. If the Cummion of the Manor be an estate certain, demandeth his Fine, and the Cappellis denieth to pay it upon Demand, this is a Forfeiture. Upon the Delight of any Cappellis of Inheritance, the Heir by the general Cuʃtom is tied, upon three solemn Proclamations, made at three several Courts, to come in and be admitted to his Cappellis; or if he faileth therein, this Failure worketh a Forfeiture; but if an infant come not in to be admitted at three Proclamations, it is no Forfeiture: So of one beyond Sea, &c. An Ideot, Lunatick, &c. though able to take Cappellis, yet they are unable to forfeit them: And in Respet to others, Forfeitures may be mitigated by Cummion, and the Cappellis only amerced. By Stat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 29. On default of Infrudations, and Fine Covern appearing to be admitted Tenants to Cappellis Lands, the Lords or his Steward may name a Peron to be Guardian or Ator-ney for them, and by such Guardian, &c. admit them: And if the usual Fine thereon be not paid in three Months, being demanded in Writing, the Lord may enter on the Cappellis, and receive the Rents, &c. till the Fine is paid with all Charges. And by this Statute, no Infant or Feme Covert shall forfeit any Cappellis Lands for their Neglect to come to Court to be admitted to his Cappellis, or Refusal to pay any Fine. The general Cummion of Cappellis allows a Cappellis to make a Lease for One Year of his Cappellis Estate, and no more, without incurring a Forfeiture: But a Cappellis may make a Lease for One Year, and with the Leʃfee, that after the End of that Year, he shall have the same for another Year, and fo de anno in anno during the Space of seven Years, &c. and be no Forfeiture. Cur. Tax. 300. Though a Cappellis may not make a Lease to hold for one Year, and from Year to Year during his Life, excepting one Day yearly, &c. which will be a Forfeiture, being a mere Evaʃion. A Woman who was a Cappellis in Fee married, her Husband made a Lease for Years, not warranted by the Cummion, which was a Forfeiture; the Husband dealt so as to the Lord, and adjured the Lord not to take Advantage of this Forfeiture after his Death, but the Wife shall enjoy the Eʃfeit. Cur Car. 7. Lib. 3. sect. 1. a Case of a Cappellis Eʃfeit moves a To a Forfeiture. And yet if a Cappellis for Life furher to another in Fee, this is no Forfeiture; for it paffeth by Surrender to the Lord, and not by Livery. If Cappellis for Life run down Timber Trees, it is a Forfeiture of his Cappellis; Though such Cappellis may take Houʃ-boot, Hedge boot, and Plough boot, upon his Cappellis, of common Right, as a Thing incident to the Estate, if he be not restrained by Cummion, to take them by the Allignment of the Lord or his Bilijff. Where a Cappellis for Life falls Timber, the Lord may take them, and the Eʃfeit is forfeited: But if the Cappellis commits them to cut down Timber, this shall not be a Forfeiture of the Cappellis Eʃfeit, but the Lord is put to his Action of the Cappellis against the Leʃfee. 1 Bif. 150. 253. A Cappellis granted to two for their Lives successively, where the Cummion of the Manor is, that they shall not fell Trees; if the first Cappellis for Life cut down Trees, &c. 'tis not only a Forfeiture of his own Eʃfeit for Life, but of him in Remainder. Mor. 49. In other Cases, a Cappellis for Life committing Waife, shall not forfeit the Eʃfeit of him in Remainder. Eʃdit. 810. If Cappellis for Life, where the Remainder is over for Life, commits a Forfeiture by Waife, &c. he in Remainder shall not enter, but the Lord. a Bow. 158. A Cappellis committing Waife voluntary, or permiffive, this is a Forfeiture: Voluntary, as if he pluck down any Houfe, though built by himself's lot Trees, and fell them, plough up Meadow, whereby the Land is made waste, &c. Permiffive, if he suffer the Roof of the Houfe to let in Rain, or the Houfe to fall; or if he permit his Meadow Ground to be furrounked with Waife, or if he let the Land be furrounked or become unprofitable, &c. thefe and the like are Forfeitures. See a Bow. Abr. 193, 195, 196. &c. 1 Nis. Abr. 509, 510. &c. If a Feme Cappellis for Life takes Huʃband, who commits Waife, and dies, the Eʃfeit of the Feme is forfeited: Though not if a Stranger commit the Waife, without the Consent of the Huʃband. 4 Rep. 57. Most Forfeitures are causd by Acts contrary to the Tenure: But a succeeding Lord of a Manor, shall not have any Advantage of a Forfeiture, by Waife done by a Cappellis in the Time of his Predecessor. 2 Sid. 8. And if a prefent Lord doth any Thing whereby he acknowledges the Peron to be his Tenant after Forfeiture, this Acknowledgment is a Confirmation of his Eʃfeit. Cal. Cas. Cap. 61. The Court of Chancery will not relieve a Cappellis Tenant, against a voluntary Forfeiture, on committing Waife, &c. But it doth for permiffive Waife; and when the Eʃfeit is forfeited for Non payment of Rent, a Fine, or such Things, where a Value may be set on them, and Compennation made the Lord on any Latches of Time, the Tenant may be relieved; for there the Land is but in Nature of a Security for thofe Summs. Proo. Cas. 659, 572. In Cæfae of making a Lease to a Vicar, no Fine is allowed, supplied by Cummon, found to be a Forfeiture at Law, Equity has nothing to do with it, to give any Remedy; it is like to a Feoffment made, or Fine levent by particular Tenants, and the Fines paid to the Lord: Bow. 157, 574. Where Cappellis Lands are purchased in Fee, in Trull for an Alien, the Lands are not feizable by the King; nor is the Trull forfeited to him; for if the Lands were forfeited as purchased for such Alien, then the Lord of the Manor would lose his Fines and Services, &c. Hard. 436. Cappellis Estates of poor Prisoners, allowed to Cappellis, and Alliances admitted by the Lord, on paying the usual Fine due on a Surrender, &c. See Stat. 10 Geo. 2. c. 26. See my Com. Cannon, a Writ to exact a Copy of an Abbey or Religious House. Reg. Orig. 264.

Cannon, a Writ to Strike a Copy of an Abbey or Religious House. Reg. Orig. 264.

Cannonor Eloquent, in a Writ which lies on the Death or Discharge of any Coroner, directed to the Sheriff of the County, to call together the Freeholders of the County, for the choice of a new Coroner; and to certify into the Chancery both the Election, and the Name of the Party elected, and also to give him his Oath, &c. Reg. Orig. 177. F. N. B. 165. There are usually four Coroners in a County, in some Counties fewer, and in some but one, according as the Usage is; and if any of them die, or is discharged, they shall issue this Writ; which is in this Form: The King to the Sheriff, &c. because A. B. late one of our Coroners in your County is dead, as we have understood; and you command you, that if so be, then in your full County Court by the Assent of the same County, in the Place of the said A. B. you cause to be chosen another Coroner, according to the Form of the Statute; and as forth and provided, who having taken his Oath, as the Manner is, shall thence forward those Things do and keep, which to the Office of the Coroner, belongeth in the same County; and such Person cause to be chosen, who shall know, and may that Office attend, and his Name make known to us, Witness, &c.

Cannonor or你想, is a Writ for the Discharge of a Coroner, for Negligence, or Ineffectuality in the Discharge of his Duty: And where Coroners are so far engaged in any other publick Business, that they cannot attend the Office; or if they are disabled by old Age or Diseased, to execute it; or have not sufficient Lands, &c. they may be discharged by this Writ. 2 Inq. 32. 2 Harw. P. C. 44. But if any such Writ be grounded on an untrue Suggestio, the Coroner may procure a Commission from the Chancery to inquire thereof; and if the Suggestio be disproved, the King may make a Superfaculty to the Sheriff, that he do not remove the Coroner; or if he have removed him, that he suffer him to execute the Office. Reg. Orig. 177, 178. F. N. B. 164.

Coroner, (Coronare, a Coroner) is an ancient Officer of this Realm. Nothing being made of him in King Athelstan’s Charter to Beverley, Anno 915: and so is called, because he deals wholly for the King and Court. This Officer by the Statute of Westm. c. 10. ought to be a sufficient Person, that is the wisest and discreetest Knight, that but would and might attend upon such an Office: And there is a Writ in the Register. &c. whereby it appears it was good Cause to remove a Coroner chosen, if he were not a Knight, and had not an hundred Shillings Rent of Frehold. Coroners are to be Men of good Ability, and have Lands in Fee in the County where chosen, to answer all People: And if insufficient, the County shall and shall for them, at Law or in Chancery. Justice of the King’s Bench, is the Sovereign Crown of the whole Kingdom in Person wheretoever he is in Rep. 57. There are also special Coroners, within divers Counties, appointed for the particular Office of Crown in every County; as the Coroner of the Feces, which is a certain Compsal about the King’s Court; who is likewise called Coroner of the King’s House. Comp. Juris. 102. And some Corporations and City are licensed by Charter to appoint their Coroners within their own Precincts. 4 Inf. 271. And for what ailes on the High Sea, we read of Coroners executed by the King or his Admiral. 2 Hale’s Hist. P. C. 371. The Office of Coroners especially concerns the Pleas of the Crown; and they are Conspirators of the Peace in the County where generally elected. Their Authority is Judicial and Ministerial; Judicial, where one comes to a violent Death, and to take and enter Appeals of Murder, pronounce Judgment upon Outlaws, &c. And to inquire of Lands and Goods, and Escapes of Murderers, Treasure Trove, Wreck of the Sea, Deodands, &c. The Ministerial Power is where Coroners execute the King’s Writs, on Exception to the Sheriff, as being Party to a Suit, Kin to either of the Parties, on Default of the Sheriff, &c. 4 Inf. 271. 3 Penn. 75. And the Authority of the Crown, so far as they are not deputed by the Demise of the King; as that of Judges, &c. doth, who act by the King’s Commission. 2 Inf. 174. Where Coroners are empowered to act as Judges, as in taking an Indictment of Death, or receiving an Appeal of Felony, &c. The Act of one of them, is of the same Force as if they had all joined; but after one of them has proceeded to act, the Act of another of them will be void: And where they are authorized to act only ministerially, in the Execution of a Process directed to them upon the Incapacity of the Sheriff, their Acts are valid in all cases they do not all join. 2 Harw. P. C. 51. Hdb. 70. So that Coroners as Ministers must all join; but as Judges, they may divide. But two Coroners ought to be Judges in Reddition, and though the Office be pronounced to be of Outlawry, the Entry ought to be in the Name of all of them: And so of all Processes directed to the Coroners. Staveno. 53. Text. Cust. 85. If the Sheriff is either Plaintiff or Defendant, or one of the Cognizes, the Writ must be directed to the Coroner. Cr. Cas. 300. But the Coroner is not the Officer of B. R. but where the Sheriff is improper; not woely, there is no Sheriff; for if the Sheriff die, the Coroner cannot execute a Writ. In Case of two Coroners, if one is challenged, the other may execute the Writ, &c. yet both make but one Officer; it is in the name of two Sheriffs of a City, &c. 1 Saiz. 144. A Feire facies shall go to the Coroner, where the Sheriff is a Party, or the Defendant is Servant to the Sheriff, &c. but it ought to be on principal Challenge to the Favour. Moz. 470. On Defaults of Sheriffs, Coroners are to impanel Juries, and return Fines on Juries not appearing, &c. 2 H. 5. cap. 8. As the Sheriff in his Turn might inquire of all Felonies by the Common Law, saving the Death of a Man; so the Coroner can inquire of no Felony but of the Death of a Person; and the Sheriff, &c. 4 Inf. 271. By Magna Charta, cap. 17, no Sheriff, &c. or Coroner, shall hold Pleas of the Crown: But by Stat. 16 W. 1. 3 El. 1. c. 10. it is enacted, that Coroners shall lawfully attentive and prefer pleas of the Crown; and that Sheriffs shall have Count-Rolls with the Coroners, as well of Appeals, as of Inquests and Livery for them. 2 Inf. 174. But Appeals might not only receive Accusations against Offenders, but might try them: But since that Statute, they cannot proceed so far; and Appeals before them, are

2. Hen. P. C. 51. By the Statute of Office Coroners is to be cited the Place where any Perfon is slain or suddenly died, and shall by his Warrant to the Bailiff, Constables, &c. summon a Jury out of the four or five neighbouring Towns, to make Inquiry upon View of the Body; and the Coroner and Jury are to inquire into the Manner of Killing, and all Circumstances that occasioned the Party's Death, who were present, whether the dead Perfon were known, where he lay the Night before, 2 Examine the Body if there be any Signs of Strangling about the Neck, or of Cord about the Members, &c. Alio all Wounds ought to be viewed, and Enquiry made with what Weapons, &c. And the Coroner may fend his Warrant for Witneffers, and take their Examination in Writing; and if any appear guilty of the Murder, he shall inquire what Goods and Lands he hath, and then the dead Body is to be buried. A Coroner may likewise commit the Perfon to Prifon who is by his Inquisition found Guilty of the Muder; and the Witneffers are to be bound by Recognizance to appear at the next Assizes, &c. When the Jury have brought in their Verdict, the Coroner is to intoll and return the Inquisition in Writing in Murder, in Murder, Inland, &c. to the Justices of the next Goal-delivery of the Country, or certify it into B. R. where the Murderers shall be proceeded against. 3. Ed. 4. cap. 37. Upon an Inquisition taken before the Coroner, he must put into Writing the Effect of the Evidence given to the Jury before him; and bind them to appear, &c. which is to be certified to the Court with the Inquisition; and neglecting it shall be fined. 1 & 2 P. & M. cap. 13. 1 Lev. 337. The Word Murther is not necessary in a Coroner's Inquisition, though 'tis in an Indictment for another Party.
2. Hen. 4th. It is not necessary that the Inquisition be taken in the Place where the Body was viewed. 2. Hen. 4th. 48. But a Coroner has no Authority to take an Inquisition of Death without View of the Body; and if an Inquest be taken by him without such View, it is void. 2 Lev. 140. The Coroner may in convenient Time take up a dead Body that hath been buried, in Order to view it; but if it be buried so long that he can discover nothing from the View of it; or if there be Danger of Infection, the Inquest ought not to be taken by the Coroner, but by the Parish in the Parish of Witneffers; for can take none on it, but the Coroner. 2. Hen. 4th. 167, 173. If the Body is buried, the Town shall be assessed; as it shall be if the Body is suffocated to lie so long that it stinks. 2. Daws. 309. Where the Body hath lain for some Time, that it cannot be judged how it came by its Death, that must be recorded, that at the Coming of the Justices of Assize, the Town where, &c. may be assessed on Sights of the Coroner's Rolls. A Coroner may find any Nuance by which the Death of a Man happens; and the Township shall be assessed on such Finding. 1. Niff. Ab. 536. If one is slain in the Day, and the Murderer escapes, the Town where done shall be assessed, and the Coroner to inquire thereof on View of the Body. 3. Hen. 7. c. 1. A Coroner may take an Indictment upon View of the Body; as also an Appeal, within a Year after the Death of one slain. Wadd's Inf. 491. But a Coroner's super visum Coroner, cannot make an Inquisition of an Accrual after the Murder; though he may of Accruals before the Fact. Mar. 29. Coroner ought to sit and inquire on the Body of every Prisoner that is slain in Prifon. They have no Jurisdiction within the Verge of the King's Courts; nor of Offences committed at Sea, or between high and low Water Mark, when the Tide is in; though they have in Arms and Creek of the Sea. 3. Inf. 139. If a Body is drowned, and cannot be found to be viewed, the Inquisition must be taken by Justices of the Peace. 5. R. &c. 110. Where a Coroner's Inquest is quitted, he must make a new one super visum Coroner: And a Coroner may attend and amend its Inquisition in Matters of Fact: But it shall be made by himself, and a Mollus Inquisition is granted upon it, that Inquisition must be taken by the Sheriff or Commissioners, upon Affidavits, and not super visum Coroner; because none but a Coroner can take Inquisition super visum, &c. and he is not to be trusted again. 1. Salk. 190. 2. Daws. Ab. 210. If a Coroner hath Not Guilty of any corrupt Practice, Britain, &c. in taking the Inquisition, a Mollus Inquisition may be awarded for taking a new one by special Commissioners, &c. Coroner conceiving Felonies, &c. are to be fined, and suffer one Year's Imprisonment. 3. Ed. 1. cap. 9. Alio for Mismanagement in the Coroner, Filling the Inquisition may be stopped. 1. Med. 82. A Coroner's Inquisition is not transferable: If it be found before the Coroner super visum Coroner, that one was Fals de fact. the Executors or Administrators of the Deceased, it is said, cannot transfer it. 3 Inf. 55. But it has been held that the Inquest being moved into B. R. by Cerisari, may be there travelled by the Executor or Admi- nistrator of the Deceased. 2. Hen. 54. And it hath been adjudged, that the Inquisition of Fals de fact is not transferable; though Fals fact is not to be travelled. 2. Lev. 15. 150. If the Coroner's Inquisition being final, the Coroner ought to hear Counsel, and Evidence on both Sides. 2. Sid. 90, 101. The Coroner must admit Evidence, as well against the King's Interest as for it; but it hath been held, that if a Perfon be killed by another, and it is certainly known that he did it, the Coroner's Jury are to hear the Evidence only for the King. And inquire whether the Killing were by Malice, or without Malice. &c. Per Hales C. J. Where a Coroner would not admit of Evidence against the King, to prove a Fals de fact to be Non compos Mentis, his Inquisition was in abeyance: and in new Inquisition taken, whereby it was found that the Party was Non compos. 2. Hales's Hist. P. C. 60. If there be an Inquisition of Man slaughter or Murder, and also an Indictment by the Grand Jury against one, he is arraigned, and found Not Guilty on the Indictment; here it is necessary to quash the Coroner's Inquisition, or to arraign the Party upon it, and acquit him on that also: For otherwise it stands as a Record against him, whereas he may possibly be outlawed. 2. Hales 65. And where a Per son found Guilty by the Coroner's Inquest, pleads, and is acquitted by the Per son must give in who it was that killed the Man, which serves as an Indictment against that other Per son, and if they cannot tell who, they may mention some fictitious Name. Ibid. By the Stat. 3. Ed. 1. cap. 10. Coronets shall demand or take nothing for doing their Offices: And by the ancient Law of England, none having any Office concerning the Administration of Justice, could take any Fee for doing his Office; and therefore this Statute was only in Affirmance of the Common Law. By 3 Hen. 7. cap. 1. upon an Inquisition taken on View of the Body, the Coroner shall have 13s. 4d. Fee of the Goods of the Murderers; and if he be gone, out of the Amusement of the Town for the Ecape. Though the 1. Corruption of Blood, (Corrupio Sanguinis) Is an Infection growing to the State of Man, and to a Man hath hald his Blood in Right of his Wife hath hiffe, and his Blood is corrupt by Attainer of Felony, and the King pardons him; in this Case, if the Wife dies before him, he shall be Writ Deo by the Curtey, although the hiffe which he had before the Pardon be not inheritable. 13 H. 7, 6, 17. A Son attained of Treason or Felony in the Life of his Ancestor, obtains the King's Pardon before the Death of his Ancestor, he shall not be Heir to the said Ancestor, but the Land shall rather eichent to the Lord of the Fee by the Corruption of Blood. 12 Ed. 3, 52 H. 8. But if a Man feiled of Lands in Hesse two Sons, and the Eldest is attained in the Life time of his Father, and after the Father dies seiled; the youngest Son shall inherits the Lands as he had them. If an Father, and the eldest Son leaves no hifice alive: Contr. if he hath hifice, which should have inherited but for the Attainer; then the Land shall seiled. 1 Inf. 8, 391.

Coafeprent, (From the Fr. Corps prepere) is a Word signifying a Mortuary: And the Reason why it was thus termed seems to be, that where a Moru-uary became due on the Death of any Man, the Belt or second Brust was, according to Custom, offered or presented to the Priest, and carried with the Corps.

Coafed Brust, (Patris coarctati) Ordinal Bread: In this Bread it was wont to maintenance of Trial among the Saxons, to purge themselves of any Accusation, by taking a Piece of Barley Bread, and eating it with sacrim Oaths and Exorcisms, that it might prove Purje, or their last Morti, if what they afforad or denied were not punctually true. Three Pieces of Bread were first extacted by the Priest, and then offered to the suspected guken. Perim to be swallowed by Way of Pargazion: For they believed a Perim, if guilty, could not swallow a Mortel so accursed; or if he did, it would shak him. The Form was thus: We before Thee, O Lord, that thou be made it guilt of this Theif, when the Exceded Bread is offered to him in Order to discover the Truth, that his Fawes may to Thee, his Teart to narrou that he may not frustrate, and that he may cast it out of his Mouth, and not eat it. Do Cume. The old Form, or Exac-tisssis patris bordeauii ac co apo Proclamationi unui, is extant in Lindeswaf, pag. 107. And in the

From which it is conjectured, that Coafed Brust was originally the very Sacramental Bread, consecrated and devoted to the Priest, and received with Solemn Abjuration, and devout Exspeince, that it should proove Mortel to those that dared to swallow it within a Lie in their Mouth; till at Length the Bishops and Clergy were afraid to prostitute the Communion Bread to such rath and conceited Ules, when to indulge the People in their superfluous Fancies, and idle Cuflons, they allowed them to prudize what the judici-ial Rite, in eating some other Morul of Bread, byt lest to curt to the like Ules. It is recorded of the pious Odincus Earl of Kent, in the Time of King Edward the Confessor, that on his Abiriting theMurder of the King's Brother, by this Way of Trial, as a just Judgment of his solemn Perjury, the Bread broke in two, and choked him. God Wolvas are mentioned in Domesday.

Caterius, The Names of Places which begin or end with these Words or Syllables, have the Signification of a little House or Cottage: There are likewise Downe-Caes, which are small Houses or Places Caterius, Caterius, Both dignify a small Cottage, House or Homecastle. Cual.

Caterius, Caterius, according to Spelman and Du Froyn, are servile Tenants: But in Domesday and other ancient MSS. there appears a Difinction, as well in their Tenure and Quality, as in their Name. For the Caterius had a free Socage Taureau, and paid a fixed Firm or Rent in Provisions or Winery, with some occasional culinary Services; whereas the Cotteris seems to have held in mere

Cottage,
Cottage. (Cottageum) Is properly a little House for the Habitation of poor Men, belonging to the Statute, 4 Ed. 1. But by a later Statute, the 31 El. cap. 7. No Man may build a Cottage, unless he lay four Acres of Land thereto; except it be in Market-Towns or Cities, or if he be a Leifor, or for the Habituation of Labourers in Mines, Stitols, Foresters, Shepherds, &c. and Cottages erected by Order of Judges of Peace, &c. for poor Impotent People, are excepted out of the Statute. The four Acres of Land to make it a Cottage within this Law, are to be Freehold, and Land of Inheritance: And four Acres of Crown hold land, by Copyhold, or for the term of three or four Years, or for any Number of Years, will not be sufficient to make it a lawful Cottage. 2 Inst. 737. Also the four Acres in Fee-simple, or Fee-Tail, must lie near the Cottage, and be occupied therewith, so long as the Cottage shall be inhabited. 2 Roll. Ab. 139. But this Statute doth not extend to Housies that are Copyhold. 1 Bugg. 50. The Penalty of eroding Cottages contrary to the Statute, is 10s. for every Error, and a Month for the Continuance of it; which is inapplicable in the Leet, or the Offenders may be punished by Indictment at the Quarter Sessions, &c. And no Owner or Occupier of any Cottage shall suffer any Inmates, or more Families than one to inhabit therein, on Pain to forfeit to the Lord of the Leet 10s. a Month, &c. for the Poor, whereof Waste, without or on the Leet, or the Manors, in Writing under Hand and Seal; but then it must be confirmed by the Justices in Sessions. N. 57. 1522. Cottages of new ered Cottages within the Memory of Man, ought not to have Common in the Lord's Woule, though they have four Acres of Land laid to them. 2 Inst. 445. Cotton, a Cottage, that is, indorsed as is fitting. 4 A. B. c. 12. See Pard. 478. Cotturers, (Cotturers,) (Cotturers,) Is the Confect and Agreement of two or more Persons to do or not to do such Act or Thing, concerned in their Names. Also it is the Declaration the Parties make, that they will stand to such Agreement, relating to Lands or other Things; and is granted by Deed in Writing, sealed and delivered. In the absence of a Deed, it may also be implied in the Contract as incident thereto. 2 Mod. Extr. 91. And if the Perffus do not perform their Cotturers, a Write or Action of Cotturers is the Easiest to recover Damages for the Breach of them. Ibid. A Covenant, in general, is either in Fact or in Law. In Fact, it is that which is made between the Parties, and entered into the Deed; and in Law, is that Covenant which the Law intends and implies, though it be not expressly in Words; and as a Leifor deems his Leifor his Cottage or Habitation, &c. and the Housie or Lands, &c. for a certain Term, the Law will intend a Covenant on the Leifor's Part, that the Leifor shall during the Term quietly enjoy the same against all Incumbrances. 1 Inst. 384. There is also a Covenant Real, and Covenant Personal; A real Covenant is that whereby a Man ties himself to pass a Thing real, a Mod. 35. or Tenements; or to levy a Fine of Lands, &c. And Covenant personal, is where the same is annexed to the Person and merely personal; as if a Person Covenants with another by Deed to build him a House, or to serve him, &c. F. N. B. 145. 5 Rep. 10. Covenants are likewise Inheritable, that tend to the Support of the Land or Thing granted; or are collateral to it; and are afterward to be performed, or negatve; executed, of what is already done, or executed: But a Covenant being to bind a Man, to do anything in future, is for the most part executory. 1 Penn. 176. Dyer 118. 371. And where a Covenant shall be construed dependant upon one, and when dependant by itself, see Winch. 74. 3 C. R. 107. Further, this Word is taken in the solemn league and Covenant; which was a tedious Conspiracy, invented in Scotland, and voted illegal by Parliament, and Provision is made against it, by Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. All Covenants between Persons must be to do what is lawful, or they will not be binding; and if the Thing to be done be impossible, the Covenant is void. Dyer 112. But where the Thing is lawful at the Time of the Covenant made, and afterwards the Matter agreed to be done, is prohibited by Act of Parliament, yet such Covenant will be binding: and if a Covenant to do a Thing before a certain Time; and it becomes impossible by the Act of God, this shall not excuse him, inasmuch as he hath bound himself precisely to do it. 2 Dows. Ab. 84. Ain. 25. 27. 1 Lid. Ab. 349. But he is not so bound by Covenant in Law, where Housies are shown down by Tempest, the Law excuses the Leifor in Action of Woule; though in a Covenant to repair and uphold, it will not. 1 Plowd. 29. If a Leifor for Years, rendring Rest, covenants for him and his Affigns to repair the House, and after the Leftor assign to the Term, and the Leifor accepts the Rent from the Affignee, and then the Covenant is broken; notwithstanding Acceptance of Rent from the Affignee, Action of Covenant lies against the first Leifor, on his expresss Covenant to repair; and this Personal Covenant cannot be transferred by the Acceptance of the Rent. 3 Dows. Ab. 240. Action of Covenant also lies on Covenant for Payment of Rent against such Leifor; but not Action of Debt after Acceptance. 3 Rep. 24. In Covenant upon a Demise, rendring Rest, the Defendant cannot pay, that Part of it was to be allowed; for this is a Covenant against a Covenant. Camb. 21. There may be an Agreement and Covenant, only to be formed by the Parties themselves; and there are some Covenants which none but the Party and his Heirs may take Advantage of, being such as concern the Inheritance and Right to the Housie, such as the Right to the Estate: Covenants in gross go to the Executors, &c. 1 Roll. Aigees shall not have an Action upon Breach of any Covenant, before their Time. Co. Eliz. 865. Nor shall an Aignee be charged in a Writ of Covenant for any Breach, after the Death of the first Leiffe; as it is personal to the Leiffe himself. 2 Dower. 238. If A. failed of Land in Fer, conveys it to B. and covenant with B. his Heir and Aignees, to make any other Affurance upon Request; and after A. conveys it to C. who conveys it to D. and then D. requires A. to make another Affurance, according to the Covenant; if he refuses, D. shall have Action of Covenant against him, as Aignee to B. Ibid. 250. A Leiffe made a Lease of an House for Years, excepting two Rooms, and free Pallage to them; the Leiffe assigned the Term, and the Leiffe in the Lease, Aigee for disturbing him in his Pallage to those Rooms; and adjudged that the Aignee lies: For the Covenant goes with the Tenement, and binds the Aignees. 3 Co. 156. If a Man leases for Years, andosal affection, he shall have Covenant against him. Ed. 3. 2. But if, where a Peron lesse Lands for Years, a Stranger enters before the Leiffe, such Leiffe shall not have an Action of Covenant upon this Outlet, because he was never a Leiffe in Privity to have the Action. 2 Dower. 234. A Man grants a Watercourse, and afterwards adds another Land. 2 Co. 374. The Aignee is estopled by his own Act, and conveys a Covenant with a Liability. 1 Sound. 321. Though where the Use of a Thing is deserted, and it runs to decay, so that the Leiffe cannot perform, if this be without an Action of Covenant lying: Nor may Covenant be brought for a Thing which was not in use at the Making of the Leiffe. 2 Dower. 233. If one makes a Lease for Years, referring a Rent, Aionee of Covenant lies for Non-payment of the Rent; for the Redundum of the Rent is an Agreement for Payments of it, which will make a Covenant. Ibid. 250. A Lease is made to two, and one Seals the Deed, but the other doth not; if he ac cepts the Estate and occupies the Lands, he is bound to perform the Covenant for Payment of the Rent, Repa rations, and the like. 1 Steph. Abr. 458. Where there is an Agreement, which is more for Land and Seal, Action of Covenant may be brought on it: And if a Man is Party to a Deed, his Agreement to pay amounts to a Covenant, though formal Words are wanting. 2 Moi. 259. Action of Covenant lies on a Deed indented, or Poll: Allen on a Bond, it proving an Agreement. 2 Dower. 228. 1 Litt. Abr. 436. And if one covenant to make a Man cannot perform, if it be not because he may have Action of Debt for the 26. Yet This he may have a Writ of Covenant at his Election. 1 Dower. 236. 2 Dower. 250. If A. shall pay to C. D. 100 for Lands in E. this is a mutual Covenant, whereon Action of Covenant may be brought if C. D. will not convey. 1 Sid. 423. But where there are mutual Covenant, and the one not to be performed before a precedent Covenant, in such Case the Covenant is not liable to the other is performed: Though if the Covenants are dill and several, Actions may be brought by and against the Parties. 1 Litt. Co. Eliz. 43. 1 Nott. Abr. 557. Where the Covenantor is to do a Thing, and no Time appointed for it, it must be done in convenient Time: If it be inentered in a Deed among other Covenants, that the Leissee shall repair, provided the Leissee allows Timber, &c. this will be a good Covenant on both sides. 2 Abr. 73. Dyer 57. 150. Hob. 28. But a Covenantor must wait upon and join with the Grantor; for so it is not a conscience. It must be sufficiently devised, it must be of an Affurance as differs not from the Bargain: And when the Eatee to which a Covenant is annexed is at an End, the Covenant is gone. Hob. 279. 1 Litt. 170. In an Indenture, the Word Covenant, is a Word both of Leissee and Lease; and therefore if the Leissee covenant to pay the Rent, this is a Refinament. Though where there is a Covenant for a Leissee to repair, he makes an Underlease to one who is in Possession, the Under Leissee is not liable to that Covenant, in Law or Equity. 1 Rol. Rep. 80. 1 Faw. 87. This held in all Cases where Words that begin any Sentence are conditional, and give another a Remedy, they shall not be construed a Covenant; and yet if Words of Condition and Covenant are coupled together in the same Sentence, as Provided always, and it is covenanted, &c. in that Case they may be adjudged both a Condition and Covenant. March 103. There is the Difference however between a Covenant and Condition; a Condition gives Entry, and Covenant gives an Action only. Owen 54. Covenants are generally taken most strongly, for the Covenant, and for the Covenant. Plead. 287. But it is a Rule in Law, that where one Thing may have several Interludes, it shall be construed in the most favourable Manner for the Covenantor. 1 Lew. 450. The common Use of Covenants is for alienating of Land; quiet Enjoyment free from Incumbrances; for Payment of Rent reserved; and concerning Repairs, "Er," and in Deeds of Covenant, sometimes a Clause for Performance with a Penalty, is inserted in the Body of the Deed: Other Times, and more frequently Bonds for Performance, with a sufficient Penalty, are given separate: which last being sued, the Jury must find the Penalty; but on Covenant, only the Damages. Wood's Inf. 210. It is held an Action of Covenant may be laid in London, for Non-payment of Rent on a Lease of Lands in any other Place. 1 Sid. 401. And if in this Action, a Sum be miscalled, either too little or too much; it is amenable; and not like to the Action of Deed, where if it should be less, the Plaintiff, without shewing the Reft to be satisfied, it is ill. 3 Keb. 359. 2 Lew. 247. In Action of Covenant, the Plaintiff must have Receipt to the Deeds or Writings, and the Circumstances of Time, Place, "Er," and take Notice what particular Covenant the Deed is bel. to inflict upon, to lay a Breach right. Covenant to bind feided of Efig. Is when a Man that hath a Wife, Children, Brother, Sister, or Kindred, doth by Covenant in Writing under Hand and Seal agree that for their or any of their Provisions or Preferment, he and his Heirs will bind feided of Land to their use; either in Fee-simple, Fee tail, or for Life. The Ufe being created by the Stat. 27 H. 8. c. 10, which conveyeth the Eligue as the Ulfs are di. rected to this Covenant to bind feided, shall become a Covenant of the conveyance of the Land since the said Statute. The Covenants of their Deeds, are natural Affection, Marriage, "Er," and the Law allows in such Cases Conde. ilation of Blood and Marriage, to raie Ulfs, as well as Money and other valuable Consideration when a Ufe is to a Stranger. Plead. 302. There are no Con. fiderations now to raie Ulfs upon Covenants to bind feided, but natural Love and Affection, which is for Advancement of Blood; and Condemnation of Marriage, which is the joining of the Blood and Marriage together: Other Considerations, as Money, "Er," for Land, though the Words in the Deed are bound feided, yet they are Bargains and Sales, and without Intention they raie no Ufe. Carter 138. Litt. Abr. 353. The usual Covenant to bind feided to Ulfs need not be by Deed indented and inscribed: And where a Man li. mits his Elige to the Ufe of his Wife for Life, this imports a sufficient Consideration in itself: As if a Person covenant to bind feided to the Ufe of his Wife, Scn, or Cousin, it will raie an Ufe without any ex. press Words of Consideration, for sufficient Conde. ilation appears. After a lesser Covenant, a Ufe of a Covenant to bind feided, to much of the Ufe as the Owner doth nor dispose of, remains still in him. 1 Featr. 374. And where an Ufe is raied by Way of Covenant, the Covenantor continues in Possession and there the Ufe limited, limited, if they are according to Law, shall rise and draw the Partition out of him: But if they are not, the Partition shall remain in him until a lawful Use arise: 1. Lees, 175. 1. Mor. 159. 68. If on a Covenant in fee to be seized to any Us, no Use doth arise, yet it may be good by Way of Covenant and give Remedy to the Covenantor in an Action; as if the Covenantor be future, that in Consideration of a Marriage, Lands shall descend or remain to a Son, and the Heirs of his Body on the Body of his Wife: in this Case the Covenantor may have Right of Covenant upon the Covenant against the Covenantor: But if a Covenant be that a Man and his Heirs, shall from henceforth have and be seized to itself, and such Uses, and the Uses will not arise by Law; here no Action of Covenant lies on the Covenantor, for this Action will never be upon any Covenant such as is either to do a Thing hereafter, or where the Thing is already done, and not when it is for a Thing present. 2. Covin, (Covine) Is a deceitful compact between two or more to deceive or prejudice others; as if Tenant for Life or in Tail, confines with another, that she shall recover the Land which he the Tenant holds, in Prejudice of him in Reversion. Poswik. 546. Covine is commonly conversant in and about Conveyances of Land by Fine, Purchase, Recovery, &c. And then it tends to defeat Purchasers of the Lands they purchase, and Creditors of their Due Debts; and it is used in Deeds of Gift of Goods: it may be likewise sometime in Sales of Goods, and judgments had on them, but where ever Covine is, it shall never be intended, unless it appears and be particularly found; for Covine and good faith though proved, yet must be found by the Jury, or it will not be good. Br. 188. Bridg. 112. If one make a Lease to a Person by Covine, and after grant another Lease to another man fals, but without any Fine or Rent, in this Case the second Lease may not avoid the first Lease, because he is not a Purchaser that comes in for Money. 3 Rep. 83. On Recovery by a good Title; there may be a Covine; as where Tenant for Life by Atenent, &c. suffers a Recovery by Nil quit, without making any Defence: And if a Man hath a rightful and just Claim of Action, and of Covine and Contract shall raise up a Tenant by Wrong against whom he may recover; the Covine doth sufficeth the Right, that the Recovery, although it be upon good Title, shall not bind. Ann. Abr. 118. If a Man that has a Right to certain Lands, by Covine ensues ano. ther to oust the Tenant of the Land, to the Intent to recover it from him, and he recovers accordingly against him by Action tried; yet he shall not be remitted from what is in the Moot, or the Estoppel of an Estate of him who made the Outter; and an Action lies against him. 2 Daws. Abr. 509. Land is aliened, pending a Writ of Debt, by Coven, to avoid the Extent thereof for the Debt: the Land so aliened may be extenuated, when the Covenant appears upon the Return of the Elong by the Sheriff. Ibid. 311. If a Man makes a Deed of Gift, &c. of his Goods in his Life-time by Covine, to avoid his Creditors of his Life-Debt, after his Death the Donee or Vendee shall be charged for them. 13 H. 4. 7. Counter, (Computerium, from the Lat. Computare) Is the Name of two Prisons in London, the Poultry, Counter, and Woodstreet Counter, for the Use of the City, to confine Debtors, Peace breakers, &c. where if any enter, he is like to encounter before he gets out. See Culc.

Counterfeit. Persons obtaining any Money, Goods, &c. by Counterfeit Letters or false Tokens, being convicted before Justices of Assize, or Justices of Peace, are to suffer such Punishment as shall be thought fit by the Justices, Pillory, &c. Stat. 33 H. 8. cap. 1. It was the Opinion of Sir Edward Coke, that upon this Statute the Officer could not be fined; and that no corporal Pains ought to be inflicted: But it hath been otherwise adjudged in Terry's Case, who by a false Note in the Name of another obtained into his Hands a Wadge of Silver, the Value of two hundred Pounds of Money, and on Conviction thereof, was sentenced to stand in the Pillory, pay a Fine of five hundred Pounds to the King, and to be imprisoned during the King's Pleasure. 3 Co. Cas. 427. The Obtaining of Money from one Man to another's Use, upon a false Precence of having a Mortgage and verbal Order to that Purpose, is not punishable by criminal Prosecution; it depending on a bare naked Lie, against which common Prudence and Caution may be a Security. 6 H. 10. 1. Hareh. P. C. 185. Counter-Countermand, Is where a Thing formerly executed, is afterwards by some Act or Ceremony made void by the Party that first did it. And it is either actual by Deed, or implied: Actual where a Power to execute any Authority, &c. is by a formal Writing for that very Purposr put off for a Time, or made void: And implied is where a Man makes a Will and Testament, and thereby devoids his Land to A. B. if he afterwards enfoths another of the same Land, here this Countermand is a Countermand without any express Words for the same, and the Will be void as to the Dist-position of the Land: Else if a Woman feized of Land in Fee simple, makes a Will and deviseth the same to C. D. and his Heirs, if he surviveth her; and after the intermarriages with the said C. D. there by taking him to Husband, and Coverture at the Time of her Death, the Will is countermanded. Terms de

Le 125. But if a Woman makes a Lease at Will, and then marries, this Marriage is no Countermand to the Lease, without express Matter done by the Husband, either before or after: For if, as said above, a libell be devised, and after a Lease made thereof for Years only; it shall not be a Countermand of the Will, which is good notwithstanding for the Revocation after the Lease for Years is ended: But in Cases a Man have a Lease for Years, and gives it by his Will, and after Surrenders it; it is a Countermand of the Devise, and the Devise shall not have this Lease. Dyre 47. Goldk. 93. If a Copyholder like to die, do surrender his Estate to the Use of his Wife or Children, without any Confidation of Money, &c. and before he is declared by the Prentest and Adimittance, it may be Countermanded; 'Tis otherwise if it be to the Use of a Stranger. Titus 28. 2. If there be a Peacemonger of Authority to make Money and Sport; and before it is made the Prof-for makes a Peacemonger, or Bargain and Sale of the Land, or Lease to another, it will be a Countermand in Law of the Authority given by the Letter of Atorney. 2 Browne. 291. A Person may countermand his Command, Authority, Licence, &c. before the Thing is done; and if he dies, it is countermanded.

There is a Countermand of Notice of Trial, &c. in Law Proceedings.

Counterpart, Is when the Tenant in any real Action, Tenant by the Curtesy, or in a Fower, in his Answer and Plea, vouches any one to warrant his Title, or prays in Aid of another, who hath a larger Eftate; as of him in Reveriion, &c. Or where one that is a Stranger to the Action, comes and prays to be received to have his Eftate: then that which the Demandant alledged against it, why it should not be admitted, is called a Counterpart: In which Sense it is cited Stat. 2 Ed. 3. cap. 29. So that Counterpart is in Law a Replication to Aid Prius; and is called Counterpart to the Fea. her: But when the Voucher is allowed, and the Plaintiff comes and demands what Caufe the Tenant hath to vouch him, and the Tenant shews his Caufe, whereupon the Vou-

County, (Comitatus) Signifies the name with Shire, the one coming from the French, the other the Sauson; and contains a Circuit or Portion of the Realm, into which the whole Land is divided, for the better Government of it, and the due Administration of Justice: So that there is no Part of this Kingdom that lies not within some County; and every County is governed by a yearly Officer whom we call a Sheriff. Ferrius, cap. 24. Of these Countries, there are in England forty, besides twelve in Wales, making in all fifty two: And four of them are of special Note, which are therefore termed Countries Palatine; as Lancaster, Cheshire, Durham, and Es; and we read anecdotally of the Countryside Palatine of Pembroke and Hereford, though they have long since lost their Privileges. The Chief Governors of the Countryside Palatine, by special Charter from the King, heretofore did all Things touching the Administration of Justice, and as the Power himself in other Counties, onlly acknowledging him their Superior and Sovereign; But by the Stat. 27

Trial proceeds, &c. whereupon, if Verdict is given for the Plaintiff, Judgment is entered, and a Fieri Facias may be awarded against the Defendant's Goods, which may be taken by Virtue thereof, and be ap priated and sold to satisfy the Plaintiff: But if the De defendant hath no Goods, the Plaintiff is without Re dermy. A Fieri Facias cannot lie therein, but an Action may be brought at Common Law, upon the Judgment entered. Greenwood of Courts, p. 231.
No Sheriff is to enter in the County Courts, any Plaintiff in the Ambleside, for one Caufe, under Penalties: The Defendant in the County Court is to have lawful Summons; and Country-Rates, Are those ordered by Judges of Peace at their Quarter-Settions, who may make one General Rate, to answer all former doubtful Rates, which shall be allotted to every Parish, &c. and collected and paid by the High Court of Hundreds to Treasu ers appointed by the Judges; which Money shall be conveyed to the Publick Stock, and be laid out in Repairing of Bridges, Gates, or Houses of Corrección, on Prestentment made by the Grand Jury, at the Alfairs or Quarter-Settions, of their wanting Repair: But the same may be laid by the Judges at their Discretion, and Overfrais of the Poor of the Parishes to the Judges at the next Sessions, against the Rate on any particular Parish.

Court of Admiralty, (Curia Admirabilis) Was erected, in generally held, by King Ed. 3, for decreeing Maritime Causes; and the Title of its judge is Supreme Curia Admirabilis Sicilia Lucam tenent, Judex Admirabilis. The Authority of the Admiralty Courts shall be a Court of Record, because it proceeds by the Civil Law; and the Judge has no Power to take such a Recognition, as a Court of Record may: The Proceedings and Proceedings are in the Name of the Lord Admiral, and by Libel; and the Plaintiff and Defendant enter into a Stipulation, or Bond, for Appearance, and to abide the Sentence. 4 Inf. 134, 135. Court Baron, (Curia Barrius) Is a Court which every Lord of a Manor, hath within his own Precinct: It is an Indispensable Incident to the Manor; and must be held by Precedent, or may be granted; and be granted at the General Court of the Manor. 1 Inf. 58. 4 Inf. 268. A Court Baron must be kept on some Part of the Manor: And is of two Natures. 1. By Custom, which is the Baron or Freeholders’ Court, of which the Freeholders being Suits are the Judges: and this cannot be a Court Baron, without two Suits at least. 2. By Custom, which is called the Cale Court, or Concerns the Caleonyr, Tenants and Caleermens, whereof the Lord, or his Steward is Judge. The Court Baron may be of this double Nature, or one may be without the other: But as there can be no Court Baron at Common Law without Freeholders; so there cannot be a Caleonic Court without Copyholders or Caleonyr. 4 Rep. 26, 6 Rep. 11, 12, 2 Inf. 119. The Freeholders’ Court, which hath Jurisdiction for bringing of Actions of Debt, Trespafts, &c. under 401, may be held every three Weeks; and is something like a Cale Court, and the Proceedings much the same: Though on Recovery of Debt, they have not Power to make Execution, but are to discharge the Defendant’s Goods, and retain them till Satisfaction is made. The other Courts Baron, for taking and sailling of Estates, Surrender’s, Admissions, &c. is held but once or twice in a Year, (usually with the Court Leet) unless it be on Purpose to grant an Estate; and then it is held as often as re quire. In this Court the H. R. may be to inquire that their Lords do not lose their Services, Duties, or Custom; but that the Tenants make their Suits of Courts; pay their Reets and Hestoss, &c. and keep their Lands and Tenements in Repair; they are to present all common and private Nuisances, which may prejudice the Lord’s Manor; and every publick Tri paits must be punished in this Court, by Amonestm, on presenting the same. Court of Chancery, (Curia Christianissima) Is an Ecclesiastical Judicature, opposed to the Civil Court, or Lay Courts Ecclesiastical. (Curia Eclesiastica) Are those Courts which are held by the King's Authority as supreme Governor of the Church, for Matters which chiefly concern Religion. 4 S. 321. And the Laws and Practice by the Church of England is governed, are, 1. Divers immemorial Customs. 2. Our own Provincial Constitutions; and the Canons made in Convocations, especially those in the Year 1603, 3. Statutes or Acts of Parliament concerning the Affairs of Religion, or Courts of Ecclesiastical Cognizance; particularly the Rubrics in our Common Prayer Book, founded upon the Statutes of Uniformity. 4. The Articles of Religion, drawn up in the Year 1562, and established by 35 Eliz. cap. 12. 5. And 'in use, by the General Canons Law, where all others fail. See 25 Hen. 8. c. 28. As to Suits in Spiritual or Ecclesiastical Courts, they are for the Reformation of Manners, or for punishing of Heresy, Detraction, laying violent Hands on a Cleric, or any Person; and from their Suits to recover demanded, as Tithes, a Legacy, Contract of Marriage, &c. And in the Canons of this Nature, the Courts may give Bulls, but not Damages: Things that properly belong to these Jurisdictions are Maritimal and Territorial, and Defamatory Words, for which no Action lies at Law; as for false Accusations, one or more Accusers, unlike the like. 13 Eliz. 54. Dyer 240. The Proceedings in the Ecclesiastical Courts, are according to the Civil and Canons Law, by Citation, Libel, Affidavit, Oath, Proof by Witness, and Prelates. &c. and after Sentence, for Contempt, by Excommunication: And if the Sentence is discharged, by Appeal. The Jurisdiction of these Courts, is voluntary, or compul- sory: And the Penalties inflicted by them, are Penalties and Punishments per falsos Avos, by way of Penance, &c. They are not Courts of Record. Vide Common Law. Court of Husting. (Curia Husting) Is the highest Court of Record, holden at Guildhall, for the City of London, before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, the Sheriffs, and Recorders. This Court determines all pleas real, personal, and mixt: And here all Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, Rents and Services, within the City of London, and Suburbs of the same, are pleadable in two Hustings: one called Husting of the Pleas of Lands, and the other Husting of Common Pleas. In the Husting of Pleas of Land, the tenant is not to plead his own Suit to the Sheriffs of London, on which Writs the Tenant shall have three Summons at the three Husting next following; and after the third Summons there shall be three Effusions at three other Hustings next ensuing; and at the next Husting after the third Effusion, if the Tenant makes Default, Proceeds shall be had against him by Grand Jury, or Petty Jury, &c. And if the Tenant appears, the Demandant is to declare in the Nature of what Writ he will; without making Proclamation to sue in Nature of any Writ: Then the Tenant shall have the View, &c. and if the Parties plea to Judgment, the Judgment shall be given by the Recorder: But no Damages, by the Custom of the Town: In which also the Writ of Right Patent Practic. Sali. 416, 417. In the Hustings of common Pleas, are pleadable Writs Ex quo Currit, Writs of Gavelot, of Dover, Writs of the Sheriff, &c. The Writs of Exemptions are taken out in the Husting; and in the fifth Husting the Outlawries are awarded, and Judgment pronounced by the Recorder. If an erroneous Judgment is given in the Husting, the Party making the Error, may apply out of Chancery directed to certain Persons to examine the Record, and therupon do Right. 1 Rel. Abr. 795. Court of Lect, (Leta, Vita franeci plagis) Is a Court of Record, ordained for punishing Offences against the Case of Marital Debt, (Curia Palatina) A Court of Record to hear and determine Causes between the Servants of the King's Household and others within the Verge; and hath Jurisdiction of all Matters within the Varge of the Court, and of Pies of Trespass, where either Party is of the King's Family; and of all other Actions personal, wherein both Parties are the King's Servants: and this is the original Jurisdiction of the Court of Martial. But the Curia Palatina, erected by K. Charles I. by Letters Patent, in the 6th Year of his Reign, and made a Court of Record, hath Power to try all Personal Actions, as Debt, Trespass, Slander, Treason, Actions on the Case, &c. between Parties, who, and the Liberty whereof extends twelve Miles about Windsor; which Jurisdiction hath since been confirmed by K. Charles the Second: And the Judges of this Court, are the King's Privy Council, and hold, and Knight Marshal for the Time being, and the Steward of the Court, or his Deputy, being always a Lawyer.

Case of Trespass. 20 Hen. 4, 31. This Case is kept once a Week in Southwark: And the Proceedings here are either by Suit or Attachment; which is to be served on the Defendant, by one Knight Marshal, who, with his Deputy, who takes Bond with Sureties for his Appearance at the next Court; upon which Appearance, he must give Bail, to answer the Condemnation of the Court; and the next Court after the Bail is taken, the Plaintiff is to declare, and set forth the Cause of his Action, and afterwards proceed to Libel and Trial by a Jury, according to the Custom of the Common Law Courts. If a Cause is considerable, it is usually removed into B. R. or C. B. by an Habatus Corpus cum causa: Otherwise Causes are here brought to Trial in four or five Court-Days. Praef. Judic. 409, 410. By Statute, the Steward and Marshal of the King's House, are not to hold Pleas of Falsehood, &c. in 12 Eliz. 1. 13. Error in the Marshal's Court may be removed into the King's Bench. 10 Ed. 3. And the Fees of the Marshals are limited by the Stat. 2 H. 4. c. 23. This Marshal is that of the Household; not the Marshal, which belongs to the King's Bench.

Case of Marital Debt, (Curia Maritialis) Is a Court for Punishing the Officers of Officers and Soldiers in Time of War. Courts of Common Peace. (Curiae Rognatorum.) Was a Court of Equity, of the same Nature with the Court of Chancery, but inferior to it; principally intended for the Relief of such Petitioners, as in questionable Cases addressed themselves to his Majesty. Of this Court, the Lord Privy Seal was Chief Judge, assisted by the Masters of Requests; and it had beginning about the 9. H. 7. according to Sir Thomas Catesby's Travels on the Subject: Though Mr. Goope, in his Preface to his Readings, saith it began from a Commission first granted by King Hen. 6. This Court having affirmed great Power to inflict, so that it became burdensome, Mitch. Ann. 40 & 41 S. in the Court of Common Pleas, it was adjudged upon solemn Argument, that the Court of Requests was no Court of Ju. dicature, &c. And by the Stat. 16 Ed. 17. Cap. 1. c. 10. it was taken away. 4 Inf. 97. See Courts of Con Crown, (Corona) signifies the Pofficions and Dignity of a King of any Kingdom. The Crown of England is from the beginning been a sacred and stately Garment, by Right of Inheritance; but sometimes our Kings, for political Reasons, have conferred their Principalities on whom they pleased, e terfing it lawful to appoint their Successors after them. For Edward the Confessor appointed the Crown, after his Death, at several Times, to William called the Conqueror, and Edgar and Harold; and Harold, after the Death of his Father, upon the Title left him, was crowned by the Archbishop of York; but William of Normandy having slain Harold at the Battle of Hastings, he claimed the Kingdom as well by the Nomination of Edward the Conqueror, as by Right of Conquest, and he was crowned and enjoyed the Kingdom for his Time. See Corun. 4. 57. And to come further down, we find that the Parliament, which had the last Right, had affirmed their Authority in these Cases: The Crown of England and France were entailed on King Henry the Fourth, and his four Sons by right of Partition, in the Life of the Crown. And the Parliament entailed the Crown on Henry the Sixth, and his Issue; also Richard the Third was recognized by Parliament. But the most extraordinary Instance of this Nature was, the Nomination and Appointment of King Henry the Eighth, to whom the Parliament granted Power by his Last Will and Testament to dispose of the Crown and Limitations as his Pleasure, for settling the Inheritance of the Crown; and he by his Will ordained, that his Son Edward should succeed him, and he dying without Issue, his Daughter Mary, and for her Want of Issue, his Daughter Elizabeth to enjoy the Crown in Succession; with Remainders to such as the King by his Letters Patent, &c. should appoint, Stat. 35 Hen. 8. c. 1. After the Death of King Henry VIII. his Son Edward the Sixth succeeded; and he was prevailed upon to appoint the Lady Jane, Daughter to the Duke of Suffolk, (who married King Henry's Sister) a Protestant Lady, by her Letters Patent to succeed him: But this Appointment soon after the Death of K. Edward, was vacated by Queen Mary; the Lady Jane beheld, and the Protestant Reform'd Religion eclipsed during her Reign; but it revived again and received Perfection, by her Successor the glorious Q. Elizabeth. By the Stat. 1 Edw. c. 1. the Parliament acknowledged the Queen to be right Heir to the Crown; and by this Act the Limitation of the Crown consist'd in 35 H. 8. 8 is declared to stand and remain Law for ever. And when King James the First came to the Crown, the Parliament made a Recognition, that upon Queen Elizabeth's Death, the Crown of England, and all the Kingdoms, Dominions, and Rights belonging to the same, did by lawful Birth right and Succession descend to K. James. Stat. 1 Jas. c. 1. After this, I do not find that the Parliament intermeddled in settling the Succession of the Crown till the Abatement of K. James the Second; when the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, lawfully re-presenting all the Elites of the People of the Realm, invited over William Prince of Orange, and the Prince Mary, (elded Daughter of King James II.) to take Care of their Rights and Liberties; whom they declared to be King and Queen of England. And by Stat. 1 Wm. & Mar. c. 2. declaring the Declaration of the Lords and Commons for securing the Liberties of the Kingdom, upon which the Prince and Princess of Orange accepted the Crown, the said Prince and Princess were recognized King and Queen of England, &c. for their Lives, and the Life of the Survivor of them; and after their Deaths, the Crown was settled on the Heirs of the Body of the said Prince and Princess, and for Want of such Issue to the Prince and Princess of Denmark, Siller to the Queen, and the Heirs of her Body. Also by 12 W. 3. c. 2. (after the Decree of Q. Mary without Issue) the King appointed the following persons in Succession to the Crown: Elizabeth, Daughter of the late Duke of Brunswick, &c. i.e. the Elded Daughter of King James the First) was declared next in Succession after King William, and the Prince of Orange, and their Issue; and the Crown to remain to the Prince of Orange, and his Issue, and if they were both dead, to the Pooficition of the Crown of those Realms: By these last Acts, Papists are rendered incapable to inherit the Crown of England; and Subjects are abhorr'd of their Allegiance to such; Perions coming to the Crown, are to join in the Communion of the Church of England. And this Nation is not to be engaged in a War for Defence of Dominions not belonging to the Crown. Perions endevouring to deprive the next in Succession to the Crown from succeeding, and who attempt it by any overt Act, are guilty of Treason. Stat. 1 Ann. c. 2. And if any Affair by Writing, &c. that the King or Queen of England cannot make Laws by the Authority of Parliament to bind the Subjects, or they are guilty of Treason. And Prescribing or Speaking it incurs a Pnemiartum. 3 Ann. c. 3. Affirming by Writing or Printing, that any other Person hath Right to the Crown, otherwise than according to the Stat. 1 W. & M. &c. is declared to be High Treason. Stat. ibid. There is no Interrogation in this Kingdom; for when the Crown descents to the right Heir, he is Reas before Coronation, as there must always be a King in whose Name Laws are to be maintained and executed, Hill. 1 Jac. See Defect of the Crown and King.

Crown Office. This is an Office under the King's Bench, of which the King's Coroner or Attorney there is commonly Mafter. The Attorney General, and Clerk of the Crown exhibit Information in this Office, for Crimes and Misdemeanors; the one as an Officer, and the other usally by Order of Court: And here Informations may be laid for Offences and Misdemeanors at Common Law, as for Batteries, Conspira cacies, Libeling, Nuisances, Contempts, Seditions Words, &c. wherein the Officer is liable to pay a Fine to the King. Fines 500. Somo. 109. By Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 18. the Clerk of the Crown in B. R. is not to receive or file any Information for Trepass, Batter, &c. without express Order of Court; nor to II for any Proceeds without taking a Recognizance in an Penalty to prosecute with Effect; and if the Party ap ppears, and the Plaintiff do not procure a Trial in a Year, or if Verdict fails for the Defendant, &c. the Court shall award the Defendent Costs: But this Act doth not extend to Informations in the Name of the King's Coroner or Attorney, &c. When a Battery is committed by an Officer sent on a returnable Warrant, the Party can make no Proof thereof by Writs of Saucy at Law: it is usual to bring an Information in this Office, where the Party may be a Witness for the King, it being his Suit. curat. (Curate) is he who represents the Incumbent of a Church, Parson or Vicar, and officiates Divine Service in his stead: And in Cafe of Plurali-ties of Living, or where a Clergyman is old and infirm, it is requisite there should be a Curate to perform the Cure of the Church. He is to be licenced and admitted by the Bishop of the Diocese, or by an Ordinary, having Episcopal Jurisdiction: And when a Curate hath the Approbation of the Bishop, he usually appoints the Salary too; and in such Case, if he be not paid, the Curate hath a proper Remedy in the Ecoclesiastical Court, by a Sequestration of the Profits of the Benefice: but if he hath no Licence from the Bishop, he is put to his Remedy at Common Law, with jus-must prove the Agreement. S. Right Clerg. 127.

By Statute, where Curates are licenced by the Bishop, they are to be appointed by him a Stipend not exceeding 50l. per An. nor less than 25l. A Year, according to the Value of his Living, to be paid by the Redlor or Vicar: And the same may be done on any Com-plaint made. Stat. 12 Ann. c. 2. One Person cannot be Curate in two Churches, unless each may satify the Law, by Reading both Morning and Evening Prayers at each Place: Nor can he serve one Cure on one Sunday, and another Cure on the next; for he must not neglect to read Morning and Evening Prayer in his Church every Lord's Day: if he doth he is liable to Punishment. Comp. Incumb.

Curfew, (of the Fr. Courvuir, i.e. Tager, and Frw., Ignis) Signifies the Ringing of a Bell, or Evening Peal, by which William the First, called the Conqueror, commanded every Curfew to take up or cover his Fire, and put out his Light: And in many Places of England at this Day, where a Bell is commonly rung towards Bed-time, it is paid to King Curfew. And four Things are requisite to give an Estate by the Carfe, viz. Marriage, Seifon of the Wife, Issue, and death of the Wife. 1 Inf. 30. If Land descended by the Male in Issue of the Husband who hath Issue by her or if the Issue be dead at the Time of her Death, being born alive; the Husband shall be the Tenant by the Curfifus. Afo if a Child is born alive, 'tis not necessary whether 'tis baptiz'd, or ever heard to cry, to make the Husband Tenant by the Curfeus, if it be born alive, 'tis enough. Nolf. 4th. 17. 8. But the Child must be such as by Possibility may inherit; and therefore if Land be given to a Woman, and the Heirs Male of her Body, and the Husband and s Hatt Issue a Daughter, and dies; no Issue, etc. This Issue, if it be neither a Child, nor married Son, is not to be Tenant by the Curfeus. Terms of De 109. This is so, if the Child is rip'd forth of the Mother's Belly, after her Death, tho' it be alive, it will not entitle Tenancy by the Curfifus; for this ought to begin by the Issue, and be consummated by the Death of the Wife, and the Estate of the Tenant by the Curfifus should avoid the immediate Defeat. Ibid. A Man shall not be Tenant by the Curfifus of a bare Right, Title, Use, Revulsion, &c. expectant upon an Estate of Freehold, unless the particular Estate is determined during the Coveteuse; nor of a Seifon in Law; But if a Wife dies before a Rent becomes due, or in the Case of an Adrewson, before the Church becomes void, the Husband shall be Tenant by the Curfifus, though the Wife had only a Seifon in Law: for in this Case no other Seifon could be attainted. P. N. B. 149. 1 Inf. 29. 30. 40. There is no Tenancy by the Curfifus of any Lands in the Province of a special Cu-flon for it. And where a Husband is estituted to this Tenancy, if after the Wife is an Idiot, and her Estate in the Land found; when she dies, she shall not be 'Tis. If it is any, the King's High Commission by Relation prevents it. Plead. 163. If the Wife be seived in Fre of Lands, and attaint of Felony, but have Issue by her Husband, and she is hanged, &c. 'tis said the Husband shall be Tenant by the Cur-Curtis: But yet the Land will be forfeited according to this Book. Kitch. 159. Ed. 3. 49. A Woman visited of Land had Daughters, and convented to sustain from that the use of E. her eldest Daughter in Tail; on condition that she should pay to her other Daughter 10l. within the time of the Marrow. And if E. made default, or died without issue before such payment, the Land to go to the second Daughter; the Mother dying, E. took a Husband, and had issue, and died after, and without any issue living, before the Day of Payment: It was here held, that her Husband should be Tenant by the Curtisy. 1 Lem. cap. 283. Curtile Terrae, Court-Lands. It is recorded, that among our Saxons Ancestors, the Thanes or Nobles who possessed Backland, or hereditary Lands, divided them into Island and Curtile. The Island was that which lay most convenient for the Lord's Manorial Houze; and therefore the Lords kept that Part in their own Hands, for Support of their Families, and for the Support of their tenants; and therefore, where the Lord did best be had for the Island, they shall pay him one Penny, is a good Curtile: but if it be to pay the Lord 2d. it will be naught, for it is unreasonable. Calib. cap. 35. 1 Bull. 203. A Curtile that shall be had within the Liberty of the Manor, shall be considered as a Manor Liberty, as a Manor Liberty, or throughout the Village; and that no other shall have it but by Agreement with him, and if any take it, the Lord may have the same; this hath been held a good Curtile. 1 Rol. 560. The Curtile of a Place, for all the Inhabitants of the Parity, to have Common in a great Wattle of the Lord's for all Manner of Breasts, and to have Liberty to Water their Cattle in such a Pond, and when the Pond was foul, to cleanse it, was adjudged good. Mich. 4 Jac. 1. 2 Brond. 293. A Curtile, that Tenants of a Manor shall graze all the Cattle they breed in their own Houses, in the Lord's Mill, Cft. is good: But Curtile that every Inhabitant of a House held of the Lord, shall grind the Corn that he spends, or shall sell, at his Mill, is void. Mor. cap. 137. Hb. 149. Curtile to have a common Bakehouse in a Manor or Parity, for all the Tenants or Inhabitants, is a good Curtile. 2 Bull. 198. Curtile it, and must always be alleged to be in many Perins, and so it may be claimed by Copyholders, or the Inhabitants of a Place, and when it is claimed, it must be so within such a Country, Hundred, City, Borough, Manor, Parish, Hamlet, Cft. &c. By the Statute 11 Geo. 1, Freemen by Will may now give and dispose of their Personal Eftates, to whom they think fit; yet if they die Infeudal, such Estates shall be subject to, and be distributed agreeable to the Cuffion of the City. Where a Freeman dies, and leaves Orphan Children under Age, unmarried, the Court of Orphans hath the Custody of their Bodies and Goods, By the Cuffion of London: It is also the same, though he die, or the Children were born out of London. 1 Vern. 143. By the City Cuffion, a Woman is entitled to Aftion on the Caffe for a married woman Where, &c. in London such Woman may be carted: And this reaches to all the Inhabitants within London. 2 Dods. 510. 1 Lilt. 578. A Woman that useth a Trade in London, without her Husband, is chargable without him as a free Woman, as if she had been married, or a free Woman, &c. If she shall be condemned, be put in Prisun till the pay the Debt; also the Bail for her are liable, if the absent her; and the Husband shall not be charged. Privat. Lawlist. And if Aftion of Trespaft be brought against a Woman, and her Husband, and the Wife only arrested, &c. by the Cuffion of London, the Plaintiff may proceed against the Wife. So is the Cuffion of the City of London, that where a Person is educated in one Trade, he may set up another. 1 Saund. 312. If a Debtor be Fugitive, he may be arrester by the Cuffion of London, before the Day, to find better Security. When two Persons are bound as Sures for another, and Recover is had against one of them, he may have Contribution against the other, by the City Laws. 2 Dods. Abr. 310. Debts on simple Contract will maintain an Aftion in London, as well as Debts on Speciality: And if it is the Cuffion of the City, that Aftion of Debt shall be maintained upon such a Contract against Executors or Administrators, who shall be chargeable therewith, as if it were upon a Bond or Obligation. 8 Ca. Rep. 126. 9 Rep. 92. There is a foreign Attachment, by the Cuffion of London, in the Case of a third Person, where one Man owes another any Debt, &c. See Attachment. By the Cuffion of London, every Tenant at Will of any House above 401. per Annum. in the City, ought to go, or have, half a Vestry at the City Hall, to give Warning, on leaving it: And a Landlord recovered half a Year’s Rent, where the Tenant had left the House, &c. without such Warning. Camb. 384. If any Cuffion of London be pleaded and denied, it shall be tried by Writ to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, to certify whether there be such a Cuffion; who shall make Contribution by the Month of their Recover. 6 Ca. Car. 316. The Courts at Westminster of Course take Notice of the Cuffions of London; but not of any other Place, without being alleged. 1 Rel. Rep. 106. Cuffions of Merchants. Merchants giving two Charters of Strangers to those who fell them Goods, are liable to the Debts of such Strangers for the Goods sold; by the Cuffion of Merchants. Let Mercat. cap. 10. f. 69. If two Persons be found in Court, upon an Account grounded on the Cuffion of Merchants, any one of them may be charged to pay the whole Sum, that both were found in Action. 1 Lilt. 576. And two joint Merchants occupy their Stock and Merchandize in Common, one of them naming himself a Merchant, shall have an Account against the other, and charge him to Recover. By the Cuffion of Merchants, where a Merchant orders his Faktor to buy Goods of a particular Person, there the Merchant is Debtor, and not the Faktor: But 'tis otherwise where the Merchant orders his Faktor to buy Goods generally, without paying of whom: here the Faktor is Debtor, though the Goods come to the Use of the Merchant. 1 Lilt. 576. The Cuffion of Merchants is to Bills of Exchange, that the Indorser shall charge the first Drawer before the Indorser, &c. See Bill of Exchange. Cuffions, (Cutoms) Are used for the Tribute or Toll that Merchants pay to the King, for carrying out and bringing in Merchandise. Stat. 14 Ed. 5, c. 21. They are Duties payable to the Crown for Goods exported and imported, and are due to the King of common Right; first because the Subject hath Leave to depart the Kingdom, and to export the Commodities thereof; secondly, for the Interest which the King hath in the Sea, and as he is the Governor of all the Ports, wherein the Commodities are exported or imported; and lastly, for that the King protects Merchants from Enemies and Pirates. Dryg. 43. The Customs are on Articles of Trade, or Commerce, with Foreign Countries, which is payable out of our own native Commodities, as for Wool, Woodfellis, and Leather; and Parens Cutoma.

Cufums, which are Cufum payble by Merchants, Strand, and their Heads in the Rein of Edw. I, when the Parliament granted them 5d in the Pound for all Merchandizes exported and imported. 8 Stat. 15.

But that which is granted by Parliament, is generally found to be much more than is granted to any other Person for the King for Life; and there are several Sorts of these Subsidies, as Tenage, a Duty granted out of every Ten Pounds of Goods, which was first granted by Parliament to King Edward III. And Poumage, a Subsidy granted for all Goods exported and imported, except Wines, Gr. and is usually the twentieth Part of the Value of the Goods, or 12d in the Pound; and this was first given to Hen. 6, for Life. 1 Natl. A. 83, 584. In the Reign of Edward III, the Great Charter for free Traffick was confirmed: And Ann 6 Ed. III. 58, it was enacted, that no new Culfums could be levied, nor any increased, but by Authority of Parliament. 2 Stat. 60. But though the King cannot lay any Impo to Merchants without Consent of Parliament; yet by his Prerogative he may refrain Merchants from Trading without his Royal License. In the Reign of Edward III, the Parliament enacted, that a Mark should be paid as Cufum for a Sack of Wool. Ann 4 H. 8. 5 Collectors were appointed of the Subsidy of Cloth of Gold, Silver, Veler, &c. And 12d in the Stone for Sweets, Cutters, &c. Ann 4 & 5 Ed. 12 Car. 2. The Subsidies of Tenage and Poumage, &c. were granted to King Charles during his Reign, and the duties of Luthin to his Royal Such censes, down to his Majesty King George II. 58 and many various are the Duties of Cufum granted on for eign Goods and Merchandizes, in the Reigns of King James II. K. William, Q. Anne, and his late and present Majesty. The Tenage Duty granted to King Charles II. was for every Tun of French Wine, brought into the Port of London, by Merchants natural Subjects, 4l. 10s. by Alien Strangers 6l. for Madeira, Veron, Alicant, Sack, Canary, Malaga’s, Madeira’s, and all other sweet Wines, by native Subjects, 1l. 10s. the Tun, by Strangers and Alien 5l. &c. The Poumage Duty was 12d. in the Pound value for all Merchandizes Goods, according to the Book of Rates, except Woolen Cloths made in England, and all for Woolen Broad Cloths, to be paid after the Rate of each 64 Pounds in Weight, by Subjects 5d. 4d. and Strangers 6l. 8d. Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 4. If Goods and Merchandizes are brought by a Merchant to a Port or Haven, and there Part thereof bold but never put on Land, they must pay the Cufum: and discharging them out of the Ship into another upon the Sale, amounts to a breaking the Law in a certain Subject. If the Cufum Duties are not paid, the Goods will be forfeited. Hill. 24 Eliz. 12 Car. Rpt. 18. By the Statute 21 Geo. 2. c. 22, and above all Subsidies of Tenage and Poumage, and other Duties whatever already payable on any Goods or Merchandizes imported, a further Subsidy of Poumage of 12d. in the Pound is given to his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, payable by the Importer according to the Rate of the same Goods, as valued in the Book of Rates. Custodes Boeretianam, is he who hath the Custody of the Rolls or Records of the Sessions of the Peace, and also of the Commission of the Peace. He is always a Justice of the Peace of the Borough in the County where appointed, and usually some Person of Quality: But he is rather termed an Officer or Minorit, than a judge. Lamb Eiren. lib. 4. cap. 3. p. 373. The Coffer Breviarum in every County is appointed by a Writing signed by the King's Hand, which shall be a Warrant to the Lord Chancellor to put him in Commission: And he may execute his Office by Deputy; and hath Power to appoint the Clerk of the Peace, &c. Stat. 37 H. 8. cap. 1. By Stat. 1 W. & M. c. 21. The Coffer Breviarum is to ruminate and appoint the Clerk of the Peace; but not to fall the Place, on Pain of forfeiting the Office of Coffer rollorum, and other Penalties, &c. The Coffer rollorum, two Judges of Peace, and the Clerk of the Peace, were the Judges of the Town and Burghs of Dagens of Bargs, and Sale of Lands of Papils, &c. by 3 Geo. 1. cap. 18.

Custodes of the Spiritualities, (Coffer Spiritualitatis) is he who keeps the Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction of a Diocese, during the Vacancy of any See; who with us in England is the Archbishop by Prefeption: But (according to Guinis) some Deans and Chapters challenge this Right by ancient Charters from the Kings of this Land. Cusai.

Custodes of the Temporals, (Coffer Temporale) The Person to whom Cusai a vacant See is committed by the King, as supreme Lord; who as a Seward of the Goods and Profits, was to give an Account to the Exchequer, and he into the Exchequer: His Trust continued till the Vacancy was supplied, and the Succesor obtained the King's Writ De Reformatione Temporalium, which was usually after Confirmation in Parliament.

Dagg, A Gun; an Dagg, a small Gun, or Handgun. See Happy.

Dagenham-Drayc'h, A Duty is granted on Coals imported into London to repair the Walls, and Banks thereof; to be collected and dispersed by Trusteys, *Cf. Stat. 12 Ann. c. 17.

Dagor or Dals, The chief or upper Table in a Monastery; from a Celtic called Dals, with which the Tables of Kings were covered.

Dalmitatica, A Garment with large open Sleeves, at first worn only by Bishops, though made a Distinction of Degrees; so called, because it came originally from Dalmita.

Dalis, Dalus, Delta, A certain Measure of Land.—Et transit Dalimus Maritici tam de rebus quam de prole, *Cf. Mon. Ang. tom. 2. p. 211. In some Places it is taken for a Dutch or Fado, whence comes Dalis. The Dalis priests have been exterminated from narrow Slips of Fallow, left between the ploughed Furrows in arable Land; in which some Parts of England are called Dalis. The pretexts which gave this Word for low Meadow by the River Side. And this seems to be the original Name and Nature of Dais in Kent, where Cooper Island, and fought the British, under a Dalis. *Cf. De Dols. pag. 94. Senator. Ninian.

Damage, (Damasum) Signifies generally any Hurt or Hindrance that a Man receives in his Estate: But particularly is a Part of the Value of the Thing injured, or of the estate以致 of and in, when an Action paffeth for the Plaintiff: For after Verdict given of the principal Cause, the Jury are asked touching Coffs and Damages, which comprehends a Reconciliation for what the Plaintiff hath suffered, by Means of the wrong done him by the Defendant. *Cf. Lit. 357.

This Word Damage is taken in the Law, in two very similar Signification, the one Properly and Generally, the other Relatively: Properly, as it is in Coffs where in Damages are founded upon the Statute of 2 H. 4. c. 1. and 8 H. 6. c. 9. where Coffs are included within the Word Damages, and taken as Damages: But when the Plaintiff declares for the Wrong done to him, to the Damage of such a Sum, this is to be taken relatively for the Wrong which passed before the Writ brought, and is allowed by Reson of the foregoing Trefpafs, and cannot extend to Coffs of Suits, which are future, and of another Nature. *Cf. Stat. 115. p. 117. Greater Coffs may be given in some Coffs, than the Damages laid in the Plaintiff’s Declaration; but if this Plaintiff’s Declaration is only for the Damage done him by the Defendant: But the Coffs are given in Respect of the Plaintiff’s Suit to recover his Damages, which may be sometimes greater than the Damage. *Lill. Abr. 384. Where the Plaintiff shall have no more Coffs than Damages, which the Jury finds to be paid upon them, *Cf. in Actions of Trefpafs, on the Coffs. *Cf. See Stat. 45 Eliz. c. 6. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16. In Action upon the Coffs, the Jury may find his Damages, or the Plaintiff’s Suit to recover his Damages, upon entering up his Judgment. *Cf. 10 Rep. 115. In Actions upon any Bond, *Cf. for Non-performance of Covenants, the Jury shall assize, and the Plaintiff proves broken; and the Plaintiff may assize any Amount as he thinks fit. *Cf. W. 3. c. 61. Damages are not to be given for this, which is contained in the Plaintiff’s Declaration; and only for what is materially alleged. *Lill. 538. In personal and mixed Actions, Damages were recovered at Common Law: But in Actions, no Damages were recoverable, because none were demanded by the Count or Writ: Whereas in Actions Personall, the Plaintiff counts *Cf. Damages for the injury; and if he recovers no Damages, he hath no Coffs. *Cf. 10 Rep. 115. 117. In a personal Action, the Plaintiff shall recover Damages only for the Tort done before the Action brought; and therein he counts for his Damages: In a real Action, he recovers his Damages prevailing the Writ; and therefore never counts for his Damages. *Cf. 10 Rep. 117. By the Stat. of Glos. 6 Ed. 1. cap. 1. Damages are given in real Actions, Attains of Novell Diffrin, Murr & Ancestry, *Cf. and shall be recovered against the Alienor of a Diffrin, as well as against the Diffrin himself; and the lamented shall have of the Tenant likewise Coffs of Suit; but not Expenses for Trouble and Loss of Time. *Cf. 2 Inf. 288. If the Diffrin make a Forfeiture in Pen and the Diffiriz death, the Heir of the Diffriz shall not recover Damages against the Alienor, because that Branch of the Stat. 6 Ed. 1. only provides for the Diffriz’s Remedy against the Alienor, and not for his Heirs: though if he be diffiriz’d, and the Diffriz dies, his Heirs shall recover Damages against the Diffriz, from the Death of his Heirs. *Cf. 2 Inf. 288. And it is a Rule upon this Statute, that in none of the Writs or Attains therein mentioned, the Demandant shall recover Damages but from the Death of his next immediate Ancesstor. *Cf. 288. For the Insufficiency of the Diffriz, the Tenant shall answer the Damsa for this Aff: And if the Diffriz be able to yield Part and not the whole, the Diffriz and Tenant shall be chargeable; and Judgment is given against the Diffriz and against the Tenant generally. *Cf. 2 Inf. 284. *Darsey Abr. 448. When Damages double or treble are given in an Action newly created by Statute; if no Damages were formerly recoverable, there the Demandant or Plaintiff shall recover those Damages only, and shall not have Coffs, being a new Creation for the Reconcurrence where there was none before: As upon the Stat. 1 & 2. P. & M. for driving of Diffirizes out of the Hundred, *Cf. whereby Damages are given, the Plaintiff shall recover no Coffs, only his Damages, because this Action is newly given. But in an Action upon the Stat. 6 Ed. 6. of Portable Envy, which gives treble Damages, the Plaintiff shall recover his Damages and his Coffs to the Treble, by Reson he was entitled to single Damages before by the Common Law; and the Statute, as Part of the Thing is Coffs, need not award any Coffs to treble; and when a Statute increases Damages, Coffs shall likewise be increased. *Cf. 2 Inf. 289. 10 Rep. 115. In some Coffs double treble Damages, etc.
are allowed: For not setting forth Times: Distrefls wrongly taken; Re fossil, T. &T. Treble Damages are incurred by Statute. Though it is not found by the text which Plaintiff had furnished some Damages in Cases where treble Damages, &c. are inflicted by Law, no Damages can be awarded. 2 Daws. Abr. 449. And no Damages could be recovered at the Common Law, but against the Wrong doer, and by him to whom the Wrong was done. 2 Inst. 281. Damages shall be recovered in Writ of Admistration of Dower; but not in a Writ of Admistration of Pallium. 2 Daws. 457. In Writ of Partition, by one Coparcener against another, it is said no Damages shall be had; in a Forfeiture, no Damages shall be recovered; in a Napter Oath, Writ of Account, Writ of Execution, &c. Vide 455. 456. Damages and Costs are due in a Writ of Annuity; and if the Jury and for the Plaintiff, and do not affect the Damages, it will be Error; though he may after Verdict release the Damages, and take Judgment for the Annuity. 11 Rep. 76. Dyer 520. 529. Where Damages are awarded for Delay of Execution, and being kept out of the Money, they are usually allowed by allowing the Party what lawful Interest he might have. In real Actions, Damages are assessed by Writ of Execution; Where the Jury find the Value for the Plaintiff, they do not affect the Damages. And in Actions upon the Case, Costs, and Damages are annexed, it is left to the Jury to inquire of and tax them: In Debt, which appears certain to the Court what it is, the Damages are assessed by the Jury are final, and the Maker in B. R. tarteth the Costs; which is added thereto, and called Damages. 1 Salk. 350. When Judgment is given by Default, in Action of Debt, the Court is to assess the Damages, and not the Jury: So if Judgment by Nullit deiet, in Action of Debt. And if on Damner for taking Goods, &c. it is adjudged for the Plaintiff, though Damages are found by Writ of Execution, the Court may increase or mitigate the Damages, because the Court might have assessed them without such Writ. 2 Daws. 452. In Writ of Trespass de Ceaus fraudata, and when there is a Writ to inquire of Damages in Trespass; in Action of the Case for Slander, where the Jury tax Damages, or in an Affile, the Judges cannot increase or abridge the Damages; It is otherwise on a Writ of Execution in Debt, Devisor, Covenant, Mays and Battery; the Court may increase or diminish the Damages. 2 Foss. Damages 28. Dyer 102. 1 Tit. Sent. 68. In Batteries and Wounding, the Court may increase Damages given by the Jury, on View of the Wound, or upon Affidavits made there- of; &c. But it is laid in the Cases at Westmiller only can increase Damages in Action of Assault and Wounding on View, &c. and not Juries of Nisi prius; though they may interpret the Evidence on the Pain, and on such Evidence the Damages may be increased in the Courts above. 3 Salk. 115. If Damages are too final, the Court hath Power to increase them: Or if the Jury affix no Damages, where Verdict is found for the Plaintiff in Action of Debt on Bond, &c. the Court may tax the Damages; though it is otherwise in Action on the Case, &c. 2 Inst. 200. 2 Daws. 449. It hath been held that the Judges may increase, but not decrease Damages; and this is, because the Party may have an Attaint. 2 Daws. 452. But where excessive Damages have never been given, or where they have been, or Mildemeanor in executing a Writ of Execution; the Court hath somewhile relieved the Defendant by a new View, &c. 2 Daws. 452. And where the Damages are excessive, on Motion the Defendant may have a new Trial. Style 455. 1 Nelf. Abr. 457. In Battery, Imprisonment, and taking of Goods, a gainst the Person, the Plaintiff, &c. in another Action, other the Imprisonment, the Third takes the Goods, all at one Time, all are guilty of the Whole, and to be charged in Damages. 3 Lev. 234. See to Rep. 66, 69. In Trespass against two, one comes and pleads Not guilty and it is found Guilty of some Damages, and another comes and pleads the like, and is found Guilty by another Inquest: in this Case, the first Jury shall assess all the Damages for the Trespass. New Nat. 256. Trespass against divers Defendants, they plead Not guilty severally, and the Jury find them all Guilty: The Jury must assess the Damages jointly, for it is but one intire Trespass, and made joint by the Declaration; But if in Trespass against two, the Jury finds one Guilty of the Trespass at one Time, and the other Guilty thereof at another Time, then several Damages may be assessed. If the Plaintiff himself confesses that they committed the Trespass severally, then the Writ shall abate. 1 Rep. 5. Damages may be several, where one Action of Trespass is brought for two several Trespasses: And in Action on the Cafe, Damages are divisible, and may be apportioned according to the Wrong. 1 Saund. 253. Also in an Action on the Cafe upon two Promissies, intire Damages may be given; though it be inferred that Damages should be several upon each Promise. 1 Roll. N. S. 455. But if Action is laid, &c. for two several Cases of Action, one of which is not actionable, if intire Damages are given, the Verdict is void: Contra if the Damages are levered. And where Damages are severally assed, and to be given to severall part; no Judgment can be given on the Verdict. 10 Rep. 130. Damages. (Damna Civisram) Was a Fee as- sessed of the tenth Part in the Common Planis, and the twentieth Part in the King's Bench and Exchequer, out of all Damages exceeding five Marks, recovered in their Courts, in Actions upon the Cafe, Covenant, Trespass, Battery, &c. wherein the Damages were uncertain; which the Plaintiff was obliged to pay to the Proctor, the Chief Officer of the Court wherein recovered, before he could have Execution for the Damages: This was originally a Gracefill given to the Proctoraries and their Clerks, for drawing special Writs and Pleadings; but it is taken away by Statute, and if any Officer in the King's Courts, take any Money in the Name of Damages cler, or any Thing in lieu thereof, he shall forfeit Treble the Value. And if in the Day, at Westmiller only can increase Damages in Action of Affaut and Wounding on View, &c. and not Juries of Nisi prius; though they may interpret the Evidence on the Pain, and on such Evidence the Damages may be increased in the Courts above. 3 Salk. 115. If Damages are too final, the Court hath Power to increase them: Or if the Jury affix no Damages, where Verdict is found for the Plaintiff in Action of Debt on Bond, &c. the Court may tax the Damages; though it is otherwise in Action on the Case, &c. 2 Inst. 200. 2 Daws. 449. It hath been held that the Judges may increase, but not decrease Damages; and this is, because the Party may have an Attaint. 2 Daws. 452. But where excessive Damages have never been given, or where they have been, or Mildemeanor in executing a Writ of Execution; the Court hath somewhile relieved the Defendant by a new View, &c. 2 Daws. 452. Beasts belonging to the Plough, or Beasts of Husbandry, Sheep, Horses joined to a Cart, or a Horse with a Rider on them, may be driven away Damage fein, though not for Rent. 1 Sid. 422, 440. But the owner may tender Amend, before the Court are impounded; and then the Detainer is unlawful: Also if when impounded the Pound door is open, the owner may take them out. 5 Rep. 76. A Greyhound may be taken Damage fein, unless it be a Dog, or a Conic in a Warren: So a Man may take a Ferret that another hath brought into his Warren, and taken Conies with. If a person bring Nuts and Gains through my Warren, I cannot take them out of his Hands. 2 Douw. 633. But if Men are rowing upon my Water, and insinuating with Nets to catch Fish in my several Piscaries, I may take their Cates and Nuts, and detain them as Damage fein, to flout their further Fishing; though, in my opinion, they cannot cut their Nuts. 3 Cor. 228.

Damegeit, or Dama-gell, (Damegileum) Is composed of the Word Dame, which signifies Money; and was a Tax or Tribute of 11, and after of 22, upon every Hide of Land through the Realm, laid upon our Ancients the Seignories by the Dames, when they lorded it here. Com. Brit. 83, 142. According to some Accounts, this Tax was levied for clearing the Seas of Danish Pirates; which heretofore greatly annoyed our Coasts: But King Edward being much deferred by the continual Invasions of the Dames, to procure his Peace, was compelled to charge his People with very heavy Payments called Damageit, which he paid to the Dames at several Times. Hackett, p. 100. Annal. 544. Ingolph. 510. Selden's More Clav. 190. This Damaugit was levied from the Crown, and the Crown levied again by William the First and Second; Then it was released again by King Henry the Fifth, and finally by King Stephen. It is probable that this ancient Tax might be a precedent for our Land Tax of 3s. 4d. in the Pound, when first granted.

Date of a Deed, Is the Description of the Time, when the Day, Month, Year of our Lord, Year of the Reign, &c. in which the Deed was made. 1 Inf. 6. But the ancient Deeds had no Dates, only of the Month and the Years, till they were not made in Haste, or in the Space of a Day, but upon longer and more mature Deliberation. Bount. If in the Date of a Deed, the Year of our Lord is right, though the Year of the King's Reign be mistaken, it shall not hurt it. 2 Cor. 261. A Deed was dated 50th March 1701, without Annus Dominici and Annus Regni: and it was adjudged that both the Year of the Lord and of the King were implicitly in the Deed. 2 Salk. 658. A Deed is good, though it hath no Date of the Day or Place, or if the Date be mistaken, or though it hath an impollable Date, as the 30th of February, &c. But that doth plead such a Deed, without any Date, or with an impollable Date, must feft forth the Time when it was delivered. 2 Rep. 5. 1 Inf. 46. If no Date of a Deed be yet forth, it shall be intended that it had none; and in such Case it is good from the Delivery; for every Deed or Writing hath a Date in Law, and that in the Day on which it is delivered: And a Deed is not Deed till the Delivery, and that is the Date of it. Med. Ca. 244. 1 Inf. Abr. 525. An impollable Date of a Bond, &c. is no Date at all; but the Plaintiff must declare on the Bond as made at a certain Time: And if the express Date be infensible, the real Date is the Delivery. 2 Salk. 455. Where there is none, or an impollable Date, the Plaintiff may not count of any Date. 1 Litt. Abr. 593. If there be a mistaken Date, or an impollable Date, &c. the Plaintiff may form a legal Date in the Declaration, whereverupon the Defendant is answer to the same: And not to the Date Telo. 194. If a Deed bears Date at a Place outside the Realm, it may be averred that the Place mentioned in the Deed, is in some County in England; and here the Place is not transferable: without this the Deed cannot be tried. 1 Inf. 261. A Deed may be dated at one Time, and sealed and delivered at another: But every Deed shall be intended to be delivered on the same Day it bears Date, unless the contrary is proved. 2 Inf. 674. Though there can be no Delivery of a Deed before the Day of the Date; yet after there may. Telo. 138. So that a Deed may be dated back on a Time pull, but not at a Day to come. See Deed.

Day, (Diet) Is a certain Space of Time, containing twenty-four Hours; and if a Fact be done in the Night, you must say in the Proceding, This Fact was done on the 1st day of the New Moon, &c. at the Noxem Domini. Duram aliis in Naturales, aliis Artificialibus: Dies Naturalis confuet de 24 horis, & ceteris Dies Solarem & Natum, & ceteris in quo fil protractus ab Orientem, &c. ubi accident, iterum in Occidentem: Dies Artificialis, fieri solutum, in certa transt. &c. 1 Inf. 155. By the usual Description, a natural Day consists of twenty-four Hours, and contains the Solar Day and the Night: And the artificial Day begins from the Rising of the Sun, and ends when it sets. Day in legal Understanding, is the Day of Appearance of the Parties, or Continuance of the Suit where a Day is given, &c. And there is a Day of Appearance in Court by the Writ, and by the Roll; by Writ, 11th... when the Sheriff returns the Writ by Roll, when he hath a Day by the Roll, and the Sheriff returns not the Writ, there the Defendant, to have his Free- hold, must have a special Suit. In all Actions, it may appear by the Day be hath by the Roll. 1 Inst. 135. In real Actions there are Discrements, common Days, and in all Summons there must be 15 Days before the Appearance. And before the Statute of Artificers feyer Charters, in all Summons and Attachment in Plea of Land, there should be contained 15 Days. 1 Inst. 134. As to Obstructions in B. R. if the Office be committed in another County than where the Court sits, and the Indictment be removed by Certiorari, there must be fifteen Days between every Proceeds and the Return thereof; but if it be committed in the same County where the Bench sits, they may fit de Die in Diem; but this they will very rarely do. Ibid. There is a Day called Dies specia-lis, as in Affidavit in the King's Bench or Common Pleas, the Attachment need not be 15 Days before the Appearance; otherwise it is before Justices adjourned. But generally in Affidavits the Judges may give a special Suit, and the new Court is to take the common Days, and these Days they may give as well out of Term as within. There is also a Day of Grace, Dies Gratiae, and generally this is granted by the new Court at the Prayce of the Demendant or Plaintiff, in whose Delay it is: But it is never granted where the King is Party, by Ad Prior of the Tenant or Defen-dant: nor where any Lord of Parliament, or Free of the Realm is Tenant or Defendant. And sometimes the Day that is quarre Dies ejus, is called Dies Gratiae; for the very Day of Return is the Day in Law, and to them in judgment and progress, but no Default shall be recorded till the fourth Day be pass; unless it be in a Writ of Right, where the Law alloweth no Day but the Day of the Return. 1 Inst. 135. There are several Return Days in the Terms; and if either of them happen upon a Sunday, the Day following is taken instead of it: For Sunday is Dies non Jurisdici; and so it is according to Day and Time, Sir John Baptist in Trinity-Term, all Saints and All Souls in Michaelmas-Term, and the Purification of the Virgin Mary in Hil- lary-Term. 2 Inst. 260. Days in Bank are Days set down by Statute, or Order of the Court, when Writs shall be returned, or when the Party shall appear upon the Writ fierred. Stat. 1 Hen. 3. 32 H. 8. c. 21. And by the Statute de Emenda Exonera of H. 3. the Day in creating in the Leap-Year, and the Day next going before are to be accounted but one Day. It is commonly said that the Day of Nisi prius, and the Day in Bank, is but one Day but this is to be understood as to Pleas- ing, not to other Purposes. 1 Inst. 135. If a Defendant appears, and the Court gives a Day to another Term: at the next Term, the Judge shall be given, but Proceeds shall be awarded in this Case. 2 Danw. Abr. 476. But after Judge found for the Plaintiff at the Nisi prior, if a Day be given in Bank, and the Defendant makes Default, Judgment shall be given against him. Ibid. 477. To be dismissed without Day, is to be finally dismissed the Court: And when the Justices before whom Causes were depending, do not come on the Day to which they were continued, whether such Absence be occasioned by Death, or other-wise, they are said to be put without Day: But may be revived by Amendment, or Re-Committal, or Restatement, 2 Hen. P. C. 500. Alto by the Common Law, all Proceedings upon any Indictment, &c. whereon no Judgment had been given, were determined by the Defendant, and nothing but the Indictment, Original Writ, &c. which were put without Day, till re-committed by Re-attachment to bring in the Defendants to plead. Though this is remedied by Stat. 2 45 & 55 W. 3. c. 18. and 5 Ann. c. 8. by which such Proceeds, &c. are to continue in Damsman. In the North of England, an Arbitrator or elected Judge is usually termed a Damsman or Domsman: And Dr. Hammond hath, that the Word Day in all Idioms signifies Judgment.

Daspella, Dairy, from Day, Days, Dais, Satt. Day, was at first the Daily Yield of Milk-Cows, or Profit made of them. In Lorrain and Champagne they use the Word Dayer, for the Measuring of the Day labouring People to give an Account of their daily Work, and receive the Wages of it. A Dairy in the North is called Milchhaf; as the Dairy-maid is in all Parts a Milk-maid: She is termed Andeuken by Fletia, lib. 2. cap. 87. Compasus Henriici D. C. Davert, A Ham. As much arable Land as could be ploughed up in one Day's Work, was a Day's Journey, as the Farmers still call it. Hence any young Artificer who affixes a Master Workman in Daily Labour, is called a Daverty. —Confirmatius Abbati et Conventus de Sanctorum et Martyrum et Hierosolymitanae Consociatione et Juxta tempora antiqua, ed. Deadly Feast. Is a Precedition of an irreconcilable Hater, till a Person is revenged even by the Death of his Enemies. It was the practice in Stat. 43 Ed. c. 13. And such Enmity and Revenge were allowed by the old Saxons Laws; for where any Man was killed, if a pecuniary Satisfaction was not made to the Kindred of the Slain, it was lawful for them to take up Arms against the Murderer, and revenge themselves on him: And this is called Deadly Feast; which it is conjectured was the Original of an Appeal. Bleust. Vide Feast.

Dear, (Dreamus, from the Greek Dimum) Is an Ecclesiastical Governor or Dignitary, so called as he prides over ten Canons or Prebendaries at the least. And we call him a Dean, that is next under the Bishop, and Chief of the Chapter, Ordinarily in a Cathedral Church, the Rite of the Society being called Capitulum, the Chapter. As there are two Foundations of Cathedral Churches in England, the Old and the New, the New erected by King Henry VIII. so there are two Means of creating those Deans: For thole of the old Foundation, as the Dean of York. Ec. St. Peter's, and as near to their Dignity much like Bishops; The King first sending out his Coige a Elfre to the Chapter to chuse such Dean, and the Chapter then choosing the King afterwards yielding his Royal Assent, and the Bishop confirming him, and giving his Mandate to install him:
him: Those of the new Foundation, whose Deaneries were translated from Priories and Convents, to Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, Durham, Ely, Norwich, Winchester, &c. are the same, and in addition to a shorter Course, by virtue of the King's Letters Patent, without either Election or Confirmation; and where, as to the Lord Chancellor, or by special Commission from the King: But the Letters Patent are prefixed to the Bishop for Infringement, and a Mandate for Infringement goes forth. 1 infra. 95. Denes 46. 47. There are four Cathedrals Churches which never had a Dean: as that of St. David and Landaff, where the Bishop is Head of the Chapter, but in his Absence the archdeacon: and there is also a Dean without a Chapter, such as the Dean of Battle in Sussex: Then there is a Dean without a Jurisdiction, as the Dean of the Chapel Royal, &c. In which Sense this Word is applied to the Chief of certain other Churches or Chapels. Spalm. There are four Sorts of Deans: a Dean that has a Chapter, such as the Dean of Canterbury, &c. A Dean without a Chapter, as the Dean of Bath, who has the Duke of Devonshire as his Lord: Court and Jurisdiction to hold Plea of all Ecclesiastical Matters arising in several Parishes within his Peculiar; and who is confirmed by Commission from the Archbishops of Canterbury, like to the Dean of the Archb. The Dean of Battle, founded by William the First, filled the Conqueror, who had Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction within the Liberty of Battle, and is presently the Duke of Kent, and instituted and instituted by the Bishop of Chichester; but not subject to his Visitation. And Rural Deans, who had no Jurisdiction over Parishes, as every Diocese is divided into Archdeaconries and Deaneries: but afterwards their Power was diminished, and they were only the Bishops Substitutes to grant Letters of Administration, Probate of Wills, &c. and now their Office is wholly extinguished, for the Archdeacon and Chancellor of Bishops execute the Authority which rural Deans had through all the Dioceses of England: 1 infra. 51. 57. There are like the Deanery of Deans; and the Deanery of Deans; and the Deanery of Deans, who cannot confirm any Grants. &c. But a Commissary Dean may have the Chapter chuele a Bishop. And if a Dean be elected Bishop, and before Consecration doth obtain Dispensation to hold his Deanship in Commendam, such Dean may well conform, &c. for his old Title remains, and his Deanship is innocent, and other Acts done by him as Dean, are good in Law. Latch 237. 250. Palm. Rep. 462. A Dean and Chapter are the Bishop's Council, to assist him in the Affairs of Religion, &c. to confine his Speeding difficult Controversy, and to confer on every Grant which the Bishop shall make to bind his Successor, &c. A Dean that is so fully sealed of the Law, and not a Minister, is in ablest, and as well as a Bishop. 1 infra. 342. A Deanship is a Spiritual Promotion, and not a temporal one, though the Dean be appointed by the King: And the Dean and Chapter may be in part Secular, and in part Regular. Dyser 10. Palm. 500. As a Deanship is a Spiritual dignity, a Man cannot be Dean and Prelate in the same Church. Dyser 273. See Chapter.

Death of Perget. There is a natural Death of a Man, and a civil Death: Natural, where Nature itself expires and extinguishes; and Civil, is where a Man is forcibly killed, and is disposed of by Law; as where he enters into Religion, &c. If any Person for whole Life any Estate has been granted, remain beyond Sea, or be otherwise aliened seven Years, and no Person or Person shall be accounted naturally dead, though the Party be after proved living at the Time of Evisitation of any Person, then the Tenant, &c. may re-enter, and recover the Possession; in other Cases the Right is in Reversion or Remainder, after the Death of another, upon Affidavit that they have Notice to believe such other dead, may move the Lord Chancellor to order the Person to be produced; and if he be not produced, he shall be taken as dead; and those claiming may enter. 6. 6. 6. An Act made a Leafe in Reversion to L.D. for ninety nine Years, to commence after the Death of J.D. and E.D. who had then a Leafe in Possession for the like Term, if they or any other of their Line of Right. The Plaintiff positively proved the Death of J.D. but as to the Death of E.D. the Proof was that he had been reputed dead, and no body had heard of him for fifteen Years past, and the Defendant not being able to prove that he was alive at any Time within seven Years, this Case was adjudi'ed within the Act 19 Car. 2. 124. 254. In Law Proceedings, the Deming either Party, between the Verdict and Judgment, shall not be Error; so as Judgment be entered in two Terms. 17 Car. 2. c. 8. Where on the Death of Parties to a Suit, the right, &c. shall abide, see 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 10. and Abatement: Death of Judges, &c.

Debts in effe. To take or do any Thing in bene effe, is in Law Signification to accept or allow it as well done for the Present; but when it comes to be more fully examined or tried, to file or fall according to the Merit of the Thing in its own Nature. As in Chancellor, upon Motion to have one of the first principal Defendants in a Cause examined as a Witness, the Court (nor then thoroughly examining the Justice of it, or not hearing what may be objected on the other Side) will often order such a Defendant to be examined in bene effe, &c. That his Depositions shall be taken, and allowed or suppressed at the Hearing of the Cause, upon the full Debate of the Matter, as the Court shall think fit; but in the interim they have a Well-being, or conditional Allowance. 3 Cor. 68. Where a Complainant's Witnesses are aged, or sick, or going beyond Sea, whereby the Plaintiff thinks he is in Danger of losing their Testimony, the Court of Chancellor will order them to be examined in bene effe, &c. so as to be valid, if the Plaintiff hath not an Opportunity of examining them afterwards; as if they die before Answer, or do not return, &c. In either of which Cases, the Depositions taken may be made Use of in the Court of Chancellor, or at Law. But if Parties are alive and well, and do return, &c. after Answer, their Depositions are not to be of Force, for the Witnesses must be re examined.

Debentures. A Soldier's Debenture (Sterpidae Debita) is in the Nature of a Bond or Bill, to charge the Government to pay the Soldier Creditor, or his Assigns, the Sum due upon the auditing the Account of his Years; it was first ordained by an Act made during Oliver's Uproar, An. 1649, and is mentioned in the Act of Oblition 12 Car. 2, in a Manner that every Debenture likewise in the Exchequer; and Debentures are given to the King's Servants, for the Payment of their Wages, Board-Wages, &c. Also these are Called Joint Debentures, &c.

Debts &c. Are Latin Words used in the Bringing of Wits and Actions. And an Action shall be always in the Debt &c. when he who makes a Bargain or Contract, or lends Money to another, or to whom a Bond is made, bringeth the Action against him who is bound, or Party to the Contract and Bargain, or unto the Lending of the Money. But if a Man falls to another a Horse, &c. If he brings Debt for the Horse, the Writ must be in the Debt new. Nat. Br. 283. In Debt against Husband and Wife, for a Part of the Debts due from the Husband, the Writ shall be in the Debt &c. It is in Debt against the Heir, It is to be sued in Debt &c. If he is by Notice, &c. be taught; if an Heir be to bring Debt, it shall be in the Debt; And if a Man be bound to another, and makes his Executor and dies, if the Money due in the will lie for the Arrarages of an Account against Executors, of Executors by the Teller, 3 & 4 Geo. 2. &c. And the Time in which the Plaintiff must be brought against him only in the Debet, &c. and in all Actions brought by Executors as Executors, though the Duty accrued in their own Time. But Debet & Debetius lies by an Executor for his or his Executors Duty; and if the Executor makes his Executor, and dies, and for Rea due after the Teller's Death, then the Action shall be in the Debet & Debetius.

It is the like Law in Cafes of Administrators, as it is not certain what shall be recovered, only according to the Affidats, 5 Rep. 51. An Executor upon a Devastatio shall be charged in the Debet & Debetius, the Action being upon a Devastatio, 1 Litt 168. In Action grounded on Privacy of Contract, or Action of Escape, it must be brought in the Debet. Cro. Jac. 545. 685. See Executors.

Debet & Debetius are also formal Words made Use of in Writs: And some Writs have these Words in them, which ought not to be omitted. Likewise according to the Diversity of the Caffe, both Debet and Debetus are useless, or Debet Skol in their Use, and a good Permission may be in the Debet & Debetus, or in the Debet only, as the Demantant claims. And if a Person does to recover any Right, whereof his Ancestor was defied by the Tenant or his Angellor, then he ucht the Word Debet alone in his Writ, because his Ancestor only was defied, and the Defidant discontinued: But if he sue for any Thing that is now forth of all denied him, then he ucht Debet & Debetus, by Reason his Ancestor before him, and he himselt utifially enjoyed the Thing sued for, until the Loss was Refund of the Tenant, Rep. 15. 16.

Debet, (Debitum) is an Action which lieth where a Man oweth another a certain Sum of Money, by Obligation, or Bargain for a Thing sold, or by Contract, &c. and the Debtor may not pay the Debet, at the Day agreed; then the Creditant shall have Action of Debt, if the Debet be due in Money, but is due upon any Specialty, Action of Debt only; for no other Action may be brought for it: If a Man contract to pay Money for a Thing which he hath bought; and the Seller takes Bond for the Money, the Contract is discharged, so that he shall not have Action of Debt upon the Contract, but on the Bond. New Nat Br. 268. If one binds himself in a single Obligation, or with Condition, to pay Money at a Day; or to deliver Corn, or the like, and do not perform it accordingely, the Obligee may bring Action of Debt for it. F. N. B. 110. But if the Obligee be bound to deliver a Sum of Money for much of the Money of F. S. due to him in his Hands; here Debet may be brought: And Debet will lie on a Bond, 3 & 4. Eliz. 12. 165. §. 165. §. A delivers to B. 20l. to B. to buy Goods, and B. gives a Receipt to A. certifying the Delivery and Receipt of the 20l. but doth not promise to deliver the Goods, &c. A. may maintain Debet upon this Debet. Dyer 10. 2 Rep. 256.

If a Man be bound by Bond to pay 20l. in Manser following, sin. 1ol at one Day, and 10l. at another Day; Action of Debet will not lie till after the last Day, it being an entire Duty; But if one binds himself to pay a 10l. at one Day, and 10l. at another, after the first Day Action of Debet lies for 10l. before Several Duty; A. Davis, 10l. On a Bond, Debet lies against the Heir of an Obligee, who has Lands by Defeunt, if the Executors have not sufficient; and the Obligee may bring his Action against the Heir or Executors, although the Executors have Action. In bringing this Action, it is the general Rule, that the Party himself to whom the Debt is originally due, whilst he doth live must bring the Action and after his Death, his Executors, &c. And the Action must be brought against the Party himself that doth origi- nally owe the Debt, whilst he is living; and after his Death, it may be brought against his Executor, if he be the True Owner and Creditor, and if the Ordinary appoint his, as the Ordinary himself, and if he die the possessor of the Goods, against his Executors, &c. And also against Executors of Executors, &c. In Debt, it may be demanded of the Original, the Pro- cess is Summons, Accomp, and Deficiency: and upon a Default of Sufficient, a Non return of Process, to the Ouantury, &c. And the Judgment in Debt, where the Demand is in the Debt of the Debtor, is to recover the Debt, Damages and Costs of Suit; and the Defen- dent must be present at the Trial. The Defendant in Debt pleads a Refereve, if at the Trial makes Default, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment for his Debt, without costs, and the Sheriff, if upon a Warrant, the Payment had been pleased. (2) In the Case of the Plaintiff in Debt, declares on some Specialty, or Contract for a Sum of Money, it must be certainly de- manded, and no other, and then the Defendant can not be a debtor, but it must be shown how the Remainder was satisfied: But in an Action upon a Statute, that gives a certain Sum for the Penalty; though left be re- covered than the Plaintiff lays, it will be good. 18. If Action of Debt is brought on a Specialty, if a Bond, Lease, &c. the several Writings must be well considered by which the Plaintiff warrants his Action, and the Sum due is to be rightly set forth; and if it be for Debt for Rent, the Time of Commencement, and Ending, &c. Under this Word Debitor, all Things due to the King are comprehended; as all Rents, fines, issues, Amercements, and other Du- ties received or levied by the Sheriff, for Debtor in the larger Sense, signifies whatever any Man owes. 2 19. The King's Debt is to be intended before that of a Subject, and until his Debt be paid, he may pro- test the Debtor from the Array of others. 1 19. Dee. (Deceit) Is a false Trick or Device, whereunto may be drawn all manner of Craft and Collusion, used to deceive and defraud another, by any Means whatsoever, which hath no other or more proper Name than Deceit to distinguish the Offence.
Wiff. S. Sum. sect. 68. And there is a Write called Brave Deceptions, that lies for one that receives Injury or Damage from him that doth any Thing deceitfully in the Name of another Perdon Which Write is either for the Plaintiff's or Defendant's Cost. And Br. 50. Deceit is an Offence at Common Law, and by Statute: And all Pratfices of defrauding or en-devouring to defraud another of his Right, are punellad Vires and diversely marked as for Cheating, Falsity, Forgeries, and Defraudments. And a Devilish or Alto Plunderer by Deceit shall be expelled the Court.
Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 29. If a Fine be levied by Deceit; or if one recover Land by Deceit, the Fine, and the Recovery shall be void. 3 Rep. 77. And if a Man be Attorney for another in a real Action against the Deendant, and afterwards by Corin between such Atorney and the Defendant, the Attorney makes De-fool, by which the Land is lost, the Tenant who left the Land shall have a Write of Deceit against the Attorney. F. N. B. 96. In a Pracitce good redait, if the Sheriff return the Tenant fantastommed, where he was not soommed, by which the Defendant lochad his Land by Default at the Grand Seope returned; the Tenant shall have a Write of Deceit against him who recovered, and against the Sheriff for his false Return; and by that Write the Tenant shall be restored unto his Land again: And the Sheriff shall be punished for his Falsity. Hb. 97. If a Man bring a Write of Deceit against him that recovers his Debt, entered another Judgment when it should be havea a Refundactus Ocufer; and it was held that the Write of Deceit would not lie to reverse the Record, but only to recover Damages. Hb. 632. If in a Suit or Action, another Person shall come in to Court and pretend he is Party to the Suit, and so the Judgment be holden, &c. 9 & 10 W. 3. But there are none to the Party himself; or if I have Caufe to have an Action, and another brings it in my Name, and lets Judgment go against me by Non suits, or the like:
I may use this Write of Batesoria, Nomine. F. N. B. 96.
March 48. If any one forge a Statue, &c. in my Name, and thus a Capia is thereupon, below is a Writ; the Writ is writted; I shall have a Writ of Deceit against him that forged it, and against him who used it. By Statute, when a Plaintiff is in Action against a Writ, and it is made a Writ of Deceit, there are many Frauds and Deccods provided for the Plaintiff, to make him disallow his Writ, and answer a Writ of Deceit. And this is the Way of statute, relating to Artificers, Bakers, Brewners, victuallers, such Weights and Measures, &c. which are so commonly sold as to the Publick, and with such frauds and Falsehoods, and with such practices and the like, as are so generally known, in the Name of the said Act or the said Law, or otherwise, he was altogether unknown, in decrees of our Court, and to its great Damage, &c.

Dee. Bacter, is when a false Writ doth not ap-ppear at a Trial at Bar; then a Writ goes to the Sheriffs Apprets. Decem Tails, &c. whereby a Supply is made of Jurymen to proceed in the Trial.

Defect, is a Statute and against a Journey, he hath taken Money of either Party for gi-ing his Verdict so called, because it is to recover the Money. And he is an Exoneter that will bring this Writ and recover the same, one half of which shall be to the Professor, and the other to the King. This Writ also lies against Employers, masters, &c. for such an Inquest; who shall be further punished by Imprisonment for a Year.
But a Writ is good against the Embracer, if he be Licensed, and have no Money; for he ought to take Money, and also because. It lies against the Journey, although they do not give a Verdict, if they take Money; and so, if I said, if they give a true Verdict, Deceit rumen lies, if they take Money.

Dee. c. 1, Duke, Tar, signifying in our ancient Law, such as were wont to have the Oblige or Friend of the Parish, or Views of Frankplod, for the Maintenance of the King's Peace; and the Limins or Comps of their Jurisdiction was ded. And thus it was used in the Laws of King Edward the Confessor, published by Lambard, Numb. 32. But of late Times December is not used for the chief Man of a Deceit, or Taria; but he that is sworn to the King's Peace, and by Oath of Loyalty to his Prince, is settled in the Society of a Deceit. A Deceit seemed to extend so far as a Leet extendeth; because in Leets the Oath of Loyalty is administered by the Steward, and taken by all such as are twelve Years old, and upwards, dwelling within the Precinct of the Leet where they are born. F. N. B. 69. There are no December in the States but Leets; and there is a great Diversity between the ancient and these modern Times, in this Point of Law and Government. 2 Ed. 73.

A Court or Declaration ought to contain Demonstration, Declaration, and Conclusion: In Demonstration, are included three Things; Facts, causes, and Consequences: In a Declaration, there ought to be comprised, Quamvis inter partes Aids accurates, quando quae quae dixerit, anno & loco, & cui debitur: And in the Conclusion, should be averred and offered to prove the Suit and Damage, &c. sustained. Terms of Law 322. A Declaration is an Exposition of the Writ, with the Addition of Time, Circumstances, &c., and must be true and clear, for the Court is not to take Things in it by Implication: But it is not necessary to let forth Matters of Fact, as in a Bill in Chancery, because they are to be tried by a Jury. Wood's Eng. 58. The Law requires four Things in Declarations and Pleadings, viz. 1. Truth. 2. Certainty. 3. Order. 4. Congruity. In personal Actions, the Day, Year, and Place ought to be expressed in the Declaration: but not in real Actions: And if in Trepass the Plaintiff xy if he declares, that it was committed such a Day, &c., the Plaintiff should make his own averments, showing the Days of the Continuance of it, this is good: For that is to be proved in Evidence, for the Increase of Damages. Text 64. In Action of Bond, the Plaintiff in his Answer, must allege a Place where the Bond was made, because the Jury should come from that Place; and if the Defendant denies it, the Plaintiff must prove it. 5 John 5. 1 Nelf. Abru. 619. In Action of Covenant, no more of the Deed need be mentioned in the Declaration, than the Covenant where the Bond is alleged: And if a Defendant pleads Non facit ad factum to a Deed, he allows a Covenant therein to be broken, as laid in the Declaration, and makes the Declaration good, though the Bond be too generally alleged. 2 Cr. 359. In Slender there should be no more Inducement than is necessary: The like is to be observed in Actions upon general Statutes, concluding contra sternam Statum, &c. But in Declarations for Words, the Words spoke are to be laid expressly and positively; not with an hæc verba vel coniunx, nor with a Quamvis tenor Inquisitor, &c. Ex. 645, 817. 5 Mod. 72. And where the Plaintiff declares on, and recites a Statute, he must recite it truly, and 'is erroneous to misrepresent it: though as to the Substance of the Declaration, the Plaintiff might have omitted to recite it. 1 Nelf. 616. In Action on the Cafe Afinimo, the Plaintiff is to declare upon the whole Frome made, and not on a Part of it; or on Trial he will be notififed, and on the Trial, &c. It is good to lay large and sufficient Damages in Declarations; in Debt it is usual to double the Sum, &c. And damages shall not be given, except what is not contained in the Declaration, and only for what is materially alleged. 10 Rep. 115. 1 Litt. Abr. 381. If one declare upon an Obligation, with an he in Ca- riis Prodi, he must on the Juror of it, shew the Obligation, or the Declaration will not be good. And a Plaintiff declaring as Executor or Administrator, ought to set forth the Probate of the Will, and Letters of Administration granted, with a Prefer in Curia; or the Declaration will be sought. 2 Litt. Abr. 412. Where there are two Counts in a Declaration, for Things of the same Nature, it is not necessary to aver, it is not good; for the Defendant is twice charged for the same Thing: But on Arrest of Judgment in such a Case, it was adjudged good after Verdict, and the Court will not take it from the same. 1 Salt. 213. If a Declaration is bad, and the Defendant de- murs, the Plaintiff may set it right in a second Ac- tion, if the Verdict is not given; though of his own, but pleads in Bar, and the Plaintiff proceeds to File thereon, if the Right is found for the De- fendant, the Plaintiff is eftopped by the Verdict from bringing a new Action: And so is it if he had de-

And by a late Order in every Cause where (special or common) Bail is filed, and Notice given to the Plaintiff, a Copy of the Declaration shall be delivered to the Attorney for the Defendant, who shall pay for it according to the usual Rate; but if the Defendant's Attorney, or his Clerk in his Absence, refuses to pay for such Copy; or if it happens the Habitation of the Attorney for the Defendant, be unknown to the Attorney for the Plaintiff; then it shall be lawful to leave the Copy, with the Officer of the Court appointed for filing Declarations, which shall be good, giving Notice, Gr. Prolific. Ch. ed. 1. p. 147. On a Lanton in B. R. you may declare against the Defendant in as many Actions as you think fit; but you must have one Original, for every Action in C. B. Ded, Is a Warranty in Law; as if it be said in a Deed or Conveyance, That A. B. hath Given, &c. to C. D. it is a Warranty to him and his Heirs. Co. Lit. 304. Allo Ded: imports a Power of giving any Thing. Hab. 1. 11.

Decretation: Ded, (Futum Dedication.) The Seal of Dedication of Churches, or rather the Fast Day of the Saint and Patron of a Church; which was celebrated not only by the Inhabitants of the Place, but by those of all the neighbouring Villages, who usually came thither; and such Assemblies were allowed as lawful: It was usual for the People to fast on this Day; and in many Parts of England, they still meet every Year in Villages for this Purpose, which Days are called Fasts or Fasts.

Dedamia, Dedate, Is a Wit or Commission given to one or more private Persons, for the speeding some Act appertaining to a Judge, or some Court. As it is intended more commonly upon Suggestion, and that the Party who is to do something before a Judge, or in Court, is too weak that he cannot travel; as where a Person lives in the Country, to take an Answer in Chancery, or examine Witnesses in a Cause depending in that Court; to levy a Fine in the Common Places, &c. F. N. B.

Deeds, (Deedum) are Attestated in writing. As the Words of Writs do command the Defendant to appear, &c. anciently the Judges would not suffer the Parties to make Attestations in any Action or Suit, without the King's Writ of Dedamia, to receive their Attestations: But now by Statutes, the Plaintiff or Defendant may make Attestations in Suits without such Writs. New Natur Br. 55. 56.

Deed, (Feoffment) Is an Instrument in Parchment or Paper, but chiefly in Parchment, comprehending a Contract or Bargain, between Party and Party; or an Agreement of the Parties thereto, for the Matters therein contained: And it consists of three Principal Points, Writing, Sealing, and Delivery; Writing, to express the Contents; Sealing, to certify the Context of the Parties; and Delivery, to make it binding and perfect. Terms de ley. The Word Serip- tum or Writing doth not import a Deed; for a Contract may be in writing, and not by Deed, and it is but a parol Agreement: But a Deed may be effectual, although it does not mention, in the Beginning, by or to whom it is made. 1 Ed. Rajm. 38. Of Deeds there are two Sorts, Deeds indented, and Deeds Pell; which Names principally arise from the Form of them, the one being cut in and out at Top, densewise, and the other plain: And a Deed indented by definition is a Deed consisting of two Parts, or more, for there are Deeds Tripartite, Quadrupartite, Sextapartite, &c. in which it is expressed, that the Parties are to have them, probably for their several Seals; and for that it contains more Parts than one, each Part is indented, or cut one of them into the other, that thereby it may appear they have been by the Deedors or Contra. 17th. Symb. St. c. 47. A Deed Pell is a Deed testifying that only one of the Parties to the Agreement hath put his Seal to the same, where such Party is the principal or Immediate Perfomer, whole Content or Act is necessary to the Deed: And it is therefore a plain Deed. without indentures, and is used when the Vendor, for Example, only sells, and there is no need of the Vendee's Sealing a Counterpart, because the Nature of the Contrafei is such, as it requires no Covenant from the Vendee, &c. Co. Lit. 57. The several Parts of a Deed by Indentures are binded together, to the Party, Granter, or Lessee, who have one; the Feoffee, Granter, or Lessee, who have another; and some other Persons, as Trustees, &c. and the Deed Pell which is single, and of but one Part, is delivered to the Feoffee, or Granter, &c. All the Parts of a Deed indented, in Judgment of Law make but one entire Deed; but every Part is of as great Force, as all the Parts together, and they are esteemed the mutual Acts of either Party, who may be bound by either Part of the same, and the Words of the Indenture are the Words of either Party, &c. But a Deed Pell is the sole Deed of him that makes it, and the Words thereof shall be said to be his Words, and bind him only. Plow. 134, 421, Lit. Sec. 370. And there are other Divisions of Deeds; some are Absolute, and some Conditional; some inrolled, and others not inrolled; some concerning the Real, some the Personal; &c. and some both, in them Matter of Gift or Grant; and others Matter of Discharge. Also in every Deed well made, there must be Writing in Parchment or Paper; Form and Method in the Writing; it must be sealed and delivered; the Parties to the Deed are to be able to make and take; and the Thing to be passed must be a Thing passable for the Money, as is shewn above, 1 Ed. stc. 255. There are several Kinds of Deeds, by which Lands pass from one Man to another; as of Bargains and Sales, Trusts, Leases and Rentals, Indentures to lend the Use of Houses and Residences, Settlements, Leases, Agreements, Exchanges, Mortgages, &c. And Deeds have several formal Parts, out. The Preliminary, Habendum, Redendum, Condition, Covenant, Warranty, Date, Sealing, &c. The Premises set forth the proper Names of the Parties, with their Additions of Place and Quality; and comprehended the Cessation of the Lands and Tenements to be conveyed, with the Consideration of the Deed, as Money, Natural Love, &c. the Premises also contain the Exception, if there be any out of the Land granted; as of Timber, Mines, &c. and in many Deeds there may be an Occasion of a Resto of former Deeds in the Premises, particularly in Agreements of Leases, Mortgages, &c. The Habendum names the Cessation of the Estate granted, for what Time the Grantee is to have it, and to what Use: And it sometimes qualifies the Estate, so that the general Implication of it, which by Contraction of Law pass in the Premises, is by the Habendum may be controlled; but not if the Estate is expressed in the Premises. Likewise an Habendum may explain the Premises, to prevent Wrong; and sometimes the Premises are thereby enlarged. A Freehold cannot be granted by Deed with Habendum at a Day to come: And a Deed or Lease, Habendum from henceforth, includes the Day on which it was dated: But Habendum ad Diem Datae excludes it. The Redendum is that Clause in the Deed, which refers both new Thing to the Gran- tor: as Rent, Suit, Service, &c. and is usually made by the Words Tiding, Paying, Doing, &c. A Lessee cannot refer to any but himself, his Heirs and Executors, &c. not to be referre to himself in the cel of the annual Profits, such as the Heritage of the Land; for that would be repugnant to the Grant, it being a Part thereof. Conditions and Covenant in Deeds, are for the Holding or not holding of the ESTATE granted, on Performance of some Act: And a Condition relating to a real ESTATE, is a Quality annexed by him that hath the Estate, Interest or Title in the land, whereas the Grantor may be deceas- de, deceased, insolvent, or deceased, upon an uncertain Event. Conditions are expressed by those Words; or, upon Condition, provided, that, if, &c. and provided always; L I L and

and it is covenaunted, is a Condition, by Force of the Preaching, and a Covenant, by Virtue of the other Vowes; sometimes a Deed for Land amounts to a Covenant, and sometimes be taken for a Limitation, Exception, Refraction, Exemption, &c. The Warrant in Deds, is to secure the Estate to the Grantee and his Heirs, &c., and is a Covenant real, annexed to the Land granted, by which the Grantor and his Heirs are bound to warrant the estate to the Grantee and his Heirs, and that they shall quietly hold and enjoy it; or upon Voucher, &c., the Grantor shall yield other Lands, to the Value of what shall be evicted. Where a Feoffor grants away all his Estate in the Land, and is not bound to warrant the Title, but the Feoffee is to defend it at his Peril; the Feoffee shall have all the Deds, as Incidents to the Land, although not granted in express Words: But where the Feoffor warrants the Land, it is otherwise, the Feoffee shall have them to defend the Title; and the Feoffee must trust to his Warrant, and have only such Deds as concern the Possession, &c. In writing, solemnize, &c., all contain the Date of the Ded; and it is well Part of it as what is written before. 1 Inf. 6, 47, 201, 355. Plead. 152. Wms's Inf. 223, 225, &c. 1 Nisf. Ab. 234, &c. Deds of Bargain and Sale, are to be registered by Stat. 27 Hen. 8. And all Deds are to be registered in the Counties of York, and Middlesex. Stat. 2 & 3 & 4. A Ded may be good without all the orderly and formal Parts; but without Delivery by the Party himself, or his Attorney lawfully authorized, to the Party to whom made, or some other to his Use, it is no Ded: And the Delivery may be either Absolute or a Condition. 1 Inf. 32. 2 Rep. 2. If a Ded sealed lieath on the Table, and the Grantor faith to the Grantee, Take that as my Ded, or this will force, &c., it is a good Ded, but if he signify it to the Party when sealed, and the Party to whom made takes it up, this is no Delivery, without some Words. Though where Parties have come for that Purpofe, and done every Thing but Deliver, it has been adjudged a good Delivery in Law. Co. El. 7. 1 Lem. 140. A Ded sealed and delivered, 'tis said may be good without signing; for the Seal is the essential Part of the Ded: But it's usual to have Deds signed; and there must be Witness to the Sealing and Delivery, who are to indorse or under write their Names thereon. 1 Inf. 7. 10 Rep. 59. 15 Rep. 56. If the Warrant is not sealed, it cannot be a Ded. And if the Print of the Seal be utterly defaced, the Ded is insufficient, so that it cannot be pleaded; but it may be given in Evidence. 3 Inf. 160. 5 Rep. 23. If any Party be read false to an Illiterate Person, though he figure, seal, and deliver it, it shall not be his Ded, to bind him: Though if he does not require the Ded to be read, and deliver it, he is bound by the fame. 2 Rep. 2. 2 Alb. 48. And if he is that to seal the Ded, cause a Stranger cunningly to read it false, to make the same void; this will not hurt the Ded. 12 Rep. 90. &c. 96. If another Person seal my Ded, and I take it after sealed and deliver it as my Ded; it is held to be good. Park St. 130. But if a Man seal and deliver a Piece of blank Paper, although he also command that a Ded be written in it, and this is done, it is no good Ded. Co. Lit. 171. Regularly there may not be two Deliveries of a Ded, for where the First doth take Effect, the Second is void: Unless it be where the Ded is delivered to a Stranger as an Exrow; or when a Ded is good at first, becomes void afterwards by the Breach of the Seal, or the Person that Coyverts seales a Ded, and after his death delivers it again, &c. Park. St. 144. Co. Lit. 48. 2 Rep. 119. The Delivery of any Ded may be alleged at any Time after the Ded; but not before. In Deds, the Condition is a principal Thing to give them Effect; And the Foundation of Deds ought always to be honest. False Law or false English, will not make a Ded void: But Requisite is flown to the Court, the Dead shall remain in Court all the Term; in the Hands of the Cafys Registrar; but at the End of the Term, it shall be delivered to the Party. If the Dead is denied, it must remain in Court till the 10th Day following. 3. Wood 235. A Dead men forth with a Prospect in Caro, remains in Court in judgment of Law all that Term; and any Person may during that Term have Benefit by it, though he hath not any Interest to it; the adverse Party may take any Advantage by the Dead that it will afford him. 5 Rep. 74. 1 Nelf. 665. Dead men delivered and delivered cannot be pleaded. 8C. If it not stamped according to Law, 6 & 8 W. 3. Cap. 21. Every Dead that is pleaded, shall be intended to be a Dead Men; except it be alleged to be indented: And if it begins, this Indenture made, it can, though it be not indent, it may be a good Dead Poll. 5 Rep. 20. A Dead Poll commonly begins thus: To all People to whom these shall come, &c. Or, Know all Men by these. See Appendix to Common law, Vol. 1. Edit. 2.

DEER-BAYS, Are Engines, or great Nets made of Cores to catch Deer; and no Person not having a Park, &c. shall keep any of these Nets, under the Penalty of 40s. a Month. Stat. 19 H. 7. cap. 11.

DEER-STAKES, There are several Laws, for the Punishment of Deer-staking; as by 3 Jas. 1. cap. 12. None shall kill or chase any Deer, in any Park or inclosed Ground, on Pain of suffering three Months Imprisonment, and to pay treble Damages: And Persons not having 40s. per Annum, in Lands, or worth 200l. in Goods, &c. are not to use any Gun, Bow, Dog, &c. to kill Deer; and their Guns, &c. may be taken from them. By the 13 Car. 2. cap. 10. It is ordained, that whoever shall shoot, kill, hurt, or take away any Red, or Fallow Deer, from any Parks, &c. shall be liable to a Penalty of 40l. And the Stat. 3d & 4th W. 3. M. c. 10. inflicts a Penalty of 10l. for unlawful Hunting and Coasting of any Deer; and 30l. for Taking, Wounding, or Killing, to be beheaded by Di- freis; which is to be divided into three Parts; one whereto to go to the Informer, another to the Poor, and the other to the Owner of the Deer; and if no Di freis can be had, the Offenders shall be imprisoned 3 Years, and for on the Pillory, &c. Pulling down Pales or Walls of Parks, &c. Deer are inclosed, by this Act is punished with three Months Imprisonment: And the Offences are determined by Justices of Peace of the County where committed. Also by 5 Gen. 1. c. 15 & 28. Persons guilty of Deer-stalking, may be indicted before a Judge of Gaol Delivery, and in that Case be transported to the Plantations for seven Years: And Persons otherwise convicted before they are discharged, are to enter into Bond of 50l. Penalty to the Person injured for future good Behaviour. Keepers of Parks, or shooting Deer without Consent of the Owners, incur a Forfeiture of 50l. and others pulling down Walls and Fences of Parks, are liable to the Penalties inflicted by 3 & 4 W. 3. M. for killing Deer. This and many Laws till the great Inventions of the Walloon-Black made a further Provision necessary, when by Statute 9 Gen. 1. c. 22. it was enacted, that if any Persons armed with Swords, Fire-Arms, or other Weapons of War be found without their Faces known, or being otherwise disguised, shall appear in any Forest, Park, &c. and unlawfully hunt or kill any Deer, &c. to any Person, or Fire to any House, &c. or Books, or send any Person in a Dwelling-house, or other Place; or send any Letter without a Name subscribed, or with a Mutilated Name, demanding Money of any Person, &c. they shall be guilty of Felony without Benefit of Clergy: And 50l. Reward is given for the apprehension of the Offenders. This Statute is continued for five Years, by 13 Gen. 1. c. 69. Persons convicted a second Time, of hunting or taking away Deer in unclosed Forests, &c. or coming armed with an Intent to hunt or take them, who shall beat or wound any Keeper, &c. shall be transported for seven Years. 10 Geo. 1. c. 32. Before the Charter de Forfis, &c. 3 H. 5. to hunt the King's Deer, in any Forest or Park was Felony; but that Charter ordained that none should take either Life or Member for killing the King's Deer. 2 Roll. Rep. 120. And the Hunting in any Forest, &c. with Vifors or painted Faces in the Day-time, or in the Night with or without such Vifors, if the Party conceal the same, it is Felony by Stat. 11 H. 7. So that we may observe there is some Agreement between our ancient Laws and modern Statutes. A Person was convicted on the Statute of Deer-stalking, and it appearing by the Conviction, that the Deer were not in a Park included, &c. upon Motion in B. R. the Conviction was quashed. 18th. 9. W. 3. Med. Jur. 194. 1. The same Conviction of Deer-stalking, was quashed by the Court of Chancery, because the Indentures into B. R. but the Party doing it, is to give Bond in the Penalty of 60l. to the Judge of Peace before whom convicted, to prosecute such Certificate, and pay the Forfeiture due by the Conviction, or render his Person in a Month after the Conviction confirmed, &c. 5 Gen. 1.

De falsi, Signifies, A Thing actually done; that is done indeed. A King de facto is one that is in actual Possession of a Crown, and hath no lawful Right to the same; in which Sense it is opposed to a King de jure, who hath Right to a Crown, but is out of Pol- position. 3 John. 7.

De facto, (Fr. Defaut) Is commonly taken for Non- appearance in Court, at a Day adjourned; though it extends to any Omission of that which we ought to do. Brodal. Lib. 5, Tract. 2. If a Plaintiff makes Default in Appearance in a Trial at Law, he will be nonsuit; and where a Defendant makes De- jahul, foault, Judgment shall be had against him by Default, In Action of Debt upon Bond, if the Defendant pleads a Releece, and Iffice is thenceupon joined, if at the Trial the Deffault, Default, the Plaintiff may pray Judgment by Default; because by the Plea the Duty is confesseade, and therefore no Inqueet need be taken by Default. But if the Defendant pleads Non est facutum, by that Plea the Duty is denied, and therefore if he make Default, Inqueet must be taken by Default. In Trespass, if the Defendant plead a Releece, and then make Default, the Plaintiff cannot pray Judgment by Default, but an Inqueet is to be taken, because Damages are incectant. 1 Salt. 316. Tenant in Tail, Tenant in Dowre, or for Life, taking their Lands by Default, in a Præter quaod Redeat brought against them; they are to have Remedy by the Writ Non rei dicenter, &c. Stat. Writ. 2. 209. 4. And in a Non rei dicenter, where the Tenant joined Iffice upon the mere Right, and the Jury appearing, the Defendant made Default; it was adjudged, that in such Case final Judgment shall be given: But if the Defendant in his Answer, when two are to recover a personal Thing, the Default of one is the Default of the other: Contra, where they are to discharge themselves of a Personally; there the Default of the one is not the Default of the other. 6 Rep. 25. 1 Litt. Abi. 447. In a suit against two, if the Proceeds be determined against one, and the other appears; he shall be put to answer, notwithstanding the Default of his Companions. 2 Danw. Abr. 480. Where the Baron is to have a Corporal Punishment for a Default, there the Default of the Wife shall not be the Default of the Husband: But otherwise, it is where the Husband is bound to have any Corporal Punishment by the Default. Ibid. 472, 473. If a Defendant impart to another Day in the same Term, and make Default at the Day, this is a Departure in DEspite of the Court: And when the Defendant after Appearance, and being present in Court, upon Demand makes Departure, it is in De- spite of the Court, and the Entry is, Et prode, Tenus, lest idemnum causas, non renunt. sed in contemptum curiae restitu, & Defaultum facit, &c. Co. Litt. 139. Before a Verdict is taken by Default, the Cryer of the Counsell or the Defendant three Times; and if he do not appear, the Plaintiff's Counsel prays, that the Inqueet may be taken by Default: He is called three Times to do duty; if he make any Challenge, it is to the Judges; and if he do not appear upon the Cryer's Calling, then the Capitatum per Default is indorsed on the Back of the Panel. 1 Litt. 435. Default, and Saver of Default, made a large Title in the old Books of Law.

Default in Criminal Cases. An Offender in- deeded appears at the Capias, and pleads to Iffice, and is let to stand by his Trial, and then makes De- fault; here the Inqueet in case of Felony, shall never be taken by Default, but a Capias ad audivandum jurata shall issue, and if the Party is not taken, an Evij incent; and be appeared on the Writ, and then make Default, an Evicto fariis de nouo may be granted: But where upon the Capias or Evij incent the Sheriff returns Capi Corpus, and at the Writ hath not his Body, the Sheriff shall be dispensed, but not in need. Default of Jurors. If Jurors make Default in their Appearance for trying of Cases, they shall loo, and forfeit Iffice, unless they have any reasonable Exeuse proved by Writemes, in which Case the Judges may discharge the Iffices for Default. Stat. 35 H. 8. c. 6.

Defamation. (Difamatio) is when a Person speaks scandalous Words of another, or of a Magnifie, &c. whereby they are injured in their Reputation: for the Plaintiff shall be pru- nifil'd according to the Nature and Quality of his OFFence; sometimes by Action on the Case at Common Law, sometimes by Libel or Slander, by the Ecclesiastical Laws. But Defamation is properly punishable by the Spiritual Courts; in which Courts, it ought to have three Incidents, viz. First, it is to concern Manners Spiritual, and determinable in the Ecclesiastical Courts; as for calling a Man Here- tick, Schismatik, Adulator, Fornicator, &c. Sec- ondly, That it be a Manners Spiritual, yet that the Difamatio concern any Thing determinable at the Common Law, the Ecclesiastical Judges shall not have Censure thereof. And Thirdly, although such Difamatio be merely Spiritual, yet he that is defamed cannot sue for Damages in the Ecclesiastical Courts; but the Suit ought to be only for Punishment of the Fault, by Way of Penance. Terms de ley 2. 777. See Action of the Case for Words, also Prohibition.

Defendants, (From the Fr. Daifaire, to defeat) Signifies a Condition relating to a Deed, which being performed, the Deed is defeated, and render'd void, as if it never had been made. The Difference be- tween a common Condition and a Defasance is, that the Condition is annexed in the Deed itself, and a Defasance is a Deed by itself, concluded and agreed upon between the Parties, and having Relation to another Deed. To make a good Defasance, it must be, 1. By Deed, for there cannot be a De- fiasance of a Deed without Deed; and a Writing un- der Hand does not imply it to be a Deed. 2. It must recite the Deed it relates to, or at least the most material Part thereof. 3. It is to be made between the same Persons that were Parties to the first Deed.

4. It must be made at the Time, or after the first Deed, and not before it. 5. It ought to be made of a Thing defasable. 1 Inq. 236. 3 Lec. 234. Inher- itances executed by Livery, such as Eliasses in Fee, or for Life, cannot be subject to Defasance afterward, but at the Time of making the Foundation, &c. only; But executory Inheritances, such as Leases for Years, Rents, Assumptions, Conditions, Covenants, &c. may be defeated by Defasance made after the Things granted. And it is the fame of Obligations, Recog- nitions, Statutes, Judgments, &c. which are most commonly the Subject of Defasance, and usually made after the Deed wherein they have Relation. Plow. 137. 1 Rep. 115. If a Man acknowledge a Statute to another, and enters into a Defasance, that if he take any Chance for it, he shall go to the Judges; and if he do not appear upon the Cryer's Calling, then the Capitatum per Default is indorsed on the Back of the Panel. 1 Litt. 435. Default, and Saver of Default, made a large Title in the old Books of Law.

Defencement, (Defencemansum) Is where any one is call out of his Lands or Possessions by Force: Or it is a With holding Lands or Tenements by Force from the Right Owner. Co. Litt. 331. A Defencor is one that overcomes and casts forth by Force and Violence, and differs from Dissipator: first, because a Man may differ another with Forces: and next, for that a Person may defend another, who never was in Possession; as if several have Right to Lands as common Heirs, and one entering keeps out the rest, the Law faith he defendeth, not difference them. And according to Littleton he is enfeoffed by Tenant in Tail, and put in Possession, by keeping out the Heir of him of Reversion who hath Right to the Land, the Tenant in Tail being dead, doth defend the Heir, though not difference him, because he entered during the Life of the Tenant in Tail, when the Heir had no present Right. Also a Defencor differs from an Intruder, by reason a Man is made an Intruder by a wrongful Entry only into Land void of a Possessor: And a Defencor is he that holds out against the right Heir. Bract. liv. 4. cap. 1. Brit. cap. 33. Litt. 135. F. N. B. 118. As Force and Violence are opposite to the Peace and Juilit of the Kingdom, and is a Disgrace to the Law, that any Person should presume to enter forcibly into the Possession of another, before the Law hath decided his Title therein; therefore divers Statutes have been made for Reformation of these Abuses, as among others the Stat. 5. R. 2. cap. 7. See Forbear Entry.

Degradation, (Degradatio) Is an Ecclesiastical Censure, whereby a Clergyman is deposed of his Holy Orders, and these two Sorts of degrading, by the Canons Law, one called Summary, by Word only; the other Solenne, by birding the Party degraded of those Ornaments and Rights, which are the Ensigns of his Order or Degree. Selden, De Titulis ib. 779. Degradatio is otherwise called Deposition; and in former former Times, the degrading a Clerk was no more than a Displacing or Suspension from his Office: but the Canons have since distinguished between a De- position and a Decreditation; the one being now ufed as a greater Punishment than the other, because the Bishop takes from the Criminal all the Badges of his Order, and afterwards delivers him to the secular Judge, where he cannot purify himself of the Offence, wherein he is convicted, &e. There is likewise a Decreditation of a Lord, or a Knight, &e. at Common Law; when they are attainted of Treason; as R. 18 Ed. 1. Andrea Harne, Earl of Carlisle, who was also a Knight, was degraded, and when Judgment of Treason was pronounced against him, his Sword was broken over his Head, and his Spurs were off his Heels, &e. And there is a Decreditation by Act of Parliament for: but by Stat. 34 Car. 2. cap. 15. William Lord Monta, Sir Henry Mildmay, and others, were degraded from all Titles of Honour, Dignities, and Preeminentities, and none of them to bear or use the Title of Lord, Knight, Esquire, or Gentleman, or any Coat of Arms for ever after.

wants it, at the Day of Demand of the Rent, must be such a convenient Time before the Sun-setting, at the last Day of Payment, as the Money may be numbered. Alsso the Lessor or his sufficient Attorney is to remain upon the Land, the last Day on which the Rent due ought to be paid, until it be so dark that he cannot see to tell the Money. And if the Money thus demanded be not paid, this is a Denial in Law, though there are no Words of Denial; upon which a Re-entry may be made, Esq. 1 Lev. 201, 202. & Rep. 73. Demises, or Demains, (Dominicum, Dominium) is a French Word otherwise written Dominamus, and is used in an Action against the Land of another, for a particular Manual Occupation, for the Maintenance of themselves and their Families; and all the Parts of a Manor, except what is in the Hands of Freeholders, are called Demains. Copyhold Lands have been accounted Demains, because they are the Title ensuing on the Hands of the Tenant, and are adjudged in Law to have no other Estates but at the Will of the Lord; so that it is still reported to be in the hands of the Lord, though the Word is oftentimes used for a Distinction between such Lands that the Lord of the Manor hath in his own Hands, or in the Hands of his Leysdem at a Rack-Rent, and such other Lands appertaining to the Manor, which belongeth to Frees or Copyholders. Brutt. libr. 4, tract. 3, cap. 9, Fort. libr. 5, cap. 5. As Demains are Lands in the Lord's Hands manually occupied, some have thought this Word derived from De mensis; but it is from the Fr. Demains, which signifies an Inheritance, and comes from Dominium, because a Man has a more absolute Dominium over that which he keeps in his Hands, than of that which he lets to his Tenants. Blunt. Dominium properly signifies the Right of the King, who is absolute Lord, having no common Person, cannot be true Demains: and certain it is, that Lands in the Possession of a Subject are called Demains in a different Sense from the Demains of the King. For Demains or Mainis in the Hands of a Subject, have their Derivation & Denne, because they are Lands in his Possession for the Maintaining of his House: But the Demains of the Crown are held of the King, who is absolute Lord, having proper Dominium; and not by any feudal Tenure of a superior Lord, as of Fee. Word's Law, 139. Demain is sometimes taken in a Special Signification, as oppo- site to the Demains of the Crown, in which Cases where there were in the Possession of King Edward the Confessor, are called Ancient Domains, and all others Frank Fee; and if any of those Lands are called Tenants in Ancient Domain, and the others Tenants in Frank Fee, Esq. Ritch 98. See Ancient Demesne. Edes. Demisne, (Demains) is applied to an Estate either in Fee, for Term of Life, or Years, but commonly the latter: It is used In Writs for any Estate. 2 Lev. 483. The Word Demaise in a Lease for Years, implies a Warranty to the Lessee to have the Land, and upon this Word Action on the Covenant lies against the Heir of the Lessee, if he oust the Lessee: It binds the Executors of the Lessee, who has a Will, or his Personal Liabilities, to pay Seals, or Farce-Tall; where any Lessee is evicted, and the Executor hath Affid; but not the Lessee for Life Executors, without express Words, that the Lessee shall hold his whole Term. 2 Lev. 483. 7 Lev. 56. The King's Death is in Law termed the Demise of the King, to his Royal Successor, of his Crown and Dignity, Esq. 36. Demisne and Redemisne. The Conveyance by Demisne and Redemisne is, there are mutual Liabilities made from one to another on each Side of the same Land, or something in a kind, and is proper upon the Grant of a Rent charge, Esq.

And by 4 & 5 Geo., cap. 16. the Judges shall give Judgment without regard to any Impressions in Writs, Declarations, Pleasings, &c. A Defendant is to answer where he may do it; for if the Defendant pleads in any Cafe, where he can demur, he shall not afterwards take Advantage in Arrell of Judgment, Writ of Error, &c. Plowd. 181. If any special Matter is pleased, which hath the Colour of a Plea, but amounts to the General Issue: 'tis no Cause of Demurrer. 5 Mod. 18. There cannot be a Demurrer in Abatement: and where a Defendant demur only in Abatement, the Court may give final Judgment; but it may be to a Plea in Abatement. 1 Saull, 210. Nelf. Abr. 634. After the Plaintiff and Defendant have joined Issue, which goes to the Whole, neither of them can demur, without Content of the other: but one may demur to one Part of a Declaration, and plead to the other Part thereof, with a Quality; &c. And where there is an Issue to Part of the Defendant's Plea, and a Demurrer to other Part of it, the Plaintiff before or after Judgment given on the Demurrer, may try the Issue; though 'tis usual to give Judgment on the Demurrer first. 1 Litt. Abr. 437. 1 Inf. 71. 1 Sandt. 80. If a Defendant pleads to Part, and demurrer to Part; the Demurrer shall fail he determined, and the Issue left: because upon the Trial of the Issue, the Jury may affirms Damages as to both. Palm. 517. Where there is a Demurrer in Part, and Issue is joined upon the other Part, and the Plaintiff hath Judgment on the Demurrer; here he may enter a Non Prof. as to the Issue, and proceed to a Writ of Inquiry upon the Demurrer: But otherwise he cannot have such Writ of Inquiry. 1 Saull. 215. A Demurrer is to be signed, and argued on both Sides by Counsel; and if a Party be delayed in his Proceedings by Demurrer, he may move the Court to appoint a Short Day after to hear Counsel on the Demurrer, and the Court will grant it. Trin. 25 Car. B. R. After a Demurrer is joined, the Plaintiff having entered it in the Roll, delivers the Roll to the Secondaries, and makes a Motion for a Condemnation or Day to argue it, which the Court grants of Courte, on the Secondaries' reading the Record; then the Demurrer must be entered by the Plaintiff in the Court-Book with the Secondaries, who on his Rule sets down the Day appointed for Argument, at least four Days before the Demurrer is argued: And Paper-Books are made and delivered to the Judges. The Pleas and Arguments are as before, and the Court will hear but two Counsel on a Day, viz. one of a Side, and fidelom give Judgment for the one or other Side (unless the Cafe be very plain) the Court will hear further Arguments the next Term. The whole Record is not to be read, on opening the Demurrer; except the same be to the Declaration only: But where it appears to be for Delay, the whole Record will be heard by the Court, though there be a Plea, &c. And if it be found merely for Delay, Judgment shall be given presently. If the major Part of the Judges of the Court cannot determine the Matter on the Demurrer, it is to be sent into the Exchequer Chamber to be determined by all the Judges of England. 1 Inf. 71. Pratit. Ation. Ed. 1. p. 154. When the Court gives Judgment on Demurrer in Debt for the Plaintiff in the Action, the Judgment is for the Plaintiff, and not as to his Debt, Costs and Damages: but if it be in Action of the Cafe, a Writ of Inquiry of Damages must be awarded, before Judgment on the Demurrer. If Judgment on the Demurrer is for the Defendant in the Action, the Judgment is, that the Plaintiff must pay by a Writ of Heall and Damages, and that the Defendant pay by a Writ of Heall, and Damages. And the general formal Words of a Demurrer are,
be comitted; for whanever is adjudget, is consiv'd by

And if he be displeased for more, he shall pay twenty Shillings. 1555, 86. Departure.

Departure, is a Word in our Law properly applied to a Defendant, who first pleading One Thing in Bar of an Action, and being replied unto in his Replication, he qualifies that and files another Matter contrary to, or not purposing his first Plea, which is called a Departure from his Plea: Also where a Plaintiff in his Declaration sets forth one Thing, and after the Defendant hath pleased, the Plaintiff in his Replication files a new Matter different from his Declaration, this is a Departure: as in Codb's Statutes, The Defendants demurred, because it was a Departure from the Declaration. Plow. 7, 8, 2 Inst. 147. But if a Plaintiff in his Replication depart from his Count, and the Defendant takes Issue upon it; if it be found for the Plaintiff, the Defendant shall take no Advantage of that Departure: Though it would have been otherwise, if he had demurred upon it. Raym. 86. 1 Litt. Abr. 444. If a Man pleads a general Agreement in Bar, and in his Rejoinder alleges a special One, this is a Departure in Pleading: And if an Action is brought at common Law, and the Plaintiff shall make his Matter a Virtue of a Custom, &c. it hath been held a Departure. 1 Nell. Abr. 686. Where a Matter is omitted at first, it is a Departure to plead it afterwards. Holc. If in Covenant, the Defendant pleads Performance; and after rejoins that the Plaintiff omitted it, it is a Departure from his Plea. Raym. 22. In Debt upon Bond his Performance of Covenant in a Leafe, the Defendant pleads Performance; and afterwards in his Rejoinder sets forth that so much was paid in Mo- ney, and so much in Taxes, &c. upon Demurrer it was adjudged a Departure from the Plea; because he had pleaded Performance, and afterwards sets forth other Matter of Excuse, &c. 1 Saull. 231. Debt upon Bond for Performance of an Award, made for Payment of Money; if the Defendant plead Performance, and the Plaintiff having replied and affirmed a departure of他说的 &c., the Defendant re- joins that he is ready to pay the Money at the Day, &c. this is a Departure from his Plea; for Performance is Payment of the Money, and Payment and readiness to pay are different Things. 4 Lev. 70.

In Debt upon Bond for Non-performance of an A- ward; the Defendant pleads that the Award was, that he should release all Soits to the Plaintiff, which he has done; the Plaintiff replies that the Award was made, but that the Award was further, that the Defendant should pay to the Plaintiff such and such thing, &c. which rejoins that true it is, that by the Award he was to pay the Plaintiff the said Sam, but that the Award was also, that the Plaintiff should release to the Defendant all Actions, ... which he had not done; on Demurrer this was held a Departure from the Plea, being all new Mat- ter. 2 Boll. 39. Gd. 155. 1 Nell. 637. After Nollum factum arbitrarium, the Defendant cannot plead that the Award was made, but that the Award was further, that the Defendant should pay to the Plaintiff such and such thing, &c. which rejoins that true it is, that by the Award he was to pay the Plaintiff the said Sam, but that the Award was also, that the Plaintiff should release to the Defendant all Actions, forned before the Coroner or Justice, without any Alteration. 2 Hen. P. C. 420. But the Depositions taken before a Coroner, cannot be given in Evidence upon an Appeal for the same Death; because it is a different Prosecution from that wherein they were taken: And it has been adjudged, That the Evidence given by a Witness at one Trial, could not be in the ordinary Court of Justice be made Use of against a Criminal on the Death of such Witness, at another Trial. Ibid. 420. It was adjudged in the Earl of Stratford's Trial, that where Witenesse could not be produced, by Reason of Sickness, ets, their Depositions might be read, for or against the Pri- soner on a Trial of High Treason; but not where they could be produced in Person: And that Deposi- tions by a Witness before a Justice of Peace, might, at the Prisoner's Desire, be read at the Trial; in or- der to take off the Credit of the Witness, by shew- ing a Conscience between. And the Evidence given in Court. Ibid. Deposition is used in the Law in another Sense, viz. To signify the Deposition of a Person of some Dignity: And Deposition is also tak- en in Church; The Day of Death is Deposition, the Day of one's Death. Litton's Dil. 245.

Deposition, (Deposition) Is a Deposition or Taking of a Witness, in a Bishop, Vicar, etc, is deposed from his Preference. Of Depositions there are two Sorts, Depositions à Beneficio, and ab Officiis: The Deposition à Beneficio is when for some great Crime, ets. a Minifter is wholly deprived of his Living: And Deposition ab Officiis is when a Mi- nifter is for ever deprived of his Orders, which is also called Deposition or Dedication; and is commonly for some heinous Offence meriting Death, and per- formed by the Bishop in a solemn Manner. Blount. Deposition à Beneficio is an Act of the Spiritual Court, grounded upon some Crime or Defect in the Person deprived, by which he is discharging from his Spiritual Promotion or Benefice, upon sufficient Cause proved against him. 1 Nolf. Abr. 641. Deposi- tion may also be by a particular Cause in some All of Parliament: The Deposition of Bishop, ets, is declared lawful by Statute 39 Eliz. c. 8. And by the King's Commission, as he hath the Supremacy lodged in him, a Bishop may be deprived; for since a Bishop is vested with that Dignity by Commission from the King, 'tis reasonable he should be deprived, where there is just Cause, by the same Authority. But the Canons direct, that a Bishop shall be de- prived in a Synod of the Province; or if that cannot be attended, by the Archbishop, and twelve Bis- ats at least, not as his Affiliates, but as Judges: Though I think this Canon was never received in England. Young Clergyman's Lawyer 105. It has been adjudged, that an Archbishop may deprive a Bishop for Simony, ets, for he hath Power over his Suffra- gans, who may be punished in the Archbishop's Court, for any Offense against their Duty. 6 Inst., 2, 171. Rep. 134. The Causes of Depositions are many: If a Clerk obtains a Prebend in the Church, by Si- monical Contradict, if he be an Excommunicate, a Deponent, a Schism- atick or Heretic; or guilty of Murder, Manslaugh- ter, Perjury, Forgery, ets, If a Clerk be an Ille- limate, and not able to perform the Duty of his Chureh, he is a Common Person in his Life and Conversation; or Battardy is objected against him; if one be a mere Layman, and not in Holy Orders; or under Age, even the Age of twenty-three Years; be disobedient and incorrigible to his Ordin- ary; or a Nonconformist to the Canons; if a Par- son refuse to use the Common Prayer, or preach in Deposition of it, or do administer any Jurisdiction, or read the Articles of Religion, ets. If any Par- son, Vicar, ets, have one Benefice with Care of Souls, and take Plurality, without a Faculty or Dis- penation: Or if he commit Wilfe in the Houses and Lands of the Church, called Dilapidations; all these have been held good Cases for Deposition of Priests. Degg's, Parson's Compend, q. 92, 93, c. 2 15th. 240. And refusing to use the Common Prayers of the Church; Plurality of Livings, ets, are Causes of Deposition 156 447, in which Case the Church shall be void, without any Sentence declaratory: And Avoidances by Act of Parliament need no declaratory Sentence: But in other Cases there must be a declaratory Sentence. Dyer 272. Where a Bene- fit is only voidable, but not void before Sentence of Deposition, the Party must be cited to appear; there is to be a Libel against him, and a Time al- figned to answer it, and also Liberry for Advocates to plead, and after all a solemn Sentence pronounced: Though none of these Formalities are required, where the Living is annulled, ets. 146, (See Act 20 Geo. 1.) If a Deposition be for a Thing merely of Eccle- siastical Cognition, no Appeal lies; but the Party has his Remedy by a Commission of Review, which is granted by the King of mere Grace. 26 H. 8. Mar. 728.

Deputy, (Deputy) Is he that exercises an Offi- ce, ets, in another Man's Right, whole Parson, or Vicar or Middlemanor, shall cease him, whole Deputy he is, to lose his Office. The Common Law takes Notice of Deputy in many Cases, but it never takes Notice of Under-Deputies; for a Deputy is generally but a Person authorized, who cannot authorize another. 1 Litt. Abr. 446. A Man cannot make his Deputy in all Cases except the Grant of the Office justify him in it; and where it is to one, to execute by De- puty, ets, Litt. 397. Judges cannot act by Deputy, but are to hold their Courts in Person; for they may not transfer their Power over to others. 2 Hen. P. C. 3. But it has been adjudged, that Recorders may hold their Courts by Deputy, ets, 1 Litt. 76. 1 Nolf. 643. The Office of Caussi Braucian and Chi- nographer in C. B. cannot be executed by Deputy. 1 Nolf. Abr. 644. A Steward of a Court may make a Deputy, and Acts of an Under-Steward's Deputy have been held good in some Cases. ets, 354. A Sheriff may make a Deputy; it is incident to his Office, though he express Power is given by his Patent; and he hath equal Power with the High Sheriff. 9 Rep. 49. A Coroner ought not to exe- cute his Office by Deputy, it being a Judicial Office of Trust and Judicial Offices are annexed to the Per- son, ets, 1 Litt. 446. If the Office of Parchment but is granted to one, he may not grant this to another; because it is an Office of Trust and Confidence. Terms de Le 239. A Bailiff of a Liberty, may make a Deputy. ets, 454. And a Constable may make a Deputy, who may execute the Warrant directed to the Constable, ets, 2 Dav. 482. When an Office depends to an Infant, ets, any such may make a Deputy of Courts. 9 Rep. 47. Where an Office is granted to a Man and his Heirs, he may make an Affiliate of that Office; and by Consequence a Deputy. 9 Rep. 459. Any Sheriff of an Office, ets, Interest therein, but doth all Things in his Master's Name, and his Master shall be answerable; but an Affiliate hath an Interest in the Office, and doth all Things in his own Person, or in his Leis, for his Master's interest he shall not answer, unless in Special Cases. Description. (Descri.ion) In Deeds and Grants there must be a certain Description of the Lands granted, the Place where the Lands lie, and of the Person to whom granted, &c. To make them good. But Wills are more favoured than Grants 23 to tho Description; and a wrong Description of the Per son will not make a Deed void, if there be otherwise a sufficient Foundation, or what Person was intended by the Testator. 1 Nill. Abr. 647. If there are several Description of one Person in a Will, they must all agree at the Time of the Will executed, in Name, Circumstances, &c. or the Deed to such is void.

And where a first Description of Land, &c. is to, though the second is true, a Deed will be void: Can you if the first be true, and second false.

Dr. for turn generally is not good; But if the Defendant judicious as Servant, there it may be good, with a Traverce of the Commandement, it being material; for the general Regulation Dr. for Turn is properly when the Defendant's Plea contains Mater of Excuse, and no Matter of Interest. 8 Rep. 67.

Distraint, (Distraendo) In the Common Law is like Alia Deposition in the Civil Law, and is a Writ which lies against him, who having Goods or Chantels delivered to keep, reduceth to redule them. In this Action the Thing claimed is to be recon vered, and not Damages: But if one cannot accesse the Thing itself, he shall recover Damages for the Thing, and also for the Distraint. Wms. l. f. 54.

Distraint lies for any one: There certain and valuable Goods wherein one may have a Property or Right; as for a Horse, Cow, Sheep, Hens, Dogs, Jewels, Plate, Cloth, Bags of Money, Sacks of Corn, &c. It must be of a certain value, if such Goods are to be known and recovered; and therefore for Money out of a Bag, or Corn out of a Sack, &c. it lies not for the Thing, but a Suit to a Scots in this Writ, or from other Money or Corn; so that the Party must have an Action on the Cafi, &c. 1 iusf. 286. F. N.

B. 158. Yet Distraint may be brought for a Piece of Gold, of a Bag of Money, or a Sack of Money; for here is a Demand of a certain particular Pecunia. 2 Domo. Abr. 518. If a man receiving Money out of a Bag, or Corn, &c. &c. and while he is telling the sett the Big is stolen; no Action of Distraint, &c. lies; becaus by putting up the Money, he had appropriated it to his own Use.

Chamer. 475. A Man lends a Sum of Money to another, Distraint lies not for it, but Debt: But if A lacks and sells Goods to B. upon Condition to be void if A pays B. a certain Sum of Money at a Day; now

A, not having Distraint after the Grant, but the Gram have it. Tety. 241. 1 Bush. 67. When Goods are delivered to one, and he delivers them to another, Action of Distraint may be had against the second Peron, and if he delivers them to one that has a Right thereto, yet 'tis said he is chargeable:

Also if a Peron to whom a Thing is delivered dies, Distraint against his Executor, &c. or in his Place any Peron to whom the Thing comes. 2 Domo.

Abr. 511. A Man may have a general Distraint against another that finds his Goods: Though if I deliver any Thing to A. to re deliver, and he loses it, if B. finds it and delivers it to C. who has a Right to the same, he is not chargeable to me in Distraint, because he is not payy to my Distraint. 1 j. &. 6.

5. 2 dist. In Actions of Distraint, the Thing must be once in the Possession of the Defendant; which Distraint is not to be altered by Act of Law, as Sei-fer, &c. For the Nature of the Thing remains continues, without Alteration, to inside this Action. F. N.

B. 134. If I had Goods, and before the Owner being his Action, I sell them: or the Cafi be known out of my Hands upon an Execution, or Outlay against the Owner, &c. he cannot have Distraint against me. 1 j. &. 4. 8. 27 H. 8. 13. But Action of Distraint will lie against him that finds Goods, if they are taken with wilfull Negligence.

with the Key in my Self, and keep the Key myself, and something be taken out of it, Writ of Dehiso lief not for this: But if the Trunk and all that is in it be taken away, there it lies. 11 Rep. 89, 4 E. 3.
This Action will not lie, where a Man delivers Goods to me, and I bid him take them again, if he refuses to do it: Or where one takes my Goods or Cattle by Wrong as a Trespassor: or by Way of Distress for Rent, or as Damage feuation. 1st. Not for a Horse

And it be a Ring that is delivered to another, and he breaks it, 'tis doubted whether Action of Dehiso may lie; because the Thing is altered, and cannot be returned as it was: But Action of the Cxion is found, the Cafe of Tresor and Conversion may be brought. 18 E.

4. 4. To bring a Goods that is sent off, and the Plaintiff is to set forth the Time and Thing delivered, appointed for the Redeelivery thereof, with its Value, bought it, and what he paid, and the Time for Delivery: Alfo in Tresor, the Nature and Value of the Things are very important to the Time and Place where and where the Plaintiff was polled of them, and how they came to the Defendant's Hands, with the Conversion, &c. Prat. 4. Sale. Actions of Dehiso are not to frequently brought as formerly: for Actions of Tresor and Conversion are in their Head, where the Conversion changes the Dehiso to Action of the Cafe of Sale; and thereby the tedious Proceedings as to Garnishment, &c. are now out of Use. 10 Rep. 57.

Action of Charters. A Man may have De-hiso for Deeds and Charters concerning Land: but if they concern the Freedom, it must be in C. B. and no other Court. Action of Dehiso lies for Charters which make the Title of Land; and the Heir may have a Dehiso of Charters, although he hath not the Land: If my Father be deceased, and die, I shall have Dehiso for the Charters, notwithstanding I have not the Land, but the Executors, and not the Action for them. New Nat. Br. 308. If a Man keep his Charters from me, concerning the Inheritance of my Land, and I know the Certainty of the Title and the Land is locked, &c. and I know not their Certainty, I may recover this by my Writ: So where Lands are given to me and T. S. and my Heirs, and he die, if another gets the Deeds; and if Tenant in Tail give away the Deed of Entail, and then die, his Issue may bring a Writ of Dehiso of Charters. 4 C. Litt. 286.
1st. 2. H. N. 178. But if the Tenant in Fee simple, do give away his Deeds of the Land, his Heir may not have this Action: And in Cafe a Woman went with child by her deceased Husband, keeps the Child from his Log, where it is found, and Concern the Land, during the Time she is with Child; this Writ will not lie against her. 41 E. 3, 11.
Dehiso was brought for a Life, and this Plaintiff had a Verdict, that the Defendant demised the Deed, and the Jury gave 20l. Damage, but did not find the Value of the Deed; and then there issued out a Distress to deliver the Deed, or the Value, and afterwards a Writ of Inquiry was awarded for the Value; whereupon the Jury found a different Value from what the first Verdict found, and it was adjudged. 1st. 25 E. 49. In Action of Charters, if the Issue be upon the Dehison, and it is found that the Defendant hath burnt the Charters, the Judgment shall not be to recover the Charters, which it appears cannot be had: but 'tis said it shall be for the Plaintiff to recover the Land in Damages. 26 Rul. Abr. 101. 1 Danw. Abr.

Deudubit, or Deudubitant homo Terratoris, Is a Writ that lies against Executors or Administrators, for paying Debts upon simple Contrac. before Debts on Bonds and Specialties, &c. for in this Cafe they are as liable to Action as if they had Squandered away the Goods of the Deceased, or converted them to their own Use; and are compellable to pay such Debts by Specialty out of their own Goods, to the Value of what they do paid illegitimately. 1st. 252.
But if an Executor pays Debts upon simple Contrac., before he hath any Notice of Bonds, it is no Dreu-facturis; and regularly this Notice is by an Acten commenced against him, for the Law doth not oblige him to take Notice of it himself, nor of a Judgment against his Testamentor, because he is not privy to Acts done either by or against him. 1st. 175. 3 Lew.
115. Where an Executor, &c. payeth Legacies before Debts, and hath not sufficient to pay both, 'tis a Dreujector. Alfo where an Executor造成 the Testamentor, and afterwards makes his Executor, and dies, leaving Affairs, that an Action of Debt will not lie against the Executor of the walling Executor, upon a Suggelation of a Deujector or Waite by the firr Executor because it is no Dreujector where he did not illay with him. 3 Lew. 241. But in this Cafe there is a Difference between a lawful Executor and an Executor de fere ture; for an Executor de fere ture pollices himself of the Goods wrongfully, if he af-ferwards waives them, and dies, leaving Affairs, his Executor shall be charged upon the Suggelation of a Deujector in his Testamentor, because he came within the Goods, and therefore the Wrong shall not die with his Perfon. 2 Lew. 133. And before the Statute 30 Car. 2. c. 7. it has been decreed in Equi-ity against the Executors of a lawful Executor, if he had waited the Goods, and died, that such Executor should be liable to make good to the Creditors of the Teller, so much as the first Executor had waited, and so far as he had Affidts of the said first Executor. 1 Ch. Rep. 257. By that Statute it is enacted, that if the Executor of an act waits the Goods, and dies, his Executors shall be liable in the same Manner as their Teller would have been if he had been living. And it has been since adjudged, that a rightful Executor who waits the Goods of the Teller, is in Effect an Executor de fo de re for abusing his Trust; and therefore his Executor or Administrators may be liable to a Deoeevatus. 3 Mod. 113. Debt lies against an Executor in the Debts and Debts, where there is a Judgment against his Teller, upon a Suggestion only, that he had waited the Goods; and this is a more expedient Way than the old Method of Sci. fac. Inquiry which was instead to shew Cause why the Plaintiff should not have Execution against the Executor de bonis praevius, and thereupon the Sheriff returned a Deoeevaut, &c. 1 Lev. 147. 1 Nelf. 653. A Husband is to be charged for Wafe done by his Wife Dam Jus ; but the Husband is not chargeable after the Death of a Wife Executrix, on Suggestion of a Deoeevatus in a Declaration against him. 1 Cor. A Feme Covent Executrix cannot do any Wafe during the Coverture; though for Wafe done by the Husband the shall be charged, if the survives him; but then it must be on a Judgment obtained against him, and not on a bare Suggestion of a Deoeevatus, &c. 2 Lev. 147. See Debts & Debts.

Debentur, This Write herefore directed to the Executor on the Death of the Heir of the King's Tenant under Age and in Custody, commanding the Executor that by the Oaths of good and lawful Men he inquire what Lands and Tenements by the Death of the Tenant came to the King. Debrief, (Deoeevaut) Is opposite to iuvat. As luvat signifies to deliver the Possession of any Thing to another; so Deoee vat signifies the Taking it away. Frad. lib. 1. cap. 7.

Debriefs, (from the Fr. Debrief, to divide or fort or divide into Parcels) Is properly where a Man gives away any Lands or Tenements by Will in Writing. And he who gives away his Lands in this Manner, is called the Drefier; and he to whom the Lands are given, the Debrief. A Debrief Writing is, in Law, Contradiction, no Deed; but an Instrument by which Lands are conveyed. And anody where Lands were devisible, it was by Coffers only; for at Common Law, no Lands or Tenements in Fee simple were devisible by Will ; nor could they be transferred from one to another but by solemn Livery and Seisin; Master of Record, or sufficient Deeds or Writing. 1 Lev. 111. 2 Lev. 386, &c. But now it is otherwise by Statute 52 Hen. 8. 'Tis said that Words of Recommendation and Debrief in a Will, are always held to be a Deoeevat; as where the Teller gives a Legacy to one, willing him to do such a Thing, &c. Prev. Car. 201. 202. Dignity, (Dignitas) Signifies Honour and Authority. Reparation, &c. And Dignity may be divided into Superior and Inferior: As the Titles of Duke, Earl, Baron, &c. are the highest Names of Dignity; and those of Baronet, Knight, Seigneur at Law, &c. the lowest. Nobilitate Isagno is a high Name of Dignity, as to supply the Want of a Surname in legal Proceedings; And as the Omnipotence of a Name of Dignity is to be ascribed to an Abstenture of a Writ, &c. so it may be where a Peer who has more than one Name of Dignity, is not named by the most Noble. 2 Haw. Dignitaries Ecclesiastical, (Dignitas Ecclesiastica) Is defined by the Canons to be Administratio ra juri des etc. et Potestate auxilia conjuncta; of which there are several Examples in Demeaning, de Sacris Eccles. &c. e. 2. c. 6. Dignitaries Ecclesiastical are mentioned in the Stat. 26 H. 8. cap. 31 & 32. And of Church Dignity, Camden in his Britannia, p. 161, reckons in England 644.

Dignitaries, (Dignitarii) Are those who are ad vantured to any Dignity Ecclesiastical; as a Bishop, Dean, Archdeacon, Prebendary, &c. But there are some Prelates, without Cure or Jurisdiction, which are not Dignitaries. 3 Inst. 155.

Dilapidation, (Dilapidatio) Is where an Incom- ment on a Church Living, injures the Parsonage-House or Outhouses to fall down, or be in Decay for Want of necessity Reparation; Or it is the pulling down or destroying any of the Houses or Buildings, belonging to a Spiritual Life, or destroying any of the Woods, Trees, &c. appertaining to the same; for it is said to extend to the Committing or Suffering any wilful Waffe, in or upon the Inheritance of the Church. Digg's Parlia. 12. 24. Inst. e. 2. 4. 4. And by the Canon Law, Dilapidations are made a Debt, which is to be satisfied out of the Profts of the Church; but the Common Law permits Debt on Contrasts, &c. before Debt for Dilapidations. Hera. 195. The Prosecution in these Cases, may be brought either against the Incumbent himself, or against his Executors or Administrators; and the Executor or Administrator of him in whose Time it was done or suffered, must make Amends to the Successor: And if you proceed against the Incumbent, You must proceed in the Spiritual Court: Like wise you may proceed in the Common Court against an Executor, or the Successor may have an Action of the Debt or Debt at the Common Law, in which Action he shall recover Damages in Proportion to the Dilapidations.

notes. 1 Nelf. Ab. 656. By Statute, if any Parson, &c. shall make a Gift of his Goods and personal Eftate to defraud his Successor, as to Dilapidations, such Successor may have the same Remedy in the Spiritual Court against the Person whom such Goods or Goods of him be made, as he might have against the Executors of the deceased Parson. 13 Eli. cap. 10. And Money recovered for Dilapidations, is to be employed in the Reparations of the same Houses suffered to be in Decay, or the Party recovering shall forfeit double the Value of what he receives, to the King, by Stat. 15 Eli. cap. 11. Wherein our Books to Foundation, Dilapidations are suitable for only in the Ecclesiastical Court, that is to be intended when the Suit is grounded upon the Canon Law; for an Action of this Cali might have been brought; at Common Law by the Successor against the Executors of the Dilapidator. Per. Casw. 97, 98. If a Parson suffers Dilapidations, and after- wards takes another Benefice, whereby his former Benefice becomes void, his Successor may have an Action against him, and declare that by the Custum of the Kingdom he ought to pay him Quinto Demanarium, commensurum, inofficium et reparations, &c. 3 Lew. 289. In Case a Parson comes to a Living, the Buildings wherof are in Decay by Dilapidation, and his Predecessor did not leave a sufficient personal Eftate to repair them, so that he is without Remedy; he is to have the Defecls surveyed by Workmen, and attested under their Hands in the Presence of Witness, which may be a Means to secure him from the Inconvenience brought upon him by the Fault of his Predecessor, and do the same as is usual in private Curst, and may be a Demand to a Dilatory Plea, or the Defendant shall be ordered to plead better, &c. &c. Disability by the Act of the Ancestor, is where the Ancestor is attainted of Treson, &c. which corrupts the Blood of his Children; so that they may not inherit his Estate. 2. Disability by the Act of the Party, is where a Man binds himself by Oath, that upon Surrender of a Lease, he will grant a new Lease to the Lessor; and afterwards he grants over the Reversion to another, which puts it out of his Power to perform it. 3. Disability by the Act of God, is where a Person is Non Jure Memoriae, whereby he is incapable to make any Grant, &c. So that if he pallbear any Estate out of him, it may after his Death be made void; but it is a Maxim in Law, That a Man of full Age shall never be received to Disable his own Persona. 2. Disability by the Act of the Law, is where a Man by the sole Act of the Law, without any Thing by him done, is rendered incapable of the Benefit of the Law; as an Alien born, Est. mity is transferred from the Root to the Branches, and gives them the same Preference, as next and worthiest of Blood. Hale's Hist. L. 237. The great Grandchild of the elder Brother, whether it be a Son or a Daughter, shall here be preferred as the Heir before the younger Brother; for though a Female be less worthy than the Male, yet the hands in Right of Representation of the elder Brother, who was more worthy than the younger. Hale's Hist. L. 237. As it is said to them that was last feigned: If Tenant in Fee simple hath a Son and a Daughter by one Woman or by former, and a Son by another. 3 Rep. 83. But the elder Son dies with out Issue, before actual Seisin, the younger Brother as Heir to the Father shall have the Estate; but if the elder Brother had entered on the Lands, the Sifer who entered before him shall have an estate. Lit. 8. None can inherit any Lands as Heir, but only the Blood of the first Purchase: as if the Father make a Purchase, the Blood of the Mother shall not have the Estate: But if a Son purchases, and there is no Heir on the Side of the Father, the Land shall go to the heirs on the Side of the Mother; for they are the Blood of the Son, the first Purchaser, and he had the Blood of both Father and Mother. Lit. 4. 1 Inf. 12. So that there is a Difference where the Son purchases first in Fee simple, and where he comes to them by Distant. Land thus purchased may go to the Heirs of the Father and Mother of the Purchaser; unless it be once attached in the Heir of the Part of the Father, for then the Heirs of the Mother cannot have it, because they are not of the Blood of him who was last feigned. 49 E. 3. 12, Friend 119. Where for want of Heirs of a Purchaser, the Part of the Father, or of whom first Heir had not entered, the Lands descended to the Line of the Mother; there the Heirs of the Mother of the father's Side, shall take in Succession, before her Heirs of the Part of her Mother. Hale's Hist. L. 247. Plowd. 444. If a Man hath Issue two Sons by divers Wives, the younger Brother of the Blood of the Father shall not have and purchased by the elder Brother, on his dying without Issue; but the elder Brother's Uncle, or next Cousin shall have it. 1 Inf. 14. The elder Brother of the whole Blood shall have Land by Distant, purchased by a middle or younger Brother, if such died without Issue; for as to Distant between Brethers, the Eldest is the most worthy of Blood to inherit to them as well as to the Father.) And if there be no Brother or Sister, the Uncle shall have it as Heir, and not the Father: And yet it may happen to the Father, or to the Uncle; likewise if the Father hath Issue another Son or Daughter, after the Distant to the Uncle, that Issue shall take by Distant from her Brother, who, because the Distant between them was such a manner as to exclude the Right of the Father, and the Law doth not regard the Disability of the Father. 4 Lev. 5. 1 Nef. Abs. 624. If there be Father and Son, and the Son is attainted of Treson or Perjury in the Father's Life time, and yet outlive his Father, the Land by Distant shall not come to such Son, nor any of his Issue; but if he die before the Father, it will be decided to his other Children. 4 Rep. 11. 124. And where a Person feigned of Lands, hath Issue two Daughters, if one of them commits Felony, after the Father's Death both Daughters being alive, the Mother shall decide to one Daughter, and the other shall

1 Inf. 163. Inheritances may decide but it is not so in the right Line. Children inherit their Antecessors without Limitation; but a Cottier may not take from their Children, for the Father can never come to the Lands which his Son hath purchased, by linear Antecent; though he may by collateral Antecent, where the Son's Lands come to his Uncle, and then to the Father. In the collateral Line, the Uncle inherits the Nephew, and in the Line of Issue of Issue he decides with the eldest. Lit. 6 Rep. 244. Lands and Tenements in Fees simple decide first, to the eldest Son as Heir, and to his Issue; the Sons first, in Order of Birth; and for Want of Sons, to the Daughters equally, who inherit as One Issue, that is in the same Degree of nearness and collaterality, as if the eldest Son hath no Issue, then to his next eldest Brother of the whole Blood, and his Heirs, and for Want of a Brother, to his Sifer or Siblings of the whole Blood, and their Issue; if there be no Brother or Sifer, to the Uncle and Issue, and for Want of an Uncle, to an Aunt or Aunts, and their Issue; and if there be none fuch, then to Cousins in the nearest Degree of Consanguinity. Bacon's Ele.

And in Case of Lands purchased by Brethren; after Uncles and Aunts, the Lands shall decide to the Father, and the Half Blood, and their Issue, (who come in after the Father, being of the whole Blood to him, though not to one another) and for Want of Father, Uncle, Father, and Half Blood, to the next of the kin in the collateral Line. Wood's Infl. 218. In Distant of Estates-tail, Half Blood is no Hindrance because the Issue are in perf. form. Dan. and always of the whole Blood to the Donor. 3 Rep. 41. A Man hath Issue an elder Son, born out of the King's Allegiance, and after hath another Son within the Realm; the younger

Son shall have Lands by Distant from his Father in this Case, and not the Elder who had never any inheritable Blood in him. 1 Co. Infl. 8. If one die feigned of Land, in which another Right to estate is in Issue, and it descends to his Heirs; such Distant shall take away the other's Right of Entry, and put him to his Action for Recovery thereof. Stat. 1 H. 8. cap. 33. Co. Litt. 237. But a Distant of such Things as are in Grant, as in Leases, Rents, Commons in gross, Es. puts not him that hath Right to his Action. 1 Infl. 575. But the Distant shall not take away the Entry of an Infant; nor of a Feme covert, where the Wrong was done to her during the Covanture. 2 Dons. 563. See Kindred, and Heir.

tent Title, an Heir is in by that, before a Grant, or Delevy, n.e. the Uncle. 5 Rep. 46. A Heirs cannot raise a Fee simple to his own right Heirs, by the Name of Heirs, as a Purchase, either by Con-voyance or Delevy; for if he derive Lands to one who is Heir at Law, the Delevy is void, and he shall take by Distant. Dyre 54. 126. And tis the fame where the Lands will come to the Heirs, either in a direct or collateral Line, he shall come to an Estate by an Order of Limitation, when the Word hath two Sons by several Wives, and devises his Land to his Wife for Life, and after her Death to his eldest Son; the Son doth not take the Estate presently on the Death of his Father, he shall be in by a Disferr, and not by Purchase, and the Wife shall be void as to him. Style 148. 1 Nefl. Abr. 645. A Man being feated of Lands which he had by the Mother's Side devis'd them to his Heirs on the Part of his Mother; and it was adjudged that the Devise shall take by a Disferr. 3 Lev. 127. And when the Heir takes that which his Ancestor would have taken if living, he shall take it by a Disferr, and not by Purchase. 2 Davo. 557. But generally it is declared to be the Law, attended with a Charge, to so pay Money, Debts, &c. in such Case he takes by Purchase, and not by Disferr. Though Conditions to pay Money have been confirmed only a Charge in Equity; and they do not alter the aforesaid Common Law. 1 Stat. 593. 1 Salt. 241. A Man can have Lands no other Way than by Disferr or Perchasse. And Disferr is the worst Method where the Heir is to have a LAND acquired.

Disferr of Crown Lands. All the Lands whereof the King is in Feud in Jure Corses, shall be conveyed just as if the Crown were a Person of Full Age and in its Right, and to that whomever the Crown defends, the Lands and Possessions descended also. And if the Heir to the Crown be attainted of Treason; yet shall the Crown defend him, and without any Reversal the Attainted is avoided. Pecud. 247. Co. Lit. 15. The Dignity of the Crown in England, for Want of Heirs, is indefeasible immediately to the eldest Daughter, and her Pottery; and it is been declared by Act of Parliament: And by Stat. 25 H. 2. cap. 32. Regnum non de Dolo. The eldest Sister of a King, as well as the eldest Daughter, shall inherit all his Free Simple Lands by Disferr; And Half Blood is no Impediment to the Disferr of Lands of the Crown. Co. Litt. 15, 185. But a Daughter of the Whole Blood, shall not inherit where there is a Son of the Half Blood; as where the King hath Infees a Son and a Daughter by one Venet, and a Son by another Venet, and purchaseth Lands, and dies; afterwards the eldest Son entereth and dies also without Infees, the Daughter shall not have their Lands, or any other Free Simple Lands of the Crown, but they shall descend to the younger Brother. Pecud. 265. 34 H. 6. A Person coming to be King by Disferr of the Part of his Mother, makes a Purchase of Land to him and his Heirs, and dies without Infees, this Land shall descend to the Heir on the Part of the Mother; contrary to the Case of a Subject, where the Heir on the Part of the Father, Sids shall pay it. 1 Bnd. Co. Lit. 830. As the whole Kingdom hath an Interest in the Disferr of the Crown, the King cannot surrender or alien it, Co. Lit. 15.

Disferr ofbig Dignities. A Dignity also differs from common Inheritances, and goes not according to the Rules of the Common Law; for it descendeth to the Half Blood, and there is no Compensation in it, but the eldest takes the Whole. Co. Lit. 27. The Dignity of Peerage is personal, annexed to the Blood, and so infeareable that it cannot be transferred to any Person, or surrendered to the Crown; it can move neither forward or backward, but only downward to Petterity; and nothing but Corruption of Heirs makes it as the Admittance of Treason or Felony, can hinder the Dextr to the right Heir. Les Conjonctions, p. 85.

Disferr. On Wills and Testats, &c. is where a Man confided by some legal Writ or Authority, doth which by Law he is required to do, whereupon he is released or discharged from the Matter for which he was confined. And if one be arrested by a Levant 805 of E. R. and the Plaintiff do not file a Declaration against the Defendant in Prisons in two Terms, he shall be discharged on common Bail. 2 Bnd. Abr. 470. And where a Defendant, on Arraignment, is admitted to Bail, if the Bail be in the Principal before the Return of the second Certificates shall not be discharged, though an Officer of the Law changes one joint Obligor, where several are jointly bound; it discharges the others. Disclaimant, (Disclaimant, From the Fr. Clamer, which signifies to speak against a Thing;) is a Person, who, in a Civil Action, brings a Declaration before the Court, against the Person in whose Name the Action is brought, to say that he is not the real Person, or that he is not bound by the Action brought against him, he shall not have Rejection on Writ of Error, &c. against his own Act; but, it is barred of his Right to the Land, disjoined. 9 Rees. 62. But a verbal Disclaimant, shall not take Place against a Deed of Lands; Nor shall the Disclaimant of a Wife during the Covenant, bar her Entry on her Lands. 3 Rep. 25. Baron and Feme may disclaim for the Wife; though if the Husband hath nothing but in Right of his Wife, he cannot disclaim. 2 Davo. 459. Such Person as cannot lose the Thing perpetually, in which he disclaim, shall not be permitted to disclaim: A Bishop, &c. may not disclaim, for he cannot vest the Right out of the Church. Though in a Qua Warren, at the Suit of the King, against a Bishop or others for Franchises and Liberties, if the Bishop, &c. disclaim them, this shall bind their Successors. Co. Lit. 102, 103. If a Man be vouched because of a Reversal on a Lease made by himself, he cannot disclaim: But an Heir may disclaim, being vouched upon a Lease made by his Ancestor. A Person may not disclaim in the Principality; and not in the Incident; as he that is vouched because of a Reversal, cannot disclaim in the Reverse, saving the Seigniory, or any other Seigniory, in a Court of Record, it is extant; and the Tenant shall hold the Land next paramount to the Land disjoined. Co. Lit. 114. It is laid out not to be necessary that the Writ of Right for Disclaimant should be brought against the Person that disclaims; for if it be only against him that is found Tenant of the Land, though he be as Good, and is not disclaimed. 2 Davo. 570. By Plea of Non-tempore, nothing is disowned but the Freehold, which may be good where the Tenant hath the Reverse in Fee, and not the Title: And where such a Tenant disclaims or pleads Non-tempore and disclaims, the Demandant shall have the Whole, as the Whole is disclaimed. Ibid. 153, 157. A Disclaimant by Tenants of Lands, there are Disclaimers, in divers other Cases: For there is a Disclaimant of Blood, where a Person denies himself to be of the Blood or Kindred of another in his Plea. F. N. B. 102. A Disclaimant of Goods, as well as Lands; and if a Man disclaimeth Goods, on Arraignment of Felony, when he shall lose them, though he be cleared. Channelf P. C. 186. Discontiance. (Discontiance.) Derived from the Fr. Déscontian, i.e. Capturer. Signifies an Interception or Breaking off; and is twofold: Discontiance of Possession, and Discontiance of Profit. The Effect of Discontiance of Possession is, that a Man may not enter upon his own Lands or Tenements alienated, whatsoever his Right be to it, of his own Authority, but must bring his Writ, and seek to recover Possession by Law. &c. Lit. 335. And, in short, if he make a Discontiance, he cannot recover it. Wherefore, if a Tenant signs the Deed to an Estate which is a Tenant in Tail, or a Man signed in Right of his Wife, &c. by a Deed and which is conveyed away, that the Discontiance is a Deed, or if it is not Contained, and that the Deed was made to the Tenant in Tail, and the same is a Discontiance, it is the Deed of the donee, and the Deed is not Contained, and cannot enter. 1 Inst. 327. But a Discontiance taken away by an Entry only: And to every Discontiance it is necessary there be a Deserving or Displacing of the Estate, and that the same be not Contained, and cannot enter. C. Lit. 327. and an Estate-tail cannot be discontained, but where he makes the Discontiance, was once seized by Force of the Inhabitants, where the Estate tail is, is Contained, by Law, &c. Lit. 531. &c. Discontiance may be Five Ways, namely, by Feoffment, Fine, Recovery, Release, and Confirmation with Warrant. 1 Rep. 44. A Grant without Livery or a Grant in Fee without Warrant, are no Discontiances: An Exchange will not make a Discontiance; as if Tenant in Tail exchanges Land with another, no Discontiance is requisite thereon. 2 Dowl. 57. ainder: But by Statute 32 Hen. 8. after the Death of the Husband without Issue, the Wife may enter 1 & Th. 21. Though the Husband had had Issue, and maketh a Feoffment in Fee of his Wife's Land, and his Wife dieth; the Heir of the Wife shall not enter during the Husband's Life, neither by the Common Law, nor by the Statute. Ibid. A Difiinuteance may be defeated, where the Estate that worked it is defeated; as if a Husband make a Feoff-ment of the Wife's Land upon Condition; and after his Death, his Heirs will make a Fee for the Condition broken; now the Difiinuteance is defeated, and a Feme may enter upon the Heir. 1 & Inf. 316. The Titles of Difiinuteance of Estates and Remitters, were formerly large Titles in our Books, but they are abridged by Statute.

Difiinuteance of Estates is, when the Opportunity of Protection is left for that Time; or the Plaintiff is dismiffed the Court, &c. And every Suit, whether Civil or Criminal, and every Process therein, ought to be properly continued from Day to Day, &c. from its Commencement to its Conclusion; and the Suffr[ing] any Default or Gap herein, is called a Difiinuteance: The Continuance of the Suit by improper Process, or by giving the Parts an illegal Day, is properly a Difiinuteance. 2 Hock. 298. Where an Action is long depending, and continued from one Term to another, the Continuances must be all entered, otherwise there will be a Dificontinueance: whereupon a Writ of Error may be brought, &c. 1 & Nell. Abr. 660. If the Plaintiff in a Suit does nothing, it is a Difiinuteance, and he must begin this Suit again; And where 'tis too late to amend a Declaration, &c. or the Plaintiff is advised to profess in another Court, he is to discontinue his Suit, and proceed de novo. Cons. Lawes Com. Pleas. 171. But a Difiinuteance of an Action, is not perfecft till it is entered on the Roll, when it is of Record. 3 & Or. 1. If the Plaintiff cannot continue his Action after a Demurrer joined, and entered; or after a Verdict, or a Writ of Inquiry, without Leave of the Court. 3 & Or. 33. & L. 2. In Actions of Debt, or Case, upon a Demurrer joined, the Court will give Leave to discontinue, if there be an apparent Cause; as if the Plaintiff through his own Negligence, is in Danger of losing his Demand. And if the Defendant's Writ shall be null he shall have Leave to discontinue; nor where he brings another Action for the same Cause, and that is placed in Abatement of the 1st Action, Sid. 84. It has been ruled, upon a Motion to discontinue, that the Court may give Leave after a Special Verdict; which is not complete and final; but never after a general Verdict. 1 & Ed. 4. Hen. 7. 1 & Nell. 665. An Appeal may as well be discontinued by the Defeat of the Proces or Proceeding, as it may be by the Inoficiency of the Original Writ, &c. For by such Defeat, the Matter depending as it were out of Court. 1 & Litt. 475. A Difiinuteance or Mifiinuteance, at Common Law reverses a Judgment given by Default; and Difiinuteance upon a Demurrer is Error; but a Mifiinuteance after Appearance is not so. 8 & R. 156. 46 R. 3. 50. Difi-inuteance of Proces is helped at Common Law by Appearance: And by Stat. 32 H. 8. cap. 50. all Difiinuteances, Mifiinuteances and Negligences therein, of Plaintiff or Defendant, are cured after Verdict. 2 How. 852. The Death of the King is not a Difi-inuteance of any Suit; and no Suit before Justices of Affile, or Justices of Peace, &c. will be discontinued by a new Commision. Stat. 3 Ed. 6. c. 3. & Or. 1. Hereof, 7. 1 & Ed. 6. On the Age at Assumption of Suits, it is usual to give the Defendant Costs. See Continuance.

Difiinuteance of Plea is, where divers Things should be pleaded to, and some are omitted; this is a Difiinuteance of the Action. 1 & Ed. 8. 2 How. 468. If a Defendant's Plea begin with an Anwer to Part, and an-fswers no more, it is a Difiinuteance; and the Plaintiff may then make a Judgment for what is not answered: But if the Plaintiff plead over, the whole Action is discontinued. 1 & Sali. 159. Debt upon Bond of 500 l. the Defendant as to 223 l. Part of it, pleads Payment, &c. And upon Demurrer to this Plea, it was adjudged that there being no Anwer to the Refuter, 'tis a Difiinuteance to that, for which the Plaintiff sought to take Judgment by Nil dicat. 1 & Sali. 180. Where Anwer to one Part, if the Plaintiff pleads thereto, he cannot have Judgment according to his Declaration; for which Reason it may be a Difiinuteance of the Whole. 1 & Nell. 666. But this is helped after Verdict by 32 H. 8. c. 50.

Difecert, is used in the Law for a Woman un-marrid or Widow, one not within the Bands of Ma-imy. Law Difficult.

Difecert (Difrect) When any Thing is left to-any Person to be done according to his Difecert, the Law intends it must be done with sound Difecert, and according to Law: And the Court of B. R. hath a Power to redress Things that are otherwise done, notwithstanding they are left to the Difecert of those that do them. 1 & Litt. 100. A Difecert is to dif-cern between Right and Wrong; and therefore whoever hath Power to set at Difecert, is bound by the Rule of Reason and Law. 2 & Sali. 129. 368. And though there be a Latitude of Difecert given to one, yet he is circumstanced that what he does be necessary and convenient; without which no Liberty can defend it, ibid. 158. The Alleneent of Fines on Offenders committing Affrays, &c. And the Binding of Persons to the good Behaviour, are at the Difecert of tal, the Judges have a Difecert Power to inflit corporal Punishment on the Offenders. 2 & Hock. 455.

Diffranchif is, to take away one's Freedom or Privilege. It is the contrary to Diffranchif. And Corporations have Power to diffranchif Members, for doing any Thing against their Oaths; but not for Com-tempt, 1 & Eliz. 5. 68. See Corporation.

Diffranchif: It is the Old Word for which signifies as much as Diffranchif; mentioned in the Stat. 20 Ed. 1. and 8 R. 2.

See Parlia. pupers.

Dignitas in H. B. 9. cap. 21. The Archbishop of Canterbury has Power of dispensing in any Case, wherein Dignizations (not contrary to the Law of Canon. or Ecclesiastical, nor against the Rights of Common Rights; and may grant Dignizations to the King, as well as to his Subjects: But such Dignizations shall not be granted out of the Realm, &c. And during the Vacancy of the See of Canterbury, the Grant of the Spirituals may grant Dignizations. The Archbishop of Canter. bury grants Dignizations, not only in his own Province, but in a Province of a Natural Person, and the Archbishop of York, and other Bishops, dispense as they were wont to do, by the Common Law and Custom of the Realm. Wood's Life. 56. Every Bishop of common Right has the Power of Institution into Benefices, and of Dignizations in common Causes, &c. Ibid. 357. Dignizations to hold Parliaments: See Chapultes.

Dignizations of the Staging. If a Dignization by the Archbishop of Canterbury, is to be in extraordinary Matters, or in a Case that is new, the King and his Council are to be consulted; and it ought to be con. firmed by the Seal. The King's Authority to grant Dignizations remains as it did at Common Law; notwithstanding the Stat. 25 H. 8. & 1 E. 4. 501. Dignization by non-obstantes. If any Statute tends to retain some Pecun.us incident to the Per. son of the King, as of the Right of Pardoning, or of Commanding the Service of the Subject for the publick Good, &c. which are inseparable from the King by a Natural Right, they may dispense with it. 2 Hark. 590. But as in the Reign of King James II. the dispensing Power was carried to high as to render the Common Revenue of the State, and the Pleasure of the Prince; by Stat. 1 W. & M. S. 2. cap. 2. It is enacted, That no Dignization by non-obstantes of, or to any Statute, or any Part thereof, shall be allowed; but that the same shall be held void, and of none Effect, except a Dignization be allowed in such Statute. The Dignization by non-ob. stant. es was brought into this Kingdom by the Pope, and first used by Hen. 3. Vp. Animadvert. on 4. Ind. 1. 129.

If a Man forces another to wear his Garments to him, and he doth so, it will be a Diffrayer of the Estate. So forcibly hindering a Person from till ing his Lands, is a Diffrayer of the Land. 1 Inst. 161. But if one enters wrongfully into the Lands of another, and he accepts Rent from such Person, he shall not afterwards be taken for a Diffrayer. Dyre 173. Where any Person is disburthened from entering on Land, it is a Diffrayer: A Denial of a Rent, when lawfully demanded, is a Denial of a Rent. 1 Inst. 162. Where a Diffrayer to Land, by Force, or by means of a Lease, enters upon Land, he shall not be by actual Entry on the Land, a Diffrayer. 3Dow. 648. An Infant, or a Person in Equity, may be a Diffrayer, but it must be by actual Entry on the Land. 4& 5. 43. 43. A Feme covert shall not be a Diffrayer, by the Act of the Baron: If he diffrayer mother to her Husband, or a Diffrayer: nor if the Wife agrees to it, and acquiesces in it, it is not a Diffrayer. Yet if the Wife agrees to it, and acquires herself to it, the Coveruent is a Diffrayer. 41. 3. 2. 625. 627. An Act of Parliament concerning the Wave of a Diffrayer is a Register of Diffrayers, written or caused to be written, by the Person of a Diffrayer, of which some are in the Parlia ment, and others in the Parish, &c. But Write of Affidavit on Diffrayers, are now diffused and the ancient Action of Toleration is introduced in their Place. See Affidavit of New Diffrayer, and Entry.

Diffrayers, in general, be that Diffrayer be a Person who enters upon the Land, without the Consent of the Owner, and a Diffrayer is he that is put out. 4 H. 4. As the King is in Judgment of Law to do no Wrong, he cannot be a Diffrayer. 1 E. 5. 8. A Diffrayer is to be fixed, and impounded, and the Diffrayer removed to the Land, &c. by Stat. 20 H. 3. c. 5. Where a Diffrayer is dethroned, it is called Diffrayer on Diffrayer.

Diffraffers, are, in general, persons who make a pretence to possessing or a Person of a Diffrayer, that he has the power, and the Courts of Justice have no power to interfere with him. 3Dow. 647. All cases of Power are cases of Diffrayers, and they must be acquitted of their Mischief, their Place is ascribed to the Bishop, &c. or to the Justices at their Quarter-Session, and rectified there: all of them must be kept the Doors of their Meeting-houses closed, &c. And every Person found tippling in a Distiller's Shop, shall forfeit 10l. And by the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 12. an Additional Duty is laid on Spirituous Liquors.

Distillery. (distillers) Signifies most commonly any Thing which is taken and distilled for Rent behind, or other Duty: And by the Common Law, Distillers for Rent were not to be sold, but only detained for infuring Paying the Rent: But this is altered by Statute. A Man may take a Distiller for Homage, Fecality, or any Services: For Fines and Anerencement; and for Damage feallant, &c. And the Effect of it is to take the Rent, to replace the Goods, and consel the Taking in Action of Trepass against the Distiller; or, which is more usual, to compound and pay the Debt or Duty, for which he was distillered. There are besides Distillers in Actions compulsory to cause a Man to appear in Court: And of these there is a Distiller Provoit, of a Man's moveable Goods, and Product of his Lands, &c. Contempt in not appearing after summoned; and Distillers Real, upon immovable Goods. And none shall be distillered to answer for any Thing touching their Freeholders, but by the King's Writ. 5 Hen. 3. Distillation is also divided into finite and infinite: Finite, is that which is limited by Law, how often it shall be made to bring the Party to Trial. Action, as more than twice, or indefinite, without Limitation, until the Party appears; which is likewise applicable to Jurors not appearing: Then it hath had a further Division into a Grand Distillate, which consists to all the Goods and Chattels which the Party hath within the County. And where a Distress is taken, it may be replevin in five Days: If the Tenant and Owner of the Goods do not in that Time after taken, and Notice given, and of the Tenant left at the Dwelling house, &c. reply the same according to Law; then the Person distraining may have the Under-Sheriff of the County, or Constable of the Place, &c. (who are required to be affilling) cause the Goods to be appraised by two sworn Appraisers, and sold to satisfy the Rent, &c. leaving the overplus in the Constable's Hands for the Life of the Owner. Stat. 2 H. 2. M. C. 5. All Distresses for Rent must be made on the Premises, by the Common Law; But by Statute, if any Tenant fraudulently remove Goods from the Premises, the Landlord may in five Days seize such Goods which were forever found, as a Distress for the Rent in Arrears; unless the Goods are sold for a valuable Consideration before the Seize, and where the Premise remains. And where a Statute or Any other Law or Act for the Time of the Term, the Leafe could not distil; because the Term ended before the Rent was due (and the Lease had the whole Day to pay it) and it was the same, where the Lease held over his Term, for Rent in consideration during the Term. Ca. Litt. 47. Not by the Divers & Sale for Rent by the late Act, which has much altered our Law in this Case: If any Tenant of Lands or Tenements, shall fraudulently carry away his Goods, to prevent Divers, the Landlord may within thirty Days after, drain them wherever they shall be found, as if they had been on the Premises; but no such Goods shall be drain ed off, before their Sale or Assignment before Seizeure, to any Person not privy to the Fraud. Tenants committing such Fraud, or others afflicting, shall forfeit double the Value of the Goods carried off, and if he become, having been on the Premises, and where they shall not exceed 10 Value, the Landlord may exhibit a Complaint before two Justices of Peace, who are to examine the Facts, and inquire into the Value of the Goods, and upon order the Offender to pay double Value, leviable by Divers and Sale; or for want thereof, commit the Offender to the House of Correction for six Months. Landlords, or their Agents, may with the Affiliation of a Confinable, seize any Goods fraudulently conveyed in any House, Outshouse, &c. And in Case of a Dwelling-house, on Oath first made to some Justice of Peace to suspect that such Goods are there, may break open the same, and drain them: They may also drain for Rent any Castle, or Stock of their Tenants, feeding in any Common; or Corn, Grass, Hops, Fruits, &c. growing on the Land, which they shall cut, gather, cure and lay up when ripe, in any proper Place, giving Notice to the Tenant within a Week where lodged, and diff erent thereof towards the Satisfaction of the Rent and Charges; the Appraisement to be taken when cut or cured: But after a Divers is taken, before the Product be ripe and gathered, the Tenant shall pay the Rent, and Charges of the Divers, the said Divers shall be lawful fully taken, and fell them upon the Premises, in like Manner as may be done off the same, by 2 M. & M. And any Perons may go to and from the Premises, to view, appraise, buy, or take away the Goods of the Parcher; and if a Receipt be made for the Divers, the Persons aggrieved shall have the Remedies given by the said Statute. Divers made for Rent duly due, shall not be unlawful, nor Divers, Trepaflers ab initio, for any Irregularity in the Difpofition thereof; but the Parties grieved to have Satisfaction for special Damage, than Action of the Cafe, &c. Divorce, De divorcio, (Divorcium, a Divorcendo) is a Separation of two, de factis married together, made by Law: It is a Judgment Spiritual; and therefore if there be Occasion, it ought to be rather in the Spiritual Courts, or the Law Courts, and besides Sentence of Divorce in the old Law, the Woman divorced was to have of her Husband a Writing called a Bill of Divorce, which was to this Effect, viz. I Pray thee that hereafter I will lay no Claim to Thee, &c. There are many Divorces, mentioned in our Books; as Causa Procrastinatutis, Causa Frigiditatis, Causa Concepsionis, Causa Affinitatis, Causa Prophétia, &c. But the usual Divorces are only of two Kinds, i.e. a Menia & Thora, from Bed and Board; and a Viscum Matrimonii, from the very Bond of Marriage. A Divorce à Menia & Thora, dissolved not the Marriage; for the Cause of it is subsequent to the Marriage, and supposes the Marriage to be lawful: This Divorce may be by Reason of Adultery in either of the Parties, for Cruelty of the Husband, &c. And as it doth not dissolve the Marriage, so it doth not debar the Woman from her Dower, or lands, or make void any Eate for the Life of Husband and Wife, &c. 1 Inf. 255. 7 Inf. 89. 7 Rep. 43. The Woman under Separation by this Divorce, must stay near her next Friend, and she may sue her Husband in her own Name for Alimony. Wood's Inf. 62. A Divorce à Viscum Matrimonii, abolished the Marriage, and makes it void from the Beginning, the Cause of it being precedent to the Marriage; as Procrastinatutis with some other Person, Concepsionis or Affinity, without the Legal Degrees, Impotency, Impovercy, &c. On this Divorce Dower is gone; and if by Reason of Procrastinatutis, Concepsionis, or Affinity, the Children begotten between them are Bastards. 1 Inf. 315. 1 Inf. 51. 687. But in these Divorces, the Wife is laid shall receive all again that she brought with her, because the Nullity of the Marriage arises through some Impediments; and the Goods of the Wife were given for her Advanced in Marriage, which now ceaseth: But this is where the Goods are not spent; and if the Husband give them away during the Coverture, without any Collocation, it shall bind her; If the know's Goods unfested, the may bring Affion of Detinue for them; and as for Money, &c. which were given the Woman for the Advancement in the Spiritual Court. Dyer 62. 1 Nehl. Ab. 675. Where Lands were formerly given to Husband and Wife, and the Heirs of their Bodies in Frank Marriage; if they had been afterwards divorced, the Wife was to have her whole Lands; and by Divorce an Eate-Tail of Baron and Feme, its said may be extent. Godb. 7. After a Separation in the Spiritual Court, the Issue of that Marriage shall be Bastards, so long as the Sentence stands unrepealed: and no Proof shall be admitted at Common Law to the contrary. 1 Nehl. 674. And Issue of a second Marriage in such Cause, may inherit until the Sentence is repealed. 2 Law. 207. Though it is not so where the Divorce is à Menia & Thora, for Adultery, &c. in which Case the Marriage shall continue. Cen. Cat. 452. And if after a Divorce à Menia & Thora, either of the Parties marry again, the former being Living, such Marriage is a more Nullity; and by Sentence to confirm the fict Contra, the and her fict Husband become Husband and Wife to all Intentes, without any formal Divorce from the second. 1 Law. 173. Also on this Divorce, as the Marriage continues, marrying again while either Party is living, hath been held within the Statute 1 Stat. 11. 42, for having married a second Husband or Wife, the former being alive; where a Woman was divorced, and inhibited by the Statute not to marry during her Husband's Life, Cen. Cat. 333. 1 Nehl. 674. On a Divorce à Viscum Matrimonii, by Reason of Procrastinatutis, &c. the Parties may marry again: And in Divorces for Adultery, several Acts of Parliament have allowed the innocent Party to marry again. Sentence of Divorce must be given within the Life of the Parties, and not on the afternoon; But it may be repealed in the Spiritual Court, after the Death of the Parties. 1 Stat. 33. 244. 4 Rep. 68. Upon the Divorce of a Man and his Wife, Equity will not afflict the Wife in recovering Dower, at the Husband's Death; but shall leave her to the Law; neither sought the Spiritual Court to grant her Administration, the not being such a Wife as is intituled to it; nor will the Chancellor decree her a Distributive Share. Preced. Case. 113. 114. A Divorce shall be tried by the Bishop's Certificate; and not by a Jury. Dtronatis. Domsday, (Liber Judicialis, vel Conuassio Anglica) is a most ancient Record, made in the Time of William I. called the Conqueror, and now remaining in the Exchequer fair and legible, consisting of two Volumes, a Greater and a Less; the greater containing Surveys of all the lands in England, except the Counties of Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Durham, and Part of Lancashire, which is 'in faint letters never surveyed, and excepting Ely, Suffolk, and Norfolk; which three last are comprehended in the lesser Volume. There is also a third Book, which differs from the others in Form more than Matter, made by the Command of the same King. And there is a fourth Book kept in the Exchequer which is called Domesday; and though a very large Volume, is only the Account of the others. Likewise a fifth Book is kept in the Remembrancer's Office in the Exchequer, which has the Name of Domesday, and is the very same with the fourth before mentioned. An ancestor has many Domesday Books; King Alfred had a Roll which he called Domesday; and the Domesday Book made by Will. I. referred to the Time of Edward the Confessor, as that of King Alfred did to the Time of Ethelred. The fourth Book of Domsday having many Pictures, and gilt Letters in the Beginning, relating to the Time of King Edward the Confessor, this led him who wrote Notes on Fir-sham's Register into a mistake in p. 14. where he tells us, that Liber Domesday Vallis futurum tempus Regis Edwardi. The Book of Domesday was begun by five Justices, assigned for that Purpose in each County, in the Year 1081, and finished Anno 1086. And it is generally known, that the Question whether lands are Ancient Demesne, or Common, or to be decided by the Domesday of Will 1. from whence there is no Appeal; And 'tis a Book of that Authority, that even the Commoner of sixteen Judges therein be was concerned to be determined by it. The Addition of Day to this Doms Book, was not meant with any Allusion to the final Day of Judgment, as most Person's have conceived; but was to strengthen and confirm it, and signified the judicial Record or Book of doming Judgment and Justice. Hammond's Ann. Camden calls this Book Gulielmi Liberum Conuassionem, the Teas Book of King William; and it was further called Magna Rola Winton. The Dean and Chapter of York have a Register dated Domesday; so hath the Bishop of Worcester; and there is an ancient Roll in Cheltenham, called Domesday Roll.CLUS.

Donative, (Donativarium) Is a Besoee more giv and collared by the Patron to a Man, without either Prebenta to, or Institution by the Ordinary, or Indulgence by his Order. F. N. B. 45. And Do-naviae are fo termed, because they began only by the Foundation and Erection of the Domus. Clergym. Law 110. The King might of ancient Time found a Church or Chapel, and exempt it from the Jurisdiction of the Ordinary: So he may by his Letters Patent give Licence to a common Perfon to found such a Church or Chapel, and make it Donatiae, not preterestible; and that the Incumbrant or Chaplain shall be deprived by the Founder and his Heirs, and not by the Bishop; which seems to be the Original of Donatives in England. Grotius's Readings. When the King founds a Church, Cft. Donativas, it is of Course exempted from the Ordinary's Jurisdiction, though no particular Exemption is mentioned, and the Lord Chancellor shall wiu the same: And where the King grants a Licence to any common Person to found a Church or Chapel, it may be Donative, and exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Bishop, and be videed by the Patron, Cft. 1. Inf. 134. 2 Roll. Abl. 250. The Reification of a Donative must be to the Donor or Patron, and not to the Ordinary; and Donatives are not only free from all ordinary Jurisdiction, but the Patron and Incumbent may charge the Glebe to bind the Succesor: And if the Clerk is disturbed, the Patron may bring. Quas Infedis, Cft. Alio the Patron of a Donative may take the Profits thereof, when it is vacant. 1. Inf. 344. Cas. Jur. 63. If the Patron of a Donative will not nominate a Clerk, there can be no Lapse: But the Bishop may compel such Patron to nominate a Clerk by Ecclesiastical Canons; for though the Church is exempt from the Power of the Ordinary, the Patron is not exempted: And the Clerk must be qualified like unto other Clarks of Churches, no Person being capable of a Donative, unless he be a Priest lawfully ordained, Cft. Temp. 61. Stat. 14 Car. 2. 1717. 45s. Hall. 488. There may be a Donative of the King's Gift with Cure of Souls, as the Church of the Tower of London is: And if such Be procured by Money, it will be within the Statute of Simony. Mich. 9 Car. B. R. A Parochial Church may be Donative, and and exempt from the Ordinary's jurisdiction. Godsh. 362. The Church of St. Mary le Bow in Middlesex is Donatio, and the Incumbent being cited into the Spiritual Court, to take a bill from the Bishop to preach, pretending that it was a Chapel, and that the Parson was a Stipendiary; it was ruled in the King's Bench that it was a Donatio; and if the Bishop will, the Court of B. R. will grant a Prohibition. 1 Mod. 90. 1 Nelf. Abr. 676. If a Patron of a Donatio, doth once present his Clerk to the Ordinary, and the Clerk is admitted, inducted and inducted, then the Donatio ceaseeth; and it becomes a Church presentative. 1 Inf. 344. But when a Donatio is created by Letters Patent, by which Lands are settled upon the Parson and his Successors, and he is to come in by the Donatio of the King, and his Successors; in this Case, though there may be a Pretenstion to the Donatio, and the Incumbent come in by Inheritance and Induction, Sect. that will not destroy the Donatio. 2 Salk. 541. All Bishoprics, being of the Foundation of the King; they were in ancient Time Donations. 3 Rep. 732. A Parish in a Donatio by Gift in Writing of the following Form:

Form of a Donatio of a Church.

To all to whom this Present shall come, I the Right Honorable T. Lord B. Baronet, &c., send Greeting. Whereas the Church or free Chaple of, &c. in the Diocese of, &c. is now void, and of Right doth belong and appertain to my Gift. Know ye therefore, That I the said T. Lord B. in Confirmation of the known Abilities, Learning and Honesty of T. D. Clerk of, &c. Have given and granted unto him the said T. D. the said Church or Chaple of, &c. aforesaid with all Rights, Benefits, Advantages, and Appearances whatsoever to the same belonging and by this Presents I the said T. Lord B. do赋予 the said T. D. to the Possession of the said Church or Chaple, with all in Rights and Apparances. In Witeness, &c.

Doftal, A Word used for Haggings or Tapelry.

—Doffall free Tapleyon. Mat. Par.

Doffall or tapping. Is a Write that lay for a Widow, where it was found by Office, that the King's Tenant was feid of Lands in Fee, or Fee-tail, at the Day of his Death, and that he held the King in chief, &c. In which Case, the Widow came into the Chancery, and there made Oath, That he would not marry without the King's Leave; whereupon he had this Write to the Echeciter, to affign her Donee, &c. But it was usual to make the Assignment of the Dowzer in the Chancery, and to award a Write to the Echeciter, to deliver the Lands assigned unto.

Dower. (Doneo) In this Case, where the Widow has more than her Share, &c. See Assignment.

Dower by Placed (Placed placentis) is Where a Defendant alleges for himself two several Matters in Bar of the Plaintiff's Action, when one of them is sufficient, which shall not be admitted: As if a Man plead several Things, the one not depending upon the other, the Plea is accounted Double, and will not be allowed; but if they mutually depend on each other, and the Party may not have the last Plea without the first, then it shall be received, and where 2 Double Pleas that is wrong, is pleaded; if the Plaintiff reply thereto, and take Issue of one Matter; if that be found against him, he cannot afterwards plead in Arrest of Judgment; for by the Replication it is allowed to be good. 13 Ed. 4. 17. If a Man pleads two or more Matters, when he is compelled to shew them, it makes not the Plea double; so it is where two distinct Things are pleaded, which require but one Answer: And in Caze a Man pleads two or several Matters or Things, and only one is material, the other being Surplusage, or but Matter of Inducement, and needing no answer, the Plea is not double. 1 H. 97. Where there are several Inducements to a Plea, they shall not make the Plea double: And Double Pleas are allowable in Affairs of New Disposal, &c. but not in other Actions. 2 Tulk. 25. All Pleas ought to be single, that the Jury may not be troubled and perplexed with ever many Things all coming together in the same Suit. 3 Inst. 1a, 2, 3. 15.

Doubtful Quarter, (Doubtful Quarto) is a Complaint made by any Clerk, or other to the Archbishop of the Province, against an inferior Ordinary, for delaying or refusing to do Justice in some Cause Ecclesiastical; as to give Sentence, intitute a Clerk, &c. and seems to be termed a Doubtful Quarter, because it is most commonly made against both the Judge, and him at whose Suit Justice is delayed or delayed: The Effect whereof is, That the Archbishop taking Notice of the Delay, directs his Letters under his authentical Seal to all Clerks of his Province, commanding them to admonish the Ordinary within a certain Number of Days to do the Justice required, or otherwise to appear before him or his Official, and there alledge the Cause of his Delay: And to signify to the Ordinary, that if he refrains from the Thing inquired, nor appear and shew Cause against it, he himself in his Court of Audience will forthwith proceed to do the Justice that is due. Canul.

Doveren Peres. Were several Peres, assigned by the Influence of the Baron in the Reign of K.h. 5, to be Privy Counsellors to the King, or rather Secretaries of the Kingdom.

Dowerer &c. The Confable of Dover Coyle, shall not hold Plea of any foreign County within the Cattle Gates, except it concern the keeping of the Cattle; nor shall he disfrain the Inhabitants of the Pores, to plead either there or otherwise than as they ought, according to their Charters. &c. Stat. 28 Ed. 1. 6. 7.

Dows, To give or endow, from the Latin Word Do.

Dowsaggr, (Data, Datisa) A Widow endowed; applied to the Wivodes of Princes, dukes, Earls, and other great Persons.

Dower, (Doneiorum) A Portion which a Widow hath of the Lands of her Husband after his Decease, for the Sustenance of her Self, and Education of her Children, 1 Inf. 10. Andthere were five Kinds of Dover in this Kingdom. 1. Dover by the Common Law, which is a third Part of such Lands and Tenements wherof the Husband was sole Feid in Fee-simpie, or Fee-tail, during the Cover- ture: and this the Widow is to enjoy during her Life; 2. Dover by Caipun, which is that Part of the Husband's Estate to which the Widow is entitled after the Death of her Husband, by the Caipun of any Manor or Place, so long as she lives and sole. This is more than one third Part of such Estates; for in some Places the half have Half the Land, as by the Caipun of Gawulfind; and in divers Manors the Widow shall have the whole during her Life, which is called her Free Bend. But as Caipun may inlarge, 4 so it may abridge Dewer to a 2nd Part. 1 Iso. 3: 3. Dewer ad Oijum Ejicula, made by the Husband himself immediately after the Marriage, who named such particular Lands of which his Wife should be endowed and in her Life Time, it was taken that a Man could not by this Dewer endow his Wife of more than a third Part, though of left he might: And as the Cerainty of the Land was openly decla red by the Husband, the Wife after his Death might enter into the Land of which she was en dow ed without any other Allignment. 1 Iso. 3: 3. Ltd. 899. And if the Dewer be an affix in Oijum Ejicula, which like wise was of certain Lands named by a Son who was the Husband, with the Consent of his Father, and always put in Writing as soon as the Son was married: And if a Woman thus endowed, or Ad Oijum Ejicula, after the Death of her Husband enter'd into the Land allotted her in Dewer, and a greed thereto, she was concluded to claim any Dewer under the Husband's Estate; 1 Iso. 10: 30. 25, 35, 55. Dewer de la plee Bilt, which was where the Wife was endowed with the fool part of her Husband's Estate; but of all these Wife of Dewer, the two first are now only in use. 1 Nof. Ab. 659. By our Law, all the Goods and Chattels of the Wife, are the Husband's; and if she be an Inheritance, the Husband holds his Land during her Life; also if he hath mix'd her by her, he shall hold it for his own Life, by the Custody of England; And if he have any Land in his own Life, if it pass'd during the Marriage, the he is to have a third Part thereof for her Life as her Dewer; though the bring nothing to the husband, and whether the have mix'd him by or not. Lice. 76. There are three Things to entitle Dewer, viz. Marriage, Stell, and Death of the Husband; the Marriage, must be good and lawful; and continue to the Husband's Death; and a Wife shall be endowed of a Seintin in Deed, as where Lands and Tenements depose to the Husband, before Entry, he hath but a Seintin in Law, and yet the Wife shall be endowed although it be not reduc'd to an actual Possession. 1 Iso. 31, 32, 34. And it is not necessary that Seintin should continue during the Coversure; for if the Husband alienates the Lands, the Wife shall be never the less endowed. 1 Iso. 32, 33, 55. If Lands are exchanged by the Husband for other Lands, the Wife may be endowed of such Lands as the Wife of the Husband's Land, or of the Husband's Wife may not be endowed of the Lands given and taken in Exchange. 1 Iso. 31. Where the Eftate, which the Husband, or a Man after the Husband, or in the stead, there the Husband shall like her Dewer. New Nat. 3: 53. But of an Eftate-sail in Lands determined, a Woman shall be endowed, in like Manner as a Man may be by the Custody of her Lands. 1 Iso. 31. And if a Wife be endowed of her third Part, and afterwards evinced by an elder Title; she shall have a new Wife, or Dewer, and be endowed of the other Lands. 2 Dewer. Ab. 650. Though this is where it is the immediate Eftate deffered to the Heir; and not when it is the Eftate of an Alenee. 1 Iso. 10: 30. '97. The Wife of a Deceased husband, or father, or son, were recovered against the Husband by Default or Cowin: And a Woman deformed of her Dewer, shall recover Damages, viz. the Value of her Dewer from her Husband's Death. 1 Iso. 31. If the Husband do not die siled, and Demand and Refusal to affign Dewer to her, she shall have Damages from the Time of the Refusal. Mrk. Card. 45. The Wife of a Man who is banished, shall have his Life time; 'tis held otherwise, if he is professed in Religion: And a Jointree of a banished Husband, shall enjoy his Pinture in his Life time. 1 Iso. 72, 37. If a Man leases Land for Life, rending Rent; his Wife shall not be endowed of this Rent; for this is but an Eftate for Life in the Rent; though it depends to the Heir. 2 Dewer. 656. But the shall be endowed of a Reverion, expectant on a Term of Years; and of a Rent rehersed thereon. Luse. 750. If the Husband hath only an Estate for Life in the Rent, and the Rema ind to another in Title, though the Remainder over is to his Heirs, the Wife shall not be endowed. 2 Dewer. 656. A Woman shall not be endowed of the Goods of her Husband; nor of a Castle, or capital Meffage: But of all other Lands and Tenements the may. 1 Iso. 31. Where there are three Manon, one of them may be affin'd to the Husband in the Land of all three; though it is said that a third Part of every Manor ought to be affin'd. Mar. 12, 47. The Sheriff may affin a Rent out of the Land in Lieu of Dewer; and her Acceptance of the Rent will bar Dewer out of the same Land, but not of other Lands. 2 And. 31. Dav. 93. 1 Nof. Ab. 680. A Grantee of a Rent in Fee or Tail, dies without Heir, his Wife shall not be endowed: But if a man do by his Writ or otherwise give a Referrion to the Donor and his Heirs, on a Gift in Tail, and the Donor dies without Issue; for this is a collateral Limitation. Part. 156. F. N. B. 145. If during the Coversure, the Husband doth extinguish Rentu by Release, &c. yet the shall be endowed of them for as to her Dewer, in the Eye of the Law, they have Communion. 1 Iso. 31. And when the Husband is Rent is delivered to the Husband, but he dies before any Day of Payment; notwithstanding the Wife shall be endowed of it. 2 Iso. 31. A Jointure is made of Lands after Marriage, the Wife may waive it, and demand her Dewer: But it is otherwise when made before Marriage, according to the Statute 27 Hen. 8. And if Lands are given to the Husband and Wife in Tail, and after the Death of the Husband, the Wife, discharges, the may recover her Dewer; for by her waiving her Eftate, the Husband in Judgment of Law was sole feid. 1 Iso. 31. If the Seintins are improved, the Wife is to have a Third according to the improved Value. 1 Iso. 32. And if the Ground deliver'd her be fow'd, the shall have the Corn. 2 Iso. 81. A Widow may recover her Dewer, with a Coffin Exclusio, in Cafe there be any Thing objected against precedent the Title of Dewer, &c. till that is determined. 1 Nof. 684, 687, 687, 691. Sall. 291. Judgment in Dewer is to recover a third Part of Lands and Tenements per Metes & Boundes; but this may not be of a Mill; for if it were, neither of the Parties could use Tentry. 1 Iso. 31. Dewer, or no Division can be made of what the Wife is dewer, Dewer is to be affin'd in a special Manner; as of the third Preteriation to a Church, the third Part to a Mill; Common certain, a third Year; the third Part of the Profits of an Office, Fair, Market, &c. 1 Rel. Ab. 675. And Dewer is much favoured in Law, being for the Benefit of Widows: Wherefore the Wife of one Nan Campus Meretis, of no Ideot, Outlaw, or one attainted of Felony, may be endowed: But not of a Person attainted of Treason; nor the Wife of an Alien, Jew, &c. 1 Iso. 33, 37. Stat. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. 5 Ed. 6. cap. 11. At Common Law, Dewer is affin'd by the Sheriff, by the King's Writ, or by the Hear, &c. By Agreement among the Restants: and the Wife cannot enter otherwise into her Dewer. 1 Balfr. 31. By the ancient Law of England, till Magnus Gratia, a Woman was to continue a whole Year in her Husband's Heir, for the Affinment of her Dewer. 2 Iso. 17. By that Statute, a Widow shall immediately after her Husband's Death have her Marriage Inheritance; and remain in the chief Estate forty Days, within which Time Dewer is to be affin'd her of the third Part of all his Lands, &c. 9 H. 3. The Affinment of the Lands is to be for as to her Dewer, and if of these be hered; 1 Iso. 31, 55, 57. In forty Years, in Recompence of Dewer; this is no Bar of Dewer; for it is not such an Estate therein as the before.

Also where other Land is assigned to the Wouman, that is no Part of the Land wherein the claims of Doweer; that Affiliation will not be good or binding: And there must be Certainty in what is assigned; otherwise though it be by Agreement, it must be done in a Wife’s accept and enter upon left Law than the third of the Whole, on the Shefiff’s Affiliation, she is barred to demand more. Mer 679. But if where a Wife is inti- tied to Doweer of the Lands of her first Husband; her second Husband accepts for this Doweer left than her third Part, after his Death she may relitigate the same, and have her third Part. First Doweer. 121. If a Wife having Right of Doweer in the Land, accept of a Leafe for Years thereof after the Death of her Hu- band, it fulfells the Doweer; though in such Acceptance a Leafe, before the Husband’s Death, for then the Wife has only a Title to have Doweer, and not an immediate Right of Doweer. Br. ca. 572. Prk. Gen. 13. A Widow accepting of Doweer of the Heir, against common Right, shall hold it subject to the Charges of her Husband; but otherwise it is, if the be endowed against common Right by the Sheriff. A Dow. 672. By Provision of Law, the Wife may take a third Part of the Husband’s Lands, and hold them discharged. Ibd. If Doweer be allowed a Woman on Condition, or with an Exception; the Condition or Exception are void. Gen. El. 141. A Devising of Charters concerning the same Land of which the Widow demands her Doweer, is a good Plea by the Heir in Delay of her Doweer: But if the delivers up the Evidence, the shall have Judgment; though if the denies the Demand, and it is found against her, she lores her Doweer. Hub. 109. 9 Rep. 19. If a Wife leaves a Feme with her Husband, the daeh her self of Doweer: And if a common Recovery be had against the Husband and Wife, of the Husband’s Lands, it shall bar the Wife of her Doweer. 2 Rep. 74. Prk. Jud. 834. Where a Woman releas from Doweer to her in Reverson, her Doweer may be extinguish’d. 8 Rep. 151. If a Wife commits Treason or Felony; or if the slope from her Husband, and live with the Adultery willing- ly, without being reconciled to the Husband, she shall lose and forfeit her Doweer; but if the Husband be reconciled to her, and the lives with him again, the shall be endow’d. 2 Ibd. 453. Dyer 106. And if after Elopement of the Wife, her Husband and the domain themselves as Husband and Wife, it is Evidence of Reconcilia- tion. Dyer 156. If a Man grants his Wife with his Grand and Doweer, and the Wife by Vitum of a Grant lives with the Grandee during the Life of the Husband, this shall forfeit her Doweer; for the lived in Adultery, notwithstanding the Grant. 1 Ibd. 135. 2 Dyer 682. If a Woman be of the Age of nine Years, at the Death of her Husband, she shall be endow’d of whatsoever Age he is; because after the Death of the Husband, the Marriage is adjudged law- ful. I bd. 33. And Doweer is an inextricable Incident to an Etail in Tail or Fee that cannot be taken away by Condition: If one feild in Fee of Lands make a Gift in Tail, on Condition that the Wife shall see have Doweer, the Condition is void. 6 Rep. 41. If Tenant in Tail die without Issue, so that the Land reverts to the Doweer; as in Cave he covenantes to hand over to, and, his Wife will be endowed: And a Devise of Land by the Husband to his Wife by Will, is no Bar of her Doweer, but a Benevolence. 8 Rep. 56. Yeo. 52. Br. Doweer 69. It is held, that Land devised to a Man’s Wife, who is entitled to Doweer of his Lands; it not being mentioned in Satis- faction of her Doweer, shall be taken as a voluntary Gift or Promise of Doweer. And in this Cave the Widow brought a Writ and recover’d, again which the Heir could have no Relief. Prk. Cus. 131. A Perfon grants and convey Land to D. and his Heirs, on Condition, to redesign the same to back, &c. which afterwards he does, and dies; here D’s Wouman is no Tenant in Tail of Land, &c. Dyer Co. 217. A is Tenant in Tail of Lands, the Remainder to B in Tail, Remainder to A in Fee; if A, bargain and sells the Land to C, and his Heirs, the Wife of the Bargainer shall have the Doweer of the Death of the Tenant in Tail, to Rep. 96. And if a Feoffment be made upon Condition to reinfect, and the Feoffment take a Wife, the may have her Doweer till Reinfection, or an Entry made for not doing it: And so’tis of other defeasible Estates. 2 Rep. 59. Prk. Sed. 420. If one be disdained, and after done marr-, if he die before Entry, his Wife shall not have Doweer: And where a Person recovers Land in a real Action, and before his Entry or Execution made he die, the Wife shall not be endowed of this Land. 2 Rep. 56. Prk. 377. Where the Husband’s Estate is f Good, that by no Possibility Issue begetten on his Wife might in herit as Heir to him; there the Wife may not be en- dowed: As if Lands are given in a blank and the Heirs be shall beget on his present Wife, and the son; and then he takes another Wife, the shall not have Doweer: But in Case Land be given to the Husband and Wife in Tail, the Remainder in Tail to Husband, and the first Wife dying without Issue, he marries another Wife; this second Wife will be entitled to Doweer, after his Death. l. Sed. 55. 40 E. 3. 4. 2 Rep. 69. Asia 75. The Wife of a Perfon, who gets a Land by a Devising of Charters, though not a Jointtenant, shall have Doweer; and she shall hold her Part in Common with the Tenants in Common. Dyer 160. A Wife may have her Writ of Doweer against an Heir, an Alienet, a Dilettis, &c. or against any one that has Power to alien Doweer; if the Lord enters on the Land for an Elec- tate, the may bring it against him, but to the King the suit for by Pension, 9 Rep. 10. Pl. Jud. 141. Dyer 283. 1 Ibd. 439. This Writ was brought against eight Persons Feoffees of the Husband after Marriage, two conveyed the Action, and the other to the Writ of Doweer the Defendant had Judgment to recover the third Part of two Parts of the Land, in eight Parts to be divided: And after the Issue be found for the Demandant against the fix, he recovered against them, the third Part of the Land, as the Doweer. Dyer 151, 1 Co. Inf. 32. The Wife is, as soon as the case after the Decree of her Husband, to demand her Doweer, left the fee the Value from the Time of his Death: And in Action of Doweer, the firstProot is Summons to appear: And if the Tenant or Defendant do not appear, nor can an Edict, or Precio be Obtained, and the Wife by Vitum of a Grant lives during the Wife’s Life, after the Death of the Husband, the Wife shall have the Doweer of the Land left to her, and all the Goods the husband left to her, and the Goods she has in the Land. 2 Rep. 41. When the Wife has recovered the Doweer, and possesses it, and the husband’s Heirs enter, the final Judgment is, that the Husband’s Heirs shall be entitled to the same. 2 Rep. 41. Duct, (Dulgam) In our ancient Law is a Fight between Perfons in a doublet, for the Trial of the Truth. For in this Kind of Duel is divided; and what we now call a Duel is, a Fighting between Two, upon some Quarrel precedent: Wherein, if a Perfon be killed, both the Principals and all the Parties are guilty of Murder, and the Wife kills the second or forth Seconds fight, or not. H. P. C. 47. 51. And his void by some, that the Seconds of the Perfon killed are equally guilty, by Reason of the Encouragement which they gave by joining with him: But this is contradicted by others. 1 Hawk. 83. Whereas ever two Perfon in Cool blood meet and fight upon a precedent Quarrel, and one of them is killed, the other is guilty of Murder; and cannot excuse himself by alleging that he was first struck by the Defendent, or that he had declined to meet him, was prevailing up to do it by his own Imprudence, or that it was not his Intent to kill, but only to vindicate his Reputation, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 81. If two Perfon quarrel over Night, and appear to fight the next Day; or quarrel in the Morning, and agree to fight in the Afternoon; or such a considerate Time after, by which it may be presumed the Blood was cooled; and then they meet and fight a Duct, and one kill the other, it is Murder. 3 Inst. 52. H. P. C. 48. 49. And whenever it appears that he who kills another in a Duct or Fighting on a Sudden of any Quarrel, Matter of his Time, by the Time, he is guilty of Murder; as if after the Quarrel he fall into another Dificour, and talk calmly thereon; or allege that the Time, where the Quarrel happens is not convenient for Fighting; or that his Shoes are too high, if he should fight at present, &c. 49. 50. If one challenger another, who is to meet him, but tells him that he shall go the next Day to such a Place about Buinfes, and then the Challenger meets him on the Road, and afflicts the other; if the other in this Cafe kill him, it will be only Mafflaughter; for here is no Acceptance of the Challenge, or Agreement to fight: And if the Perfon challenged refuse to meet the Challenger, but tells him that he wears a Sword, and is always ready to defend himself; if then the Challenger attack him, and is killed by the other, it is not Murder nor Mafflaughter, if necessary in his own Defence. 59. It is a very high Offence to challenge another, either by Word or Letter, to fight a Duct; or to be the Mediator of such a Challenge; or even barely to endeavour to provoke another to find a Challenge, or to fight, by differing Letters for that Purpose, full of Reflection, &c. 9. 17. 53. And Perfon convicted of illegally feeding a Challenge, have been adjudged to pay a Fine of 100 / to be imprisoned for a Month, and make a publick Acknowledgment of their Offence, so as to be bound to their good Behaviour. 1 Hawk. Durtby Court of Lancaster, is a Court of the

Dutchy Chamber of Lancaster held at Westminster before the Chancellor, for Matters concerning the Lands and Franchises of the Dutchy: And the Proceedings in this Court are by English Bill, as in Chancery. Stat. 20. 24. 28. The Original of it was in Henry the Fourth's Days, who obtained the Crown of England by deposing Richard II. and having the Dutchy of Lancaster by H. 4. 42. He left it to his Heirs, and it was afterwards extinct in the Person of King Henry IV. by Reason of the Union thereof with the Crown, the fame King (fixing himself to be more rightfully Dutchy of Lancaster, than King of England) determined to bear his Right in the Dutchy, whatsoever should behal the Kingdom: and therefore he separated the Dutchy from the Crown, and settled it in the natural Persons of himself and his Heirs, as he had been no King: In which Elate it continued during the Reigns of Hen. 5. and Hen. 6. But when Edw. 4. recover'd the Crown, and reconstituted the Right of the House of Yorke, he appropriated that Dutchy to the Crown again, just so far that he suffered the Court and Officers to remain as he found them; and in this Manner it came together with the Crown to Hen. 7. who approving the Policy of Hen. 4. and by whole Right he obtained the Kingdom, made a like Separation of the Dutchy, and so left it. It is now only a Great: County Palatine. Vide Durtby. Officers of this Court, see Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaster.

Earl, (Sax. Earl, Lat. Comes) This 'tis said was a great Title among the Saxons, and is the most ancient of the English Peerage, there being no Title of Hereditary Nobility that was not borne in the Saxon Race. The word Earl is taken from the Saxon, and signifies Noble; But whenever it is derived, the Title Earl was at length given to those who were in the service of the King in his Councils and Martial Actions; and the Method of Inheritance into that Dignity was Per Inheritancee Glandis Comitatus, without any formal Charter of Creation. Dugdale's Warvich. 502. William the First, called the Conqueror, gave this Dignity in Fee to his Nobles, annexing it to this or that County or Province; and allowing them for the Maintenance of it a certain Portion of Money arising from the Prince's Profits, for the Pensions and Forfeitures of the Provinces. Canel. And formerly one Earl had divers Shires under his Government, and had unlimited powers in every Shire, such as are now Sheriffs; as appears by divers of our old Statutes. Canel. But about the Reign of King John and ever since, our Kings have made Earls of Counties, &c. by Charter; and giving them no Authority over the Country, nor any Part of the Profits arising out of it; only sometimes they have had an Annual Fee out of the Exchequer, &c. An Earl, Comes, was hereof correlatives with Comitatus: and antiently there was no Earl, but had a Shire or County for his Earldom; but of late Times the Number of Earls very much increasing, several of them have chosen for their Titles some eminent Part of a County, considerable Town, Village, or their own Seats, &c. Then, besides their local Earl there are some personal and honorary; as Earl Marshal of England; and others nominal, who derive their Titles from the Names of their Families. See Comitti, &c. 76. Their Place is next to a Marquis, and before a Viscount: And as in very ancient Times, those who were created Earls, were next to the Blood Royal; our British Monarchs to this Day call them in all publick Writings, Our most dear Counsell: They also originally did, and still may use the Style of His. Reg. Orig. 237. A Copyholder may not bring Action of Ejettions for the Term of a Copyholder for one or more Years, may bring it. 4 Rep. 46. And the Executors of a Leifer, shall have this Writ. Lit. Inst. 103. In these Cases, Ejettion is in point, as the Judicial Action, when the Leifer is actually put out of Land let unto him; or it is an Ejettion by Implication of Law, viz. where such an Act is done by one which is done to an Inheritance, and the Leifer is not really enter upon the Land, but oust the Leifer. 1 Litt. Abr. 456. But Ejettion is now become an Action in the Place of many other Actions as Writs of Diversities, &c. Formibus, &c. which are very difficult as well as tedious and chargeable: And this is the common Action for trying of Tates, and recovering of Lands, &c. illegally kept from the right Owner; though where Entry is taken away by Diversities, Fines and Recoveries, Dilemmas, &c. Ejettion may not be brought; so that all Titles cannot be tried by this Action. Wood's Ind. 547. 548. Anciently Writs of Entry and Affile were the usual Means of Recovery of the Possession of Lands, and lay only against Freeholders; but Anno 1 H. 6. it was resolved that an Hypothec Juxta Puffumum would lie to recover the Term in Ejettion, and the Land itself. Attorn. Comps. 170. The Action of Ejettion was never known to remove a Possession till the Reign of King Hen. 8. before which Time an Action of Trespass Quanto sliatur fragilis might, &c. was made use of by: Though in Action of Trespass, Damages were recoverable, but not the entry; whereas in Ejettions, the Thing or Term itself is recovered, as well as Damages. 3 Litt. 49. Ejettion ought to be brought for a Thing that is certain; and if it be of a Manor, Memorandum a. cum pertinentiis. if of a Rechery, Reddition de B. &c. And so many Magistrates, Cottages, Acres of arable Land, Means to Apprize, &c. to Paroch. &c. For Land must be distinguished, how much of one Sort, and how much of another, &c. Cre. El. 320. 320. 3 Litt. 49. Ejettion lies of a Church, as Du and Dome vocal. The Parish Church of &c. And a Church is a Meifage, by which Name it may be recovered; and the Declaration is to be served on the Patron who officiates Divine Service and the Parish Church and the Church where the Tenant is belonging. 3 Danre. Abp. 752. And Ejettion will lie of so many Lords of Trespass, Damages were recoverable, or where the Church is landed, or in nine Parts, or where certainly expresst; though it will not lie for Tates generally. 1 Nef. Abp. 681. It lies Du vis Meifage nee Tenementum, unless it have a Focus A. &c. to make it good, because of the Uncertainty of the Word Tenement. 1 Sid. 235. It will lie of a Meifage and a Tenement: For a Majority; or third Part, of a Manor or Meifage, &c. And for a Chamber or Room of a House well fit forth. 11 Rep. 55. 59. 3 Litt. 210. It lies Du Dome, which hath plentiful Certainty for the Tenant to deliver Possession, &c.
It lies of a Cottage or Curtilage: of a Coal-mine, &c. but not of a Common, Pitsy, &c. If purely personal, though a Praecipe does not. 2 Roll. Rep. 482, 483. But for usu Claves, or usu terra Terræ, &c. without Certainty of a Title, and of their Nature, it does not lie. 11 Rep. 45: 4 Med. 1. It lies of a Clofe, containing three Acres of Paffure, &c. Also of so many Acres of Land covered with Water: though not of Aqua confu. 2 Cr. 437, 1 Brondel. 247. The Method of Proceeding in Ejempem, is made more easy than formerly: when a Lease was to be sealed and delivered on the Premises to the Lepper, &c. In ancient Times, the Ejecut in Law was any Perfon that came upon any Part of the Land, &c. mentioned in the Leffe of Ejempem, though he were there without any Interest to disturb the Leffe of the Poifonion, after the Sealing of the Ejempem Leffe: and fuch Ejecut was a good Ejecut against whom an Action of Ejempem forme might be brought to try the Title of the Land in Ch. the Poifonion. But there is no Occaion for a Leffe to be made and sealed upon on the Premises to the Leffer, who hath a Mind to try the Title, and to leave the Title in the Poifonion, to be oufted and ejecuted by the Tenants in Poifonion, &c. As the Plaintiff could not proceed to recover his Lands againft the cufmal Ejecut, without deliverying to the Tenant in Poifonion a Declaration, and making him a proper Defendant, if he thought it fit: after this, the Lord Ch. Ju. Ralli inverted the Rule now in use: which is that if the Defendant comes in the Premises of fuch Ejecut, he fhould enter into a Rule to confefs Leffe, Entry, and actual Over, and infift on the Title only. See Attorn.
Common. 170, 171. The usual Course at this Time is to draw a Declaration, and therein feign a Leffe for three, five, or seven Years, to him that would try the Title, and alfo feign a cufmal Ejecut or Defendant in the Declaration, and then deliver the Declaration to the Ejecut, who ferves the fame by delivering a Copy thereof on the Tenant in Poifon-ion, or his Wife, (for a Delivery to a Son or Servant, &c. is not good) and gives Notice in Writing at the Bottom for him to appear and defend his Title; which muft be read to the Tenant, and the Perfon ferving it, is to tell him, that if he do not procure fome Attorney to appear for him and defend his Title, in Default thereof, that he, (the Defendant) will forfet a Judgment to be had againft him, whereby he (the Tenant) will be turned out of Poifonion: The Declaration being thus ferved, the Tenant is to appear the Beginning of the next Term, and to defend his Title, or be made Defendant indeed of the cufmal Ejecut, and take upon him the Defence: wherein he may confes a Leffe, Entry, and Over, and at the Trial stand upon the Title only: But if the Tenant in Poifonion do not appear and enter into the aforementioned Rule in Time, after the Declaration was served; then an Action made of the Service of the Declaration, with Notice to appear as afofear, the Court will order that Judgment be entered againft the cufmal Ejecut by Default; and the Tenant becomes an actual Defendant, and takes the Posse Comitatus, and being Cited, may be turned out of Poifonion: 1 Lill. 459. If at the Trial the Defendant will not defend, the Court, in a measure, it is lawful to call him or his Attorney, and then call the Plaintiff and nonftit him: and upon Return of the Refus, judgment will be given against the cufmal Ejecut. 3 Sal. 270. But in this Cafe, though the Plaintiff be nonftit, he fhall not pay any Costs; for the Rule for, confessing Leffe, Entry, and Over, is to be carried to the Secondary, who pays Costs to the Plaintiff, and if the Plaintiff has not the Name of the leffe and the Possession of the, the meffe Profits. 1 Sal. 260. Skin. 247. It has been held a great Abuse, that nominal Leffers in Ejemp-em were Persons not in Being, or not known to the Defendant: and who have made fuch Leffes, have been ordered to pay Costs, and put to unswer on Interrogatories, &c. Med. Ca. 309. If a Man is made Plaintiff in Ejaculment without his Knowledge, and the Defendant appearing the Plaintiff thereupon to depose against himself, the whole Affidavit is void; for even though he be satisfied to depose against himself, he must be satisfied to depose against several, no Defendant may defend for more than in his own Poffession; and the Plaintiff may take Judgment against his Ejector for what remains. 1 Foss. 552. 3 Keb. 511. 554. And if there be several Defendants in Ejaculment, that are severally concerned in Interest, to whom the Plaintiff delivers Declarations; if he moves to join them all in one Declaration, the Court will not agree to it, for several Declarations must be delivered to each of the Defendants; because if any are found Not guilty, each of them must have a Recovery for his Costs. 2 Keb. 524. In Lord Raymond's Reports, it is held if there are two Defendants in Ejaculment, and one of them appears and confesses Leafe, Enter, and Other, but the other does not appear; in that Case the Plaintiff may enter a Non prosequi, or Retraction against him, and go to Trial and have Judgment against the other Defendant. 1 Lord Raym. 719, 728. Also if an Ejector be brought against two Persons, and after Issue joined, one dies, and a File is awarded as to the two Defendants, and a Verdict against two; here upon Suggestion of the Death of one of them upon the Roll, Judgment shall be given for the Plaintiff against the other for the whole; For 'tis said this Action is grounded upon Tort, which are severable in their Nature, and one Man may be found guilty and the other acquitted. Id. An Eject- ment was brought for Non-payment of Rent; and the Court was moved to stay Proceedings, upon Payment of the Rent and Costs, to be adjudged by a Second Jury, which the Court granted; and also ordered a new Lease to be made at the Defendant's Charge. 1 Mayh. 8 W. 3. 1 Litt. 401. And by a late Statute, in all Cases between Landlord and Tenant, when half a Year's Rent shall be in Arrear, the Landlord having lawful Right to enter for Non-payment, may serve a Declaration in Ejaculment on the Tenant, without a formal Demand or Re-entry; or he may affix such Declaration on the Door of the demised Premises, or on the Door of the Place of the Land, which shall be termed a Legal Service: And upon Proof that half a Year's Rent was due before the Declaration was served, and no sufficient Defences on the Premises, the Leafe shall have Judgment and Execution; which if the Leafe shall have, without paying the Arrears and Costs, and without filing a Bill in Equity to be relieved within six Months, he shall be barred from all Relief, other than by Writ of Error; and the Defendant shall be charged from the Leafe: But if the Tenant or Leafe tender to the Leafe; or bring into Court the Rent in Arrear, together with Costs, all further Proceedings shall cease; and if the Leafe be relieved in Equity, he shall enjoy the demised Premises, according to his Lease, without obtaining a new one. Stat. 2 Geo. 2. c. 28. Tenants to whom Declarations in Ejaculment are generally delivered for any Lands, &c. shall give their Landlords, or their Baitiffs, Notice thereof, under the Penalty of three Years Rack Rent, to be recovered by Action of Delict, &c. And the Court where such Ejaculment shall be brought, shall suffer the Landlord to make himself Defendant, by joining with the Tenant, unto whom the Declaration is served, if he appears; but if not, Judgment shall be given against the said Ejector, for want of such Appearance; But if the Landlord shall desire to appear by himself, and cannot enter into the like Rule that the Tenants, if he had appeared, ought to have done; the Court may permit him so to do, and order a Stay of Execution, till they make a further Order therein. 11 Geo. 2. c. 19. If an Original in Ejaculment is required, it is thus:

Electio, (Electio) Is when a Man is left to his own Free-will to take or do one Thing or another, which he pleases. And if it be given of several Things, he who is the first Agent, and ought to do the first Act, shall have the Electio: As if a Person make a Lease, rendering Rent, or a Garment, &c. the Leffer shall have the Electio, as being the first Agent, by Payment of the One, or Delivery of the other. Ce. Lib. 144. And if A. covenant to pay B. a Pound of Pepper or Sugar, before Easter; it is at the Electio of A., and if not before Easter which of them he will pay: But if he pays it not before the said Easter, then afterwards it is at the Electio of B. to demand and have which he pleases. Dyer 18. 5 Rep. 59. 11 Rep. 51. If I give to you one of my Horses in my Stable, there you shall have the Electio; for you shall be the first Agent, by Taking or Selling of one of them. C. Litt. 145. If Things granted are Annual, and to have Continuance, the Electio (where the Law gives it him) remains to the Grantor, as well after the Day as before. But its otherwise when to perform'd at once. Ibid. When nothing passes to the Feoffee or Grantee before Electio to have one Thing or the other, the Electio ought to be made in the Life of the Parties; and the Heir or Exécutor cannot make the Electio: But where an Estate or Inheritance passes immediately to the Feoffee, Donor, &c. there Electio may be made by them, or their Heirs or Executors. 2 Rep. 35, 37. And when one and the same Thing passes to the Donor or Grantee, and such Donor or Grantee hath Electio in what Manner he, by his own Will, imployes it, the Party, his Heirs, &c. may make Electio when they will. 6 Lo. And it has been held, that a Person may have several Judgments, for the same Sums, recovered; or that he may divide his Execution, and have it for Part in one County, and Part in another. Mor. 24. A Man had Lands in Execution, and Elijahs were moved for a new Elijah upon Proof that the Defendant had other Lands not known to the Creditor at the Time when the Execution was filed out; and it was adjudged, that if he had been awarded new Elijahs, a new Elijah obtained by the Sheriff, he could not afterwards have a new Elijah; but when the Sheriff returns the Writ, he may waive it, and then have a new Extent. Cre. Elec. 510. 1 Nelf. Abr. 699. If the Defendant dies in Prifon, so that there is no Execution with Satisfaction, the Plaintiff shall have an Elijah afterwards. 5 Rep. 86. And if all the Lands extended on an Elijah be verified by better Title, the Plaintiff may take out a new Execution. 4 Rep. 66. Where one having Land by Elijah, is wholly verified out of it, he may have a further Execution, either against the Defendant's Lands or Goods, as he might have had at first, save only he must have a Scire facias against the Defendant, or him that comes in under him. But if the Plaintiff be of Part of the Land, or for a Time only, so that the Plaintiff may take his full Execution by holding it over; there he cannot have any new Execution by the statute 32 H. 8 c. 5. 2 Spen. Abr. 213. After a void Elijah filed out and filed, a new Writ may be had: And if one file an Elijah upon a Recovery, and the Sheriff returns that he hath made Inquisition of the Lands of the Defendant by twelve Juries; but he cannot deliver the Moiety to the Party according to the Writ, for that all the Land is extended to another on a Statute 1 the Plaintiff shall have a Cap. ad Satis-ficendum. Roll. Abr. 905. Where an Elijah is filed upon a Judgment, the levying of Goods thereon for Part only, is no Impediment, but the Plaintiff may bring another Elijah for the Rest, and take the Lands. 1 Law. 92. CEILYEment, (Derived from the Bleg. Es, sign. Mucrumineum & Loopen, current) is where a married Woman of her own Accord, goes away and departs from her Husband, and lives with an Adulterer. A Woman thus leaving her Husband, is said to elope; and in this Case, her Husband is not obliged to allow her any Money out of his Estate; nor shall he be chargeable for Necessities for her, as wearing Apparel, &c. According to the Law, &c. Where this Name is notorious, whoever gives her Credit, doth it at his Peril: But on Elipment, the Putting a Wife in the Gazette, or other News-Paper, is no legal Notice to Perions in general not to trust her; though personal Notice to particular Perons given by the Husband, will be good not to be chargeable to them. 1 Roll. 314. 1 Exon. 42. 11 Ed. 1. cap. 54. If the Wife goes away from the Husband, and tarrieth with the Adulterer, without returning and being reconciled to her Husband, this continuall Elipment forfeits her Dower; according to their old Veres:

Sparsa Firmae Mullor fugiens, & Adultera fallax, Diet, sua curante, si Sparsa succedat retrahas.

Action lies against the Adulterer for carrying away another Person's Wife, and detaining her; and large Damages are usually given in these Cases to the injured Husband.

Enfranchisement, (Fr. Enfranchisement) To make Free, or incorporate a Man in any Society, &c. It is also used where one is made a free Denizen, which is a Kind of Incorporation in the Commonwealth.

Enfranchisement, (Fr. from Franch, i.e. Liberation) Is when a Peron is incorporated into any Society, Rule, or Politick, and figures the Act of an incorporating. He that by Charter is made a Denizen, or Freeman of England, is said to be enfranchised, and let into the general Liberties of the Subjects of the Kingdom. And he who is made a Citizen of London, or other City, or free Burgers of any Town Corporate, as he is made Parties of those Liberties that appertain to the Corporation, is in the common

When a Peron was enfranchised, when he was made free by his Lord, and rendered capable of the Benefits belonging to the Corporation, he was enfranchised into the Freedom of any City or Borough, he hath a Freehold in his Freedom during Life; and may not, for indeavouring any Thing only against the Corporation, lose and forfeit the same. 11 Rep. 91.

Engliscy or Englishly, (Englisht) Is an old Word signifying the being an Englishman. When Canute the Dane came to be King of England, he at the South of the Nobility felt back his Army into Denmark, but kept some Dancers behind to be a Guard to his Person; and he made a Law for the Prefer-ration of his Dancers; who were often privately made away by the Engliscy that if an Englishman killed a Dancer, he should be tried for the Murder; or if he escaped, the Town or Hundred where the Fact was done, was to be removed sixty Marks to the King: So that after this Law, whenever a Murder was committed, it was necessary to prove the Party slain to be an Englishman, that the Town might be exempted from the Amerciment; which Proof was called Engliscy or Englishly. And whereas a Peron were privately slain, he was in ancient Times accounted Franciscy, which Word comprehended every Alien, especially the Dancers: It was therefore, that where any Peron were murdered, he should be adjudged Franciscy, unless Engliscy were proved, and that it was made manifest he was an Englishman.
The Manner of proving the Peron killed to be an Englishman, was by two Witnesss who knew the Father and Mother, before the Coroner, &c. Brand.
ib. 3. cap. 150. 7 Rep. 15. 7. This Englishcy, by Reason of the great Abuses and Trouble that afterwards were perceived to grow by it, was utterly taken away by Stat. 14 Engl. c. 4.

Entepluder, (Fr. Enterpulder, La. Interplueser) Signifies to discuss or try a Point accidentally happening as it were between, before the principal Case can be determined and Allowed that the Defendant may not be charged to two several Persons; or (if really, there be no D. D. or Action) Shall be Enterpulder, to a stranger who hath Right to his Action. 2 Dows. Abh. 790. 11 If any borrows of the Defendant against A. B. for the same Thing, and the Defendant acknowledges the Action of one of them, without a Prayer of Enterpulder, they shall not inter-plead one the other; for the Enterpulder is given for the Security of the Defendant, that he may not be twice charged, and he hath waived that Action. 2 Dows. 792. If one brings several Defences against B. and counts upon a Delivery of Goods, &c. to re-Deliver to him, and another brings Defence against him also, and counts to likewise if there be not any Privy of Bailments between them, yet they shall im-plead, to avoid the double Charge of the Defendant; and also because the Court cannot know to whom to deliver the Thing detailed, if both should recover. Br.

Suit, and the Defendant prays that they may inter-plead, and delivers the Thing to the Court, and before the Award of the Enterpulder, one discontinues the Suit, the other shall not have Judgment; but if he discontinues his Suit after the Enterpulder, the other may have Judgment. 11 H. 6. 10. If a Recovery be had upon an Enterpulder, Judgment shall be given to recover the Thing demanded against the Defendant;

Entry. Infringe, Fr. Entree, i.e. Intrusion signifies the taking Possession of Lands or Tenements, where a Man hath Title of Entry: And it is also used for a Writ of Possession. This Entry into Lands, is where any Men enter into or took Possession of any Lands, &c. in his proper Person: And is an actual Entry when made by a Man's self, or by Attorney by Warrant from him that hath the Right of it; as in an Entry in Law, for a continued Claim is an Entry implied by Law, and has the same Force with it. Litt. p. 419.

There is a Right of Entry when the Party claiming may for his Remedy either enter into the Land, or have an Action to recover it: And a Title of Entry, where one hath lawful Entry given him to the Land, which another hath, but which he has no Action to recover till he hath entered. Plowd. 558. Rep. 43. Finc's Law 105. The Writs of Entry concern the Right of Property, and are of divers Kinds, distinguished into Four Parts, according to which the Writs are varied. The first Degree is a Writ of Entry for Diffusion, that lieth for the Diffusor against a Defendent, he being married, and is called a Writ of Entry in the nature of an Affidavit: Second, a Writ of Entry for Diffusion in the Per, for the Heir by Deferent, who is said to be in the Per as he comes in by his Accessor's title, so it is if a Defendent makes a Possession in the fiance of a Feudment in Fee, Gift in Tali, &c. the Feudor and Donee are in the Per by the Diffusor. Third, A Writ of Entry for Diffusion in the Per & Cui, where the Feudor of a Defendent makes a Possession over to another, when the Diffusor shall have this Writ of Entry for Diffusion, &c. of the Lands in which such other had no Right of Entry, but by the Feudor of the Diffusor, to whom the Diffusor demised the same, who unjustly and without Judgment disfitted the Demandant. Fourth, A Writ of Entry for Diffusion in the Per, Cui, where the Feudor of a Defendent makes a Possession over to another, when the Diffusor is removed from Hand to Hand beyond the Degrees, in Cui of a more remote Seizin, whereunto the other three Degrees do not extend, 1 Inst. 298.

whole Time from a Distress is considerable; as where Feme Covert is distressed, and her Husband deaths, and the takes another; Husband, and then a Dissent is call'd; or if one ultra Mare be distressed, and he return into England, and then go beyond Sea again, and there is a Dissent; here the Dissent will bar the Entry, because of the interim. 9 H. 7.
24. Dyer 143. 33 H 8. c. 33. A Woman Tenant in Tail took Husband, who made a Feoffment in Fee, and died, and the Wife with Entry made a Lease for Years; and it was held, that the Freehold was not reduced by the Lease, without an Entry made.
1 Leav. ca. 165. The Entry of a Distress when he doeth makes it, shall avail all the former Charges by the Distress upon the Land: But Right of Entry may be lost divers Ways; as by Acceptance of Rent, by Distress which is call'd, and the like; 4 Leav.
Andr. 133. Noy. Reg. 7. If a Man is distressed of Land wherein a Common is appurtant, the Distress cannot use the common 'till he enters on the Land to which the Common is appurtenant; for if the Distress might use it, to might the Distress, which would be a double Charge on the Common; Yet if a Person be dissoed of a Manor, to which an Adwowment is appendant, he may prefer to the Adwoon before Entry on the Manor. 1 Infr. 122. A Distress enters into the Land, and continues therein with the Distress, and manures it with him, claiming nothing of his full Estate; or if the Distress enters, and takes the Pro-at as a Lessee, or of the Distress, 'tis hid these will be an Entry that will reduce the Eft Estate. 2 Daws. where a Claim is to put in the Castle of such Stranger in the Land to feed there; this is an Entry in Law on the Land. 1 Infr. 245.
And if a Person enters by Command of him who hath no Right of Entry, he may not gain a Title to it to himself. 1 Nef. Abr. 705. Where Entry may be made into Land, or any Thing, it shall not be in the Party before Entry: If Entry cannot be made, but only Claim, then it shall be in him by Claim; and when neither Entry nor Claim can be made, it shall be in him by Act of Law. 1 Prid. 133. In Case the freehold of the Land is in no Man, but the Freehold in Law is in the Heir that enters, his general Entry into one Part reduces all his actual Possession: But if an Entry is to deplete an Estate, a general Entry into Parcel, is good only for that Part. 1 Infr. 15.
Where an Entry is in any Parts, it must be in the Name of all: If I endow a Perfon of an Acre of Ground upon Condition, and of another Acre on Condition, and both Conditions are broken here Entry into one in Name of both Acres is not good to reduce both: But if a Man make a Feoffment of divers Parcels upon Condition that is broken, these Entry into Part in the Name of all the stoll is sufcient. 4 Crt. Lit. 252. 9 H. 7. 25. A Man hath Right to enter into Lands in divers Villages in one County, if he enter upon Part of it in one Village in the Name of all in that County; by this he shall have Possession of the whole. 1 Infr. 252. Dyer 257, 337. A Man distressed me of one Acre at one Time, then another Acre at another Time in the same County, my Entry into one of them in the Name of both is good: Though it will not be good, if the Distress be not proper to the Place. 4 Crt. Lit. 569. If the Acres lie in several Counties, when there ought to be several Exnorities and Actions. 1 Infr. 252. If he who hath Right of Entry into a Freehold, enters into Part of it, it shall be adjudged an Entry into all possessed by one Tenant; but if there be several Tenants possessing of the same Land, the Right of Entry belongs to several Tenants. 1 Litt. Abr. 515, 516. Special Entry into a Houle with which Lands are occupied, claiming the Whole, is a good Entry as to the whole Houle. 1 Infr. 253. Had. If a Man has Title to an Ufe of his Wife; or a Man enters to the Ufe of an Infant, or any other, where the Entry is lawful; this fettes the Possession before Agreement of the Parties: Though it is otherwise where a Person enters to the Ufe of one whole Entry is not lawful; for this vets nothing in him till Agreement, and then he shall be distressed of Entry. 878. If two Jointestates are distressed, and the Distress alies, and one Jointestate enters upon the Aliense to the Ufe of both; this fettes the Freehold in both of them. Ibid. 788. But if one Cooperater, &c., enters specially claiming the whole Land, the gains the Part of her Companion by Abatement; and it shall not fettle any Possession in the other. 1 Infr. 243. The Heir is to enter into Lands deeded to him, to initiate him to the Profess.
1 Infr. 214. If a younger Son enters on Lands in Fee, where the eldest Son dies having Issue; though many Different are set, yet the Heirs of the eldest Son may make an Entry on the Lands; but if the younger Son convey away the Lands in Fee, and the Freehold dies feated, they may not enter; nor may they make an Entry, if they have disposed the Eldest, and dies feated. 1 Infr. 257, 244. Lid. Sid.
357. A Tenant in Tail hath Issue two Sons, and the Eldest dies, leaving his Wife provisentessor of a Son, and the younger Brother alive, and then the Wife of the Eldest is delivered of a Son, he may enter upon the younger Brother. 1 Daws. 577. If a Ballard being the eldest Son, enters upon Land, and enjoys it during his Life; his Entry and dying feated can make a Title to his Heirs against the lawful Children. 1 Infr. 110. An Estate of Freehold will not be reduced by a Statute: 2 Infr. 35. A Grantee of a Reversion may enter for a Condition broken.
1 Prid. 176. If a Person will take Advantage of a Condition, he must enter, or make a Claim: And for a Condition broken, there must be actual Entry, to bring Ejectment for Recovery of the Estate; but where a Man is intitled to enter by Distress, it may happen in Mortgage, &c., Entry and Quitter contended in the Rule in Ejectment, without actual Entry, is sufcient to make the Lease to intitle the Action.
1 Litt. Abr. 516. When a Man hath Title to Land, and is out of Possession, he cannot make a Lease of it to a Tenant, but by Entering and Sealing the Lease on the Land; or empowering others by Letters of Attorney to do it. Daws. Abr. 81. A Leffe must enter into Lands demised to him; and though the Leffe dies before the Leffe enters, yet he may enter: And if the Leffe dies before Entry, his Executors or Administrators may enter. The Leffe may assign over his Term before Entry, having infrige terms; but he may not take a Release to enlarge his Estate, or bring Trespass, &c., till actual Entry. Though if there be Words Bargain and Sell in a Lease, &c., for Consideration of Money, the Leffe the Bargains is in Possession on Executing the Deed, to make a Release. Lit. 59. Prid. 300.
1 Infr. 46, 57, 270. Where a Leffe enters on his Leffe for Years, the Rent is fulfilled. 1 Leav. 110.
But if the Leffe die; the Leffe is not discharged of his Rent to the Leffe; unless it be where the Leffe is attainted of Treason, &c., that the Rent is to fall to the King, who is in Possession without Entry. 5 Litt. 359. 1 Nef. Abr. 706.
There
There is no need of Entry to avoid an Ecclesiastic in Case of a Limitation, because thereby the Ecclesiastic is determined without Entry or Claim, and the Law calls it upon the Party to whom it is limited. If a devise lands to B. and his Heirs, and dies, 'tis in the Devise immediately; but till Entry he cannot bring a process. A process with an Entry of one Person, a Reversion will rest without Claim. 2 Med. Rep. 7, 8. A bare Entry on another, without an Expulsion, makes only a Seisin; so that the Law will adjudge him in Possession who has the Right. 3 Salk. 135. If a Person who hath Title of Entry, finds an House open with no Body in it, and enters into it, and keeps Possession; this is no forcible Entry; because if any Body is in it. Common Law Com. Place'd 186. Where a Person is in a House with Goods, Ctr. the House may be enter'd when the Doors are open, to make Execution. 3 Cr. Exc. 759. But it must be averred that the Goods were in the House. Lawre. 1434, 1448. And a Man cannot enter into a House, the Doors being open, to demand a Debt, unless he aver that the Debtor is within the House at the same Time. 3 Cr. Exc. 876. Entry may be made on a Tenant where Rent is in Arrear, to take a Debtor, Ctr. In order to retain Possession of Lands by Entry, the Owner of Entry in them: If it be a House, and the Door is open, you go into it, and say these Words— I do here enter, and take Possession of this House. You shall be so, then fix your Foot on the Groundfloor, or against the Door, and say the before Words: And if it be Land, then go upon the Land, and say, I do here enter, and take Possession of this Land, Ctr. If another do so for you, he must say, I do here enter, Ctr. to the Use of A. and B. and it is necessary to make it before Witness, and that a Memorandum be made of it. Lit. 185, 1 Sc. 237, 238. In Actions for Possession of Land, to be made within twenty Years after the Title accrued. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16. But where a Fine of Lands is paid, the Entry is to be in five Years. 1 R. 3, 4 H. 7. Also an Action is to be commenced in one Year after the Entry. 4 & 5 Ann. Equity of Relegation, on Mortgages. If where Money is due on a Mortgage, the Mortgagee is deliberate to bar the Equity of Redemption, he may oblige the Mortgagor either to pay the Money, or be fore closed of his Equity; which is done by Proceedings in the Court of Chancery. But the Chancery cannot obtain the Time of Payment of the Mortgage Mo ney, where it is limited by express Covenant; though it may lengthen it: And then upon Non payment, the Practice is to foreclose the Equity of Redemption, of the Mortgagee. 1 T. R. 164. 1 C. 1. 2. 1. Equities to execute the Equity, a Bill in Chancery is exhibited; to which an Answer is put in, and a Decree being obtained, a Muster in Chancery is to certify what is due for Prin cipal, Interest and Costs, which is to be paid at a Time prefixed by the Decree, whereupon the Premi liles is to be reconveyed to the Mortgagor; or in Default of Muster, the Mortgage is ordered to be foreclosed from all Equity of Redemption, and to con vey the Premises absolutely to the Mortgagor. Law of no Costs shall be given. 2 Ed. 12. 2 Riff. &c. ibid. 706. The Court of Exchequer, Exchequer Chamber, by Abatement or Discont inued, the Judgment is not again in B. R. till a Re mitture is entered. 1 Saiz. 201. Write of Error will not not lie in the Exchequer Chamber upon a Judgment in B. R. but in Actions of Debt and Trespass on the Cafe, Covenant and Exchange; which are the Actions mentioned in the Stat. 27 Edw. A Writ of Error lies not in the Exchequer Chamber on Judgment in a Action of Scandalum Magnatum. 2 Nolf. 707, 709. But on Judgment in Replevin in C. R. there may be a Writ of Error brought in B. R. The Stat. 27 Edw. c. 8 is only to relieve on the Merits of the Cause, as it floated on the first Judgment, and there can be no new Writ of Error after that Judgment is affirmed or reversed; so that if the Merits of the first judgment be examined before a Scire facias brought, the Exchequer Chamber having executed their Power, can do nothing in it. 1 Salk. 265. The Exchequer Chamber doth not award a Soci. fac. ad judicandum Erroris; but Notice is given to the Parties concerned. 1 Test. 34. And the Court of Exchequer Chamber have not any Authority, but to reverse or affirm the Judgment. 6c. for they have no power to execute on the Judgment. 6c. Edw. 108. But where Judgment is given for the Defendant, and the Plaintiff brings a Writ of Error; if the Judgment is reversed, the Court which reverses the Judgment shall give Judgment for the Plaintiff, as the other Court ought to have done. Test. 117, 118. In the Exchequer Chamber, after Reversal of a Judgment, the Court gives Judgment for the Plaintiff, ex quo reperiet.U. but because they wanted Power to award a Writ of Enquiry which was necessary, being on a Demurrer, therefore it was sent back into B. R. for the Execution of that Writ, and thereupon to give final Judgment: But if the Judgment is against the Plaintiff in B. R. upon a special Verdict, and that Judgment is reversed in the Exchequer Chamber, there being no Writ of Enquiry requisite, the Court of Exchequer Chamber doth not only give Judgment of Reversal, but a compleat Judgment for the Plaintiff in the Affirm. 6c. 181. If erroneous Judgment must be had by Consent of Parties, it may be reversed in the Exchequer Chamber; for Consent of Parties may not change the Law: but if the Consent is entered upon and the Part of the Record, it may be good. Rob. 5. Cru. El. 664. The Reversal in the Exchequer Chamber, is rei Judicata: No Writ of Error lies upon such Judgment, except in Parliament; and is a dismissal of the Action at least, by the Statute 27 Edw. c. 8 and 31 Edw. It has been held, that an Error in Fact cannot be alligned in the Exchequer Chamber: Though 6c. Authorities. Errors in Fact may be alligned as Errors in Law. 2 Mod. 194. 2 Nolf. 705. Erre de Repercussione quod se innulli. Refers lies in the Court of B. R. for Errors in Fact in the Judgment of the fame Court as Nonage of the Parties, want of an Original, &c. which doth not proceed from the Error of the Judges, and this Writ is allowed without Bail: But a Writ of this Kind doth not lie for Error in Matter of Law, when it would be reverting their own Judgments. Cru. Fac 254. And Errors in Fact may be corrected in C. R. the fame Term, with this Writ, which lies not in the Exchequer Chamber. Ibid. 626. If Judgment is given in B. R. in civil Actions, a Writ of Error will not lie in the fame Court, only for Errors in Fact triable by a Jury but upon a Judgment in Criminal Cases, Error will lie in B. R. whether the Error be in Fact or in Law; though it lies also in Parliament. 5 Salk. 187. Where a Judgment in C. R. is affirmed upon a Writ of Error in B. R. and afterwards a Soci. fac. is brought on that Judgment, and the Plaintiff hath Judgment thereon; no Writ of Error lies in the Exchequer Chamber, the Record was not in B. R. by Bill, but by Writ of Error. 1 Roll. Rep. 263. 5 Salk. 149. On Judgment given in the Court of King's Bench in Ireland, even after Error brought and determined there, Writ of Error may be fixed in the King's Bench in England. 2 Nolf. 730. When Judgment is given in B. R. for Plaintiff in Error, there must be only a Judicium Reversum, 6c. entered with Cost: If for the Defendant in Errors, that the Plaintiff Nil caput per Error fames di Error. The Judgment given in B. R. the old Judge ought to allow a Writ of Error which is in Judgment of Law a Superfidesus until the Errors are examined, and the Judgment affirmed or reversed. Cru. Fac. 554. As a Plaintiff having erro- nious Judgment, may reverse it; and new Judg- ment may be given for him: So if a Judgment is re- versed, the Plaintiff may bring a new Action for the same Cause. 1 Lev. 310. Where a Judgment is pleaded in Bar another Action, &c. and Judgment given on that Plea; Writ of Error may be had to reverse the second Judgment. Cru. Edw. 503. 6c. Cent. 159. And Dect lies upon a Judgment in B. R. after a Writ of Error brought which is only a Superfidesus to the Execution. 1 Lev. 153. Writ of Error cannot be brought on any Record which is not a Judgment. 1 Salk. 145. And Error lies not on an interlocutory Judgment; it must be a final Judgment after Verdict, 6c. A Writ of Error may not be brought to reverse a Judgment by Dect, but before a Writ of Inquiry of Damages is taken, and is executed, that the Verdict of the Jury and interlocu- tory Judgment may be made a passport, and final Judgment upon which alone a Writ of Error must be brought. 1 Litt. 522. But on Judgment by Default in B. R., it lies before a Writ of Inquiry of Damages, and judgment thereupon; because in this Case the Judgment already is perfect to recover the Term. Lat. 212. When a Writ of Error is brought to re- verse a Judgment in an inferior Court, though the Record is not certified as it ought, yet Execution cannot be had; but on Certificare of the Neglect, &c. a Writ of Execution Judicati may be issued. 1 Litt. Aq. 326. Upon a Writ of Error, if the Clerk below will certify the Record wrong, Action of the Cafe lies against him; and if he make no Return, the Plaintiff may have the Writ Execute Judicati out of Chancery. Mod. 214. If erroneous Judgment be for the Defendant in an inferior Court, and it is reversed in B. R. and the Merits appear for the Plain- tiff, he shall have Judgment, but if the Merits be against the Plaintiff, the Judgment shall have new Judgment, in like Manner as in the Exchequer Cham- ber; for the Judges are to reform, as well as to affirm or reverse. Facilis Respexit. If a Writ of Error to reveres a Judgment be discontinued for Want of Pro- secution: Execution cannot be had upon the Judg- ment, until the discontinuance is certified from the Court where discontinued. 1 Litt. 518. The Want of a Bill in B. R. is Error upon a Judgment by Con- fession, or Default, (but not after a Verdict) because the Bill is the original Process there. Bid. For Varia- nce between the original Writ and Declaration; or Want of an Original: And where Proceedings are so erroneous, as not to be amended; for Faults in Verdicts, Executions, &c. And when any Thing material is omitted in a Judgment, Writ of Error lies, and the Judgment shall be reversed: So where the Stiles of inferior Courts are wrong or insufficiently named, &c. their Judgments may be reversed. But where Faults are small; they sometimes pass as Vinitum Clarum. 2 Nolf. Aq. 714, 715, 721. 6c. 728. After as nullum Erroratum pleaded, the Party affirms the Record to be erroneous and he is foreclose- red to say there is Error in it: Though the Court is not restrained from examining into it. 1 Salk. 320. The Judges were bound to search for Erro- r in the Record, which were not alligned; but may if they will; and if they find Error they ought to reverse the Judgment. 6c. Cent. 159. If a Writ of Error is brought to remove a Record of a Judge; ment given in C. B. and the Plaintiff in Error leaves the Record there, without removing it before the Return of the Writ or in Case there be a longer Return-Day than is convenient in the Writ of Error, as if it is purchased the Beginning of Mon. Law; and made returnable in Hildary Term; the Court may award Execution, although the Writ of Error be de-liberd. 2. A New Writ of Error, when the Record comes into Court, if the Plaintiff has all that Term do not assign his Errors; or if he do it, and omit to sue a Scire facias ad amend-dam Errors; against the Defendant, there is, returnable the same Term, or the next, all the Matter is discontinued; and the next Term a new Writ of Error is to be fixed out upon the Record directed to the signifed Judges, &c. F. N. B. 20. If it is that brings Writ of Error, discontinued before the Defendant in the Writ of Error pleads to it, he may have a new Writ of Error; but if he discontinue after the Defendant hath pleaded in nulla eff Errorem, he may not have a new Writ. 1 Litt. 322. The Parties upon the Removal of the Record by the Writ of Error, have no Day in Court given to either of them, so that if the Plaintiff in Error delay to fee forth his Sci. fac ad amend. Errors, the Defendant hath no Way to compel him, but by laying out a Scire facias upon the Name, &c. And if there be Death of the Parent in Error doth not plead that his Errors are aligned, but suffer Judgment to pass upon two Nihilis, no Errors afterwards aligned shall prevent Execution.

Carthage's Rep. 41. But 'tis said the usual Practice is, that the Defendant in the Writ of Error, by Con-dent doth voluntarily take Notice of the Alignment of Errors and this Consent is satisfied by his Pleading, in nullis eff Errorem. and then there is no Occasion for a Scire facias ad amend. Error. 'tis said. Errors

By Stat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 13. it is enacted, That all Writs of Error, wherein the same shall be on the Original Record, or other Defect, may be amended by the Court, and made agreeable to the Record: And where any Verdict hath been given, in any Action, Suit, &c. in any of his Majesty's Courts of Westminster, or other Court of Record, the Judgment thereon shall not be stayed or reversed for any Defect or Fault in Form or Substance, in any Bill, Writ, &c. or for Variance in any such Writs from the Declaration or other Proceedings: But this is not to extend to any Appeal of Felony, or Process on Indictments, Informations, &c. See Judgment.

Writs of Error in the King's Bench is thus procured: The Curator of the County makes out the Writ of Error, from a Petition or Copy of the Declaration left with him; which is to be delivered to the Clerk of the Error, who has a Fee of 2 l. 21. 6d. and a Certificate of the Allowance of the Writ must be served on the Defendant's Attorney in Error, also the Plaintiff's Attorney in the Action, is to procure an Original to warrant his Judgment; and Warrants of Attorney must be filed, and Ball put in, where required, &c. And then the Proceedings are by Servire facies et audit und Error against the Plaintiff in the Action, where on Judgment was obtained: and the Writ of Error being received by the Sheriff to whom directed, he is to give Notice to the Plaintiff in Error to show Cause why Execution should not be on the Judgment, and make a Return to that Purpose: then a Rule is to be given with the Clerk of the Rules for the Plaintiff in Error to allege his Errors by such a Day, if he shall not do before the Rule is out, the Plaintiff in the original Action may take out Execution against him. If he shall allege his Errors in the Record, then the Defendant must plead in nullis et erratim, and thereupon enter the Cause with the Clerk of the Paper, for the Errors to be argued; and Paper Books for 3. 3. 16. are to be made out, &c. If some Part of the Record be not returned, a Contraire must be prayed to bring it into Court; and if

Matters of Fact are alleged in Error, as Nonage, Death of the Plaintiff, &c. a proper Plea must be made thereon, and take thereupon taken and tried as in any other Plea: But if any of the Errors in the Writ, as if the Errors are argued by Counsel on both Sides, and the Judgment is either reversed or affirmed: And when Judgment is affirmed, the Defendant in Error may proceed against the Defendant in the Action, by taking out Execution on the Affirmative, or bringing Action of Debt on the Judgment; or he may prosecute the Bail for Suits in the Petitioner's Recognizance. 2 Vol. Med. Ext. Eng. 373, 378. When a Judgment is reversed or affirmed in the Exchequer Chamber, the Transcript of the Record therefore will be remitted back to the Court, which upon the End of the Judgment here: And if such Judgment shall be affirmed in the Exchequer Chamber, yet a Writ of Error may be brought thereupon returnable in Parliament. Prat. Sif. 525. 525.

If you would bring a Writ of Error in Parliament to reverse a Judgment in B. R. there must be a Petition to the King for his Warrant, which Petition has the Allowance of the Attorney General, and then the King writes on the Top of it Rotul jussit, whereupon a Writ of Error is made out by the Clerk of the Errors, (who hath a Fee, and the King's Warrant, in the Costs 5l.) And then the Lord Chief Justice of this Court carries the Record, and a Transcript thereof, up to the House of Lords in full Parliament, and after they are examined there, leaves the Transcript with the Lords, but brings back the Record: And this being done, the Attorney for the Defendant in Errors, gets some Lord to move that the Plaintiff in Errors may align his Errors; but if for the Plaintiff, Motion is to be made that upon his affixing Errors, the Defendant may appear and make his Defence, and then after the Judgment is either affirmed or reversed, the Clerk of the Parliament returns the Transcript of the Record into B. R. with the Affirmation or Reversal thereof, to be entered upon the Record in the Court, when with an Affirmation, &c. awarded Execution, &c. Dyer 385.

Prat. Assiz. Edit. 1. p. 117. A Writ of Error in Parliament, is made returnable immediately; or on a Prorogation, ad primum Parliamentum: And it does not determine by a Prorogation. But if a Parliament is dissolved before the Errors are heard, it is otherwise: And on Motion, Execution hath been granted in B. R. on a Judgment in such a Cafe, the Record being saver out of the Court. 3. 3. 16. To bring a Writ of Error in the King's Bench here in England to reverse a Judgment given in the King's Bench in Ireland, a Writ must be procured from the Curator, directed to the Chief Justice of the Court of B. R. in Ireland, requiring him to summon the Plaintiff in the Action there, to appear here in this Court, to answer the Errors: whereas a Transcript of the Record is sent over, (not the Record itself of the Judgment, which remains in Ireland) and when the Errors are argued, if the Judgment is reversed, there must go a Writ to the Chief Justice of Ireland to reverse it; so that the Judgment is not actually reversed here, but there. And where the Judgment in Ireland is affirmed here, there can be no Writ of Execution granted here; but on Affirmation of the Judgment, the Writ goes, meeting all the Proceedings, directed to the Judges of B. R. in Ireland commanding them to issue Proces of Execution. C. 5. 5. 321. 321. In Wales at the Great Sessions there is no such Power for the local Actions to the Council of the Marches of Wales and if they give an erroneous Judgment, it is final, for the Statute 34 H. 8. c. 56. ordains this Writ to be made out, and if the Action in Error has been granted of such erroneous Judgment: Upon Errors in real or mix'd Actions in Wales, Writ of Form of a Writ of Error brought in B. R. and Judgment thereupon.

THO Lord the King hath given in Charge to his beloved and faithful Robert Eyre, Esq., his Chief Justice of the Bench, his Writ to take in those Words, to wit: George the Second, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. To our beloved and faithful, &c. Greeting: Beasts in the Record and Proceeds, and also in giving Judgment of the Plea which was in our Court before you and your Companions, our Justices of the Bench, by our Writs between A. B. and C. D. of a certain Tenement on the Caife, done to the Damage of the said A. B. to the hundred Pounds, as that false and manifestly false Intermediary, to the great Damage of the said A. B. as by his Complaint to be inferred; We willing that the Error, if there be any, found to be so, that all Reasons and grounds, to the great Damage of the said A. B. as by his Complaint to be inferred, be done to the Parties aforesaid in this Behalf, Command you, that Judgment be therein given, then that Record and Proceeds be reversed, and all Things concerning them, to us under your Seal definitively and openly you send, and this Writ is to be sent to the said A. B. to the End, that, looking into the Record and Proceeds, you may find in the true A. B., and in giving Judgment of the same, that your Writ is to be reversed, that the said A. B. be cut off, and therefore the Law of our Kingdom ought to be done in the Premises, &c. [The Writ of Error is to be thus entered and returned, and the whole Record annexed].

Afterwards, to wait, on Saturday next after the Octaves of St. Hillary in this same Term, before the Lord the King at Wellminster, came the said A. B. by his Attorney, and faith, That in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, and also in giving Judgment in the Plaintiff aforesaid, there is manifestly Error, or (if it is manifestly Error) in this, that, in the Error aforesaid it appears, that the Judgment aforesaid in Form aforesaid given, was for the said C. D. against the said A. B. taken by the Laws of the Land, that Judgment ought to have been given for the said A. B. against the said C. D. therefore in that it is manifestly errored; also it is errored in this, that, whereof by the Record and Proceeds aforesaid it appears, &c. yet the said, &c. and therefore in that it is manifestly errored; and the said A. B. prays the Writ of the said Lord the King, to provide for the said C. D. being before the said Lord the King, to hear the Record and Proceeds aforesaid; and it is granted to him, &c. By which it is commanded to the Sheriff aforesaid, that, by brief and lawful, &c. be saved the said C. D. to know, that he may be before the Lord the King, in fifteen Days from the Day of Easter, &c. more, to bear the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, if &c. and further &c. The same Day is given to the said A. B. &c. At which Day, before the said Lord the King at Wellminster came the said A. B. by his Attorney aforesaid, and the Sheriff hath not thereto sent the Writ, and the said C. D. being feoulently required to come at the same Day, therefore &c. by, his Attorney came; upon which the said A. B. as at first faith, That in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, and also in giving the Rendering of the Judgment aforesaid, it is manifestly errored, allowing the Errors aforesaid; and in a Form aforesaid alleging and prays, that the Judgment aforesaid for their Errors, and others in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, may be reversed, annulled, and for nothing alleged. And that he may be referred to all Things, which he is by Occasion of the Judgment aforesaid; and that the Court of the said Lord the King here, may proceed as well to the Examination of the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, as the Matters aforesaid above aforesaid for Errors, and that the said C. D. may rejoice to the Errors, &c. Upon which the same C. D. faith, that neither in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, nor in giving of the Judgment aforesaid, in any Thing it is errored; and prays, that the Court of the said Lord the King here, may proceed as well to the Examination of the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, as the Matters aforesaid for Errors aforesaid; and that the Judgment aforesaid may be affirmed in all Things. But because the Court of the said Lord the King now here, is not yet advised of rendering their Judgment of and upon the Premises, a Day is therefore given to the Parties aforesaid before the Lord the King at Wellminster, until in the Novembris of the Holy Trinity, &c. At which-said Day before the said Lord the King at Wellminster, came the Parties aforesaid by their Attorneys aforesaid, on which having sworn, and by the Court of the Lord the King now here, fully understood all and singular the Premises, and duly examined and viewed as well the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, and the Judgment given upon the same, as the Causes and Matters by the said A. B. above aforesaid for Error; for that it appears to the Court of the Lord the King here, that neither in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, nor in the rendering of the Judgment aforesaid, there is any Thing vicious or deficien, and that that Record was in nothing errored, it is considered, that the Judgment aforesaid shall in all Things be affirmed, and stand in all Force and Effect, notwithstanding the said Causes and Matters aforesaid for Error aforesaid: And further it is considered by the Court of the Lord the King now here, that the said C. D. shall recover against the said A. B. ten Pounds, as adjudged to the same C. D. by the Court of the Lord the King here, according to the Form of the Statute in the Life Case lately made and provided, for his Costs, Charges and Damages which he hath aforesaid for the Delay of Execution of the Judgment aforesaid, on Presence of the Prosecution of the Writ of Error aforesaid; and that the said C. D. may have thereupon Execution, &c.

If the Judgment be reversed, then it is thus:

FOR that it appears to the Court of the Lord the King now here, that in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, and also in giving the Rendering of the Judgment aforesaid it is manifestly errored; it is considered, that the Judgment aforesaid for that Error, and others in the Record and Proceeds aforesaid, shall be reversed, annulled, and stand for nothing alleged. And that the said A. B. shall be referred to all Things, which he hath by Occasion of the judgment aforesaid.

And there are two kinds of Ejeques; voluntary and negligent: Voluntary is when one arrests another for the Crime of felony, and lets him be Con- fined; in which case the Party that Permits the Ejeque is eternally guilty of the Crime committed, and must an- swer for it: Negligent Ejeque is when one is arrested, and another negligently permits the Will of him so arrested to be served upon such Person as hath arrested him, or had him in Custody; and is not pursed by Sixth Suit, and taken again before the Party purusing hath lost Sight of him. Comp. T. 36. And for their negligent Ejecques, the Gaoler, &c. is to be fi- ned. If an Officer who hath the Charge of a Person who is guilty of a capital Crime, doth knowingly give him Liberty, with an Intent to save him from Trial, &c. he is guilty of a voluntary Ejecque. Clo. Car. 492. S. P. C. 53. One negligent Ejecque will not amount to a For- feiture of a Gaoler's Office, as one voluntary one will; but many negligent Ejecques will do it: And the Fine for suffering a negligent Ejecque of a Peron arrested, was 211. for 100l. and in oth- er Cases at the Discretion of the Court. 3 Lev. 288. 4 Lev. 81. A Gaoler cannot excuse himself by Killing a Prisoner, tho' he could not possibly retake him; but shall be fined for the negligent Ejecque, and because the publick Justice is not so well satisfied by such a Killing. 2 Haw. 131. As unanimously permitting the Ejeque out of Prion, is Felony; so is the Breaking of a Prison by a Prisoner and ejecqing: If one be committed only on Susception of Felony, if a Felony is done, it is Fel- ony to break the Prison and make an Ejecque, though the Party is innocent. But if any one by the General Authority which the Law gives him arrests an innocent Person, such Person may excuse him- self. 2 Inf. 97a. 3 Inf. 221. H. P. C. 109. And a Man must be committed to Prison by lawful Min- timus, or Breach of Prison and Ejecque is not Felony. If a Party is committed for Treason, to break Prison and Ejecque is but Felony; but if a Prisoner let our Tractors, it will be Treason. H. P. C. 109. 2 Inf. 590. Where one is imprisoned for Petit Larceny, or Killing a Man in Defending, &c. to break Prison and Ejecque is not Felony. And if a Prisoner be set free, not by the Privity of the Prisoner, he may break Pri- son for the Safety of his Life. 2 Inf. 590. A Gaoler refusing to receive a Person arrested by the Conliable for Felony, whereby he is let go, is guilty of an Ejecque: But there must be an actual Arreth, which Arreth must be justifiable, to make an Ejecque; for if it be a sup- pos'd or Conclusive, the Party committed, and the Party is neither indicted nor appealed, &c. it is no Ejecque to suffer a Person to go at large. Fiz. Coram. 214. If a Prisoner arrest another for Susception of Felony, is he to deliver him to a publick Officer, who ought to have the Cuffydo of him? if he let him go, will it be an Ejecque? 2

Haw. 138. And if no Officer will receive him, he is to deliver him to the Township where Arrested; or get him bailed; a mere private Man knows B. to have committed Felony, and thereupon arrerst him, he is lawfully in Custody of A. 'till he be discharged, by delivering him to a Conliable or common God; and therefore if he voluntarily suffer such Person to go, tho' he were no Officer, nor B. indicted, it is Felony in A. But 'tis otherwise if he never takes him nor attempts it, and lets him go. 1 Hale's His. P. C. 594. Judicis of Peace in their Suisicutia judicato, to inquire of Ejecques of Persons arrested, and imprisoned for Felony. Star. 1 R. 3. c. 5. To bail a Person not arrestit by Law is a negligent Ejecque. Plowd. 476. And it is said that the Crime is equal in a Justice of Peace, for taking a Felon out of Prision, without Bail or suffering him to go at large without Commitment, &c. where the Prisoner compleatly the Felony, as it is in the Case of a Gaoler's permitting an Ejecque. Dal. 582. A late Statoque ordinates, that Per- sons who in any ways still a Prisoner, committed for Treason, or Felony, to attempt his Ejecque from any God, shall be adjudged guilty of Felony and be transferred; and if the Prisoner be committed for any other Crime, or upon Process for 100l. Debt, &c. the Offenders are liable to Fine and Imprisonment. 2 Co. 2. c. 31. And where any Person conveys any Arms, Instrument or Dignity, to a Prisoner in God for his Life, in order to the Execute or try, let's likewise Felony and Transportation. Also if one still any Prisoner to go to any Conliable, or other Officer or Peron in whose Custody he is, by Vic- tory of a Warrant of Commitment for Felony, it is declared to be the like Offence. Ibid. In Geo. III. the Sheriff is to answer for the Ejecque of his Bailiff; as the Bailiff is his Servant; and Action of the Case lies against the Sheriff for an Ejecque on the motion of the Processe, because the Plaintiff is prejudiced in his Suit by it. Clo. 623, 625. 1 Danw. Abr. 183. But if he be set free by Bail before brought to God, the Sheriff is not chargeable. Though if a Defendant in Execu- tion is refused, the Sheriff is liable for the whole Debt; and is to have his Remedy against the Receiver. 2 Clo. 440. Dyer 241. Where a Peron is in Custody for the Debt of another, to the Sheriff, it is meane Process, and being outlawed after Judgment at the Suit of another, the Judgment Creditor brings a Warrant on a Copias Ungatim, and delivers it to the Sheriff's Officer, who has the Prison in Custody; if the Officer afterwards permits the Peron to go to, though he refuse to execute the Warrant, the Sheriff is charge- able in Action of the Case. 2 Rep. 89. And the Sheriff shall not take Advantage of Error in foisting out a proper Process where a Peron is arrested, &c. As if a Ca. fe. issue after a Year and a Day, without foisting out a Scire facias, this Error will not excuse the Sheriff in an Ejecque. 2 Clo. 288. Salt. 273. But though a Sheriff may not take Advantage of an erroneous Pro- cess, yet he shall of a void Process, on which it is no Ejecque to let a Prisoner go. It will not be a good Plea, for the Sheriff in Action upon an Ejecque, that the Pris- oner refused himself, &c. for the Sheriff may com- mand the Ps. Gensius to help him: But this has be- en holden to be only in Cases of Executions. 6 Rep. 51. 1 Clo. 868. Where two Perso are in Execution for Debt, if one of them ejecque, Debt will lie. 34 H. 6. And if any Prisoner who was in Execution, this Creditor may retake him by Copias ad Saffici, or bring Action of Debt on the Judgment or a Sci. facis against him, &c. 1 Pent. 263. Salk. 150. Execution. 5 Litt. p. 356. 2 Lev. 211. If a man "eapes", with the Convent of the Goulter in a Civil Case, he may be "eaped". By Act it is said the Execution is dicharged, so as the Party may not be taken again, or judg'd in Execution by Law. Hel. 202. And if he be allowed to go with a Keeper into another county, it is such an Eapse as discharges, that if he be there detained, out of the Power of the Sheriff, it will be false Imprisonment. Phlew. 36. Dy. 1666. If in any place, where a Person is permitted to escape by the Sheriff, he may be taken by the Party; for it may be the Sheriff is insufficient to answer. 5 Vent. 4. If the Plaintiff permit the Prisoner to escape, he cannot afterwards retake him; and the Body and Goods, &c. of a Convent are taken in Execution upon a Statute-Merchant, if the Convent agree that he shall go at large, it is a Dibcharge of the whole Execution, and the Convent shall have his Lands again: "If otherwise if the Sheriff had permitted him to escape, the Execution on the Lands would not be dicharged. 5 Nut. 737. For if an Eapse be an Eapse by the Plaintiff's Convent, when he did not insist on it, the Law is hard that the Debt should be thereby dicharged; as where one was in Execution in B. R. and some Propositions were made to the Plaintiff in behalf of the Prisoner, seeing there was some Likelihood of an Accommodation, the Plaintiff consented to a Meeting in a certain Place in London, and defined the Prisoner that may there, who came accordingly; This was held to be an Eapse, with the Plaintiff's Consent, and he could never after be in Execution at his Suit for the same Money. 5 Nut. 130. When a Prisoner is permitted to escape from the Custody of the Goulter, he may be retaken: And the Sheriff, &c. may pursue a Person escaping into that or any other County; and if he be restored to the Sheriff after being set free, the Action before brought, it shall excuse the Sheriff, for there the Prisoner shall be said to be in Execution still. 5 Rep. 44. Where the Plaintiff is to answer the Debt and Damages for such Eapse, he shall have his Goods, &c. by the Force and Remedy against the Party escaping and may take him at any Time and place, and imprison him, 'till he hath satisfied the Sheriff as much as he hath paid to the Plaintiff: He may bring an Action against the Cafe against the Prisoner, and so relieve himself. 5 Rep. 52. 3 Rep. 52. 3 Eliz. 393. It hath been adjudged no Eapse to let a Prisoner go where the Sheriff hath the Prisoner in Custody, if he be before the Return of the Writ: 'Tis sufficient if the Officer have the Return of the Writ, &c. Mot. 250. 1 Salk. 401. 2 Natzl. 790. Yet if it hath been held, that where a Habens Corpus is granted to bring a Person into Court, if the Sheriff on the Way let him go at large in the County, or carry him round about a great Way, &c. it will be an Eapse. 1 Mot. 116. And an Eapse in one Place is an Eapse in all Places; for a Prisoner being once Eaped, and at large, it shall be intended he is confined to no Place, so that for Eapse Action may be brought against the Prisoner in any County. 5 Litt. p. 357. Action of Eapse will not lie against the Executive or Administrator of a Sheriff, &c. for an Eapse, because it was personal, and Moritur cum PerseGo: But it may be otherwise if there be a Judgment recovered against the Sheriff before he died. Dy. 322. A Prisoner in Execution should not be allowed to go out of the Gaol; if for he goes out, though he returns again, it is an Eapse. 3 Rep. 41. 41. 2 Inst. 124. If a Sheriff or Gaoler make a Prisoner in Execution to go abroad, unless it be by Licence of the Lord Chief Justice, and of the Plaintiff; this will be an Eapse in Law, although he come to Prison again. 5 Nut. 367. And yet in London, by special Command, there, in some Cafes the Prisoner may go abroad with his Keeper, and it will be no Eapse. Vide See Hel. 202. Where the Justice of the Court, and Plaintiff in the Suit, agree that the Prisoner shall be at Liberty, and he go out and return at his Time; it is not Eaped. But he is within the Sheriff's Convent. Dy. 275. If a Plaintiff by Word Licence the Sheriff to deliver the Prisoner, no Action will lie for this an Eapse. 27 H. 8. 24. If the King, or any great Man require a Sheriff, &c. to set his Prisoner at Liberty, or threaten him if he do not; if he do accordingly, it will be an Eapse in him. Dy. 278. 279. But where there is no good Imprisonment at the Time of the Eapse, as if a Man be imprisoned by a Court that hath not Power to imprison him, &c. there can be no Eapse. 14 H. 7. 1. Dy. 66, 356. 2 Inst. 235. A Plaintiff having Judgment, it was ruled that the Defendant should pay so much Money, before such a Day, and if he failed, then the Plaintiff to take him in Execution, on Failure of Payment, was taken, and then fed an Anna Quaestor in the Countrie, where on a Supplication he had an Indulgence and Supplication, and was bailed and set at large of the Plaintiff not being paid his Debt: As this was done after Judgment and Execution, it was said to be an Eapse in Law. Ejfectavit. His name was used for what comes by Chance or Accident. Casan.

Ejfectavit. Ejfectavit, from the Fr. Efjetheir, i. e. Antecedent. Signify any Land or Tenements that unfa- fully fall to a Lord in his Heir, by Way of Forfeiture; or by the Death of his Tenant, leaving no Heir general or of Special. Magus. Chart. cap. 31. Ejfectavit is said of the Places of a Covert, in which the King, or other Lord, hath Ejfectus of his Tenants. Broth. l. 8, tit. 2, cap. 2. And it is likewise applied to a Writ, which lies where the Tenant having an Estate in Fee-fimple in any Lands or Tenements holden of a superior Lord, dies without Heir; in which Case the Lord brings this Writ against him that is in Possession of the Lands after the Death of his Tenant, and shall thereby recover the same in Lieu of his Services. F. N. B. 144. In our Laws Ejfectivus were of two Sorts: 1. Regal, Those Forfeitures which belong to our Kings by the ancient Rights and Privileges of the Crown. 2. Feudal, which accrue to every Lord of the Free as well as the King, by Reson of his Seignories. Where a Perfon commits Treason, his Estate shall be forfeited and be forfeited to the King: And when a Tenant in Fee Simple committeth Felony, and is attainted, the King shall have Year, Day, and Wale in his Hands, (or rather Year and Day in lieu of Wale) and afterwards it comes to the Lord by Ejfectavit. And the Lord may compound with the King, and have the Estate presently. 3. 2. 1. It has been held, that a Saving against the Corruption of Blood in a Statute concerning Felony, doth by Consequence save the Lord to the Heir, so as not to ejftar but because the Ejfectavit to the Lord for Felony is only pro defectis Tenentis, occa- sioned by the Corruption of Blood: But it hath been adjudged, that a Saving against the Corruption of Blood in a Statute concerning Treason, doth not save the Land to the Heir for in for a Statistical Treason the Land goes to the King by Way of immediate Forfeiture. 3. Jef. 47. 1 Salk. 85. Inheritance of Things not lying in Tenure, as of Rents, Commons, Ctf. cannot ejftar to the Lord, because there is no Tenant; nor deeded, by Reson the Blood is corrupted: Though they are forfeited to the King by an Attainer of Treason, and the Proofs of them shall be also forfeited to the King on Attainer of Felony, during the Life of the Offender; and after his Death his Sale the Inheritance shall be extinguished. 2 Harel. P. C. 449. A Per- fon is freed of Lands in Fee holden of a Lord, his Son is attainted of Treason, and the Father dieth, the Land shall ejftar to the Lord, and not to the King. 2. So the King could not dispose of the Land, because the Son who was attainted never had any Thing to forfeit: But the King had the Ejfectavit of all the Land's whereas the Perfon attainted of High Treason was free to dispose of it. 1 Jef. 47. Husband and Wife, Tenants in special Tail; the Husband is attainted of Treason and executed, leav- ing Issue; on the Death of the Wife the Lands shall ejftar, because the Issue in Tail ought to make his Conveyance by Father and Mother, and from the Father he cannot by Resale of the Attainer. Dyer 322. If Tenant in Fee-Simple is attainted of Treason, and executed, upon his Death the Fee is vested in the King, without Office found; yet he must bring a Special Faculty against the Tenants: Lands shall never ejftar to a Lord of whom they are holden, until Office found. 3 Rep. 10. Ejfectavit, fel- dam happens to the Lord for Want of an Heir to an Edible; but when it doth, before the Lord enters, the Homage Jury of the Lord's Court ought to pre- sent it. 1 Jef. 35. Land shall ejftar to the Lord, where Heirs are born after Attainer of Felony. 5 Rep. 40. Though if the King pardons a Felon before Conviction, the Lord shall not have his Lands by Ejfectavit for the Lord hath no Title before At- tainer. Dyer 87. 2 Cliff. Abr. 744. If on Appeal of Death of other Felony, Proces is awarded against the Party, and hanging the Proces he conveys away the Land, and after is outlawed, the Conveyance is voided; and it doth not deter the Lord of his Ejfectavit: But if where a Perfon is indited of Felony, hanging the Proces against him, he conveys away his Land, and afterwards is outlawed, the Conveyance shall not prevent the Lord of his Ejfectavit. 1 Jef. 13. See Corruption of Blood.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriffs of S. Greeting: Command A. B. that he reader is C. D. Esquire, twelve Acres of Land, with the Appurtenances, in, &c. which W. B. of him held, and which the said C. D. ought to revert and come as his Ejfectavit, be- cause the said W. B. died without Heir; Or, because the said W. B. had Felony committed, for which he was executed, or outlawed, &c. as be faith. And unles, &c.

Ejfectavus (Ejfectavit) Was an Officer appointed by the Lord Treasurer, &c. in every County, to make Impressions of Titles by Ejfectavit; which Impressions were to be taken by good and lawful Men of the County, impanneld by the Sheriff. Star. 14 Ed. 3. c. 8. 34. Ed. 3. c. 15. 8 H. 6. c. 16. Those Ejfectavit found Offices after the Death of the King's Tenants, who held by Knight-Service, or otherwise of the King: and certified their Inquisitions into the Eschequer, and Findenhour called them Officers of Record. F. N. B. 100. No Ejfectavit could continue in his Office above one Year: And whereas before the Statute of Wemans. 1. cap. 24. Ejfectavit, Sheriffs, &c. would feite in the King's Hands the Freehold of the Subjects, and thereby deflect them; by this Act it is provided that no Seize can be made of Lands or Tenements into the King's Hands, before Office found. 2 Jef. 105. And no Lands can be granted before the King's Title is found by Inquisition. 18 H. 6. c. 6. The Office of Ejfectavit is an ancient Of- fice, and was formerly of great Use to the Crown; but having its chief Dependence on the Court of Wards, which is taken away by Act of Parliament, it is now in a Manner out of Date. 2 Jef. 237. There was an ancient Office called Ejfectavit of the Towns. Claus. Ed. 5. m. 7.

Estate. (Extant from the Fr. Efs, a Shield) is a Kind of Knight-Servitce, called Service of the Shield, whereby the Tenant was bound to follow his Lord into the Wars at his own Charge. Also it has been sometimes taken for that Duty or Payment, which they who held Lands under this Tenure, were bound to make to the Lord, when they neither went to the Wars, nor provided any other in that Place, being in Lies of all Services. And sometimes Estate signified a reasonable Aid, demanded and levied by the Lord of his Tenants who held in Knight-Servitce, &c. Stat. 23 Car. 2. st. 24. F. N. 8. See Country.

Egipetis, (Expiation, from Expiare) Are the Pre- dixis which Ground or Land yield; as the Hay of the Meadows, the Heritage of the Pasture, Corn of the Arabie; Rent and Services, &c. And of an Ad- vovnion, the Taking of Tithen in Grains by the Par- fon; of Wood, the Selling of Wood; of an Orchard, the Fruits growing there: of a Mill, the Taking of Toll, &c. These and such like lies are termed Egipetis. And it is observed, that in a Writ of Right of Land, Advovnion, &c. the Demandant ought to allege in his Count, that he or his Ancestors took the Egipetis of the Thing in Demand; otherwise the Plead- ing will not be good. Egipetis, (from the Fr. Efs, and the Lat. Efiges, in Greek Efiges, which signifies an Hides of which Shields were anciently made and afterwards covered: For here in the Time of the Saxons, the Shields had a Covering of Leather; so that an Egipetis was original- ly who attending a Knight in Time of War, did carry his Shield, whereas he was called Egipetis in French, and Scipio or Attegare, (i.e. Armour-bearer) in Latin. Hence faith, that thioe which the French call Egipetis, were a military Kind of Vassals, hav- ing Jus Sciat, use. Thote to whom this Title is now of Right due, are all the younger Sons of Noblemen, and the eldest Sons of younger Sons; the eldest Sons of Knights, and their eldest Sons; the Officers of the King's Courts and of the King's Household; Counsellors at Law; Justices of Peace, &c. But these latter, are Egipetis in Repute- tion, and he who is a Justice of Peace, has this Title only during the Time he is in Commission, and no longer, if he be not otherwise qualified to bear it. A Sheriff of the County being a Superior Officer, has the Title of Egipetis during his Life; in Respect of the great Trust he hath in the Commonwealth. The chief of some Ancient Families are Egipetis by Precedi- tion; and in last Acts of Parliament for Parliament, many wealthy Perfons (commonly reputed to be such) were rank'd among the Egipetis of this Kingdom. Effate. (Fr. E发布了, Lat. Juxta) Signifies that Title or Interest which a Man hath in Lands or Tenements, &c. And Effases are acquired divers Ways, viz. by Deed, by Grant, to the Son, &c. Grant from one Man to another; by Gift or Per- chase, Deed or Will; And a Fee-imple is the largest Effate that can be in Law. 1 Lid. 341. Effates are Resolved into Two Classes, of Goods or Chattels; or where they are distinguished into Fee-lands, that descendent to the Heirs, and Chattels which go to the Executors; Some Effates are made by the Words of Deeds, and others made by Law, as an Effate in Frank marriage given to a Cousin, makes a Gift in Tail. Allso there is an Effate that is implied, where Tenant in Tail bargains and sells his Land to a Man and his Heirs; by this he hath an Effate defeasible, and determinable upon the Death of the Tenant in Tail. Ca. Litt. 10 Rep. 97. If I give Lands in Dole to a certain Person for Life, and after to his Heirs or right Heirs, he hath the Fee simple; and if it be to Heirs Male, he will have an Effate tail. 1 Rep. 165. A Man grants to one of his Heirs and Alligees for his Life, and a Year after this is an Effate for Life only. 39 E. 3. 25. Lid. 46. If a Lease be made, and not expressed for what number of Years, it is an Effate at Will. The Word Effate is generally in Deeds, Grants, and Conveyances, comprehends the whole in which the Party hath an Interest or Property, and will pass the same. 50 Lid. 46. A Perion in Partnership 1 Rep. 45. A Person in Partnership with another Person by his Effate gave it to his two Daughters, and their Heirs, one of them married, and then died: And it being a Que-them two, and the Heirs of one of them; this will be an Ejfflop to the other to demand Fee-simple according to the Deed; for the Fine shall ensure as a Release. 6 Rep. 7.
7. If a Tenant in Tail suffers a Reponcy, that his Aijfflop may avoid; he himself shall be ejected and concluded by it, and may not demand the Land against his own Recovery. 8 Rep. 3. The taking of a Lease by Indemnity of a Man's own Land, whereof he is freed in Fee, is an Eajfflop to claim the Fee during the Term. Moore, ca. 325. An. 121. A Lease is made to one Man for eighty Years, and then the Renter, if the Deed be not indented to his Land in Deed, this second Lease may be good by Way of Eajfflop:
And if the first determine by Surrender, Forfeiture, &c. the second Letter will have the Land. But if the second Letter be by Deed Poll, it will be void.

Evidence, (Evidentia) Is used in the Law for some Proof, by Testimony of Men on Oath, or by Writings or Records. It is called Evidence, because there by the Point in Issue in a Caufe to be tried, is to be made evident to the Jury for Prohibitions about Evidentia and Evidence, &c. 2 Digl. 115. The Evidence to a Jury ought to be upon the Oaths of Witnese or upon Matters of Record, or by Deed proved, or other like authentical Matter. 1 Leath. Atr. 547. And Evidence is no other than Testimony of Witnese, and all other Proofs to be given and produced to a Jury for the Finding of any Issue joined between Parties. 1 Jef. 283. As to Proof by Witnese, they cannot testify a Negative; and the Common Law required no certain Number of Witnese, though they are required by Statute in some Cases: The Testimony of one single Evidence is sufficient for the King in all Causes, except for Treason; where there must be two Witnese to the same Overt Act, &c. In all other criminal Matters, one Evidence is enough; and to a Jury one Witnese is sufficient. 3 Jef. 30. Nich. 21 Cas. D. R. 343. 71h. 145. Stamhappens, A Word said anciently for Exchanges, and Land; But Court supposes it to be such as we now call Brothers, that deal upon the Exchange between Merchants.

Exchange, (Excepts) is a Stop or Stay to an Action; and divided to Dilatory and Preatory. Bract. lib. 5. tract. 5. In Law, Proceedings, it is a Denial of a Matter alleged in Bar to the Action; And in Chancery it is what is alleged against the Sufficiency of an Answer, &c. The Council in a Cause are to take all their Exceptions to the Record at one Time; and before the Court hath delivered any Opinion therein. 1 Litt. Abr. 459. And when an Exception to an Indictment for Treason, &c. Exception is to be taken for Misnaming, false Latin, &c. before any Evidence is given in Court; or the Indictment shall be good. Star. 7 Aug. 1690. by a General Indictment. Because that the particular Crime is excepted; if a Person be attained, &c. of that Offence, he shall have no Benefit of the Pardon. 6 Rep. 13. 2 Ninf. Abr. 751. And when the Pardon is with an Exception as to Persons, the Party who pleads it ought to shew, that he is not any of the Parties excepted. 1 Lew. 26. A negative Exception, may not only be taken to ensure the same except as an Exception for an Exception in its Nature but is a Denial of what is taken to be good by the other Party, even in Point of Law or Pleading. And Exceptions must be Expressed.

Exchange to a Suit, &c. As one of the Parties in a Suit, for the Insufficiency of the Evidence on the other Side, doth offer to demurr to the same, and the Court will not agree to it, then the Court ought upon Request to seal a Bill of Exceptions tendered to them in Writing, which upon a Writ of Error may be heard. 2 Inq. 450. And when a Suit is in any Court, if the Plaintiff or Defendant alledge any Exception to the Judge's Opinion, praying that the same might be allowed; if the Judge refuseth it, the Party making the Exception is to write in and require the Judge to hear the same; which being done, the Bill produced sealed in Court, the Judge that sealed it shall appear at a certain Day to confess or deny his Seal: and if the Seal be not denied, Proceedings are had to Judgment according to the Exception. Star. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 51. 2 Inq. 1 Litt. Abr. 232. The Exceptions ought to be put in Writing (except Caria), in the Presence of the judge who tried the Case, and signed by the Counsel on each Side; and then the Bill must be drawn up and tendered to the Judge that tried the Cause, to be sealed by him; and when signed, there goes out a Sive feison to the same Judge as coperimentum scriptum, and that is made Part of the Record, and the Return of the Judge with the Bill it must, be entered on the Unite Rolls; and if a Writ of Error be brought, it is to be returned as Part of the Record. 1 Nell. Abr. 372. If a Bill of Exceptions is drawn up and tendered to the Judge for Sealing, and he refuses to do it, upon Petition to the Lord Chancellor, he will grant a Writ for that Purpose. These Bills of Exception are to be brought before a Verdick given, and extend only to Civil Actions, not to Criminal. 6 Ed. 5. 1 Litt. 288.

Exception in Writs and Exhanges, Keeps the Things from passing thereby, being a Saving out of the Act, and the same have not been granted; 1

But it is to be a particular Thing out of a general One, as a Room out of an House, a Ground out of a Manor, Timber out of Land, &c. And it must not be of the Thing expressly grasped in a Deed of Gift; it must be of what is irrecoverable, and not inopinably incident to the Grant. 1 Nell. 47. 1 Lew. 287. 4 Ed. 244. Where an Exception goeth to the whole Thing grasped or omitted, the Exception is void. 6 Ed. 6. A Man makes a Lease of a Manor, excepting all Courts, &c. The Exception is void as to the Courts; for having leased the Manor, it cannot be sold without Courts. 1 Lew. 120. Nell. 820. A Lease was made of all a Man's Lands in L. excepting his Manor of H. and he had no Lands in L. but the said Manor, it was adjudged that the Manor passed, and that the Exception was void. 1 Lew. 170. 2 Nell. Abr. 748. A Lease of an House and Shops, except the Shops; though this may extend to other Shops, 'tis void as to the Shops belonging to the House delivered, because 'tis repugnant to the Lease. Dyer 265. If an Exception crosses the Grant, or is repugnant to it, the same is void: And if there be a Saving or Exception out of an Exception, that Exception is void. 6 Ed. 6. It may make a particular Thing as if never excepted; as if a Lease be made of a Rectory, excepting the Parsonage-House, flying to the Leifie a Chamber; this Chamber not being excepted but by the Lease for the House of the Rectory. 1 Lew. 370. 4 Ed. 572. Oswe 20. By Exception of Trees, the Soil is not excepted, but only sufficient Nutriment for the Trees; For the Leifie shall have the Fruits growing under them though the Leifie shall have all the Benefit of the Trees, Milk, Fruit, &c. and the Trees are Parcel of the Inheritance. 1 Litt. 759. But it has been adjudged, that by an Exception of Woods, Underwood and Coppices, that the Soil of the Coppices is excepted. 1 Litt. 759. 1 Nell. Abr. 751.

Lei. 759. This Exception is in a Suit, for the Insufficiency of the Evidence on the other Side, doth offer to demurr to the same; and the Court will not agree to it, then the Court ought upon Request to seal a Bill of Exceptions tendered to them in Writing, which upon a Writ of Error may be heard. 2 Inq. 450. And when a Suit is in any Court, if the Plaintiff or Defendant alledge any Exception to the Judge's Opinion, praying that the same may be allowed; if the Judge refuseth it, the Party making the Exception is to write in and require the Judge to hear the same; which being done, the Bill produced sealed in Court, the Judge that sealed it shall appear at a certain Day to confess or deny his Seal; and if the Seal be not denied, Proceedings are had to Judgment according to the Exception. These Bills of Exception are to be brought before a Verdick given, and extend only to Civil Actions, not to Criminal. 6 Ed. 5. 1 Litt. 288.

Exchange, (Exccambium or Cambium) Signifies generally as much as permutatión with the Civilians; as the King's Exchange, which is the Place appointed by the King for Exchange of Plate or Bullion for the King's Coin, &c. These Places have been divers heretofore; but now there is only one, viz. the Mint in the Tower. Stat. H. 6. & c. 4. By B. 3. c. 7. Exchanges are to be kept where the King pleases; And every Man may exchange Gold for Silver, or Silver for Gold, &c. but none shall take Profit of Money exchanged, but the King's Exchangers, on Pain of Forfeiture. 25 Ed. 9. c. 12. Afo none shall give or take any more for Exchange of Coin than the true Value, under the Penalty of Forfeiture the Money exchanged, or to be fined and imprisoned; &c. 2 Ed. 6. c. 19. There is a Real Exchange of Merchants in London: And Exchange among Merchants, is a Commerce of Money, or a Bartering or Exchanging of the Money of one Country for that of another: Money in this Sense, is either real or imaginary: Real, any real Species current in any Country as a certain Piece, at which it passes by the Authority of the State, and is of its own intrinsic Value: And by imaginary Money, is understood all the Denominations made USe of to express any Sum of Money, which is not the just Value of any real Species. Exchange for Money used in England ought to be for the parte, according to Value for Value: And our Exchange is grounded on the Weight and Fineness of our own Money, and the Weight and Fineness of that of the Country and Footman in several Standards, proportionable in their Valuation: which being truly and justly made, reduces the Price of the Exchange by Money of any Nation to Country to a

Certainly. But this Court of Exchange is of late abused, and Money is become a Merchandize, that rises and falls in its Price in regard to the Plenty and Scarcity of it. But at London, all Exchanges are made upon the Pound Sterling of 20 s. In the Low Countries, France and Germany, upon the French Crown, Spain and Italy, upon the Ducata; and at Florence, Piastre, and other Parts in the Straights, by the Dollar and Florin. So Bill of Exchange.

Exchanges of Goods and Merchandize, were the original and natural Way of Commerce, preced-ting to Buying; for there was no Buying till Money was invented; though in Exchanging, both Parties are as Buyers and Sellers, and both equally warrant.

Exchange of Lands, Is a mutual Grant of equal Inheritance in Lands or Tenements, the one in Exchange for the other: and is used peculiarly in our Common Law in A. to another, in Exchange for the Manor of B. which he is to have by Deed after his Father's Death; this is void, because it is not in him. 1 Rep. 50, 3 B. &amp; C. 4. 4. 10. But an Exchange may be made to take Effect in Future, as well as in the Party's own Life: for if for that the Feast of Easter A. B. shall have for Lands in D. in Exchange for his Lands in E., this is good. Perk. 7. 2. 1. But Lands in different Countries; and 'tis said of Lands in Ireland, for Land in England, may be good. Lat. 234. By a Special Kind of Agreement, an Exchange may be of one equal Effect in each Party. That Inde- diligence and Warrant, in Exchange, run to the Parties in Privy; not to an Assignee, &c. And if after two have exchanged Lands, one of them Relates to the other the Warrant in Law: it will not defeat the Exchange. 4 Rep. 127. Reid. Abr. 815. If two Parties by one instrument agree to exchange their Benefices, and in order thereto reign them into the Hands of the Ordinary, such Exchange being executed on both Parts, is good; and each may ignore the other’s Living: But the Bishops may reign them again to each Living; and if they refuse to do it, or the Ordinary will not admit them respectively, then the Exchange is not executed; and in such Case either Clerk may return to his former Living, even though one of them should be admitted, instructed and indulted to the Benefice of the other: which is expected in an Exchange itself, and the Prerogative usually added to it. Rights Clerg. 2 Ca. Rep. 74.

Exchequer, (Scaccarium, from the Fr. Bocqhequer, I.e. Abaco, tabula hybra, or from the Grm. skatia, viz. Thymara) is an ancient Court of Record, wherein all Causes touching the Revenue and Rights of the Crown are heard and determined: and here the Revenues of the Crown are received. Camden in his Br.
17. 33. This Court took its Name à Tabula ad quam appelloh, the Cloth which covered it being party-colored, or exchequer: We had it from the Normans, as appears by the Great Calendar, and it is described by the Abbé of Noyon, one of the High Jus ticiers, to whom it appertained to amend that which the inferior Jus ticiers had misdone, and un advisedly judged, and to do right as all from the Prince’s Mouth. Some Persons think there was a Exchequer under the Anglo-Saxon Kings; but our best Hilarians are of Opinion, that it was erected by King William the First, called the Coqemaker, its Model being taken from the transmarine Exchequer, esta blished in Normandy long before that Time. Ma den’s Hist. Excheq. In the Reign of Henry the First, Son of William the First, there was an Exchequer, which has continued ever since: And the Judges of the Court were at that Time filled Barons Scaccarii, and administered Justice to the Subjects. In ancient Times the Barons of the Exchequer dealt in Affairs relating to the State, or publick Service of the Crown and Realm: And were greatly concerned in the Preservation of the Prerogative, as well as the Revenue of the Crown; for as the Exchequer was the Care of the Treasurer and Barons to be of the Rights of the Crown were no Way invaded. Lex Confini-tiones 156. For the Authority and Dignity of the Court, and to give it a better Title, it was set in the King’s Palace; and the Acts thereof were not to be examined or controlled in any other of the King’s ordinary Courts of Justice: The Exchequer was the great Repository of Records, wherein the Records of the other Courts at Westminster, &c. were brought to be laid up in the Treasury there. And Writs of the Chancery were sometimes made forth at the Exchequer: See Writs of Warrants to the Parliaments, &c.

Ibid. The Exchequer has been commonly held at Westminster, the usual Place of the King’s Ref dence; but it hath been sometimes held in other Places, as at London, &c. And in the Exchequer there are reckoned seven Courts, viz. the Court of pleas; the Court of Accounts; the Court of Receipts; the Court of the Exchequer Cham ber; the Assembly of the Judges of Excheques; &c. for difficult Matters in Law;) the Court of Exchequer Chamber for Errors in the Court of Excheques; for Errors in the King’s Bench; & the Court of Equity in the Common Pleas. 4. Feb. 1194. But ac cording to the usual Division for the Dispar of all common Business, the Exchequer is divided into two Parts: one for Civil Causes, and the other in the judicial Hearing and Deciding of Causes pertaining to the Prince’s Coffers, anciently called Scaccarium Compu trum; the other is the Receipt of the Exchequer, which is properly included in the Receipts and Payment of Money. And it has been observed, that about the Time of the Conquest there was very little Money in Specie in the Realm; for then the Tenants were not allowed to be charged by Receipts for Services: And till the Reign of King Hen. 1. the Receipts or Farms due to the King were generally rendered in Provender and Necessaries for his Houshold; but after the Reign of King Hen. 2. the same were changed into Money; and afterwards in succeeding Times, the Crown Revenue was answered or paid into the Exchequer chiefly in Gold and Silver. Lex Confinientes. p. 208.

By Statute, all Sheriff, Bailiff, &c. are to account in the Exchequer before the Treasurer and Barons: And annual Rolls are to be made of the Proceedings of Inquests and Arrests of those pointed in every County, of Debts due to the King.
51 H. 3. 10. And all Fees of Counties for the whole Year are to be sent into the Exchequer.
1 Ed. 2. 17. Fees in the Exchequer are to be paid in their own Dishes; and there shall be Writs for disharging Persons. Amp. 5. 2. 9. 14.
Any Person to whom Money is due from the Exchequer, having an Order registred for Payment, may sign the same by Indorsement. 19 Car. 2.

brought thither: And the Money in the Receipt is to be kept in Chells under three different Locks and Exchequer, called the Receipt, the Debors of the King, and their Debitors, the King’s Tenants, and the Officers and Ministers of the Court, are privi lged to sue and implied one another, or any Stran ger, and to be sued in the like Actions as are profec ed in the King’s Bench and Common Pleas. The ju dicial Part of the Exchequer is a Court both of Law and Equity: the Court of Common Law is held in the Office of Pleas, after the Court of the Common Law, called Bancroft; and the Plaintiff, defendant, being to sue to be a Tenant or Debtor to the King, or some Way accountant to him; and the leading Process is either a Writ of Subpoeana, or Quo Minos, which goes into Wards, as the Common Pleas does. The Officers of the Common Pleas ought to run except the Copies Ur lagiarnum. The Court of Equity is holden in the Ex chequer Chamber, with the Scaccarii, Cancellarii & Bar couns, but usually before the Barons only, the Law

Excursion, (Excursionis) An Ecclesiastic Censure, by which a Person is excluded from the Communion of the Church, and from the Company of the Faithful. It has been thus defined: Excommunicatio est nihil aliud quam Grafora a Caeso vel "Judicis Exsucitor praestis "et satisfac prorsus-legitima commissio Sacramentum quod incipit hominem. And it is divided into Major and Minor: Minor, quod quam quis a Sacramentum participaretur con- scientia vel fontanae arsorae: Major, qua sum solam a Sacramentum, quem eis Editum comminatus excutiet, et hab emini aetis Legitam narris et divinitisque Venatorum de lev. Excom. 'The Form of an Excommuni- cation was of old: Ambitio Dei Parvis, satisfac- titis et Filii et Spiritus Sancti, et Besti Deo Ger- trici Mari, omniamass Sacerdorum, Excommunicamus, Aramominunam, &c. liddam Sancti Mariae Ex- cussisse Episcopos, &c. Lex. Will. 1. Annus 38 II. 5. Boniface Archbishop of Canterbury, and the other Bishops, with burning Tapers in their Hands, in Wines and Ale before the King, and the other Elates of the Realm, denounced a Cure and Excunchnatment against the Breakers of the Liberty of the Church: And by Stat. 9 H. 3. Bishops may excommuni- cate not only the Eayers of the House of the Church, but also Felons, and other Offenders, &c.

And by the Ecclesiastical Laws, excunchnat- ted Persons are not permitted to have Christian Burial. This Excussion is generally for Contempt in not appearing, or not obeying a Decree. And in other Reflections, the Causes of it are many; as for Masters of Hereby, refusing to receive the Sacrament, or to come to Church; Inconstancy, Adultery, Simony, &c. It is published in the Church, and if the Offender do not submit in forty Days, then the Bishop is to certify the Excussion into the Temporal Courts, setting forth specially the Cause of Excussion, and the Judges may for whether the Ecclesiastical Court hath Cognizance of the Matter; and thereupon the Party may be taken and imprisonment by Virtue of the Writ for having committed a Person to the Episcopal Courts, for the Support of the Church and the Works of God. But the Bishop is not to certify Excussion until the Bishop is beyond Sea, or in Remotis; or except the Certificate is by one that hath ordinary Jurisdiction, &c. And if the Ordinary shall not give a Person for any Thing where he hath not Cognizance of the Cause, the Party may bring an Action against him, or the Ordinary 'said may be indicted. 1 Inst. 44. &c. A Bishop may not be excunchnatned for Matter of Defamation. &c. The Bishop's Certificate, if he die before the Return of the Writ, shall not be received, for his Successor shall certify the Superscription must mention, that the Party lived within the Diocese where he was excunchnatned, and by what Bishop; if it be pleaded, that the Ordinary Excussion must be declared in the Ecclesiastical Court before they proceed, &c. 8 Rep. 68. 2 Cor. 84. 84. 1667. 167. Lat. 114. 1667. 86. In some Cases, e.g. a Writ for a Person by Act of Parliament; but they are to be first convicted of the Offence by Law, and the Conviction is transmitted to the Ordinary, 2 Cor. 84. 1 Foss. 146. It hath been determined that the Spiritual Court hath not Power to meddle with the Body of any Persons whatsoever, or to send Process to take them; for if a Person is excunchnatned, &c. they ought to certify it into the Chancery, whereas the Act is in B. R. and thence it may proceed. 3 Cor. El. 741. An Officer excunchnatned is disabled to do any judicial Act, as to for any Person, as a Law, &c. And if any Person is excunchnatned, &c. he may be fined: But every Excussion doth not disable one; for if a Mayor and Commodity bring an Action, an Excussion of the Mayor shall not disable them, because they are not recovered by Attorney: And if a Bishop is Defendant, an Excussion by that Bishop shall not disable the Plaintiff: And an Excussion against an Appellant, while the Appeal is depending, is void. 1 Inst. 154. 4 Inst. 340. N. and 528. Popish Recruits convicted are disabled as Persons Excommunicated, &c. Stat. 3 Jac. 1.

Excuscipic, Excusso, Is a Writ directed to the Sheriff for apprehending him who stands obstinately Excunchnatned forty Days: for the Contempt of such a Person, not seeking Abolution, being certi- fied or signified into the Chancery; this Writ is for the Imprisoning him without Bail or Mainprize, until he conform. F. N. B. 62. By the Stat. 5 Eliz. c. 23. Writ de excommunicata Capiendo shall issue out of the Courts of Chancery in Term-time, and be returnable in B. R. &c. They shall be brought entered into the King's Bench, and there opened and delivered to the Sheriff, and he shall within twenty Days between the Issue and the Return: And if the Sheriff return a Non satis Inventus on the Writ, a Capio with Proclamation is to be granted for the Party will not answer the Process of the Penalty of 10l. And if he do not appear on the Part.
Capias and Proclamation, a second is to go forth, and he is to forfeit 20 l. &c. But by this Statute, if in the Excommunication Capitulato, the Party excommunicated hath not a different Addition, as to his Place of Dwelling, &c. according to 1 H. 5. c. 6. Or if in the Signification it is not contained, that the Excommunication proceeds upon the original Matter of the Hearsay; for refusing to have a Child baptized, to re- ceive the Sacrament, to come to Divine Service, or for Error in Matters of Religion and Doctrine, for In- consistency, Unworthiness in the Ecclesiasti- cal Courts or Jurisprudence; he shall not incur the Penalties in this Act, for his Contempt in not rendring himself Prisoner upon the Capias, &c. So that the Statute doth not require the Party with Proclamations, and the Penalties in other Cases, besides the ten Cases men- tioned. 2 Inst. 661. And it has been adjudged where a Person hath been excommunicated, and none of those Cases were contained in the Signification, that the Person excommunicated should be discharged of the Penalties; but not of the Excommunication. 3 mod. 83. It has also been held, that for any of the Causes expressed in the Statute, there ought to go a Capias with a Penalty, and be an Addition to the Writ: In other Cases, it is not necessary; and if then the Capias can go, the Court will not discharge the Party, but the Penalty only: But for want of Addition, in Cases where that is required, the Par- ty shall be discharged upon Motion. 1 T. 294, 295.

Excommunication Deliverance, Is a Writ to the Sheriff for Delivery of an excommunicated Person out of Prison, upon Certificate from the Ordinary of his Conformity to the Jurisdiction Ecclesiastical. F. N. B. 63. Reg. Orig. 67. And where a Man is unduly excommunicated, he may be delivered in some Cases by the Writ Nuncupatus Corpus; and sometimes by Pleading, as also sometimes by Prohibition, &c. And on a gen- eral Pardon, the Party may have a Writ to the Bishop to absolve him. 12 Rep. 76. Latt. 207. God. 273. If a Plaintiff in an Action be excom- municated, and after he gets Letters of Absolution; if having them in Court, he may have a Re- summon, &c. upon his Original. 1 Inst. 133. The Writ of Excommunication deliverans runs thus:

George the Second, &c. to the Sheriff of &c. in the Parish of &c. etc. &c. in the Diocese of &c. &c. in the Archdeaconry of &c. in the Hundred of &c. in the County of &c. in the Province of &c. &c. &c. Whereas it hath been proved to us, that you have excommunicated, and do continue excommunicated, to the great injury and scandal of the Church, and do in fact commit, and by your Letters of Absolution or otherwise commit, the said George &c. &c. &c. be absolved, discharged, and delivered, &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c.

Excommunicata Executando, Is a Writ whereby Persons excommunicated, being for their Obedience committed to Prison, and unlawfully delivered, before they have given Caution to obey the Authority of the Church, are commanded to be brought after and imprisoned again. Reg. Orig. 67.

Execution, (Executio) Signifies the last Performance of an Act, as of a Judgment, &c. And is the Obligation to the Performance of any Thing recovered by Judgment of Law. 1 Inst. 289. Sir Edw. Coke, in his Reports, makes two Sorts of Executions; one final, another with a Sum. to End the Execution. An Execution final is that which makes the Benefit of the Defendants Goods, or extends his Lands, and de- vers them to the Plaintiff, which he accepts in Satis- faction, and is the End of the Suit, and all that the Kings Writ requires to be done. The other Writ with a Sum, though it tends to an End, is not a final as in Case of a Capias ad Satisfaciendum, which is not a final Execution, but the Body of the Party is to be taken, to the extent the Plaintiff be forced his Debt, &c. and the Imprisonment of the Defendant not being absolute, but until he do satisfy the same. 6 Rep. 87. A Man can have but one Execution; but it must be intended an Actual Execution with Satisfaction, and the Body of the Defendant is no Satisfaction, only a Pledge for the Debt. 5 Rep. 96. When a Person dies in Execution, it is without Satisfaction; to that the Plaintiff may have a Terr facias against the Goods, orEject against the Lands. Ibid. But where a Person was taken on a Capias Ulgetatem, and died in Prison, the Plaintiff having chosen this Execution, which is the highest in Law; it has been held that the Defendant dying, the Law will adjudge it a Satis- faction. Cro. El. 850. By Statute, if a Person in Execution dies, a new Execution shall issue against the Lands, &c. as if he had never been taken in Execution. 21 Jac. 2. c. 15. If an Execution be executed and filed, the Party can have no other Execution upon that Judgment; but there is no Satisfaction upon one Judgment. 1 Litt. Abru. 545. If the Execution be not returned and filed, another Execu- tion may be had; and if only Part of the Debt be levied on a Terr facias, another Writ of Execution may be ordered for the Restidue thereof. Ibid. But if you once charge the Body of the Defendant in Execu- tion on a Capias Satisfaciendum, you may not have any other Execution against his Goods, &c. except the Defendant make an Ecape, or is privileged, or dies in Execution. Proff. Solv. 248. Though if one take out any Writs in Execution, and they have no Benefit by it, or if they be Elected, he may have other Writs on their Failure. Hob. 57. Where Goods are taken in another County, upon a Terr facias that he hath not any Goods at Law- East, which is true, the Execution shall be set aside. But where a Man is taken upon a wrong Writ of Execu- tion, though it be returned executed; yet because he be in Truth never was in Execution, a Capias shall issue out against him. 9 T. 180, 53. If a Person taken by Ca. fa. ecapes, the Plaintiff may have a new Execution. Cro. car. 174. In Case any Prisoner examined in Execution, hath any Creditor of his whole Suit who stands charged, may reake him by a new Capias ad satisfaciendum, or sue forth any other Kind of Execution, as if the Body of such Prisoner had never been taken in Execution. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 57. Where two are bound jointly and severally, and Judgment is had against both of them, if one in Execution ecapes, the Creditor may take out Execu- tion against the other: But if he goe by Licence of the Creditor, then the other will be discharged. Cro. car. 53. If one in Execution be delivered by Privi- leges of Parliament, when the Privilege ceases, the Plaintiff may sue out a new Execution against him. 1 Jac. 1. c. 13. If where two are jointly bound, they are fuerit severally, and several Judgments are had against them, as an Eject is found against one, and executed and returned, and a Capias satisfaciendum, against the o- ther, he may bring Audita Querela: For there must be the same Kind of Process against both. Cro. Jac. 538. 2 Nelf. Abru. 792. A Defendant cannot plead to any Writ of Execution, (tho' he may in Bar of Execu- tion to a Scire facias brought) but if he hath any Matter after Judgment to discharge him of the Execu- tion, he is to have Audita Querela. 3 Inst. 290. If a Husband and Wife, are taken in Execution for the Debt of the Wife, the Wife shall be discharged; for the Husband being in Execution, the Wife shall not be so liable, and because the Wife hath nothing liable to the Execution, 1 Lev. 51. The Execution of a

Liberate
Liberate is good without being returned; and where a man is taken upon a Ca. 1/a, the Execution is good, though the Goods are not. And so in all Cases where no Iniquity is taken, but only Lands delivered, or Seisin had, &c. which are only Matters of Fact. 4 Rep. 67. 5 Rep. 89. The Writ of Execution at Common Law is good, and can only be a Pi. 63 6 6 6, on the Goods and Chattels; and a Levior facias to levy the Debt or Damages upon the Land and Chattels: Afterwards a Ca. ad satisfac. was given by Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 17. and a more direct Writ of Execution makes the Body liable, and the future Profit of Lands, &c. 1 Inf. 154 2 Inf. 394. The Reason why by the Common Law, where a Subject had Execution for Debt or Damages, he could not save the Body of the Defendant, or his Lands in Execution, (unless it were in special Cases) was, that the Defendant’s Body might be at liberty, not only to follow his own Affairs and Business, but also to serve his King and Country; and taking away the Possession of his Lands would hinder the following of his Husbandry and Tillage, a Inf. 756. Though neither the Body, nor Lands of the Debtor on a Judgment could be taken in Execution at Common Law, but only his Goods; yet in Action of Debt against an Heir, upon the Body of his Ancestor, his Land, or which he is Inherited, was subject to be taken in Execution. 5 Rep. 11. In Action of Debt against the Heir upon his Ancestor’s Bond, there was Judgment by Nil distit, and it was held that the Judgment should have Execution against the Heir, of any of his own Lands or Goods. Dyer 89. 149. Judgment was had against the Heir by Nil distit, and a Scire facias being brought against him to have Execution, he pleaded Rien per Divers; it was adjudged that this Plea was two late after the Judgment by Nil distit, and an Edict to the Writ of Execution against his own Lands. Dyer 344. But there is a Difference between a Scire facias and an Action of Debt brought against an Heir upon a Bond of his Ancestor, in which the Heir is named. Pap. 293. On a Judgment for the Body of an Ancestor, where the Heir hath made over Lands descended to him, Execution may be taken against such Heir to the Valuation of the Lands for the Debt of his Ancestor, as if his own Debt. Stat. 3 & 4 W. 3. & 4. M. c. 14. If a Person have Judgment given against him for Debt or Damages, or to be bound in a Recon- ciliation of the Debt, and his Heir be within Age, no Execution shall be issued of the Lands during the Minority; and against an Heir within Age, no Execu- tion shall be issued upon a Statute Merchant or Staple, &c. 1 Inf. 289. 2 Inf. 675. Writs of Execution bind the Property of Goods only from the Time of the Delivery of the Writs to the Sheriff: who upon Receipt thereof indorsed the Day of the Month when received: But Land is bound from the Day of the Judgment. Stat. 39 Car. 2. c. 3. & 3. Car. 111. 111. Notwithstanding this Statue, if after the Writ delivered to the Sheriff, and before Execution is exe- cuted, the Defendant becomes Bankrupt, that will hinder Execution. 7 Salk. 159. The Plaintiff takes out Execution by Scire facias against the Defendant, all the Goods and Chattels that he had at the Time of the Execution, will be liable to it; And where Debt or Damages are recovered, the Plaintiff shall have Execution of any Land the Defendant had at the Time of the Judgment; not of the Lands he had the Day when the first Writ was purchased. Roll. A. 151. The Sheriff may deliver in Execution all Lands whereof others shall be seised in Trust for him against whom Execution is had, on a Judg- ment. &c. 29 Car. 2. c. 4. & 3. Car. 111. There are Chattels sufficient, the Sheriff ought not to take to the Lands; nor may Things fixed to the Freehold, Goods bought bona fide, Goods pawned, &c. be taken in Execution. 8 Rep. 143. And if a Defendant have his Goods in a Cottage, &c. where the Plaintiff cannot come at them to take them in Execution, it is said no Action will lie against him. 5 Rep. 92. The Sale of Goods for a valuable Considera- tion, before Judgment, and before Execution awarded, is good: And if Judgment be given against a Leafe for Years, and afterwards he faileth the Term before Execution, the Term aforesaid is not liable; and if the Goods are sold by Fraud, and the Plaintiff sells it to another for a valuable Consideration, it is not liable to Execution in the Hands of the second Agressor. 165. 2 Naff. 785. If a Person has a Bill of Sale for any Goods, in Nature of Security for Money, he shall be preferred for his Debt to one who hath obtained a Judgment against the Debtor, that the Goods are sold; for till Execu- tion lodged in the Sheriff’s Hands, a Man is Owner of his Goods, and may Dispose of them as he thinks fit, and they are not bound by the Judgment. 217. 2 Naff. 256. But where a Man generally keeps Pup- pehion of Goods after Sale, it will make the same void against others, by the Statute of fraudulent Con- versations. And where on an Execution the Owner of the Goods is by Agreement bound to Deliver them to the Plaintiff on certain Terms; afterwards another got Judgment against the same Person, and took what he had. Whereof the Goods are made of Lands that the Defendant hath by Pur- chase after the Judgment; although he fell the fame before Execution. Roll. 192. Where there is an Execution in Possession of Goods for Life, or Years, the Plaintiff before Removal of the Goods by the Execution is to pay the Landlord the Rent of the Land, &c. so as there be not above a Year due; and if not the Due, paying a Year’s Rent, the Plaintiff may proceed in his Execution, and the Sheriff shall levy the Rent paid as well as the Execu- tion. Stat. 119. When a Judgment is figged, Execution may be taken out imme- diately upon it, and need not be delayed till it is entered, it being a perfect Judgment of the Court before Execution, &c. The Judgment is perfect by the Court of B. R. if one against whom there is a Judgment of that Court walk in Westminster Hall, they may send an Officer to take him up, if the Plaintiff define it, without a Writ of Execution. Ex- ec. Rep. 52. If Execution be not fixed within a Year and a Day after Judgment, where there is no Fault in the Defendant, as if Writ of Error be not brought, &c. there must be a Scire facias to revive the Judgment, which in that Time may be had without moving the Court; but if it be of longer Standing, the Court is to be moved for it. 179. 2 Inf. 771. But if the Defendant be outlawed after Judgment, (as he may where he cannot be taken in Execution, or hath no Lands or Goods to pay the Debt, &c. when the Suit is commenced by Original) the Plaintiff need not renew the Judg- ment by Scire facias to obtain Execution after a Year. 1 Inf. 295. It hath been adjudged, thus by the Common Law, if a Man was outlawed after Judg- ment in Debt, the Plaintiff was at the End of his Suit, and he could have no other Proces after that persona- bly; but was put to his new Original. &c. 2 Inf. 771. If the Plaintiff does not proceed upon the Scire facias, he may bring an Action upon the Judgment: And after Judgment against the De- fendant, the Action. If there are no Chattels sufficient, the Plaintiff may have Execution against the Defendant, or prosecute his Bail. Common Law Com. 2 placed.

placed 206. If one be arrested upon Process in B. R. and puts in Bail; and afterwards the Plaintiff recovers, and the Defendant renders not himself according to Law to his Bail, the Plaintiff may at his Election take Execution against the Principal, or his Bail; but if he takes the Bail, he shall never afterwards meddle with the Principal. Cr. Cas. 520. Execution may not be forth against the Bail, 'till a Default returned against the Principal. Guld. 175. If one recovers jointly against two in Debt, the Execution must be joint against them: The Court cannot divide an Execution, which is intire, and grounded on the Judgment. Mich. 24 Car. B. R. When judgment is given against three Persons, you cannot take out Execution against one or two. 1 Mod. 2. A Man and his Wife recovered in an Action of Debt against the Defendant 100l. and Damages: then the Wife died, and the Husband prayed to have Execution upon this Judgment: The Court at first inclined, That it should not survive to the Husband, but that Administration ought to be committed of it, as a Thing in Action: but at last, they agreed that the Husband might take out Execution for that by the Judgment it became his Debt due to him in his own Right. Cr. Cas. 608. 1 Mod. Rep. 179. 180. Judgment being given against two, on the Death of the Plaintiff shall have Execution by Suce facies against the Survivor; and though he pleads, that the other Defendant has an Heir alive, 12 Cr. it will not avail him. Raym. 26. And will not have Execution in that Case. But if he give up another Person as his Heir, he may have Execution in that Case. And if a Judgment of Debt, of the Common Pleas be affirmed in B. R. on a Writ of Error. 5 Rep. 88. Though where the Record of a Judgment given in C. R. is removed into B. R. the Party shall not take out Execution upon it, without a Suce facies. But if the Judgment is affirmed there, yet that Court cannot make out Execution upon the Judgment affirmed; but the Record must be annexed to the Record of Execution in the Court of King's Bench, where Execution must be done. 1 Litt. 565. A Capias ad satisfaciendum may be executed upon a Prinler in Prison for Felony; and if he be acquitted of the Felony, the Sheriff is to keep him. 1 Litt. 567. But where a Person is in Prison for criminal Matters, he ought not to be charged with a Civil Action without Leave of the Sheriff, and if he be charged, he shall not be discharged. Raym. 58. Where not allowed, on a Petition, see Parry. 153. A Cap. Ja. will lie against a Man who is outlawed for Felony, and may be taken in Execution at the Suit of a Common Person. Oxon. 69. And if he was taken upon a Capias Ulteriagat, which is at the King's Suit, he shall be in Execution at the Suit of the Party, if he will. Mon. 565. But this is not without Prayer of the Party: And if after a Judgment given, the Judges of their own Heads, or at the Request of any Person, without Prayer of the Plaintiff, do commit the Defendant to Prison; by this he shall not be said to be in Execution upon the Judgment, unless the Plaintiff prays it of Record; or for a Capias ad satisfaciendum, and delivers it to the Sheriff. Dyer 197, 306. Tract. Cent. 165. A Sheriff shall have his Fees for Executions, upon Writ of Capias satisfaciendum for the whole Debt: upon a Fieri facia acquisitum, and on the Seizure of any Estate, or Goods in his Hands, he shall have Fees according to what is levied, and by others for the whole Debt recovered, because the Plaintiff may keep the Land till he is satisfied the intire Debt. 1 Scott. 333. Execution Justified. Is a Writ directed to the Judge of an Inferior Court to do Execution upon a Judgment therein, or to return some reasonable Cause wherein the Executive in the event shall not be returned. If Execution be not done on the first Writ, an Alias shall issue, and a Pharaoh with this Claus, out Cautibis adds habeas quare. 53. If upon this Writ Execution be not done, some reasonable Cause returned why it is delayed, the Party shall have an Attach- tachment against him who ought to have done the Execution returnable in B. R. or C. R. New Nat. Br. 47. If the Judgment be in a Court of Record, this Writ shall be directed to the Justices of the Court where the Judgment was given, and not unto the Officers of the Court for if the Officer will not execute the Writ directed him, nor return as he ought, the Judges of the Court may arrest him. Ibid. One may have a Writ de Executione Judicii out of the Chancellor to execute a Judgment in an Inferior Court, although a Writ of Error be brought to remove the Record, and reverse the Judgment; if he that brings the Writ of Error do not take Care to have the Record transmitted, and the Writ of Error returned up in due Time. 1 Lill. Executrix. (Lat.) Is one that is appointed by a Male Executor to have the Test knet in the Testament, to have the Execution thereof after his Decease, and the Disposing of all the Teller's Substance according to the Tenor of the Will: He is as much a Horat deputatus or Testamentor in the Civil Law, as to Debt, Goods and Chattels of his Teller. Term. de Leg. 3 s. 322. An Executor may be appointed either by express Words, or Words that amount to a direct Appointment; as if the Teller declare by his Will, that a certain Person shall have his Goods to pay Debts and otherwise dispose of. 53. And Executors may be made upon Condition for a fixed Time; or some Part of the Estate. Wood's Abr. 320. A Man that can make an Executor, may either make one, two, three, or more his Executors; and he may appoint one Peron his Executor for one Year, and another Man for another Year, 53. If he make a Will, and appoint an Executor for seven Years; after that the Ordinary may grant Administration of the Goods; so till the Power of Executors taken Place: And where one makes an Executor as to Part of his Estate, he shall die Inter nate as to the Residue. 4 Shep. That he hath no Afficts, and that the Land is of less Value than the Rent, and demand judgment if he ought not to be charged in the Devises auctum: And he cannot waive the Lease without removing the whole Executionship. 1 Salt. 257. It hath been held, that if an Executor alters the Property of Things in the Testator to himself, by paying a Debt to the Value: or by paying the Rent of a Lease, and receiving the Profits, or Parts of the Profits equal to the Rent, the Things and Profits received are his own, 172, 177; 2 Lev. 917. Bargains and Sales of Lands, 's devised to be sold by Executors, shall be as good, if made by each of the Executors only as take upon them the Execution of the Will, and if all the Executors had joined in the Sale; if Lands are thus devised to pay Debt, a surviving Executor may sell them to; But if, that the Executors shall sell the Land, and not of the Land to them so be sold, here being only an Authority, not an Interest, if one dies, the other cannot sell. 1 Lev. 203. White Lands are devised to be sold for paying Debts, Goods in the Hands of an Executor shall not be liable; though in Case of an Administrator it is otherwise. Ibid. Each Executor hath the Whole of the Testator's Goods and Furniture, and any may sell to affix the Whole; But out of them cannot affix or refuse his Interest to the other, if he doth it will be void. If one Executor grants his Part of the Testator's Goods, all parties left in left the other's; each having the Whole, and there are no Parts or Moieties between Executors; Yet one Executor may devise or grant a Moity of the Land, for the whole Term, and so may the other; and this Way they may settle in Friends tried them for a Moity for each. Inventory ought to be made and apprais'd in the Presence of the Executor, by two or more of the Creditors, or two next of Kin to the Teltator; or in Assent of the Testator to pay them once, he will make him effected as to that Rebus to die Intestate; and therefore the Estate granted passed to the Recipient. 1 Litt. Ab. 579. Wood's Int. 575. 4 Ann. in B. R. A Tellator made one Executor who was no Relation to him, and gave him 20l. And the next of Kin, exhaused a Bill in Chancery for the Repudiation of the Estate; and it was determined that the Executor should not have the Rebus, but the next of Kin to the Tellator; But if the Executor had been nearly related to the Tellator, it might otherwise; though in such Case if there were other Relations, in equal Degree, poor and indigent, Equity would give the Rebus Anna, from the Sons. 45 Litt. 82. If there be an express Legacy given to an Executor, and no Devise of the surplus Estate, that shall generally go to the next Kindred according to the Statute of Distributions. And where two Persons were appointed Executors, having Legacies given them; it was decreed in Equity, that the Executors should be only Trustees as to the Rebus of the Estate, after the Legacies paid, which should remain to the Tellator's next of Kin, &c. 2 Vern. Rep. 677, 561. In a Case of the like Nature, the Success of the Tellator's personal Estate, had been adjudged to be in Trust for his Children, though they had particular Legacies.

1 Vern. 473. Abr. Cas. Ep. 244. Also a Man by his Will gave Legacies to Relations, near to the Value of his Estate, and made a certain Perfon Executor, to whom he gave a small Legacy, and defied him to take upon him the Trouble of the Executorship; after the making of which Will, the Tellator lived ten Years, and acquired a considerable additional Estate; and then died; on a Bill brought by his Relations, against the Executor, to have an Account of the Personal Estate, and the Surplus distributed among them, the Court ordered the new acquired Estate was decreed to go to the Legates, in Proportion of each one's Legacy. Preced. Case. 12. It is Surplusage of an Estate, when none of the Legates, and of the Portions paid, hath been ordered by the Court of Chancery to go to the Heir. Chanc. Rep. 180. Ow-ors, nor with the Administration, but only to give Counsel and Advice to the Executors; and if they will not do their Duty, to complain of them to the Spiritual Court, &c.

EXECUTORS be for 1674, or Executor of his own Wrong, if he takes upon him the Office of an Executor by Inheritance, not so constituted by the Tellator or for Want thereof, appointed by the Ordinances, or otherwise. Dyer 165. But if the Executor of his own Wrong takes upon himself the Office of an Executor without any lawful Authority, he is chargeable to the rightful Executor, and to all the Creditors of the Tellator, and likewise to the Legates, so far as the Goods amount unto which he wrongfully possessed: And such an Executor is made by any Act of Acquisition, Transferring or Possessing himself of any of the Estate or the Debts of the Decedent; but not by Acts of Necessity, Piety or Charity. 2 Nelf. Ab. 733. Where a Person gets the Goods of the Intestate into his Hands, he is chargeable for them as Executor de jure tertii, until he gives Satisfaction for them to the true Administrator; or satisfies the true Debts of the Intestate to the Value. Cro. Eliz. 88. And such a one cannot retain for his own Use, against another Creditor. 5 Rep. 31. For if an Executor of his own Wrong, to whom 20l. is owing, doth feice Goods to that Value, intending to pay himself, it shall be Affers in his Hands to make him chargeable to any Creditor or Legatee. 5 Rep. 31. And by Statute, Persons obtaining any Goods or Debts of an Intestate by Fraud, or procuring Administration to be granted to them, are chargeable in their own Wrong, to the Value of the Goods or Debts, &c. And Executors and Administrators of Executors in their own Wrong. shall be liable to pay the Debts of the Tellator, in like Manner as their Tellator or Intestate, in their Wills. 13 Eliz. c. 7. If a Man who is neither Executor nor Administrator, acts as Executor, as when he takes into his Hands the Goods of the Decedent for his own Use, or alters the Property by Sale, &c. the Right of Rights of the Decedent to Creditors or Legates, receives any Debt due to the Intestate, &c. he is Executor in his own Wrong, and shall answer as far as he acts. 5 Ann. 5. 15. 8 Rep. 135. 9 Rep. 79. Though every Taking of the Goods of the Decedent, is not enough to make one chargeable as if a Person take away his own Goods in the House of the Decedent, or take some of the Decedent's Goods in the necessary Occasions of his Family, bury the Decedent, and fell some of the Goods for that Purposal; or if he take them by the Delivery of another, &c. Dyer 166, 167. Noy's Manu.

102. When there is a rightful Executor, and a Stranger possesses himself of the Tellator's Goods, without doing anything further Act as Executor, he is not an Executor de jure tertii: But where there is neither Executor or Administrator, it is otherwise; for there the Creditors have no Person against whom they may bring any Action but the Man who has possed himself of the Goods. Dyer 105. Roll. Abr. 918. If there is a lawful Executor that hath proved the Will, or a legal Administration granted, before a Stranger interested himself, and takes the Estate, he is not an Executor of his own Wrong; but is a Trespasser against the Executor, &c. who is to have his Remedy against the Stranger, and the Creditors may have their Remedy against the lawful Executor. 5 Ann. 252. An Executor of his Wrong, may be fixed as Executor; and he shall be fixed for Legates, as well as a rightful Executor. Dyer 165. The Executor or Administrator must not maintain any Suit or Action because he cannot produce any Will to justify it: And he will be severly punished for a false Pia, for in such Case the Legate has no Suit but to prove it, and who is capable of being meddled with a Thing of such small Value. Noy's. Debt was brought against an Executor of his own Wrong, who pleaded that he never was Executor, nor administered as such; it was held, not to be material whether he had Affairs or no, but to prove that he had administered anything was enough; for this would make him chargeable with the Debt: But if he had Affairs, he might have been liable for no more than the Value of the Goods of the Decedent. Style 120. If a Plaintiff alleges that the Defendent is Executor de jure tertii, and the Defendant denies it, it is a Confussion of it to be true; and then the Action may be brought against the Defendant as Executor de jure tertii. 5 Med. 156. 1 Salk. 298. might be alive when his younger Brother died withoit Ilife; and his Dying without Ilife, was a collat-Exilium, Signifies in Law Confusion, a Spool ing: And by the Statute of Marlborough it seems to extend to tax done to Tenants, by altering their Tenure, ejecting them, &c. and this is the State that Fleta determines; who distinguishes between Vatum, Defraudis et Exilium; for he tells us that Vatum and Defraudis are almost the same, and are properly applied to Husband, Garden or Woods; but Exilium is when Servants are insinuated, and after wards unlawfully turned out of their Tenements.

Extrav. (Extended) Es to value the Lands or Tenements of one bound by a Statute, &c. who hath forfeited his Bond, at such an indifferent Rate, as by the yearly Rent the Creditor may in Time be paid his Debt. F. N. B.

Extrava facias, A Writ ofExtent, whereby the Value of Lands is commanded to be made and levied, Extrava. (Extrava) Signifies a Writ or Commission to the Sheriff for the Vailing of Lands or Tenements; and some times the Act of the Sheriff or other Commilions upon this Writ. 34. Stat. 16. & 17.

done to the utmost Value, is paid to be the full Extent, and not to be the whole Rents, or Rack Reas.
And if one bound to the King by Specialty or to others by Statute, Recognition, &c. hath forfeited it; so that by the yearly Rent of the Debtor's Lands, the Creditor is to be Repaid, and if the Creditor may sue a Writ to the Sheriff out of the 4 H. Chancery Chancery to deliver him the Lands and Goods to the Value of the Debt, which is termed a Liberat. F. N. B. 134. 4 Extant directed to the Sheriff to seize and value the Lands, &c. of the Debtor, to the utmost Extent. 4 Rep. 67. Lands and Goods are to be appraised or to be appraised by the Inquest of twelve Men, and then delivered to the Creditor, in Order to the Satisfaction of his Debt: Every Extent ought to be by Inquisition and Verdict, by the Stat. 31. And the Sheriff without an Inquisition cannot execute the Writ. Civ. Cas. T. 569. The Body of the Cognitor, and all Lands and Tenements that were his at the Time of the Statute, were entered into, as afterwards, are whole Hands forever they come, are liable to the Extent. 2 Inst. 356. But Copypold Lands are chargeable only during the Life of the Cognitor; and may not be extended by Eligit, so as to admit a Stranger to have Interred in the Lands held by Copy, without the Admission of the Lord. Lands in Ancient Demesne, Annuities, Rents, &c. are extendible. 1 Rep. 98. Two Parts of an Inheritance, may be delivered upon an Extent by the Sheriff. 1 Crr. 742. But if the Cognitor of a Statute have a Rent-charge, and before the Extent be passing Parcel of the Land; the Rent is gone, and shall not be in Execution: 'Tis otherwise if he purchases after Extent of the Rent. Dyer 306. A Tenant in his own Lands, &c. may not be extended by Eligit, but a Plaintiff had Judgment for his Debt and Damages de Reverente...cum accidit, and a special Eligit to extend the Moity, &c. 2 Sid. 86. Dyer 733. An Inheritance in goods is not extendible on Eligit, &c. Stat. Wm. 3. c. 18. An Office of Trull cannot be extended, because 'tis not assignible; and nothing shall be extended but what may be assigned over. Dyer 102. There is an Equity. Chan. Rep. 39. Goods and Chattels, as Leases for Years, Castle, &c. in the Cognitor's own Hands, and not sold for valuable Consideration, are subject to the Extent, and must be delivered to the Party at a reasonable yearly Value, so the Goods shall be delivered in Extent at a Price that is reasonable: And on a Secura faciatis ad comparandum, the Cognitor is to account according to the extended Value; not the real Value of the Land. Hard. 136. If the Extenders appraise and value the Lands too high, the Cognitor at the Return of the Writ may pray that they may take and retain the Lands at the Rate appraised; and then 'tis said he may have Execution against their Lands for the Debt; but this may not be on Eligit. Civ. Cas. 15. It has been adjudged, that at the Return of the Writ, the Cognitor may refuse the Lands, &c. extended, if over-valued. 4 Cas. 148. Where Lands are extended at under-value, and delivered in Execution; the Cognitor hath an Interest in the Land, which cannot be defeated by finding of Surplusage. 1 Crr. 166. 2 Crr. 85. The Cognitor cannot enter upon the Cognitor, when Satisfaction is received for the Debt, but is put to his Secura faciatis on an Extent: Though on an Eligit, the Defendant may enter before the Cognitor is to be held until the Debt, which is certain, is satisfied; whereas on Extent, the Land is to be held until the Debt. Damages and Costs, &c. are satisfied: And the Cognitor being in Master of Record, Shall not be put out by Master of Record, civ. 8 Secura faciatis brought against him. 4 Rep. 67. March's Rep. 207, 208. The Cognitor hath no absolute Property in Lands by the Extent, till the Delivery of the Land of the Liberat; but may claim, by the Statute, without Eligit, but that every Extent they are in Capacia Legis for his Benefit. garnishment of the Term: But it is otherwise if he have the Reversion by Purchase. 1 Co. Rep. 96. A Joint-tenant for Life purchases the Land in Reversion, it will extinguish the Estate for Life for a Money, and he shall have an Estate for two Lives, and the Heirs of their Bodies; though they have an Estate for Life jointly, and several Inheritances, yet the Estate for Life is not extinguisht: Coxe, if it be by several Conveyances; as where a Lease is made to two for their Lives, and after the lessor grants the Reversion to them and their Heirs, &c. here in 12 Barn. 182. If one after his Title be begotten to be Tenant by the Curtesy, make a Feoffment in Fee upon Condition, and enter for the Condition broken; the Estate is extinct, so that if his Wife die, he shall not be Tenant by the Curtesy. 1 Rep. 18. Where a Man hath an Estate for his own Life, and for another's Life at once; the Estate per asser vise will be extinguisht in the Estate for his own Life, which is greater in Law than the other. 11 Rep. 87. Dryr. 11. If a Lease be made to a Person for his Life, and allo for 20 Years; these two Estates may stand well enough, and there shall be no Extinquisht: But if by a Leases for Years, Remainder to him for Life, in this Case the Lease for Years would be extinct. Brs. 404. A Lease was granted for Twenty Years, and the Lease made a Lease for twenty Years rendering Rent; then the Leesor granted the Reversion in Fee, &c. and the Grantee purchased the Reversion of the Term; and it was hald that he shall not have any Estate for Years, because that being incident to the Reversion of the Term, is extinguisht by the Reversion in Fee, both being in one Person. Mor. 94. A. 2 Niss. 834. When the Freehold descends to the Term, the Estate is extinguisht. Niss. 86d. 820. While the Remainder of a Term is granted over to another, if the Party in Possession purchase will be extinguished through this. Means his Interest is extinguisht; yet shall not defeat the reversionary Interest. 10 Rep. 52. 2 Niss. 820. A Fine, 6.Fie. of Lands, will extinguish a Term; and by Purchase, an Estate in Fee Simple, an Estate Tail in Land is extinct. 9 Rep. 139. But if a Fee-simple and Fee-tail meet together by Difmer, the Estate-tail will not be extinguished. 3 Rep. 61. Difmer of Lands to the same Person who has a Term, will extinguish the Term. Mor. 236. If a Copyholder takes a Lease of the Land held by Copyhold Tenure, his Copyhold is extinguished. Coxe. 516. And a Copyhold Estate is extinct whenever it becomes not demible by Copy. Cole's Copyhold 6. When a Leesor enters torpitude upon the Leesee against his Consent, the Rest is extinguished. 2 Law. 143. But it has been adjudged that Rest is not extinct by the Entry of the Leesor, but only suspension; and re- vives by the Leesee's Re-entry. Dryr. 361. An In- fant has a Rent, and purchases the Land out of which it is issuing by this the Rent will be suspended, but not extinct. Brs. Extinguished. A Man Leesee for Years takes a Wife, or Woman Leesee a Husband, that hath the Reversion after the Lease; here the Term is not extinguished. 12 Rep. 81. If Feme Sole Debeees take the Debtor to Husband; or there be two joint Obligors in a Bond, and the Obligee marries one of them; or in Case a Person is bound to a Feme Sole and another, and the same is obligatory on the Husband; in these Cases, the Debt is not extinguished. 8 Rep. 136. An Act, from the Debtor his Executor, or him and another Executor, and they take the Executivehip upon them; or if the Debtor makes his Debtor Executor, &c. it is an extinguishment of the Debt, and it is not due. They differ from Wages which are to be Stipulated for certain Work and Labour done in a certain Space; whereas Fees are disbursed to Officers, &c. for the transacting of Business which occasionally occurs. If a Clerk, when his Business in Court is discharged, resists, he may not to pay the Officer his Court Fees; the Court on Motion will grant an Attachment against him, on which he shall be committed until the Fees are paid.

1. Litt. Abc. 298. Ecclesiastical Courts have not Power to establish Fees: But if a Person bring a Quantum Meruit in B. & C. for Fees, and the Jury and for him, then, first, become liable for the same. 3 Ev. 333. An Action of the Cafe, lies for an Attorney for his Fees, against him that retained him in his Cause: And Atto-nys are not to be demanded more than their just Fees; nor to be allowed Fees to Counsel without Tickets, &c. Star. 3 Eng. 1. c. 7. An Attorney may have Action of Debt for his Fees, and also of Counsel, and Costs of Suit: But a Solicitor may not bring an Action for Money laid out in Suit, without express Restraint to lay it out, and Promissory Note for it. And a Counsellor is not bound to give Counsel 'till he has his Fee; 'tis said he can have no Action for it: Though it has been held otherwise. F. B. N. 121. 1 Brew. 73. 12 H. 6. 9. There was a Fee due to Sheriff for executing their Offices, 'till the Stat. 5 Wil. 3. &c. which allows them Fees for executing Writs of Execution, &c. By the Statute of Wills, 2. 3 Ed. 1. c. 42. & 44. rsted for his Fees. 1 Ld. Raym. 4.

1. F. F. of Ex. 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, &c. Fees come of the French Fees, i.e. Frandum beneficium; quod est intellegi, or from the Sax. Feo, viz. Meoric, Steipdium, quod dictur flatus Beneficiarum; it is said to be that which is held by the Benefit of Annexed, and for which we do Service or pay Rent to the chief Lord; and is applied to all those Lands and Tenements which are held by perpetual Right, by an Acknowledged Right of a Superior to a higher Lord. The Writers on this Subject, divide all Lands wherein a Man hath a perpetual Estate to him and his Heirs, into Allodium and Frandum: Allodium they define to be every Man's Estate, which he possesseth merely in his own Right, without Acknowledgment of Service or Payment of any Rent to another; and this is a Property in the highest Degree: But Frandum is such Land as he holds, for Service which is done or Rent is paid, as an Acknowledgment thereof. All the Land in England, except the Crown-Lands in the King's Right and the Lights in the Crown, are in the Nature of Frandum, or Fees; for though many have Lands by Dicent from their Ancestral, and others have bought Land, it cannot come to any either by Dicent or Purchase, but with the Burden that was laid upon him who had Necess Fee, or fail of all received it from his Lord; so that there is no Perfon hath Dominium, i.e. the very Property of Dicent in any Land but the King, in Right of his Crown: And notwithstanding he hath Fee, hath jus perpetuum &c. of his Dominium, yet he owes a Duty for it, and therefore it is not simply his own; and he that can pay most of his Easement, faith it is am ised of this in that Land or Tenement, in my Domain, as of Fee issued into Dominium mei at de Frandum, which is so much as if he said, it is my Domain or proper Land to me and my Heirs for ever; but yet I hold it in a Nature of a Benefic and from another. Camb. Brit. 93. All that write de Frandum, hold that it may not have not an entire Property in his Fee: And as Fee cannot be without Frandum, sworn to a Superior, the Lands of the Crown are not properly Fee; for no Man may grant that our King or Crown owned, or were subject to the Earth. The Wealth in Frandum or Fees is sometimes used for the Compa or Circuit of a Lordship or Manor, as we say the Lord of the Fee, &c. as well as the particular Easement of the Tenant.

And also for a perpetual Right Incorporate; as to have the Right of the Fees, &c. see Supp. Lib. 2. cap. 5. Old Nat. Br. 41. And when a Rent or Annuity is granted to one and his Heirs, it is a Fee Perfess, 1 Inf. 1. 2. Fees is commonly divided into Fees Adonatam, and Fees in Easement, termed otherwise Fee-Tail. Fee-Simple (Frandum simplex) is where a Man hath Lands or Tenements, to hold to him and his Heirs for ever; and Fee-Tail is an Easement whereof one is feated with Limitation, to him and the Heirs of his Body, &c. Litt. 14, 16. All Easates at the Common Law were Fee-

Simples; and all other Easements and Interests were for ved out of it, wherefore there must be a Fee-Simple at last in some Body. Lit. 647. To have Fee-Simple implies that it is without Limitation to what Heirs, but to Heirs generally: Though it may be limited by Act of Parliament. 4 Inf. 206. It is the Word

Heirs makes the Inheritance; and a Man cannot have a greater Estate in it, than the Heirs, &c. Lit. 1. And a Fee-Simple may not come after a Fee-Simple, nor can a Remainder, it being an absolute Estate, so that nothing can come after it. Dyer 53. If one give or grant Land to J. & his Heirs, and it die without Heirs, that J. D. shall have it to him and his Heirs: By this J. S. hath a Fee-Simple, and J. D. will have no Easate. Dyer 4, 53. Where Land is given or granted by Fine, Fine is payable to the Remainder, to another and his Heirs; it will be a Fee-Simple. Plowd. 134. And if Land be granted to a Man and his Heirs, Necessum to him for Life only, and Liberty of Seisin is made, it is a Fee-Simple; because a Fee is expired in the Grant. 2 Rep. 25. A Lease is granted to one for a Term of Years, and after years to the Land to him and his Heirs, by the Rent of 10l. a Year: if the Granter makes Livery upon it, 'tis a Fea Simple; Otherwise but for Years. 1 Inf. 217. Where Lands are granted to the Granter, and Interest for his Life, the Remainder to the right Heirs of A. here A. hath a Fee-Simple. 20 Hen. 6. 35. Br. Enf. 34, 35. A Gift or Grant is to a Man's Wife during Life, after him in Tail, and after his Wife, &c. he will have a Fee-Simple Easate. 2 Rep. 91. If Lands are granted to a Man and his Successors, this creates no Fee-Simple: But if such a Grant be made to a Corporation, if a Fea Simple, such a Corporation, as a Bishop, Parson, &c. a Fee-Simple is to them and their Successors. Wend. 119. An Easate is granted to a Man and Interest for ever, or to him and his Affliges for ever, is only an Easate for Life; the Word Heirs being wanting to make it Fee-Simple: But in Will, which are more favoured than Grants, the Fee-Simple and Inheritance may pass without the Word Heirs. 1 Inf. 10. 9. And by Deed of Feoffment a Fee-Simple may be created, which would be an Easate-Tail by Will: as where Lands are given to another, and his Heirs Males, &c. without the Word Body. 1 Inf. 10. 9. And by Deed of Feoffment a Fee-Simple may be created, which would be an Easate-Tail by Will: as where Lands are given to another, and his Heirs Males, &c. without the Word Body. 1 Inf. 10. 9. And by Deed of Feoffment a Fee-Simple may be created, which would be an Easate-Tail by Will: as where Lands are given to another, and his Heirs Males, &c. without the Word Body. 17. A Gift to a Man and his Children, and their Heirs, is a Fee-

Simples to all that are living: though if Land is given to a Man and his Heirs, in the singular Number, it is but an Easate for Life, and the Heir cannot take it by Dicent, he being but one, and therefore it shall not take nothing; 8 Litt. Rep. 6. A Fee-Simple determinable upon a Contingency, is a Fee to all Interests; though not so durable as absolute Fee-Tail. 275. In pleading Easates in Fee-Simple, it is from the Commencement of Easates-Tail, and other particular Easates, must regularly be pleaded. 1 Inf. 103. The Fee-Simple Easate, being the chief and most excellent Estate, quite separate, absolute in Lands and Tenements, may give, grant, or charge the same by Deed or Will at his Pleasure; or he may make Wate or Spill upon it: And if he bind himself and his his Heirs to Warrant; or for Money by Obligation, or otherwise; and leaving such Land to the Heir, it shall be charged with the Warrant and Debts. Also the Right of a Man that is seized of such an Estate, shall be endorsed; and the Husband of a Woman having this Estate, be Tenant by the Curtesy. Ca. Lit. 273. Dyer 330. Fer. Sitt. 336. Though Free-Simple is the most ample Estate of Inheritance, it is subject to many Incumbrances; as Judgments, Set- tures, Mortgages, Fine, Inclosures, Dower, &c. And there is a Fe-Simple Conditional, where the Estate is defeasible by not performing the Condition; and a Qualified Free-Simple, which may be defeased by a Li- mitation, &c. This is called a Breack, upon which no Reversion or Remainder can be expedated. 1 Inst. 18. 19 Rep. 97. See Dilemma, Exonuntary Devise, Will.

Act Expellant. (Fadum Expellantum.) See Ext. Rents. (Feud Firma.) When is the Lord upon Creation of the Tenancy, refers to himself and his Heirs, either the Rent for which it was before let to Farm, or was reasonably worth, or at least a fourth Part of the Value; without Homage, Fealty or other Services, beyond what are especially comprised in the Feudum. 2 Inst. 44. By Flandorke, a third Part of the Estate of the King, which may be appointed for the Rent, where lands are granted in Free Farm, &c. F. N. B. 210. And my Land Cole, Free- Farm Rents may be Held, a Third, or fourth Parts of the Value. Ca. Lit. 145. Though these Free Farm Rents seem to be more or less, according to the Conditions or Consideration of the Purchaser of the Lands one of which would be, such as such a Person may be allowed to keep, that the Rent be held and unpaid for the Space of two Years, then the Feeder or his Heirs may bring an Action to recover the Lands. Brit. &c. Deed.

Free Farm Rents of the Crown. The Free Farm Rents remaining to the Kings of England from their Ancient Demesnes, were usual of them distracted from the Crown in the Reign of King Charles 2. And by Stat. 24 Car. 2. c. 6. the King was enabled by Let- ters Patent, to grant Free Farm Rents due in Rights of his Crown, or in Right of his Duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall, except Quit-Rents, &c. to Trustees to make Sale thereof, and the Trustees were to convey the same, by Bargain and Sale to Purchasers, &c. who must pay the Rent, and then have a Right in the Lands. But it has been observed, that Men were very too frequently of the Title to Alienations of this Nature, that whilst such Rents were expended to Sale for ready Money, fear could not destroy them, and they remained unfixed: till what made Men earnest to buy them, was the Step upon some of his Majesty's other Pay- ments, which occasioned Persons to refer to this as the most eligible in that Confederacy: No Tenant in Title of any of the said Rents, is enabled to bar the Remainder. 23 & 24 Car. 2. cap. 24. On the Tax- ing of Free Farm Rents, Receivers, &c. were to allow to the Persons paying them so much in the Pound as the Land Tax amount to. Stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 18.

Saxons, (Saxo felo cum ligante) A Compulsion but particularly a Friend, who was bound in the Decency for the good Behaviour of another. In the Laws of King Ethelwulf, it is said, if a Jailer could not be found, &c. the Parents of the Peron must have six Marks, and the King forty; if he had no Parents, then the Lord should it. Et Domini noctes scadasti, &c. Stat. 32. Felo, is a Saxo Word, signifying Fields; and in its Compound it signifies Wild, as Felo Honey, &c. Blumen.

Felis, were faithful Subjects, from the Sax. Fea, i.e. Fea.

Feto be Fe, One that cometh Pheony or his vivid Hands upon himself, and is the Occasion of his own violent Death. When 1 Perfon with Deliber- ately and direct Purpose kills himself, the Death is called Drowning, Stroking, Slashing, &c. this is Felo, i.e., but the Felon that committs this Felony, affet of the Age of Difcrimination, and Guns, Men: And therefore in an Infant under fourteen Years of Age, or in a Lunatic during his Lunacy, or one disabled by a Diseasie, or an Idee, kills himself, it is not Felo, but 5 Stat. 44. Ditto. 24. 145. Also if a Perfon during the Time Phe, he, nor Chaf is Feated, gives himself a mortal Wound, though he die thereof when he recovers his Memory; he is not Felo de Fe, because at the Time of the Stroke he was not Capas Municaci. Ditto. 147. 148. And he who defpises and persecutes another Man to kill him, is not a Felo de Fe; his Affent being void in Law, and the Perfon killing him a Murderer. 1 Keb. 156. 5, it is Felo de Fe where a Man maliciously attempts to kill another, and falls upon his Sword, &c. whereby he kills himself; but he must be the only Agent. 1 H. P. C. 68. A Felo de Fe shall forfeit all his Goods and Chattels Real and Personal; but not until it is lawfully found by the Oath of twelve Men, before the Coroner and others, that he is Felo de Fe. 3 Stat. 55. By the Return of the Inquisition, the Goods, &c. forfeited to the King: This is the background of the law, it hath been said, that the Goods of a Felo de Fe are forfeited before Inquisition, &c. immediately upon committing the Felon. Litt. &c. 5 Rep. 110. The Goods, &c., where it is adjudged that they are not forfeited till it is found of Record. The Lands of Inheritance of a Felo de Fe are not forfeited, by Restor he was not at- nessed in his Life times nor in such a Felon's Wills, par- tioned among his Heirs, or his Blood corruped. 1 H. 8. 66. If a Judgment is obtained by a Plaintiff in any Action, and the Plaintiff takes himself, to come to become Felo de Fe, he is committed to the King's 1 Seck. 56. 2 Nott. &c. 894. Goods are forfeited to the King by a Felo de Fe, for the Loss or a Subject, and Breach of the Peace. But these forfeitures are oftentimes saved, by the Coroner finding their Verdict lunacy to which they are in- clinable to a favourable Interpretation, that it is im- possible for a Man 1 to live for a Time in such a State as to be considered as of sound Ments. But if this Argument be good, Self- Murder can be no Crime, because a Madman cannot be guilty of any Crime. 1 H. 67. If a Perfon Felo de Fe is secretly made away, that the Goods of a Felo de Fe are not forfeited, the King may not be able to view the Body: Preliminary is to be made of it by Judicet of Peace, &c. to entitle the King to the Forfeiture of Goods, &c. Rep. 110. Where a Per- son is found Felo de Fe, who on Account of Lunacy, &c. ought not to be for or one where is returned Non Cumpos, when in Truth the Party is Felo de Fe, &c. there need be no Proof in the Coroner, or Incurtancy in the Inquisition, a Melius Inquirendum will not be granted; but the Inquisition is traversable in B. R. 3 Mod. 258. 5 Nott. &c. 840. Although there can be no Melius Inquirendum, 'twas said the Court may order an Indictment to be brought against the Felo de Fe; and if that be found, his Goods shall be forfeited. 1 Litt. &c. 601. A Pardon of Murder, doth not pardon Felo de Fe; but a Pardon of all Felonies and Forfeitures doth, by Custom and Practice, the Bodies of Felos de Fe are buried in the Highway. &c.

Fellos Goods. The Statute of Praerogativa Re- gis, 17 Ed. 3, c. 11. grants to the King, among other Things the Goods of Felons and Pugilators. small, the Words Felony, and the other Fiery; and his Reason is, because either of these Words are suitable to the Crime, which is always intended to be done with a bitter or fierce Mind. But the learned Spencers gives a different Signification of the Derivation of this Word, that it comes from the Saxen Word FeOH, which signified a Reward or Fine, and the German Law, which in English is Price; and this was formerly a Crime punished with the Price, was the Lois of Eftate. And before the Reign of K. H. 1. Felonies were punished by Pecuniary Fines, for he was the first who created Felons to be hanged, about the Year 1108. The judgment against a Man for Felony hath been the same since the Reign of this King, i.e., That he be hanged by the Neck till Dead; which is entered "fulgurandus per Collem", \textit{et c. 4. Henry II. At Common Law the usual Conveyance was by Ferfment, to which Livery and Seisin were necessary, the Poatitioner being thereby given to the Posfer; but if Livery and Seisin could not be made, by Resiion or by litter, as there was a Tenant in Possession, the Reversion was granted, and the particular Tenant attorned. 1 sq. 54. 2 a. 1. A Ferfment is said in law to exceed the Conveyance by Fine and Recovery; it clear- ing all Difficulties, Abatements, Interruptions, and other wrongful Estates, which no other Conveyance doth: And for that it is so solemnly and publicly made, it has been of all other Conveyances the most observed.

Wag. Symb. 235. Plowd. 54. It bars the Ferfment of all collateral Benefit, as Conditions, Powers of Revoca- tion, Writs of Error, &c. and destroys contingent Utes. 1 sq. 5. But a Ferfment may not be of such Things whereof Livery and Seisin may not be made: for no Deed of Ferfment is good to pass an Estate without Livery of Seisin; and if either of the Parties die before Livery, the Ferfment is void. Plowd. 214. 219. Though where a Ferfment made a Ferfment of Lands with Livery in View, and then married the Ferfment before the Livery was executed by actual Entry; it was adjudged the Livery might be executed after Marriage, the Ferfment having not only an Authority to enter, but an Interest passed by the Livery in View, and the Woman did all on her Part to be done. 1 Feet. 186. There must be Livery of Seisin in all Ferfments, &c. where a Grant of Inheritance or Freehold doth pass: And without Livery, the Deed is no Ferfment, Gift or Demise. Litt. 59. 8 Rep. 82. But a Freehold may pass without Livery by the Stat. 33 H. 6. c. 10. By Force of such Statute, a Statute, a Ferfment to the Use of the Ferfmer, Ferfmer, &c. supplies the Place of Livery and Seisin. Wood's Stat. 235. A Ferfment being a Common Law Con- vention, not a Statute, and therefore Freehold in Lands transmute- tion of Estate; but a Conveyance on the Statute of Utes, as a Covenant to stand feised, &c. makes only a Transmutation of Possession, and not of Estate. 2 Law. 27. 1 Feet. 578. A Ferfment to the Use of A. for Life, the Remainder to B. If A. refuseth to take the Estate, B. shall take presently, because the whole Estate is out of the Ferfment by Livery: But if it had been by Covenant to stand feised, he should not have taken till after the Death of A. but it would reft in the Covenantor, who shall have the Use in the mean Time. l. Lev. 27. 22. Before the Stat. Wynn. 3. If A. had made a Ferfment in Fee, without declaring any Ute, it should have been to the Use of the Ferfmer: though now by that Statute, where no Con- sideration or Declaration of Use is expressed, it shall go to the Ferfmer himself. 2 Lev. 15. 16. If I convey Lands by Ferfment, which I have on the Part of the Mother, to J. and his Heirs, without Con- sideration; the Ute will be void, and the Land shall return to me and my Heirs on the Part of the Mother: Yet I declare the Ute to be given to me my Heirs, or upon such Ferfment referve a Rest in like Manner, it shall go to my Heirs as the Common Law, it being a new Thing divided from the Land. Hob. 51. 1. Squ. 13. 231. 1 Rep. 100. 13. Where a Man makes a Ferfment, without any Consideration: by that the Estate and Possession pass, but not the Ute, which shall descen to his Heir. 1 Lev. 58. A Ferfment in Fee is made to the Use of such Person, and for such Estates, as the Ferfmer shall appoint by his Will, or to the Ute of the Late Will; by Ope- ration of Law the Ute vells in the Ferfmer, and he is left with no equal Share, unless the other Party, upon the Death of his Will, and declares the Utes: and after the Will is made, it is only directory, for nothing passeth by it all but the Ferfment. 1 Aliz. 169. A '[No. 7]' Ferfment in Fee, upon Condition, &c. was intoll, but no Li- very made; and it was adjudged no good Ferfment, but the Inrollment shall conclude the Perió to say that it was not his Deed. I. I. 6. 2 Nef. Abr. 844.

If a Bargain and Sale of Lands be not inrolled, and the Bargainer deliver Livery and Seisin of the Lands described in former Chancery or Eq. &c. it has been held a good Ferfment. 2 And. 68. A Ferfment in Fee made upon Condition not to alien, the Condition is void; and although such Determination of the Ferfment as had, the Ferfment will be good against the Ferfmer: And a Bond with Condition that the Fersee shall not alien, is said to be good. 1 Co. 145. 206. 2 Co. 296.

If a Man makes a Ferfmenthold Lands on Condition, that the Ferfmer shall give the Lands to the Ferfmer and his Wife in Special Tail, Remainder to the Heirs of the Ferfmer and he dies before such Gift is made, the Ferfmer ought to make it as near the Intent of the Con- dition as may be, ors, to the Wife without Impreach- ment of Walle, Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of his Father and Mother begotten, Remainder to the Right Heirs of the Husband or Father. 1 sq. 219. 220. Tenant in Tail makes a Ferfment in Fee; the Inheritance of the Tail is not given to the Ferfmer by the Ferfment, nor is it thereby made in Tail; as all shall be Tenant in Tail but he only who is compre- hended in the Gift made by the Donor. But it gives away no more than the Donor intended it should have. 12 Eliz. 2. 62. 1 Hoo. 435. If Letters for Life, and the Rever- sioner in Fee, make a Ferfment in Fee by Deed, each gives his Estate; the Leisfor his by Livery, and the Fee from him in Remainder. 1 Hoo. 435. 669. A Ferfment was made Habendam to the Ferfmer and his Heirs, after the Death of the Ferfmer, and Li- very was made; yet it was held to be a void Ferfment, because the Land was not conveyed out of the Life of the Ferfmer. A. It is necessary to make the Grant in a Day to come: But where a Leisfor made a Lease for Lives, and granted the Reverion to another for Life, whole Estate for Life was to begin after the Death of the Survivor of the other Leisfor for Life, this was adjudged a good Estate in Reversion for Life. 1 Hoo. 171. 1 Nef. Abr. 846. If a Man be diffolved, and makes a Bond for Ferfment, and a Letter of Re- ceiuy to enter and take Possession of the Land, and after- wards to make Livery, according to the Form of the Charter, it will be a good Ferfment, though he was out of Possession at the Time the Bond for the Ferfment takes Effect by the Livery, and not by the Deed. Co. Lit. 48. 52. And if the Husband alone make a Ferfment of his Wife's Land, or of both their Lands, his Wife being on the Land, and did- agreeing to it; this will be good against all Persons but the Wife, Aiso it is, if one Jointante make a Deed of Ferfment of his Wife's Land, or of both their Lands, his Wife being on the Land, and dis- agreeing to it: Or if a Man disflide me of his Land, and then enfeal another thereof whilst I am upon the Land, &c. Perk. Ser. 219. 220. A Ferfment may be of a Meadow, Land, Meadow, Fer- sence, or other corporal Thing, and of a Moesty, Third, or Fourth Part of it, that lies in Livery: And in Deeds of Ferfment, there must be a good Ferfment, that is, one able to grant the Thing conveyed by the Deed; a Ferfmer capable to take it; and a Thing granted, and granted in the Manner the Law requir- es. 1 sq. 41. 42. 190. Every Gift of Ferfment of Lands made by Fraud or Maintenance, shall be void; and the Difficulties notwithstanding such Alienation, shall recover against the first Ferfmer his Land, and does not, unless he assume his Suit in a Year after the Difficult, and that the Ferfmer be Peerer of the Prochts. Stat. 2 R. 2. c. 9. See 1 H. 6. c. 5. c. 1. A Deed of a Ferfment of a Merchant's Funds, acceptable. A Ferfment in Fee, upon Condition, &c. was intoll, but no Li- very made; and it was adjudged no good Ferfment, but the Inrollment shall conclude the Perió to say that it was not his Deed. Fyfum of Law, (Fyfe Juris) Is allowed of in several Cases: But it must be framed, according to the Rule of Law, reasonable and as the Conceptions of Man; and there ought to be Equity and Possibility in every legal Fyfen. There are many of the Fyfes in the Crown Law; and by former Citi-zans, it is said to be an Assumption of Law upon an Utrust, for a Truth, in something possible to be done, but not done. Gladsuff & Cart. The Seisin of the Crown in a Fine is but a Fyfen in our Law; it being an Invented Form of Conveyance only. 1 Litt. Abr. 610. And a Common Recovery is Fyfen Juris, a Fine or Device by Condemnation. Fyfen Juris, Is a Judicial Writ, given by the Statute of Wynn. 2. 13 Ed. 1. that lies where Judgment is had for Debt or Damages recovered in the King's Court, and thence by the Sheriff is conveyed to the Deputy, who is commissioned to levy the Debt and Damages of the Goods and Chattels of the Defendant, &c. Old Nat. Br. 152. This Writ is to be issued within a Year and a Day after the Judgment; or the judgment must be revived by Scire facias: But if a Fyfen Juris be not executed, a second Fyfen Juris or Eligiis may be issued out; and if that is not done after some Years, without a new facias, provided Continuations are entered from the first Writ, which 'tis also held may be entered after the eleccion Fyfen Juris, taken out, unless a Rule is made that Proceedings shall be done; &c. 31 Ed. 2. Nuff. Abr. 240. If a Man recover Debts against A. B. and levy Part of it by Fyfen Juris, and this Writ is returned; yet he may take his Body in Execution by Capias for the rest of the Debt, &c. 1 Bla. 924. The Sheriff on a Fyfen Juris is to do his best Endeavours to levy the Money upon the Goods and Chattels of the Defendant, and for that Purpose to inquire after his Goods, &c. And the Plaintiff may inquire and search he can find any, and give Notice thereof to the Sheriff, who ex officio is to take and sell them if he can, or if not, by a Writ of Fyfum Juris, and so continue the Execution; which is a Scire facias for the Ground of the Fyfen Juris, may be returned of Course by the Attorneys, as Originals are. 2 Stat. 516. If all the Money is not levied on a Fyfen Juris facias, the Sheriff must return before a second Execution can be issued; because it is to be granted on the first Writ, by reciting that all the Money was not leved. 1 Stat. 538. Where the Sheriff levies Goods by Fyfen Juris, and doth not return the Writ, and afterwards another Fyfen Juris is brought to levy the Money, the Defendant may plead this Matter. 2 Stat. 171. And where the Sheriff sells Goods which he levied by Fyfen Juris, and doth not pay the Money, Action of Debt will lie against him; for the Defendant is discharged as to the Plaintiff, and the Sheriff is now become his Debtor in his own Person; and if the Sheriff die after he hath levied the Debt, the like Action will lie against his Executors, as it is a Duty when levied. March Reg. 13. 2 Sten. 478. If a Sheriff that hath failed to deliver the Goods, and afterwards the Goods are delivered by another Sheriff, and return his Writ executed pro parte; and he ought not to deliver them to him, the Sheriff is guilty of False Execution; which is warranted by a Record, and therefore the Dis-

Upon a Fi Fauci the Sheriff returned, that he had levied the Goods of the Debtor; the Return being filed, a motion was made that he might bring in the Money, which not being done an Attachment was granted, and then the Sheriff appeared and prayed to amend the Return, for that the Goods were delivered to the Sheriff by Lying, and he could not get Bayers: but it was adjudged that the Return shall not be altered, for he might have returned this at first by Way of Exsurfe; and having returned that he had levied Goods ad valentiam, he shall pay the Money. 507. The Sheriff may sell the Goods on a Fi Fauci, and take the Money; though he must take the Money upon a Copias satisfacienti, that writ not warranting him to do it. 58. But the Sheriff cannot deliver the Goods by him taken in Execution to the Plaintiff, in Satisfaction of his Debt; because his Authority is to sell the Goods. ibid. 589. 1 Litt. Abs. 611. And if a Sheriff sells the Goods taken by Fi Fauci at unsaleable Price, the Sale is good, and the Defendant can have no Redress at Law, so long as the Sheriff remains in Office; whereupon a Stranger promised the Officer to pay the Debtor in Consideration he would release them; so Indebetatis Amissitu brought for the Money, it was objected to the Sheriff as ill for that it was like a Consideration to suffer a Prifoner to escape; but it was held, that as upon a Fi Fauci Goods are to be sold by the Sheriff, and the Title to the Money, this is no more in Effect than a Sale for that Purposes. 56. On a Fi Fauci the Sheriff has Power to take any Thing, but wearing Cloaths; and if the Defendant had two Goats, &c. he said he may sell one. If the Sheriff executes a Writ of a Fi Fauci, he may afterwards return Nulla Bona, upon there appearing a presumptive Writ sufficient; or on better Information, a writ taken out of the Defendant's. Cymb. 364, 452. By the Seizure of the Goods, the Sheriff hath a Property in them; but Goods of a Stranger, &c. in the Possession of the Defendant shall not be in Execution; for the Sheriff at his Peril must take Notice whose Goods they are: though if the Sheriff inquires by a Jury, where the Property is lodged, and it is found that they are the Defendant's Goods, when they are not, this will indemnify the Sheriff. Dall. Sbr. 60. West's Inst. 606. The Sheriff cannot break open the Door of an House to execute a Fi Fauci upon the Goods of the Owner or Occupier; but a Man's House shall be a Protection for his own Goods only, and not for the Goods of a Stranger. 517. But if the Sheriff in the Course of his Office, finds that a Stranger is the Benefactor Clergyman, and the Sheriff returns Quod est Clerico beneficiarius, &c. a Writ shall go to the Bishop of the Diocese, or to the Deo De bonis Ecclesiis, who thereupon sends forth a Sequestration of the Profit of the Clerk's Benefice, directed to the Churchwardens, &c. But this Writ of Sequestration shall not remain in the hands of the Sheriff, but the Clerk is at liberty to apply to the Bishop for the recovery of his Profits. 3 Inf. 4. 472, 647. By Virtue of a Fi Fauci a Term for Years may be sold, as well as any other Goods, and without an Inquest or Jury; Alio Corne growing may be sold, &c. 517, 494, 56. And if the Sheriff on a Fi Fauci, &c. selleth a Term for Years, and after that the Judgment is reversed; the Term that was sold, is sold, but the Money is in which it is sold. 3 Rep. 141. A Term is sold on an Execution by Fi Fauci; the Sale of the Term is good, tho' the Judgment be reversed, and Redemption shall be only of the Money: but where a Term is delivered to the Plaintiff upon an Esquire, and then the Esquire is ratified, Redemption shall be of the Term. 402. When upon a Fi Fauci the Sheriff sells a Term, removing the same, and having sold the same, &c. the Sale is void, because there is no such Term: Yet if he resciss it generally, and being of divers Years yet to come, falls all the Interest which the Defendant had in the Land, the Sale will be good. 4 Rep. 74. If an Execution is fixed on a Fi feo, and the Defendant dies before it is executed, it may be served on the Defendant's Goods in the Hands of his Executor or Administrator. Cro. Eliz. 181. Two Fi Fauci's are delivered the same Day to the Sheriff against the same Partie; he is bound to execute that Term which was first delivered; and if he executes the last first, he must answer to the Party who brought the Fi Fauci, who may bring an Action against him; but the Execution shall stand good. 520. A Man had a Judgment for Debt against another, and on a Fi Fauci, the Sheriff took his Goods in Execution, but the Plaintiff suffered the Goods to remain in the Hands of the Debtor, and would not let the Sheriff proceed any further: A B. having also a Judgment against this Debtor, on a Fi Fauci, filed against the same Goods, and it was held good for the former was a fraudulent Deed. 517. If a Writ of Fi Fauci against one Partner, the Sheriff may take the Goods of each of them; yet the Vendor shall have only a Money thereon in Common with the others. 517. By the Common Law Goods were bound from the Day of the Issue of the Writ; but by Stat. 25 Car. 2. they are bound only from the Time of Delivering thereon, &c. Ibid. The Sheriff having Goods, and levied the Money by Virtue of a Fi Fauci, ought to bring it into Court. Gombe. 147. See Execution.

Form of a Writ of Fi Fauci.

GEORGE the Second, &c. We Command you, that you cause to be made of the Goods and Chattels of C. D. (if on a Bond, &c. otherwise called, &c) in your Bailwill, so many Bonds, which A. B. lately in our Court before us at Westminster, recovered against him for a Debt, and also the Sum, &c. which were awarded to the said A. B. in our former Court before us, for his Damages which he hath sustained, &c. as well as the Damaging of the said Debt, as for his Expenses and Costs by him laid out in and about his Suit in that behalf, whereby the said C. D. is convicted, as appears to us of Record; and have you the Money before us at Westminster on the Day, &c. next after, &c. (a & b a Return) to render to the said A. B. his Debt and Damages after- paid: And have you then there this Writ. Writ, &c.

Fifteenth, Were a Tribute of Inposition of Money, laid generally upon Cities, Boroughs, &c. through the whole Realm; it was also a Taxation of the Richer Men of the Fifteenth Part of that which each City or Town hath been anciently valued at, or a Fifteenth of every Man's personal Estate according a reasonable Valuation. And every Town knew what was a Fifteenth Part, which was always the same; whereas a Subsidy raised on every particular Man's Lands or Goods, was adjudged uncertain: and that the Fifteenth seems to have been a Rate formerly laid upon every Town; according to the Land or Circuit belonging to it. Gombe. 171. There are certain Rates mentioned in Doomsday, &c. 10. That the Thirteenth and Fifteenth had been at a certain Rate when the Thirteenth or Fifteenth was levied; but since, though the Rate be certain, it is not to be levied but by Parliament. By 3 Ed. 3. 15. A Fifteenth was granted, for Parliaments. 3 & 4 Ed. 2. 7. a Subsidy and two Fifteenths by the Temporality, &c. And in the 1, &c. Eliz. and 1, 2 &c. 11. Fifteenths and Tenths were granted for Maintaining the Wars, &c.

Fighting and Assaulting, Is prohibited by Statutes, in a Church or Church Yard, &c. on Pain of Excommunication, and other corporeal Punishment. Stat. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 4. See Church.
Fightwitu, (Sax.) Signifies a Multe for Fighting or Making a Quarral to the Disturbarce of the Peace, or Disturbance in the Wellbeing of the Peace. It is an Officer of the Court of Common Pleas called by this Name, as he files the Writ whereon he makes out Process. There are fourteen of these Fillets in their several Divisions and Counties; and they make out all Writs and Processes upon original Writs, issuing out of the Chancery, as well real, as personal and mixed, returnable in that Court; and in Actions mostly Personal, where the Defendants are returned summoned, they make out Process or Attachments; which being returned and executed, if the Defendant does not appear, or doth not make a Disturbance, and so in Infinitum, or until he doth appear; if he be returned Noni, then Process of Copias infinite, &c. They enter all Apparances and Special Bails, upon any Process made by Law. And make the first Scribe fac. on special Bail, Writs of Habebus Corpus, Defringuas de Dicinum vet Bulletum, and all Superfodes upon Special Bail. The Writs of Grand and Petit Capias of Wibaram, &c. Also Writs of Ad judgmentem of a Term, in Case of publick Disturbance, &c. And until an Order of Court, a Fac. 1. they entered Declarations, Imparities and Pleas, and made out Writs of Execution, and divers other judicial Writs, after Appearance; But that Order limited their Proceedings to all Matters before Appearance, and the Proceedings to all after. The Fillets of the Common Pleas have been Officers of that Court before the Stat. 16 H. 6. c. 4, wherein they are mentioned; and in the King's Bench, of late Times there have been Fillets, who make out Process upon original Writ returnable in that Court, on Actions contra Pacem, &c.

Fite. (Fidelium) A Thread, String or Wire, upon which Writs, and other Exhibits in Courts and Offices are fastened or filed, for the more safe Keeping and ready Turnings to the fame. A File is a Record of the Court; and the Filing of Process of a Court, makes it a Record of it. 1 Litt. 112. An original Writ may be filed after Judgment given in the Cause, if found before forth; Declarations, Facs. are to be filed; And Affidavits' must be filed, some before read in Court; and some precisely when read in Court. Ibid. 115. Before Filing, a Record removed by Certiorari, the Justices of the Roll may refuse to receive it, if it appears to be for Delay, &c. and remand it back for the Expedition of Justice; But if the Certiorari be once filed, the Proceedings below cannot be revived. 2 Hals. 7. 207. An Indenture, &c. cannot be amended after filed.

Fite-Me or Fithieth: A Kind of Drinking in the Field, by Ballats of Hundreds; for which they gathered Money of the Inhabitants of the Hundred to which they belonged; But it has been long since prohibited. Bradd. 4 Inf. 307.

Fite-Cutum, Signifies a Ferru Ground. The Filipino Ground.

Fite-Is or Fite-Na or Fite-Li, is properly a little Son, so to a Godson. Filitus que daus dea Fonte. Fudge. Westmorl. 657.

Filtum or Filtum, is the Thread or Middle of the Stream, where a River parts two Lordships: Et habendus ipse Batus uppe et Filtum Aquum pradetile. Ex Reg. Priv. Not. fol. 7. par. 107. ib. 13. 170. Fille du Mere, the high Tide of the Sea. Boll. Part. 11 H. 4.

Fiteres, Are mentioned in several ancient Saxoners, and seen to be the fame with those which we now call Searchers; who are employed for the Discovery of Goods imported or exported, without paying Custom. S. & J. Ed. 3. 12. 10. 1 H. c. 12. 15. Fint. (Inist.) Is a Small Agreement, by which you agree to send a Record, for the Seilling and Affairing of Lands and Tenements, acknowledged in the King's Court by the Cognizor to be the Right of the Cognizor. Append. Conv. 2. 4. 2 Inf. 14. The Fint was a kind of Agreement, by which the parties, on either side, agreed to make a Declaration of their Rights and Objections; but it is most commonly, Amabilissimis Commissis & Finalia Concordia, ex confini & Locis, in extenso, &c. The Fint is a small Agreement, by which the parties, on either side, agreed to make before Justices and entered of Record for Conveyance of Lands, Tenements or any Thing inheriting, to cut off all Controversies: Et Fint dictus Finti Concordia. quemquam instituimus instituimus. Glanv. l. 8. c. 1. Bradd. lib. 5. A Fine was ancienly a Determination of a real Controversy; but now it is generally a Deigned Action upon a Writ of Convent, &c. and supposes a Controversy where in Reality there is none, to secure the Title that a Man hath in his Estate against all Men; or to cut off Intrails, and with more Certainty convey the Title of Lands, &c. either in Po- simple, Fre-tail, for Life or Years; whereby also a Rent may be referred. Wyld's Symb. par. 2. Originally the final Concord was inflamed and allowed, in regard that by the Law, the Actions of the Proceedings, no Plaintiff could agree without Licence of the Court: And fines have been formerly had in personal Actions. There are other Uses of them, viz. to cut off Intrails, and pass the Inheritance of Lands, though the fame be not controverted, to whom we think good; and a Fine may be levied on a Writ of Right, or in any real Action, though not on an Original in a personal Action; and the Common Writ of Convent on which a Fine is levied, is not a personal but a real Action. As a Fine is a Con- cord acknowledged before a competent judge, touching Hereditaments or Things immovable, and for its better Credit imposed to be made in the Presence of the King, because levied in his Court; therefore it is laid Women covert, being Parties, and others whom ordi- narily the Law disabilities to act; for this Reason, that all Presumption of Decret is excluded, where the King and his Court of Justices are supposed to be privy to what is transacted. And Fines are now levied in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, on Account of the Solernity thereof, ordained by the Stat. 18 Ed. 1. before which Time they were sometimes levied in the Exchequer, in the County Courts, Courts-Baron, &c. They may be acknowledged before the Lord Chief Ju- dge of the Common Pleas, as well in out of Court; and two of the Justices of the same Court, have Power to take them in open Court: Also Justices of Affile may do it: by the general Writ of a Warrant or Commission; but they do not usually certify them with- out a special Writ of Dedimus Petitionem. 2 Inf. 312. Dyer 214. The King by Patent or Commission, with a Notice of Power to A. and B. justrines, may order him to levy a Fine in a Circuit, when A. is not a Judge of either of the Benches, only a Serjeant at Law, &c. to take the Cognition of all Fines conjunctio & separation; and upon such a Commission, the Cognition of a Fine taken by A. will be good, without any Dedimus Petitionem fused out before or after it. Pack. Com. 227. And Fines are also taken by Commissioners in the Country, impor- ted by Dedimus Petitionem, one whereof named must be a Knight; and the Writ of Dedimus doth furnish, that the Parties who are to acknowledge the Fine are not able to tender a Warrant for the Dedimus. These Commissions general and Special, issue out of the Chancery. By the Common Law all Fines were levied in the Court of Chancery; But the Dedimus Petitionem to Commissioners, who may be punished for Abuses, and the Fines taken before them set aside: And it is said an Information may be brought by him in Re- verence against Commissioners in the Court of a Fine, where a married Woman, &c. is an Infan. 3 Lev. 36. In the Levyng of Fines in Court, a Pleader shall by Sir Justice vowe an Accr, &c. &e. he be- sters losses in Acord, or open: And when the Sum the King's Fine is agreed, after Proclamation and Crying the Peace, the Plender shall repeat the Substance of the fine, &c. Stat. de Poenali, 18 Ed. I. Touching the Form of Fines, it is to be considered upon what Write or Action the Concord is to be made; and there must be an agreement between the Conqueror and Cognizance, whereby the Cognizance covenant to pass a fine to the Cognizance of such Things, as a Time limited and such Indemnities preceding the Fine, are paid to the Usur of the fine. But by the Stat. 4 Ed. 5 d. 24. the Usur of a Fine, &c. may be declared after the Fine levied, and be good in Law. Upon this the Write of Covenant is brought by the Cognizance against the conquirer, when the Right of the Fine is before the Judge; and to the Acknowledgment being recorded, the Conqueror and his Heirs are precipitously concluded, and all Strangers (not excepted) after Five Years paid; and if the Write wherein the Fine is grounded, be not a Write of Covenant, which is usual, but of a Mar- rian Stock, or of a Write of Right, or of Custom and Usage, &c. Then the Write is to be levied upon the Party that is to acknowledge the Fine; and he appearing does it accordingly. Wryf. Seb. 23. Dies. 159. By Stat. a final Concord cannot be levied in the King's Court, without certain Writs, &c. And when a Fine is paid, it is to be in the Presence of the Parties, who are to be of full Age, good Memory, &c. And if a Fine Convene be lost, the same is to be privately examined by the Court of the Fine. If the same does not exist, the Write thereof cannot be levied. Stat. 1 Ed. I. A Fine after the Ingros- sing is to be openly read and proclaimed in the Court of the Cognizance, to the Usur of the Fine, &c. unless the Party be in Possession of the Fine, &c. If they lay not Claim by Way of Action or Entry in Five Years: Permons out of the Land, or Non Fines, &c. Have their Time after their Imperial possession removed. 4 Ed. 32, 33. The immediate after Abo, Fines after Ingrosing are to be proclaimed in Court the same Term, and the three next Terms, former to four several Days in each Term: but of late only once in the Term wherein ingrosed, and once in each of the succeeding Terms. 4 H. 7. 31 Ed. c. 1. The Day and Year of acknowledging a Fine, and War- rant of Attorney for the Suffering a Recovery, are to be certified with the Concord: And an Office hath been erected for the Tendence of Writs for Fines, &c. the Fees whereof are limited and appointed; likewise the Clauses, &c. for every Term of 10 to 20 in the Court of C. B. A Table containing the Fees passed in the Term before in every County, &c. by 23 Ed. 4. 5. There are in every Fine Five Parts, viz. 1. An original Writ, usually a Write of Covenant. 2. The Licentia Concordandi, or King's Licence, for which the King hath a Fine called the King's Silver. 3. The Concord itself, containing the Agreement between the Parties how the Land, &c. shall pass, being the Foundation and Substance of the Fine: it begins, Et ex concordia taction. Gr. 4. The Note of the Fine, or Abstract of the original Contract. 5. The Foot of the Fine, which includes all, setting forth the Day, Year, and Place and before what Justices the Concord was made, &c. Of this there are Indentures made forth in the Office, which is called the Ingrosing of the Fines: and it beginneth thus, Here of lasius Concordia fœdis in Ca via Domini Regis apud Wettin dix Jaque in quindim a 513. 515. Kid, the Concord being the complete Fine, it shall be adjudged a Fine of that Term in which the Concord was made, and the Write of Covenant returnable. 1 Salk. 341. A Concurrent upon the Possession which the Party shall retain in the Writ of Covenant: And the Note of the Fine remaining with the Chronographer, it hath been held, off Principali Recordum. 3 Lawm. 234. As to Fines, there are various Kinds: They are either with Proclamations, or without; that with Proclamations, is termed a Fine according to the Statutes 1 R. 3. 7. and 4 H. 7. 7. c. 24. And such a Fine is every Fine, that is pleased, intended to be, if it be not shewed what Fine it is: and the Fines are the last Salarium, and the last standout, if there be Error in the Proclamations, it shall be taken as a good Fine at Common Law. 3 Rep. 86. A Fine may stand, though the Proclamations according to the Statutes are made for Fines of Master of Record, and remain in Substance and Form as they were before. Plead 256. If Tenant in Tail levies a Fine, and dies before all the Proclamations are made, though the Right of the Fine is before the Judge; the Usur of the Fine, &c. may be declared after the Fine levied, immediately on the Death of the Ascensor: yet if Proclamations are made afterward, such Right shall be lost by the Fine, by the Statutes 4 H. 7. 7. and 9 Salk. 8. 3 Rep. 84. The Fine without Proclamations is called a Fine at the Common Law, being levied in such Manner as was used before the Stat. 4 H. 7. 7. c. 24. and is Bill of the like Force by the Common Law, to discontinue the Estate of the Cognizor, if the Fine be executed. A Fine also without or without Proclamations is either executed or executory: A Fine executed is such a Fine as of its own Force gives present Possession to the Cognizance, without any Write of Seisin to enter on the Lands, &c. as a Fine for Cognizance of Droit come coe. 1 and in some Respect a Fine for Reblogs, &c. is to be executed. A Fine executory may be levied in the Cognizance, without Entry or Action, but requires a Write of Seisin; as the Fine for Cogni-considering the Confinement is perfected afterwards; but without a Fine, the Marrige must be had, before any Ule can be lawfully given to the Ule of the Lands; and he that declares the Ules of a Fine intended to be levied by Husband and Wife of her Land, and the Husband alone doth not have the Ule; it hath been held that both Declarations of Ules are void, and the Ule shall follow the Ownership of the Lands: But in another Case it was determined that the Ules declared by the Wife were void; and the Ules declared by the Husband, good only against himself, during the Confinement. 2 Rep. 56. If Husband and Wife levy a Fine of the Lands of the Wife, and he alone declares the Ule, this shall bind the Wife, if it be no Fine; but because otherwise it shall be intimated that the did confesse. Ibid. 59. Though there be a Variance between a Deed declaring Ules, and the Fine levied; yet if nothing appears to the contrary, such Fine by Construction of Law shall be to the Ules declared in the Deed, and which is Evidence thereof: And where a Fine was given from and to the same person, it has been held that a new Deed made after, will declare the Ules of the Fine. 1 Ed. Wm. 289, 290. 'Tis said not to be absolutely necessary, to invent the Word Ule, in the Declaration of Ules of Fine; for any Words by which the Intent of the Parties will be sufficient. Ibid. 59. A Fine for Confinement of a Fine come, &c. may not be levied to any Person but one that is Party to the Writ of Covenant, though a Voucheer, after he be hath entered into the Warrant to the Demandant, it is faid may confesse the Action, or levy a Fine to the Demandant, for he is then supposed to be a Tenant of the Land, though he is not a Party to the Writ: and yet a Fine levied by a Voucheer to a Stranger, is void. No Single Fine can be with a Remainder over to another. A Fine for a Fine, to B. By the same Concords grants back the Land again to A. for Life, Remainder to B the Wife of A. for her Life, Remainder to C. & D. by the same Concords, both grant and render back to the Cognifer the Lands, &c. thereby oftentimes limiting Remainders to Persons that are Strangers, and not named in the Writ of Covenant. This Fine is partly executed and partly executed; and as to the first Part, containing a Grant and Render back, it is taken in Law to be rather a private Conveyance or Charter between Party and Party, and not as a Writ or Judgment upon Record: And this Render is sometimes of the whole Estate, and sometimes of a particular Estate, with Remainders or Remainders over; or of the Reverion, and sometimes with Reversions of Rent and Claude of Dileffe, and Grant thereof over by the same Fine. 5 Rep. 38. A B. and C. D. levied a Fine of Lands, and the Cognifer by the Fine rendered back the Land to A. B. in Tail reverting a Rent to himself, &c. the Rent and Reverion shall pass, though in one Fine: and it shall enure as several Fines. 2 Co. Eliz. 727. It is faid, a Grant and Render of Land, cannot be immediately in primo gradus to a Person who is no Party to the Writ; but it must be a Transfer of a Thing that is expressed in the Original. Though to make a good Grant and Render, the Land rendered must pass to the Cognifer by the Fine; for he cannot render what he hath not. 3 Rep. 98, 510. Hug. Abr. 536. A Man may not by this Fine refer himself to a Lease from a Tenant of a Fine. The Render of a Rent (if any) must be to one of the Parties to the Fine, and not to a Stranger. Dyer 53, 619. A Fine for a Remainder, to B by Fine with a Remainder; the Leeffe must acknowledge the Land to be the Right of the Leffor that is feiled thereof, and then each Leffor grants and renders the same back again to the Leffor, for a certain Number of Years, to the Remainder to the Leffor and his Heirs, &c. 44 E. 3. 45. See 2 Leon. 206. A Fine and Render is a Conveyance at Common Law, and makes the Cognifer to be the Render back a new Purchaser by which Lands arising on the Part of the Mother, may go to the Heirs on the Part of the Father, &c. 1 Salt. 157. Before the Self. Abr. 884. The Fine Smith is always applied to a Thing that the Cognifer is feiled of the Lands contained therein, and the Cognifer hath no Freehold in it, but it passes by the Fine: This Fine is used to grant away Estates for Life, or Years, and not to execute it, so that the Cognifer must enter or have a Writ of Habeas fac. Str. inam to obtain Possession if the Parties to whom the Estate is limited, at the Time of levying such Fine, be not in Possession of the Thing granted. A Fine for Confinement of a Fine tenesum is also a Fine executory, and much of the Nature of a Fine for Confe(t)it, it is for a Reversion, and then it is executed by such a Particular Estate granted: And sometimes it is used by Tenant for Life, to make a Release (in Nature of a Surrender) to him in Reverion, but not by the Word Surrender; for it is said not to be a Writ for the Confinement of a Thing granted. Dyer 216. A Fine upon a Release, Law, shall not be intitled to a Fine, but to him to whom it is levied. 3 Leon. 61. A Fine is called a Feoffment of a Record, and is of great Antiquity, for we read of Fines in the Records. If a Fine be not here before, it hath been held, that a Fine is improperly called a Feoffment of a Record; though it hath the Effects of a Feoffment, where he that levies it is dispossessed of the Freehold at the Time of levying the Fine, 2 Salk. 540. Lands bought of divers Persons, by several Purchasers, may pass in one Fine, to have Charges; but the Writ of Covenant must be bought by the Venrors against all the Venrors, and every Venror warrant against him and his Heirs. Dyer 217. After the Deditus Pecudatum to take his Fine, &c. the Fine shall nevertheloses be paid as his Fine. Dyer 246. And if either of the Parties Cognifiers die after the King's Silver is entered, the Fine shall be satisfied, and be good. 1 Co. 469. A Record of a Fine may be amended, (if the King's Silver is paid) where it is the Multiplication of the Clerk. 5 Rep. 43. A Fine is perfect, when the King's Silver is paid therewith. 1 And. 229. And though one Concerr may settle for Lands that lie in divers Counties; yet there must be several Writs of Covenant. 3 Jul. 21. Dyer 227. A Concerr of a Fine may have an Exception of Part of the Things mentioned therein: And it is not enough that a Man hath in the Place, or are intended to be paid; no more shall pass by the Fine than is agreed upon. 1 Leon. 81. 3 Salt. 312, 318. A Fine as well as a Deed, may be made payable to a Minor, where it is suffered by Fraud to receive a Purchaser, or Creditor, &c. 3 Rep. 80. 16 H. 7. 5.

Form of a Present and Consent of a Fine for Cognisance de Droit tantum, by Husband and Wife.

Middlesex, j. Command A. B. and his Wife, that they duly perform to L. D. the Covenant made between them, of the third Part of three Mei sus, three Tofts, three Gardens, two hundred Acres of Land, fifty Acres of Meadow, and one hundred Acres of Salisbury, with the Appurtenances, in K. H. and B. And un- left, &c.

A ND the Agreement is such, to suit That the said A. and B. have acknowledged the said third Part of the Mei sus, with the Appurtenances, to the Right of the said L. and have that the said third Part with the Appurtenances, with the heirs of the said E. and B. in the年内, the said third Part with the Appurtenances, as aforesaid against them the said A. and B. and the heirs of the said E. for ever. And for this, &c.

Form of a Fine for Dow Grant and Render, called a Double Fine.

Dorset, j. Command W. B. That he duly and without Delay, perform to T. D. the Covenant made between them, of the Manor of, &c. with the Appurtenances in D. And unleft, &c.

A ND the Agreement is such, to suit, That the said W. hath acknowledged the Manor Man, with the Appurtenances, to the Right of the said W. And as to that which the said A. hath the Gift of the said W. and that he hath remitted and quit-claimed, from him to the said W. and his heirs, to the said T. and his heirs; And further, the said W. hath granted for himself and his heirs, that they will warrant and the said T. and his heirs, the aforesaid Manor, with the Appurtenances, against all the said W. and his heirs for ever. And for this Acknowledgment, Remise, Quit-claim, Warrant, Fine and Agreement, the said T. hath granted to the said W. and his heirs, the annual Rent of Twenty Pounds, for the Expenses of the Acquisition of the Bishop Virgin Mary, and St. Michael the Archangel, by the use of portious to be paid yearly for ever. And if it shall happen that the said Rent of Twenty Pounds be in arrear, in Part or in all, after any of the said Feasts wherein it ought to be paid, then it shall be lawful for the said W. and his heirs to re-enter into the said Manor, with the Appurtenances, and to drain and carry away, and retain in his own Possession the Dikefs there taken and had, until the said Rent with the Arrears thereof, if any be, shall be fully paid and satisfied.

If the Render on the Fine be of the whole Manor, and not a Rent, &c. out of it, then it is in the following Form:

A ND for this Acknowledgment, Remise, Quit-claim, Warrant, Fine and Agreement, the said W. hath granted to the said W. the Manor, &c. aforesaid, with the Appurtenances, and that he hath rendered to him, &c. to have and to hold to the said W. and the Heirs which he shall beget on the Body of E. his Wife: And if it shall happen that the said W. shall die, without Heirs by his body born, then after the Death or Descent of the said W. the said Manor, with the Appurtenances, shall remain to the said E. during the Life of her the said E. And after the De-

Years, or a Difficultie, or one that hath Right only to a Reversion or Remainder, levy a Fine to a Stranger that hath nothing in the Land, this Fine will be void or voidable as to the Stranger; and he that pays a Counce to exempt against, he may prove that the Freehold and Selfin was in another at the Time of the Fine levied, and that Partes Finis nihil habuerunt tempus Levationis Finis, and by this avoid the Fine: And yet a Difficultie, which hath a Fee-simile by Wrong in him, may levy a Fine to a Stranger that hath nothing in the Land, like unto one that is rightfully Seised of Land in Fee, &c. and it will be a good Fine. Plowd. 353. 3 Rep. 87.

If the Cognitore of a Fine hath nothing in the Land paid, at the Time of the Fine levied, the Fine may be avoided: But where the Cognitore or Cognitore is Seised of an Estate of Freehold, whether by Right or by Wrong, the Fine will be a good Fine in Point of Estate. 41 S. 3. 14. 21 Hen. 6. 45. 27 Hen. 8. Fines may be had of all Things in Esteem Tempore Fines, which are incontestible: but not of Things uncertain; or of Lands held in Tail by the King's Letters Patent; or of Land retrusted from Sale by Act of Parliament, or of Land in the Wife's Name, or of the Husband and Wife, &c. 5 Rep. 225. Ws. Salk. 25. Lands assigned for Dower, or Term of Life, or in Tail, to any Woman by her Husband, or her Heirs, or his Ascendants, cannot be conveyed away from her by Fine, &c. without her Act: but if a Woman and her Husband levy a Fine of her Jointure, the is barred of the same; though if the Jointure be made after Covenerance, when the Wife hath an Election to have her Jointure or Dower on the Husband's Death, it is laid this will be no Bar of her having the right of the Land of the Husband. Dyer 528. Lew. 189. No Fine of the Husband alone, of the Lands of the Wife, shall hurt her, but that she or her Heirs, or such as have Right may avoid it; but if the joins with him, it shall bind her and her Heirs. 57 H. 8. Women Coverts ought to be cautious in levying Fines with their Husbands of their own Lands, and if a married Woman under Age levies a Fine, the Court can never be during her Husband's Life, nor after his Death, if the be of fall Age when he dies; but if the Husband dies during her Minority, the may. Dyer 559. Wood's Inf. 245. A married Female ought not to be admitted alone without her Husband to levy a Fine; and if she be received, the Husband may avoid the Fine by Entry; but if she do not, it is good to her and her Heirs, except she be an Infant at the Time of the Fine levied: The Husband and Wife together may dispose of her Land, &c. 12 Rep. 122. If Baron and Feme levy a Fine, the Feme within the Age, may be brought into Court by Husband Corpus: and if it be found by Inspection, that she is under Age, it hath been adjudged, that such Entries are held to be an Error, and this as to both, void Fines Receivator. 1 Lew. 116. 117. 3 Salk 168. Husband and Wife, Tenants in Special Bail, the Husband only levies a Fine, this bar the Fines in Tail; but it remains in Right to the Wife as to herself, and to all the Estates and Remainders depending upon it, and all the Consequences of Benefit to herself and others, to the same as the lives if the Fine had not been levied. Hol. 557. 219. If a Husband make a Preemption of his Wife's Land, upon Condition, which is broken, and the Proof levies a Fine, and the Husband and Wife die having both the Lives and Five Years; the Heir is barred to enter as Heir to the Father upon the Condition, but he shall have five Years after the Death of his Father, as Heir to his Mother what the husband acknowledges a Fine, it shall not bind her; though if he levies a Fine with her right Husbond by a separate Action, she is bound to appeal during her Life, and the Tenant may plead, that she by such a Name levied the Fine. 1 Abb. pl. 11. Brok. 117. When the Husband and Wife join in a Fine of the Wife's Lands, all the Estate passeth from her, and he is joined only for Conformity; so that if the Fine levied by Husband and Wife in such a Case be reversed, the shall have Restriction. 2 Rep. 77. If a Husband and his Wife covert, may they levy a Fine of the Lands of the Wife, to the Life of the Heirs of the Body of the Husband on the Wife, Remainder to the Husband in Fee; both without difficulty; it is laid, that the Heir of the Wife had the Title, because the Limitation to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband was merely void, there being no precedent Estate of Freehold for Life, &c. to support it as a Remainder. 2 Salk 675. 4 Mod. 253. If a Widow having an Estate in Dower accepts of a Fine, and by the same Fine render back the Land for 100 Years, &c. this is a Forfeiture of her Estate within the Stat. 11 H. 7. 20, by which Statute the may not make a greater Estate than for her own Life; if she do, it is a present Forfeiture. 2 Crs. 685. If Tenant for Life grants a greater Estate by Fine than for his own Life, it is a Forfeiture: And if there be Tenant for Life, and Remainder for Life, and the Tenant for Life levy a Fine to him in Remainder and his Heirs, and his both their Estates are forfeited, the Tenant for Life by Levying the Fine, and the Remainder Man for Life by accepting it. 2 Lev. 209. Where a Fine is levied by a Tenant for Life, for a greater Estate, the Fine may be good: but it is a Forfeiture of the Estate of Tenant for Life, whereas he in Remainder, &c. may take present Advantage and enter: And when a Person enters for a Forfeiture, all Estates are avoided. Dyer 111. Though if such a Tenant for Life levy a Fine for Grant & Reliefs to the Cognitore for the Life of Tenant for Life or by Fine grant a Rent out of the Land for a longer Time, the Fine is good, and there will be no Forfeiture of the Estate of Tenant for Life: So like wise if a Fine be levied of Lands by Tenant for Life to a Stranger, who thereby acknowledges all his Right to be in the Tenant for Life, and relegates to him and his Heirs. 27 Ed. 1. 1. 4 Ed. 3. 56. If there be Tenant in Tail upon Condition not to alien, or possess in Consent with the Lands, &c. if he doth, the Donor to re-enter, and his Fine levy a Fine of the Land, this is a Forfeiture of the Estate. 1 Lew. 192. An Estate being settled on Husband and Wife for Life, Remainder to son and other Sons in Tail, with Remainders over; after the Birth of their eldest Son, they by Release and Fine, mortgaged the Lands: On a Bill exhibited against the Son to Redeem, &c. he pleaded the Marriage Settlement of his Father and Mother, whereby they were but Tenants for Life, and that this Fine was a Forfeiture of their Estate; and so it was adjudged. Princ. Cas. 591. But it is said where a Wife by Settlement has only a Title for a Life, if the joins with her Husband in a Mortgage, or if the Title or the Fine of the Woman be good, this Title is not forfeited, as it would be in Case of a legal Estate. 1 Pioes Williams 147. A Fine is levied by Lease for Life, &c. who continues the Possession, and pays the Rent; it shall not bind the Leesor, who shall have five Years Claim after the Determination of the Lease's Estate. &c. 3 Rep. 77. 79. If one doth levy a Fine of my Land, while I am in Possession, this will not hurt me; nor where a Stranger levies a Fine of my Lands let to a Tenant, if the Tenant pays me my Rent duly: And if there is Tenant in Tail, or for Life, Remainder in Tail, &c. and the fine is levied in Tail or for Life, bargains and sells the Land by Deed inrolled, and levies a Fine to the Bargainee, the Remainders are not bound; for the Law adjudges them always in Possession. 4 Rep. 156. Leesors who pretend Title to the Inheritance of the Lands, cannot by Fine but the Inheritance. 3 Rep. 77. But if a Lease is made for Years, and the Leesor before Entry of the Lease levies a Fine with Proclamations, and the Leesor doth not make his Claim within five Years, the Leesor is barred, and no Relief can be had for him for though 4 O the

If a Peron hath a Remainder depending on an Estate for Years, and the Termor is diffidled, and he hath a Fine levied for five Years p.s. and the Termor and Recoveror are barred: Because the Termor might presently have entered, and he in Remainder had an Affid. 185 ms. In a Case where a Peron enters upon and puts out a Copyholder, and the Difference doth levy a Fine of the Lands, if the Copyholder suffer five Years to pass after the Diffidles and Fine, without making any Claim, the Interest of the Copyholder and his Lord are hereby barred for ever: And if a Copyholder makes a Restannah in Fee upon good Confirmation, and the Feefeo levies a Fine with Proclamations, and five Years p.s., the Lord is barred; but if a Copyholder himself levies a Fine and five Years p.s. does, the Lord is not barred, for the Copyholder not having a Frethold, the Fine will be void. 5 & 7 Ann. 5 Rep. 248. A Fine of Cetall qui tres Traull shall bar and transfer a Trust, as it should an Estate at Law, if it were on a good Confirmation. Chan. Rep. 49. And Fine of Cetall qui tres Traull are as good as if levied of immediate Possession, 4 & 5 Eliz. 5 Rep. 860. Interests in Estates which may be barred by Fine, are either Interests by Common Law, or by Custom; as in Certain lords, and if I have a Fine for a frethold, and am diffidled, and the Difference levies a Fine with Proclamations, and I do not claim within five Years after, and my Heirs (Allowance being made for Impediments) are barred for ever. 5 & 7 Ann. 5 Rep. 79. If a Man purchase Lands of another in Fee, and after finding his Title to be bad, and it is so, and the Heirs hath Right to the Land, levies a Fine thereof with Intent to bar him; and he suffers five Years to pass without Claim, and he is barred of his Right for ever: And in whose Cases, none shall be relieved in Equity. 3 Rep. Decr. of Stat. 83. A Fine with Proclamations levied by Persons of Lands intailed to them or their Ance- tollors, 5 & 7 Ann. 5 Rep. 94. is a good Bar against their Heirs, claiming only by such Intail. 52 H. 8. 1. 36. Where the Anceollor is barred by the Fine, there for the most part the Heir is barred also. 9 Rep. 105. Although the Ilue in Tail be within Age, out of the Realm, or when a Fine is had and the Proclamations pased; the Estate-tall shall be barred. 3 Rep. 84. If the Estate pased by the Fine, be afterwards (before all the Proclamations had avoided) it is said the Ilue in Tail was claimed in the Realm, and the tenant in Tail to him and the Heirs Male of his Body hath three Sons, the Second levies a Fine in the Life of the Father dying; and his Eldidt is not barred. But if the Eider died without Ilue, living the Se- cond, it is a Bar to the Third. 32. 33. 35. See Ten. Cent. 96. Tenant in Tail disconloms; the Discon- loms, Proclamations, and fine Years p.s. without Claim in the Life of Tenant in Tail: In this Case the Ilue may be a Formand, and shall not be barred; for his Father could not Claim. His otherwise where he is diffidled, and the Difference levies such Fine; there the Tenant in Tail may Claim, 5 & 7 Ann. 5 Rep. 151. A Tenant for Life, and he that is next in Remainder in Tail, in a Case, it is a good Bar to the Ilue in Tail for ever, so long as that Estate-tall shall continue. 10 Rep. 65. But though a Fine bars the Estate-tall and the Ilue in Tail, yet it doth not Remainders or Reversions, though Recoveror bars them all. And if one makes his Title as Heir by another, and not by him that levied the Fine, he is not barred. 1 Cor. 377. Also he that is privy in an Estate to the Remainder, is not barred if the Stau- tutes to be barred by a Fine: As if Lands are given to a Man and the Heirs Female of his Body, and he hath a Remainder in his Daughters, in a Case, it is a good Fine, and dies without Ilue, this is no Bar to the Daughters; for notwithstanding the he be Heir to his Blood, yet he is not Heir to the Estate, nor need make her Conveyance to it by him; but if her Father had levied the Fine, it would have been otherwise. Trin. 21. 5 & 7 Ann. A Fine, if it cannot destroy an executorial Estate, which depends upon the bounty of the Tenant, is uncertain whether there will ever be an Estate in Being for the Fine to work upon; but a Fine and Recovery will bar an Estate in Remainder, as that is an Estate vested. 1 Litt. 679. If Estates by Statute Mer- chant, Statute-Stamp, and Elegit, may be barred, if a Fine is levied, and those that have Right suffer five Years p.s. The Elegit, if a Fine is levied by a Land in Ancient Demesne, it doth not bar by the Statute of Non-claim. Litt. 781. At Denys, Bishops, Paros, &c. are prohibited by Statu- tory to levy Fines, and may not have a Write of Right: they are not barred by five Years Non-claim, and their Non claim will not prejudice their Successors. Plowd. 238. 357. If a Corporation which hath an absolute Estate, so as to maintain a Writ of Right, is diffidled of Land, and a Fine is levied by the Difference; if they claim not in five Years, they are barred: But in such Case it is said in every Successor being Head of the Corporation, may have a new Five Years to make their Claim. Plowd. 357. By the ancient Common Law, he that had Right was to make his Claim, cer. per Actum et Rege, which was now levied and the Execution thereof, or he was barred for ever: But this Bar is now gone; and if a Fine without Proclamations according to the Common Law be now levied, he that hath Right may make his Claim, and afterwards he may recover the Fine. But if a Fine be levied at any Time to prevent the Bar. 1 Inf. 254. 262. By Statute, a Claim or Entry to avoid the Bar of a Fine is to be made in five Years: And no Claim or Entry shall avoid any Fine with Proclamations, unless an Action be commenced within one Year after such Entry, and prosecuted with Effect. 3 & 4 H. 7. 5 & 7 Ann. 32. & 32. H. 8. 36. declare the Force of a Fine how far they bar and take away the Entry or Action of Parties, Privies and Strangers, having Right: Privies in Blood, as it is a Fine of a Corporation, are not barred of a Fine; but Strangers to the Fine, such as are not Par- ties or Privies, have five Years to enter and claim their Rights, 5 & 7 Ann. 5 Rep. 257. 257. Feme Coverors have five Years after the Death of their Husbands, to avoid the Fine of the Husband of the Wife's Lands; and also to claim their Dowry; and if they do not make their Claim or Action of Right, they are barred by Statute. Dyur. 72. 2 Rep. 93. An Infant shall have five Years after he comes of Age, although he claims in the Name of his Father's Estate is not barred. But if the Eider die without Ilue, living the Sec- ond, it is a Bar to the Third. 32. 33. 35. See Ten. Cent. 96. Five Years are given after a Remainder falls; and five Years after the Property of Tenant for Life. 1 Lorr. 374. And he that hath two or Three Feves, at any Time, may make his Claim. 3 Text. Ca. 45. A future Interest of another Perfon, cannot be barred by Fine and Non-Claim, until five Years after it happens; as in Caufe of a Remainder of Recovery. 2 Rep. 93. Rep. 151. And where there is no present nor future Right in Land, Ors. only a Possibility at the Time of levying the Fine, a Perfon may enter and claim when he pleases. 10 Rep. 49. Also when there is only Right to a Rent, Ors. issuing out of Lands, and not the Land in the Fine, the Perfon that have it are not barred at all. 5 Rep. 134. No Fine bars any Estate in Possession or Recovery, which is not devised and put to a Right. 9 Rep. 106. He that at the Time of a Fine levied had not any Title to enter, shall not be immediately barred by the Fine; But he may have his Action, and not turned to a Right, where a Man is not bound to claim; and not in the Caufe of Tenant in Tail, barring his Fine. 32 H. 8. When an Estate is put to a Right, and there comes a Fine and Non-Claim, it is a perpetual Bar. 21ser. 162. A Fine, Grant and Render was levied, and a Suret Facias brought and Judgment given, and also Writ of Seisin, but by the Time of Delivery, and afterwards a second Fine was levied and executed, and five Years passed; it was the Opinion of the Court that the Action is barred by the Fine. 7 Rep. 104. 2 Nef. Abridg. 864. If a Man that is straitened of Treason or Felony, levy a Fine of his Land, this, as to the King, and Lord of whom the Land is held, is void, and no Bar to their Distressage and Title of Possi- tuitare: But as to all others it is a good Bar. 2 Salk. Abridg. 241. One levied a Fine and then was outlawed for Treason and died; the Heir revered the Outlawry; and was held as if he had bar to the Land, if he brought his Action within five Years. 2 Mar. c. 879. Where a Fine may be a Bar to some Lands, and not as to other Lands. See F. N. B. 98. Plowd. A Fine was levied, and five Years passed without bringing a Writ of Error; and it was held a good Bar within the Stat. 4 H. 7. c. 14. 3 Law. 321. But it has been admitted that where five Years passed, that shall not hin- der, where the Fine is erroneous. 2 Nef. Abridg. 858. And Fines may be revived for Error, so as the Writ of Error be brought in twenty Years, Ors. and not afterwards, by Stat. 10 Eliz. 3. 8. 14. Fines are not reversible for Rasure, Interference, Mifeity, Ors. or any Want of Form: but 'tis otherwise if of Seisin. A Fine is not reversible for small Variance, which will not hurt it; nor is there Occasion for a precite Form in a Render upon a Fine, because it is only an amiable Affurance upon Record. 5 Rep. 58. If a Fine be levied of Lands in a wrong Parish, though the Parish in which they lie be not named, it will be a good Fine, and not be erroneous, bringing an amiable Assurance: And a Fine of a Cloke may be levied by a Lady Comes in a Town, without mentioning the Town, Vill, Ors. Gadd. 440. 2 Cw. 574. 2 Mod. 47. If there be Want of an Original, or not Writ of Seisin for Lands in every Country; or if there be any notorious Error, in the Writ out a Fine, or any Fraud or Deceit, Ors. Writ of Error may be had to make void the Fine. 1 Inf. 9. 1 Cw. 57. Certaini doubts are not sufficiently settled, Ors. And if the Copinger of a Fine die before the Return of the Writ of Covenant, (though after the Captions of the Fine) it is said it may be revoked. 3 Salk. 151. The Writ of a Writ of a Cevern- sari or a Writ of Seisin doth not remove the Right to a Fine levied in C. B. and the Transcript only, not the very Record of the Fine, is removed in their Cases: But if the Court of B. R. adjudge it errone- ouss; then a Cevernari goes to the Chirographer to certify the Fine itself, and when it comes up it is can- celled. 6 Salk. 541. And when a Writ of Recovery in B. R. to revive a Fine in C. B. the Fine was affirm- ed; a Writ of Error came with Robian, both had been allowed to lie. 1 Inf. 357. The Court of B. R. will not reverse a Fine, without a Set. for a Cause, in favour against the Tenantman, because the Cognizances are but nominal Fines. 2 Inf. 359. A Fine may be set aside, by pleading that neither of the Parties had any Thing in the Estate, at the Time of levying the Fine, Ors. But those that are privy to the Perfon that levied the Fines, are estopped to plead this Plea. 3 Rep. 88. In the Pleading a Fine or Recovery to Ute, the Deeds need not be set forth: but the Pleader is to say, that the Fine, Ors. was levied to such Use, and produce the Deeds in Evidence to prove the Uses. 8 W. 3. B. R. A fraudulent obtaining of a Fine, or Irregularity there- in, cannot be relieved against in Chancery; but must be in the Court where levied, though the Officers may be examined and punished, if they did it Criminaliter. 3 Precod. Cap. 150. And when a Person is permitted, on levying a Fine, it was not set aside in Equity, but a Reconvenancy ordered of the Land. 2 Inf. 414. Fines levied before the Justices in Wales; or in the Cowes of Dover, of Collet of Durham, 6c. have the same Effect as Fines levied before the Justices of C. B. 34 & 35 H. 8. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. 5 Eliz. 6c. Sometimes a Sum of Money paid for the Income of Lands, called by Lands, is called Fine. And Fine also signifies an Amend, or Pu- nishment for an Offence committed; in which Case a Man is said to fine fair form of Transfractione in Rips, Ors. And in all Cases it is a final Conclusion of End of Differences. First simulanteus ludebent coetetemi quot quid futurum esse antiquo Dominius, is a Writ directed to the Justices of C. Fines for Offences. Among the Ancients, all Punishments were by Fine; but in Procefs of Time this sort of Punishment became too mild, and then for some Crimes Death was inflicted. And a Fine is a Sum of Money which one is to pay to the King, for any Contemn or Offence against the Government. 3 Inf. 218. 3 Salk. 52. All Fines belong to the King, and the Reason is, because the Courts of Justice are supported at his Charge: and where ever the Law puts the King to any Charge for the Support and Protection of his People, it provides for Bribery, or Bribery. By Stat. 12 H. 6. Where a Statue imposes a Fine at the Will and Pleasure of the King, that is intended of his Judges, who are to impose the Fine. 4 Inf. 71. Courts of Record only can fine and impose a Person: And such a Court may fine a Man for an Offence committed in their View, or by Confession of the Party recorded in Court. 1 Lorr. 651. A Man shall be fined and imprisoned for all Contemns done to any Court of Record against the Commandement of the King's Writs, Ors. 8 Rep. 60. If a Person is arrested coming to the Courts of Justice to plead a Writ, the Offender shall be fined for the Contemn; But there has been a Difference made where it is done by the Plaintiff in the Writ, and a Stranger, who is it laid shall not be fined. 9 H. 6. 250. Where a Person is never present in Court. If an Officer of the Court neglects his Duty, and gives not due Attendance a Clerk of the Peace does not draw an Indict- ment well in Manner of Form, or Return thereof, to the Place of the Birth. 5 Rep. 406. Satisfaction for the Cofts of the Profession, and also for Damages sustained, that there may be an End of Suits at the Bar, and a Resolving on that Account an Inclination to form a moderate Fine on Behalf of the King. But if the defendant come the first day he is called, and tender the Thing demanded to the Plaintiff, he is not to be fined. 4 Rep. 40. Where a Plaintiff gets Judgment in a real Action by Decree, the Defendant not having Summoned, &c. he may be fined. 8 Rep. 69. If a Writ abates through the Default of the Plaintiff, he shall be fined: And so if the Plaintiff be nominated. 34 A. & J. And if in Appeal of Malice, &c. against several, some are found Guilty, and the Plaintiff pays Judgment against them only, and relinquishes his Suit against the others, he shall be fined for not proceeding against the rest. 25 A. & J. If in an Action a Man denies his own Deed, and this is found against him by Verdict, he shall be fined for his Pauperism, and the Trouble to the Jury. 8 Rep. 60. 1 Dav. 471. But where a Perfon denies a Recovery or other Record, to which he himself is Party, he shall not be fined: for it is not his own Act of the Decree, and he does not gain it absolutely, but non habitur tales Recordum. Ibid. All Capitator Fines are taken away by Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 12. Except a Defendant pleads Non est factum, and it is found against him. 1 Litt. Abr. 621. In Trefpa, Assail and Battery, &c. there can be no Capitator pro Fine entered since the Stat. 5 & 6 W. 3. because where the Plaintiff is to have so much in Cofts allowed him, to pay the King for the Fine: And in B. R. Judgment is entered up without any Notice of the Fine, the Law being altered by this Statute. In C. B. they enter their Judgment with a fine restitutio per Stat. 1 Salk. 54. 2 Nelf. Abr. 847. To every Fine Imprisonment is incident; and when the Judgment is good, the Defendant Capitator, that is Capitator quamuis Finem facerit. 8 Rep. 59. Where an Offender is to be fined, the usual Judgment is a fine Capitator, i.e. to be imprisoned till the Fine is paid: But if the Fine is purchased by the Conviction, it is called “fine imprisonment.” 1 Vent. 116. When a Perfon is fined to the King, not withstanding the Body remaining in Prison, ’tis said the King shall be satisfied the Fine out of the Offender’s Estate. 4 Wm. c. 193. A Fine may be mitigated in the same Term wherein it was set, it being under the Power of the Court during that Time; but it may not be done afterwards. 3 Ryan 576. And Fines affixed in Court by Judgment upon an Information, cannot be afterwards mitigated. 3 Gar. 251. If a Fine certain is imposed by Statute upon any Conviction, the Court cannot mitigate it: but if the Party comes in before the Conviction, and submits himself to the Court, they may alieve a less Fine; for he is not convicted, and perhaps never will be. 3 Salk. 53. The Court of Exchequer may mitigate a Fine certain, because it is a Court of Equity, and they have a Privy Seal for it. Ibid. A Defendant being indicted for an Assault, confessed it, and submitted to a fine Small; and it was adjudged that in such a Case he may produce Alblavine to prove on the Procurator that it was an assault, and that in Mitigation of the Fine; though this cannot be done after the Conviction, 1 Salk. 55. If a Perfon is found Guilty of a Misdemeanour upon Indictment, and fined, he cannot move to mitigate the Fine, unless he appear in Person; but one adverse may submit to a fine, if the Clerk in Court will undertake to pay it. 1 Vent. 209, 210. 1 Salk. 55. 2 Howk. 446. It is a common Practice in the Court of B. R. to give a Defendant Leave to speak with the Procurator, i.e. to make

Sir Henry Spel- mene fait, the Falsomme, and false Accusation, in a Parliament, or Convention of the Bishops, Thane, Aldermen and Freemen, upon every May-day yearly; where the Lay- men, &c. and Woman, and to the King, and to preferve the Laws of the Kingdom, and then conspired of the Common Safety. But Dr. Brady infers from the Laws of our Saxon Kings, that it was an inferior Court, held before the King's Horse or Steward, every Month to do Falsely Right, or compone smaller Differences, from whence there lay Appeal to the Superior Courts. Brady's Chrift. p. 40. Mancroft mentions Falsomme as a Court held in London, where in all the Fals and People of the City did complain of the Mayor and Aldermen, for Mitregovemement within the said City; And this Word is still in Use among the Londoners; and denotes Celebran in our Civita Concurren. Story's Survey. According to Kemner, the Falsomme was a Common Council of all the Inhabitants of a City, Town or Borough, convened often by Sound of Bell to the Mate Hall or House; &c. it was applied to a larger Congres of all the Freemen within a Count- ry, called the Great Court, where formerly all Knights and men of any Tenantry did Falsomme, to settle the annual Sheriff on the foot of October, till this popular Election to avoid Tumults and Riots devoted to the King's Peace, by the Statutes 5 Ed. 1. After which the City Falsomme was swallowed up in a select Committee or Common Council; and the County Falsomme, in the Sheriff's Court and Affairs. 3. The Word Falsomme was used for any Kind of Popular or Publick Meeting; as of all the Tenants at the Court-Law or Court-Baron, in which Signification it was of a left Extent. Fawr. Anst. 120. Fasomme de Persuasion, (Fasomme) Se qui Forbater arma aliquis factipert, ad perjudicium, &c. LL. Allu- redi, MS. c. 26. Fasomme, (Pus) is most commonly applied in plural partum, the evil Part, and signifies any unlawful Vio- lence or Provocation, in which Violence is used to Things; or Persons; and he divides it into Simple and Complex; Simple Force, is that it is sent with force that it hath to another Crime accompanying it; as if one by Force only do enter into another Man's Possession, without doing any other unlawful Act; Mix'd or Compound Force, is when some other Violence is committed with such a Fact, which of itself alone is criminal; as where any one by Force enters into another Man's House, and kills a Man, or ravi- res a Woman, &c. the Person acts for several Lords, or Divisions of this Head. Wyl. Symbol. par. 2. f. 62. 65. The Lord Cane says, there is also a Force implied in Law as every Traveller, Refractory, or Distracts another, or plieht it; and an actual Force, with Weapons, Num- ber of Persons, &c. where threatening is used to the Terror of another. 1 Esf. 257. By the Law any Person may enter his Tenant's House to view Repairs, &c. But if he that enters a Tavern, commits any Force or Vio- lence; or he that enters to view Repairs, breaks the Hoose, &c. it shall be presumed that they entered for that Purpose. 8 Rep. 146. All Force is against the Law; and it is lawful to repel Force by Force: There is a Maxim in our Law, Qui ods est seum &; quid odium velit, seum & odium velit. 88. f. 11. aevum nostrum iustitiae, maxum & injustam eff. 3 Rep. 78. Fasomme, (Ingrefis manus fortis factus) Is a violent actual Entry into Houes or Lands; And forcible Detainer is a With holding by Violence, and with strong Hand, of the Possession of Land, &c. whereas by him who hath Right of Entry is barred or hindered. Write of forcible Entry lies where a Person is feized of a Freehold, and is put out thereof with Force; or if he be disturbed peaceably, and afterwards the Diletted doth hold and detain the same by Force. 3 E. & N. B. 483. When one or more Persons armed with unusual Weapons, vi- olently enter into the House or Land of another; or where they do not enter violently; if they forcibly put another out of his Possession; or if one enter another out of a House, without his Consent, although the Door be open, &c. These are forcible Entries punishable by Law. 1 Esf. 257. so when a Tenant keeps Possession of the Land at the Rent time, and on the demand of the Landlord, it is a forcible Detainer. Cr. Fec. 195. And if a Leefe takes a new Lease of another Person, whom he conceives to have better Title, and at the End of the Term keeps Possession against his own Landlord, this is a forcible Detainer. Ibid. All forcible continuing in Possession of a defeasible Estate, after the Ti- tle is defeated are punishable for Force, for continuing in Possession afterwards, amounts in Law to a new Entry. 1 Esf. 256, 257. And an Infant, or Feme covert may be guilty of forcible Entry within the Statutes in regard to Violence committed by another Person; but not for what is done by others at their Command, their Commands being void. 1 Esf. 357. If a Man have two Houses next adjoining, the one by a defeasible Title, and the other by a good Title; and he use Force in that he hath by his Title to keep Persons out of the other House, this is a forcible De- tainer. 2 Steph. Ait. 203. A Man enters into the House of another by the Windows, and then threatens the Partner, and he fear for doe thar leave his House, it is a forcible Entry: So if one enter a House when no Per- son is therein, with armed Men, &c. new Cof. 185. If a Person after peaceable Entry, shall make Use of Arms to defend his Possession, &c. it will be forcible Detainer: A Man puts another out of his House by Force, if he then put in one of his Servants in a peace- able Manner, who keeps out the Party, &c. it will be a forcible Entry, but not a Detainer; but if himself remaine there with Force, this makes a forcible De- tainer. 2 Steph. 203. If I hear that certain Persons will come to my House to beat me, &c. and I take it in Force to defend myself, 'tis no forcible Detainer: That's where they are coming to Polleision only, 'tis no otherwise. Ibid. This Offence may be committed of a Rent, as well as of a House or Land; as where one comes to disfrain, and the other to prevent him to kill him, or doth forcibly make Restitution, &c. Ibid. 201. In- diament of forcible Entry lies not only for Lands, but for Tithes; and also for Rents: But not against a Lord entering a Common with Force, for which the Commoner Commoner may not indict him, because it is his own Land. Cr. Cor. 201. 486. And no Man can be guilty of forible Entry, for entering with Violence into Land or Houses in his own sole Possession at the Time of Entry by breaking open Doors, gates, or any part of his House, detained from him by one who has the bare Custody of it: But joint tenants, or Tenants in Common, may be guilty of forible Detainer, and holding out their Companions. 1 H. C. P. C. 147. A Person is not guilty of a forible Detainer, by barely refusing to go out of a House, and continuing therein in Delight of another. 5 H. C. 146. And no Words alone can make a forible Entry, although violent and threatening, without Force used by the Party. 1 L. A. C. 514. 1

Hawk. 145. At Common Law, any one who had a Right of Entry into lands, &c., might regain Possession thereof by Force; but this Liberty being much abused, to the Bbreach of the publick Peace, it was found necessary that it should be restrained by Statute.
By this Act, he who is wrongfully dispossessed of Goods, may justify the Taking them by Force.

Lamb. 135. Comp. 70. Kelv. 53. But see 3 S. 87.

By Statutes, none shall enter into any Lands or Tenements, but where Entry is given by Law, and in a peaceable Manner, though they have Title of Entry, on Pain of Imprisonment, &c. And when a forible Entry is committed, Judges of Peace are empowered to view the Place, and inquire of the Force by a Jury summoned by the Sheriff of the Country; and cause the Tenants thereof to be tried, and imprisonment the Offenders till they pay a Fine. 5 S. c. 7. 15 R. 2.
2 H. c. 9. If a Judge of Peace come to view a Force in a House, and they refuse to let him in; this is of itself will make a forible Detainer in all Cases; but it must be upon Complaint made. The Judges of Peace are not to inquire into the Title of either Party: and there shall be no Retention upon an Indictment of forible Entry or Detainer, where the Defendant has been in quiet Possession for three Years together without Interruption, next to the Day of the Indictment found, and his Estate in the Land not ended; which may be alleged in Stay of Retention, and Reti-
